DISPLAY dormant Spring bulbs, but do let cannas get dry. Better sell the latter as started plants.

IN contemplating the big things that you are going to do next month or perhaps next year, do not neglect the little everyday duties. Keep the shop or greenhouse on edge all the time, so as to be able to take advantage of each opportunity as it presents itself.

ACCORDING to statistics compiled by the American Bankers' Association, out of every 100 average young men starting out in life at the age of 25, one is rich at the age of 65, three are wealthy, six are still at work, self-supporting, 36 have died, and 54 are dependent upon children, relatives or charity.

THE "practical greenhousemen," who not long ago, with much dignity, suggested lunacy and self-interest as the dominating characteristics of earnest students and exponents of greenhouse heating economy, are strangely silent in these days of high-priced fuel. There is still much waste of coal among greenhousemen, who are very practical in other respects.

Society of American Florists.

MEETING OF THE PUBLICITY COMMITTEE.

A meeting of the publicity committee was held at the New Willard hotel Washington, D. C., January 23. Chairman Henry Penn, Boston, Mass., presided.

There were present: Secretary John Young, New York; Treasurer J. J. Hess, Omaha, Nebr.; President of the Society of American Florists Thomas Roland, Nahant, Mass.; Wallace R. Pierson, Cromwell, Conn.; George Asmus, Chicago; J. F. Ammann, Edwardsville, Ill., and C. C. Pollworth, Milwaukee, Wis. Ex-President A. L. Miller, Jamaica, N. Y.; E. Allan Peirce and George Moyse, Boston, Mass., were present as visitors. The meeting opened at 7:30 p. m.

After reading the minutes of the last meeting, the secretary presented his financial report, which was very lengthy, and was, on motion of Mr. Hess, adopted as read. The secretary also read the report in detail of Joyce & Mattis, New York, public auditors, which showed the accounts as kept by the secretary to be in excellent shape. On motion the auditors' report was turned over to the auditing committee.

The report of H. V. Swenson as manager of the florists' publicity service bureau was, in the absence of Mr. Swenson, presented by Mr Asmus. The report covered sales of supplies and billboards, and showed a profit to the campaign fund of about $3,000, produced in the period between the Spring of 1920 and the date of the present meeting. Mr. Swenson, in the report stated that it seemed impossible under the conditions existing to meet outside competition in similar lines to maintain the prices necessary to turn over a profit from the bureau, and asked to be relieved from his position not later than June 1. After a lengthy discussion, Mr. Pierson moved, seconded by Mr. Hess that the present agreement with Mr. Swenson continue on the same terms, and the motion was carried.

The meeting then went into a long discussion upon the relations of the different organizations formed for publicity purposes with the campaign, to get, if possible, an idea as to the amount of subscriptions likely to be obtained under plans adopted for division of collections. While an approximation was arrived at, it was not found that any action on the part of the committee was required at this time. Mr. Asmus reported that arrangements had been completed with the Brinkman Company for the storage of the billboards on hand, and for shipments from storage upon orders coming in from now on. About 157 boards were found to be on hand.

Mr. Ammann for the sub-committee having in charge the preparation of a plan to be offered to the Society of American Florists executive board covering a more equitable and just system for collecting funds for future publicity work, reported a plan in accordance with their instructions, and which has already been published in full in the trade papers. Mr. Asmus moved the adoption of the report by the committee as a whole, which step precipitated a discussion which occupied considerable time. Finally the motion was seconded by Mr. Hess, and Mr. Asmus called for a poll vote. Further discussion was necessary before the vote could be completed, but ultimately all voted in the affirmative, and Mr. Ammann was deputed to present the report to the board in behalf of the committee.

The matter of appropriations for 1921 then came up, and finances were fully discussed. While the estimated funds to be available during the year approached a satisfactory total, it was not found desirable to make definite appropriations at that meeting, excepting as applying to administration and promotion expenses, which were made the same as previously. The meeting then adjourned subject to the call of the chairman. JOHN YOUNG, Secretary.

Import Plant Restrictions Not Relaxed.

Chairman C. L. Marlatt, of the Federal Horticultural board, Washington, D. C., telegraphs as follows March 7: "The board learns Holland nurserymen are flooding the country with telegrams indicating that anybody can import ornamentals in any quantity up to June next and urging cabling of orders. Importations are not permitted except in accordance with the regulations and under special permits for specific reproduction, as formerly, and any purchases under the belief that freedom of purchase is now allowed will result in the rejection of the material at port of entry, and a loss to the purchaser. Furthermore, importations under existing special permits from Holland are coming in with much earth on the roots, necessitating rejection of such shipments. Purchasers from Holland, should condition payment on delivery in compliance with the regulations to safeguard against loss."

Coal.

The Black Diamond, Chicago, says the cold snap cut down the retailer's stocks but did not stimulate his buying. Steam prices stiffen slightly in some centers, but generally the market remains stagnant and there is no reawakening of manufacturing. The plants are well stocked. Bituminous production is at the lowest level since April and less than two-thirds of last fall's record. Conditions somewhat resemble early 1919, but then there was considerable above ground as a result of war speed. Then, too, industrial activity was on the decline, whereas now the tendency is rather towards resumption.

Sales of soft coal in eastern centers are said to be made recently at a loss to the producer.

Southern Asparagus.

Regarded first as an experiment, the growing of asparagus sprays in Florida, for the northern and western cut flower markets, has gradually, through improved cultural methods and better shipping facilities, so developed, that this field-grown product has largely displaced the greenhouse stock, which local growers now find unprofitable, as on account of this southern competition, they were unable to raise prices to meet their greatly increased overhead expenses.

F. T. D. Service A Great Factor.

A most important factor in obtaining new business for the retailer is the immediate delivery of flowers to any desired point through the membership of the F. T. D. Thousands more orders would be filled every day if this service was generally known to the 110,000,000 inhabitants of America. Keep this Florists' Telegraph Delivery to the front all the time. It is the orders you send that add most to your prestige and profit.

Burpee's Primulinus Hybrid Gladioli

The most graceful in form, artistic in color, and profuse in bloom of all Gladioli. They have made a sensation wherever they have been exhibited, and will be in tremendous demand for cut flowers. Although the individual flowers are not large, they carry an air of grace altogether different from the more or less stiff effect of all other Gladioli. Furthermore, these hybrids produce three or sometimes four fully developed flower-spikes from a single bulb planted in the spring. In color they range through the usual Gladioli shades, with the addition of rich golden yellow and orange.

STOCK IN PLENTIFUL SUPPLY.

The Lenten season is having a very decided effect on the floral trade in this city and trade has been very quiet for the past few weeks. The flower supply is unusually good; roses are fine and carnations are at their best, while such flowers as lily of the valley, sweet peas, calendulas, hyacinths and narcissi are plentiful. Funeral work is large.

The death of Dr. Allen G. Yost, pastor of the First Baptist church, called forth all the energies of the florists, and for the day exhausted the supply of flowers. Seldom has there been a larger display at a funeral in this city.

Tausendschoen—Thousand Beauties

This was our finest and most popular Climber last year, this year our stock is large and the plants are much finer.

Trained plants, fans, globular and pyramidal shapes, $2, $2.50, $3, $3.50, $4, $5, $6, $7.50 and $10 each.

Baskets, $10, $12.50 and $15 each.

Umbrellas, $6, $7.50 and $10 each.

Excelsa—New Climbing Rose

This variety is known as the Red Dorothy Perkins. The color is brilliant and it is bound to prove the most popular red Rambler. We offer splendid plants in 6-in., 7-in. and 8-in. pots, $2, $2.50, $3.50, $4, $5, $6, $7.50 and $10 each.

Baskets of Excelsa, $10, $12.50 and $15 each.

Umbrellas, $6, $7.50 and $10 each.

Rosiere—New

Dark sport of Tausendschoen. Very beautiful. A great improvement on the popular Thousand Beauties (Tausendschoen), and consequently a welcome addition to this section. While it has the same habit of growth and general characteristics as Thousand Beauties, the color is superior—a deeper and more even shade of cerise-pink or carmine. Trained plants, fans, globular and pyramidal shapes, $2, $2.50, $3, $3.50, $4, $5, $6, $7.50 and $10 each.

Baskets, $10, $12 and $15 each.

Umbrellas, $6, $7.50 and $10 each.

Hiawatha

One of the prettiest of all the climbing Roses. Deep red with golden disc in center of flower.

Trained plants at $1.50, $2, $2.50, $3, $4, $5 and $6 each.

Baskets, $10, $12 and $15 each.

Umbrellas, $6 and $7.50 each.

Paul's Scarlet Climber

One of the most promising climbing Roses yet sent out. Vivid scarlet, semi-double flowers of medium size, produced in large clusters and in great profusion. The color does not burn or fade. This Rose has been exhibited extensively in Europe and received numerous awards. 5- and 6-in. pots, trained plants, $1.50, $2, $2.50 and $3 each.

Hybrid Roses

Including Ophelia, Donald McDonald, My Maryland and Mrs. John Dunlop. Very fine plants in bud and flower for Easter sales.

6-in. pots at $15 and $18 per doz.

AZALEA HINODIGIRI

Bright red in color and one of the finest and best keeping Azaleas ever sent out. We have never been able to meet the demand at Easter. The variety has the added advantage over Indica Azaleas that it is absolutely hardy.

5-in. pots, for baskets, $18 and $24 per doz.

5½-in. pots, $2.50 and $3 each.

6- and 7-in. pots, fine plants, $3.50, $4 and $5 each.

8- and 10-in. pots, $6, $7.50 and $10 each.

GENISTA RACEMOSA

The finest stock of Genistas ever offered. Every plant grown cool, exceptionally well flowered and shapely.

4-in. pots, $6 doz. 5-in. pots, $9 doz.

6-in. pots, $12 and $15 per doz.

7-in. pots, $18 and $24 per doz.

Also some very good standard and bush forms in larger sizes at $2.50, $3 and $4.

GOLDEN CALLAS

6-in. pots at $1.25 each.

8-in. pots and Ferns at $5 each.

LILIUM GIGANTEUM

Suggest placing orders early to avoid disappointment, such as was experienced last year.

6-in. pots, with from 4 to 10 flowers.

8-in. pans, with from 12 to 25 flowers.

Cut Lilies, 25c per bud and bloom.

GARDENIA VEITCHII

We have an exceptionally fine stock for Easter flowering. There is not anything finer than the small sizes for basket work.

3-in. pots, $6 per doz., $35 per 100.

4-in. pots, $9 and $12 per doz.

5-in. Azalea pots, $2.50 and $3 each.

STOCK NOT QUITE SO PLENTIFUL.

Stock is not quite as plentiful as it has been and the market cleaned up pretty well the past week, although there was more than enough to go around. American Beauty roses are having a good call and clean up well right along at fair prices. Roses in general are off crop, but according to several of the leading growers, will be in splendid supply for Easter if the weather is at all favorable. Mrs. Chas. Russell, Columbia, and Premier are in strong demand and the receipts of Milady, Hoosier Beauty, Ophelia, Sunburst, Dunlop, Butterfly, Crusader, Ward, Killarney Brilliant, White Killarney, Hearst, Nesbit, Cecil Brunner and all the other varieties grown for this market are being disposed of without much effort, but prices might be better. Carnations are in large supply and obtainable in quantity lots at reasonable prices. Lilies appear to be holding their own and the same holds true for callas. Lily of the valley is in good supply and so are orchids and gardenias. Sweet peas are to be had in fair sized quantities, but considerable pushing was necessary to move them the past week. Violets are seen in large supply at all of the stores. Tulips are arriving in large numbers and the shipements include some fine Darwin, jonquils are in heavy supply, paper white narcissi are to be had in quantity. Freesias are still plentiful but are moving better this week. Mignonette, pansies, daisies, lupines, calendulas forget-me-nots, stevia, and all other miscellanous seasonable stock offered the retailer a large variety to select from. Blooming plants are seen in the stores everywhere, especially tulips, jonquils, cyclamens, cineriarias, primroses and Rambler roses. Business has not been anything to crow about, but there appears to be a gradual improvement in trade and everything points to a strong Easter demand.

HAIL DAMAGE.

The big hail storm that visited this vicinity March 7 caused much damage especially in the neighborhood of Greggs Station, Downers Grove and River Forest. Bassett & Washburn suffered the heaviest loss at their new rose range at Greggs Station where it is estimated that the loss in glass alone will total almost 4,000 boxes. The greenhouses are being covered with canvas and plant cloth while glazing is being rushed at full speed. The J. F. Kidwell Co. at Downers Grove reports the loss of about 250 to 300 boxes of glass in its plant houses. Repairs are being rushed at full speed and the market price of the new glass is reported to be $8.40 per box. The Wellworth Farm Greenhouses lost about 2,000 lights in their rose range and J. Garland and C. B. Wolf were also heavily hit. Ernest Oechslin's loss at River Forest is estimated at about 200 boxes. The New City Floral Co., 1245 West Sixty-first street, lost about 1500 lights and Gottlieb Jirowsky of La Grange, and the Resurrection Cemetery Greenhouses of Summit had considerable loss. John A. Michal, 7045 Stony Island avenue; L. D. Eastman, & Son, 1800 East Seventy-seventh street, and the Parkside Greenhouses, 1457 East Seventieth street, all report heavy damage. Several others were hit including many market gardeners.

NOTES.

Poehlmann Bros. Co., will be in good crop with roses for Easter in practically all the varieties it grows and will also be well fixed on carnations. Lilies are in strong demand this season and everything points to an early clean-up in pot stock.

The Chicago Bulb Forcers' Association held a meeting at the Hotel Randolph, Monday, March 7, which was well attended, about 15 of the largest growers being represented. Some of the members were obliged to leave early owing to the heavy hail storm which caused so much damage in this vicinity. The members agreed not to buy any bulbs for next year unless the Dutch growers stand the loss of the blind bulbs. The members agreed to pay the freight and duty on the blind bulbs and figure that these items with the cost of planting is a greater loss than that of the blind bulbs. Resolutions will be drawn up to that effect and published later. The growers also decided to limit the purchases for next season.

The Chicago Flower Growers' Association is installing a large new refrigerator in the shipping department which is a regular wholesale house by itself. Manager Klingsporn attended the Illinois State Florists' Association meeting at Urbana this week.

In our issue of March 5, page 337, it was stated that the Kaspar Mfg. Co., 3234 W. 30th street, had been incorporated with a capital of $15,000, which should read $150,000

MARKET LACKS FIRM TONE.

There has been no decided change in the market over last week. Stock of all kinds is still plentiful and the demand is good, but not good enough to give the market conditions a firm tone.

NOTES.

At the meeting of the Florists' Club March 3, the regular good attendance was noted. At this time the entertainment committee was instructed to make complete arrangements for a May ball. As the treasurer James Lexington reported a good sum of cash on hand, the trustees were empowered to buy a $100 Liberty Bond. Wm. R. Schroeder, who is the only grower in this vicinity who has a Beeman tractor gave an interesting description of its adaptability on his place; it is an implement which growers will have to use more freely in the near future.

Wm. Weisner of the Sunny Point Floral Co., North Milwaukee, was elected a new member, while the resignation of Arthur Eggebrecht was accepted. Mr. Eggebrecht, who was associated with his father in the greenhouses, has taken up an entirely different kind of work.

The annual style week fostered by local retail dry goods merchants again was the occasion for many artistic window decorations. Most of the work was done by the A. F. Kellner Co., using bulbous stock, cinerarias and ornamental plants and foliage to good advantage.

While the thermometer has been above the freezing point nearly every day this week, it was mostly cloudy and conditions were far from favorable for the Easter lily crop.

Wm. Manke, North Milwaukee, is attending the Illinois State Florists' Association meeting at Urbana this week.

A DECLINE IN PRICES.

Business at present is not up to the high standard of last year and the falling off has been mostly noticeable in the transient sales, funeral work and decorations causing most of the demand. Stock has become more plentiful and the brighter weather is showing good effect on the quality of blooms. Roses are plentiful for the first time since last year and the same applies to most other varieties of stock. In roses, Columbia and Ophelia are most prominent; both show good color and the cut runs to the better grades. Carnations are in good supply and the drop in prices is welcomed. Violets, sweet peas and all varieties of bulbous stock are in sufficient supply to meet the demand. A visit to a number of the growers' show promises of a very heavy supply for Easter; there will be all kinds of flowering plants, rhododendrons, azaleas, hydrangeas, spireas and a goodly number of lilies. The prices on the latter are quoted at $25.00 per 100 blooms and the plants have mostly from three to five blooms; there will also be a heavy supply of all kinds of bulbous stock. The week end saw the florists who sell at popular prices well filled with stock, and at the prices at which some of the stock was marketed, it will again bring flowers into use in other than the rich man's home. Daffodils and carnations at 60 cents per dozen, roses $1 per dozen, violets 25 cents per bunch and many small flowering plants are selling at reduced prices. These prices will no doubt help to again popularize flowers for table use.

NOTES.

The committees are hard at work for the Canadian convention of the Floral Telegraph Delivery Association to be held here this year and every member in the Dominion will be asked to do his part to make this the most successful meeting yet held. A large attendance is expected as already we hear reports of members who intend to bring their families with them to get a partial view of Canada.

Chas. Grobba took a flying visit to Montreal to see his different customers and get a line on business conditions there.

Do not take any fake or imitation thread, claimed to be the Meyer silkaline, or smilax threads. Be sure the name Meyer in on the end of each spool, as we find there are a lot of fake brands being put on the market to imitate our green florists' thread. Weigh up our threads and then weigh up the other parties' that you are buying from and you will notice that our threads run full two ounces of thread to the spool. Be sure and get the Meyer thread.

PRICES CONSIDERABLY LOWER.

The past week found the market well stocked with cut flowers of all the seasonable varieties. Roses were the cheapest they have been this season some wholesaling as low as four cents and up. Carnations were more than plentiful and the quality better than usual. Sweet peas were very plentiful and of the best quality, but of the lowest price of the season, selling wholesale at $10 per 1,000. Bulbous stock of jonquils, narcissi, daffodils, tulips, freesias, and hyacinths were plentiful and in fact a lot of this material came in a little ahead of the time anticipated. Pot plants and primroses, cinerarias, hyacinths, tulips, daffodiles, and begonias are very good, considering the warm weather and are making ready sales, as the colors and quality as well as the prices are pleasing to the trade. The prospects for Easter stock have the growers disconcerted, as some have their stock well advanced and the hot sun is not helping matters. On the other hand, it is helping those that have their stock none too far advanced. The wholesale houses report stock very plentiful and prices right. They have already booked good orders for Easter. The retailers state they are having a very good run of business for this time of the season, but that funeral work is taking the lead, while hospital, corsages, dances and parties are drawing well.

FLORISTS' CLUB MEETING.

On March 2, the Florists' Club held its monthly meeting at the store of the Pinehurst Floral Co. and the committee on the advertising and publicity fund made their report which was more than satisfactory, as they are not quite ready to make their final report. They are more than satisfied that this move will help increase the sale of flowers. Sidney J. Hare, prominent landscape architect, addressed the club on "Somebody's Back Yard," illustrating his lecture with stereoptican views. Excellent exhibits of stock were displayed by the different growers.

QUIET TONE IN MARKET NOTED.

The past week has been quiet, the demand being very light, flowers of all kinds have been plentiful, particularly sweet peas, carnations and all kinds of bulbous stock. Roses have shortened up a little, although there are enough particularly of the longer grades for all demands. Snapdragon is now quite a factor, a lot of the stock grading up well. There is a good supply of well-flowered White lilacs which is handled by the better stores who know its value. Cattleyas are plentiful, as is lily of the valley, some of which is as fine as seen for over seven years. There are violets in abundance but they move slowly. Very fine stocks of gillyflower have been added to the list. There is an abundance of greens of all kinds. Freesia has been a great disappointment to the growers this season; there appears to be a great deal more in market than usual and in common with other flowers it has not brought half the price of a year ago. When the demand is light it is the smal flowers that suffer most and freesia unfortunately, particularly the shorter grades gets into this class very quickly, after the first week or two. A Dutch bulb agent stated that the impression prevails that the low prices of narcissi, daffodils and other bulbous stock prevalent this season was due to extra large importations over those of a year ago. This he claims is an error as the total number of cases of all bulbs is not over 10 per cent more than the total of last season. There simply has not been the demand and this stock has suffered in common with other flowers. Bulbs, he claimed, could not be sold under prices now prevailing, and for the present would be handled to best advantage by grower-retailers who were able to get both the profit of growing and selling.

March 7.—The market was very full of flowers of all kinds; there was a fair demand but quantities of stock were sold at bargain prices to the street men. The weather was very warm making overcoats a burden.

EASTER PROSPECTS.

The outlook for the Easter business is very good. Stocks with the large growers are exceptionally fine, particularly hydrangeas, Rambler roses and Easter lilies. There are good quantities of azaleas, daisies, genistas, spireas and some bougainvilleas. Dutch bulbs are also seen in quantity; hyacinths, tulips and daffodils in flats and pans; much of the stock apparently of fine quality. Advance orders have been encouraging. Most of the stock is being held at last year's prices, the standard for the best pot lilies being 25 cents per bud and flower.

FLORISTS' CLUB MEETING.

The club meeting of March 1 was the best of the season; there was an attendance of over 200 of which 83 sat down to dinner at 6:30 p. m. The exhibition completely filled the display room and additional tables were placed in the meeting room and hallway. The displays of Easter plants by the Robert Craig Co., W. K. Harris, H. I. Feast, A. M. Campbell and Macair Bros., were large and varied, embracing all the standard stocks and some novelties. As Easter was so far off there was not much in flowers, but all the plants appeared to be just right as to forwardness and looked very promising. Hydrangeas were very well budded as were the Rambler roses, many of the latter being in novel forms such as baskets, standards, pyramids and some airplanes among them. Easter lilies were exceptionally fine, all with strong, vigorous foliage and well budded. An extent of the exhibit may be gained, when the smallest entry had over three dozen plants, while the Robt. Craig Co. staged upwards of 80. The most important exhibit was that of the W. Atlee Burpee Co., who staged over 40 varieties of their orchid winter flowering sweet peas. There were some 60 vases in all and they made a wonderful showing. New seedlings not exhibited before were Glitters, Flamingo, Silver King (pale blue), Fireflame and Mrs. Kerr salmon. The flowers were superb and attracted great attention from all who saw them. All the varieties are seedlings from crosses made at Fordhook by George W. Kerr, their sweet pea expert. The Philadelphia Wholesale Florist's Exchange exhibited a vase of 100 Alma Ward, very fine flowers grown by L. D. Wilkinson, Kennett Square. A well arranged basket of 200 sprays of choice lily of the vally grown by the Lindhurst Farm, Hammonton, N. J., and exceptionally fine stocks grown by Allan F. Wicks, Llanerch. The F. H. Lemon & Co., Richmond, Ind., sent a vase of their new white rose Angelus, a superb flower, large and double, and of good form and fine strong stem. Edward Towill Roslyn staged a vase of his new rose, American Legion, which is always admired. Elmer J. Weaver, Ronx, exhibited vases of carnations, Laddie, Lassie and White Benora, all very fine flowers. The Jos. Heacock Co. exhibited four vases of splendidly grown roses, the varieties being Dunlop, Columbia, Hadley and Pilgrim. They were the finest flowers seen here this season. The literary features were addresses by S. W. B. Hicks, a member of the Chamber of Commerce. Senator George W. Cartwright, California, spoke upon Americanism, as against Socialism, Communism and Bolshevism. Only 10 per cent of the people saved any money, but one per cent were geniuses, which he said Thomas A. Edison defined as one per cent inspiration and 99 per cent perspiration. Captains of industry were great because of their energy and thrift. They employed thousands of men, and carried enormous burdens, but all they got out of it was their board and clothes. Senator Cartwright's address was wonderfully inspiring, condemning all kinds of makeshifts and easy streets, and lauding enterprise, industry and thrift as the only solution of the world's problems.

NOTES.

A new round plant basket with only side handles is an idea of Sydney Bayersdorfer. The bottom is a square, beveled edged board, in the center of which is the basket proper made of dowell stakes, finished at the top with a weaving of rattan. The color is white enamel with the inside tin of any shade desired. It is having a wonderful sale.

trade generally. His genial disposition made him a friend of everyone who had the good fortune to known him. His obituary appears in another column.

Edward Reid says he is ready for Easter all right and is already booking orders. Choice Premier and Columbia roses and carnations are featured for this week.

Choice Russell roses, white lilac and cattleyas are leaders with the Leo Niessen Co. Carnations and sweet peas are also quantity flowers.

All kinds of spring bulbs are seen in quantity at the Berger Brothers market. Carnations and sweet peas are also quantity items. K.

New York.

TRADE CONTINUES QUIET

No noteworthy change has taken place in the condition of the wholesale markets over the previous week. An abundance of stock—too much in some lines—continue to arrive. Prices are a little firmer on the shorter grades of roses. The early days of last week were quiet with a better movement on March 4 and 5. It would be a satisfaction to believe that the optimism of President Harding's inaugural address has caused the people to thank God and take fresh courage.

March 7.—With spring-like weather and a good supply of stock, there is fair activity with an advance in prices in some lines.

NOTES.

The 14th anniversary entertainment and ball of the Greek-American Florists' Association was held at the Hotel Commodore on the night of March 2. The grand ball room of the Commodore which is nearly 70 by 200 feet, had been handsomely decorated by a committee composed of the following members of the Association: George Hanges, chairman, Thomas Daniel, Nicholas Christatos, George Stathes, John D. Flessas, George Pegadiotes and Peter Mantzaras. The balconies were covered with southern smilax and other attractive features and many natural flowers were noted on the stage which was draped by a large American flag. The dance was preceded by a vaudeville entertainment including good vocal and instrumental music, dancing and various amusing skits. Over 1,000 persons were in the grand march and about 1,500 in all were present. A number of growers and wholesalers, not members of the Association were present, which bore testimony to the good will that is generally felt in the trade for the Greek-American florists.

Chairman Roman J. Irwin of the Florists' Club committee on the annual dinner, which is to be held at the Hotel Biltmore on the night of March 16, believes it will be an enjoyable and successful event and urges all who have not already made reservations to do so at once. His address is 45 West 18th Street.

The next meeting of the Florists' Club will be held March 14. Secretary Young thinks that the attendance may not be very large, on account of it being the opening night of the Flower Show, but it is hoped that out-of-town visitors may drop in.

The Chas. A. Dards store established a record for quick work on March 2. An order was telephoned to the store for a casket cover of white sweet peas and the cover was delivered one hour and ten minutes after the order had been received.

Two clever young men have just opened a neat retail store at 129 Columbus avenue, between 65th and 66th streets, and which is at the intersection of Broadway. They have chosen the name "Electric Florist" for their business.

The news of the sudden death of John Lewis Childs, Floral Park, was a shock to his family and friends. He was returning from a California trip and was believed to be in good health. For further particulars see obituary column.

Lest you forget. The Spring Flower Show will open in the Grand Central Palace, Lexington avenue and 46th street, on March 14 and will continue to the 20th. The managers believe that the show will be a great success.

Shackon Brothers have recently opened a retail store at 822 Nostrand avenue, near Eastern Parkway, Brooklyn.

William Kessler and wife have returned from their visit to Miami, Fla., and report a very enjoyable experience.

Allied Florists' Trade Association.

For the information of those growers who have subscribed 50 per cent of their promised yearly contribution to the local advertising fund of the Allied Florists' Trade Association of New York, I beg to report, that at a meeting of the various committees of the Allied Association held February 24, a total sum of $3,576.54 was found to have been collected from sources as follows: growers $1,438.04, wholesalers $1,175, supply dealers $237.50 and bulb and seedsmen $700. It was decided to insert an advertisement in seven New York and Brooklyn papers, not later than March 2 or 3, this advertisement not to cost more than $500. The advertising committee met February 28 to carry out this plan. There were present at this meeting only two retailers, Nicholas Lales, president of the Greek-American Florists' Association, and Wm. A. Rodman of Brooklyn. Both these gentlemen regretted the non-attendance of other retailers and of the present state of inaction of retailers generally, but they pledged themselves to solicit popular subscriptions from retailers and to send in such funds to the treasurer. Further steps will be taken to assist the retailers interested in enlisting the aid of the retail trade generally. At this meeting Aubrey S. Nash was made secretary in place of John Young, whose resignation was accepted and F. H. Traendly, treasurer. An executive committee was chosen consisting of F. R. Pierson, F. H. Traendly, Emil Schloss, William A. Rodman, R. J. Irwin, A. Schultheis, A. Nash, A. M. Henshaw, Philip Cox and L. Dupuy; and also an advertising committee consisting of the following: A. M. Henshaw, F. H. Traendly, F. R. Pierson, Wm. A. Rodman, Wm. Badgley, A. Nash and John Young. The executive committee will meet at an early date to consider the incorporation of the association and the adoption of by-laws, etc. Ten of the growers present at the meeting on Feb. 11 have failed to send in their subscriptions to date. In most cases this is on account of unforeseen circumstances and their subscriptions are expected to be received at an early date. It is hoped that the above action will meet with the approval of all subscribers and that each subscriber will appoint himself a committee of one to get other growers to take part in the movement. I take this opportunity to thank those who have been ready with their money and their active interest and am very hopeful that by all pulling together we can accomplish great things in the future for the good of our trade, not only in the matter of the collection of funds for advertising, but later by sincere co-operation and endeavor to correct many of the evils existent in the trade.

FLAXSEED prices are now half of 1919 quotations.

MAIL trade in the northwestern states was slow in February.

MARSHALL H. DURYEA is now president of the Nungesser-Dickinson Seed Co., New York.

ATLANTA, GA.—President Hastings, of the American Seed Trade Association, has returned from Florida.

LEONARD H. VAUGHAN of Vaughan's Seed Store, Chicago, celebrated another birthday anniversary, March 8.

FREESIA shortage in California is attributed to the unusually large number of diseased bulbs discarded last year.

FLORAL PARK, N. Y.—The mail order business of the late John Lewis Childs in February was 25 per cent ahead of the same month last year.

PRICE of bags at Chicago, March 9: Stark and American, 16-oz., $35.00, per bale, in bale lots or over; Railroads, 16-oz., $30.00; Crown, 12-oz., $23.00.

VISITED CHICAGO: Thos. W. Chisholmn, representing the Braslan Seed Growers Co., San Jose, Calif.; B. E. Brotherton, Port Huron, Mich., enroute to California.

GILROY, CALIF.—Manager Wheeler of the Pieters-Wheeler Seed Co., has returned from his eastern trip and, with Mrs. Wheeler, threatens soon to invade Mexico.

MANAGER SCOTT, of the Yokohama Nursery Co., New York, says the next season's prices of Giganteum lily bulbs will be as high as those of last season, if not higher.

BOARD OF TRADE — Prices for grass seed on the Chicago Board of Trade, March 9, were as follows: Timothy, $4.00 to $5.50 per 100 pounds. Red Clover, $14.00 to $18.50.

Three well known seedsmen died last week, Edward C. Dungan, Philadelphia, Pa., John Lewis Childs, Floral Park, N. Y., and Charles R. Kimberlin, San Jose, Calif. For further details see obituary columns.

SEVERAL catalogue seedsmen are offering new sweet corns as well as other seeds not previously put forth. It is hoped the nomenclature committee will not have occasion to tell the trade that some of these "novelties" are old timers removed.

ROAD men say that seedsmen generally are slow in placing contracts for 1921 crops, evidently waiting to see how present stocks work off before making next season's commitments. This is in line with similar action taken by those who contract bulbs.

The Tariff.

Kirby B. White, of D. M. Ferry & Co., Detroit, Mich., writes as follows: "D. M. Ferry & Co. would be loath to see prohibitive duties on seeds add to the difficulties of selling American goods abroad. I am convinced the manufacturers of this country, will as a whole, throw their entire weight upon the side of duties low enough to enable Europe to pay part of its debts to us in goods. Otherwise, it is hard to see how prosperity can return to the United States. America is in somewhat the same position that forced England to become a free trade country. Having become a creditor nation instead of a debtor nation, would tend to raise an exchange barrier against us even if trade were evenly balanced. The exchange evil is more effective in paralyzing our markets than any foreign tariff evil would be likely to be. I would rather take my chances selling seeds in America with a prosperous population here and the foreign competition which Mr. Landroth so much fears, than shut out foreign competition and with it strain American commerce to the breaking point."

The Late Edward C. Dungan.
Former Preside t American Seed Trade Ass'n.
(See Obituary, Page 371.)

Field Seeds.

There were a few changes in prices and some improvement in the demand for field seeds during the week ending February 26. Although a few seedsmen indicate that the demand for some kinds has been normal and better than last year, the large majority state that business has been considerably below normal, and even less than last year in most seeds, according to the government report.

Declining seed prices, the production of red clover and timothy seed last year in localities that normally produce insignificant quantities of these seeds, low prices received by farmers for many of their products, farmers' and dealers' difficulty in negotiating loans, and the setback received by many dealers last year are among the most important reasons for the diffidence and caution in the seed trade during January and February. Most seedsmen expressed themselves as being optimistic about prospects for a fairly large volume of business in March.

In this connection it is of interest to summarize the replies to an inquiry made by the United States Bureau of Markets and addressed to more than 5,000 small retail dealers in seeds. Of the 985 dealers scattered throughout the United States who reported on their prospective requirements of red clover seed this season, 53 per cent of them indicated that they probably would ship in the same quantity as normally, 29 per cent of them indicated prospective in-shipments of less than normal, and 18 per cent of them indicated in-shipments of more than normal. About 65 per cent of those reporting on alsike clover, alfalfa, and timothy, indicated that their requirements of each of these seeds would be normal, and about 22 per cent indicated less than normal requirements.

The only kinds of seeds the requirements of which are expected to be a trifle larger than normal are sweet clover, orchard grass, Sudan grass, and soy beans, although in the case of all of these seeds 60 to 80 per cent of the replies indicate that the same quantity as normal will be shipped in. The fact that most of the dealers stated that the quantity of seed to be shipped in this season would be the same as or somewhat less than normal does not in itself indicate that the acreage of grasses and clovers to be sown this spring will be a little below normal. Because of the high prices which prevailed last year and the favorable weather for producing seed crops last fall, probably more farmers than usual saved their own seed or are able to buy from their neighbors and will not go to their local dealer for supplies. In view of the fact, however, that small dealers and farmers have put off buying until the last minute and that dealers have estimated their total prospective requirements to be the same as or only slightly smaller than normal, it seems that a decided improvement in the demand for field seeds may be expected during March and April.

Grass and Clover Seed Prices.

The following were the wholesale prices in dollars per 100 pounds on timothy, Kentucky bluegrass, redtop and red clover at principal points of distribution, February 26, 1921, as given by the Government Market Reporter of March 5, 1921:

The Nursery Trade

American Association of Nurserymen.

Lloyd C. Stark, Louisiana, Mo., President; M. R. Cashman, Owatonna, Minn., Vice-President, John Watson, 400 Nassau Street, Princeton, N. J., Secretary; J. W. Hill, Des Moines, Iowa, Treasurer.

Forty-sixth annual convention will be held at Chicago, June, 1921.

MANETTI stocks for next season are likely to be one-third cheaper.

LIBSON, O.—The Columbiana County Horticultural Society added 20 new members at a recent meeting.

ST. JOSEPH, MICH.—Forty fruit growers have taken stock in a proposed new cold storage warehouse here.

NEWPORT, R. I.—V. A. Vanicek, of the Rhode Island Nurseries, has returned after an extended trip through Europe.

DURING the past season the Yakima, Wash., Valley Horticultural Association handled nearly a million packages of apples.

THE tenth annual convention of the California Association of Nurserymen will be held at Fresno, November 11-13, with an elaborate programme.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.—Experiments for growing better fruits and vegetables will be conducted near here by experts from the Michigan Agricultural College, who will co-operate with growers.

SPRINGDALE, ARK.—Contracts for nearly 4,000 acres of grapes have been obtained by the Welch Grape Juice Co., Westfield, N. Y., from Arkansas and Missouri fruit growers, for their fruit juice factory to be erected this year.

BALTIMORE, MD.—The London Nurseries of which H. Clay Primrose is president will construct a new show house and conservatory to connect with the office at 3906 Frederick avenue. It will be of great convenience to their retail customers in the purchase of flowers and plants.

Import Plant Restrictions not Relaxed.

Chairman C. L. Marlatt, of the Federal Horticultural Board, Washington, D. C., telegraphs as follows March 7: "The board learns Holland nurserymen are flooding the country with telegrams indicating that anybody can import ornamentals in any quantity up to June next and urging cabling of orders. Importations are not permitted except in accordance with the regulations and under special permits for specific reproduction as formerly, and any purchases under the belief that freedom of purchase is now allowed will result in the rejection of the material at port of entry, and a loss to the purchaser. Furthermore, importations under existing special permits from Holland are coming in with much earth on the roots, necessitating rejection of such shipments. Purchasers from Holland, should condition payment on delivery in complaince with the regulations to safeguard against loss."

BALTIMORE, MD.—Akehurst & Sons, Inc. will continue to conduct their business along wholesale lines and not retail as erroneously reported.

Indianapolis, Ind.

Prospects for Easter are very bright. Retail florists say the indications point to a good supply of all kinds of cut flowers and they believe the prices will be a little lower than those prevailing last year. An increased trade over last year is expected because of the increases shown in the Christmas and St. Valentine business. Growers say business continues good. The demand for cut flowers is fine, though the orders are not so large as they were last year. The increased volume in business is expected to make the financial volume greater than during March of last year. There is a good demand for the spring budding stock, including geraniums and other decorative plants for porch boxes. The demand for roses also is good, with prices holding fairly firm. The demand appears to be a little greater than the supply. The carnation market appears to be dragging with some, though Easter is expected to bring it up to normal.

NOTES.

C. R. Green, a retail florist, says his company is planning now for the Easter rush, which is expected to be one of the big periods of the year. Mr. Green says the Easter business is the hardest to handle of any of the holidays. The public invariably puts off its buying here until either the day before or two days prior, causing a congestion. Mr. Green says sweet peas, roses and carnations promise to be the heavy sellers this Easter.

Irving Bertermann made himself solid with the Indianapolis Advertising Club at a recent meeting, by giving away a large bouquet of American Beauty roses to the holder of the lucky ticket.

Baur & Steinkamp, growers, report a good demand for "Thanksgiving Pink," and "Glorious," two new pink chrysanthemums.

A. F. J. Baur, of Baur & Steinkamp, will attend the meeting of the National Flower Show Committee in New York City next week. E. B.

Speculation.

A reader asks—"Do you believe in speculation?"

Yes, of course. We would all be living in mud huts and wearing fig-leaves if it had not been for speculation.

Speculate, but not outside your own business. Bet on your knowledge, not on your ignorance.

Speculate on facts, but not on fancy—that is the safe rule for speculation. —Casson's Efficiency Magazine.

THE ROYAL—Early-Flowering Branching

This type fills a gap between the Queen of the Market and the Late-Flowering Branching Asters. Sown early inside, and planted out with Queen of the Market, it follows that variety very closely.

White, Shell Pink, Rose Pink, Lavender, Purple

Any of the above	¼ oz., 40c.	.25	1.40
Mixed, all colors	¼ oz., 40c.	.25	1.40

THE MIKADO

Petals are narrow, very long and gracefully reflexed. The outer petals show to their full extent, while gradually toward the center they bend and curl on each other in such magnificent disorder as to make the fuffiest aster we have ever seen.

White	¼ oz., 40c.	.25	1.40
Pink Rochester	¼ oz., 40c.	.25	1.40

THE KING

The habit is similar to the Giant Branching, vigorous in growth, long stiff stems. In form the flower is entirely distinct from any other variety; petals somewhat resemble the quilled varieties, but are much larger and broader, those in the center being curled and incurved, completely covering the crown. In shape and size the bloom is round, full and very large.

Sensation. Dark rich garnet or ox-blood red which glistens in the sunshine like a live coal. The plants are of the free branching habit, about 18 inches high, the double flowers averaging about 3 inches in diameter are borne freely on stems about 12 inches long ... ¼ oz., 45c.	.25	1.60
Mammoth Non-Lateral Branching White. 2 ft. This is without doubt the largest Aster on the market. Many of the flowers will measure four inches in diameter. The plants grow about two feet high with a low branching habit, and the flowers which are borne on non-lateral stems are full, with petals curled and incurved, making the flowers appear like a cross between an Ostrich Feather and a Giant Branching.. ¼ oz., 55c.	.35	2.00
Mammoth Non-Lateral Branching Blue. 2 ft. A medium shade of blue ... ¼ oz., 55c.	.35	2.00
American Beauty. Rose Pink. 2½ ft. Is similar in type of flower and growth to the Late Branching Asters, but differs in that all the large blossoms are produced on much longer and heavier stems. The flowers are fully double to the last and are a most lovely shade of bright carmine-rose, almost identical with the World-Famous American Beauty Rose. BALL'S WHITE ASTER

The seed of this splendid Giant Aster of the Late Branching Type—the product of twelve years' selection to develop the ideal of a perfectly double flower, of flawless color—is offered in 1921 for the first time.

It has been grown and the seed carefully selected every season since. In 1918, three-quarters of an acre netted $2,320. An exceptionally good market helped, but this variety has always sold for 50 per cent. more than ordinary White Asters.

The flowering season comes between the Royal and Late Branching types, filling in between the early and late glut of flowers. It grows to a medium height with full, distinctively centered blossoms, ideally formed for long distance shipping. The seed of this Aster is about two-thirds the size of ordinary varieties. It is sold in ¼-ounce packets, containing about 4000 seeds at $3.00 per trade packet.

We are the introducers of this new Aster, jointly with the originator, Mr. Geo. J. Ball.

TOMATOES which turn when ripening from green to yellow before turning red, are not wanted for winter growing in Florida. Types of these are Earliana, John Baer and Detroit.

MIAMI, FLA.—The establishment of an experiment station in the Everglades reached the realm of possibilities, when the Rotary Club appointed a committee at a recent meeting, to investigate the prospects of securing such a station by federal, state or local aid.

Prices of Indoor Fruits and Vegetables.

Chicago, March 9.—Cucumbers, 2-dozen box, $5.00-$5.50; leaf lettuce, per Box, 32½ to 35 cents.

New York, March 4.—Cucumbers, per dozen, 75 cents to $2.75; mushrooms, $1.00 to $2.00 per three-pound basket; tomatoes, per pound, 15 to 50 cents; radishes, per 100 bunches, $3.00 to $6.00.

Mushrooms in Mines.

Urbana, Ill.—Mushroom farming in coal mines is a paying business, says Dr. A. R. Crook, curator of the state museum here. He says that miners near Grand Rapids, Mich., are making money gowing mushrooms for the Chicago market, and thinks Illinois mines can be used with the same success.

Wart Disease on Tomatoes.

Recent investigations made by the United States Department of Agriculture on the control of the potato wart disease, a European trouble found in this country in 1918, disclosed the fact that this disease also attacks tomatoes. Out of 28 varieties of tomatoes planted in wart-infested gardens in eastern Pennsylvania in 1920, 26 were found to be susceptible to the disease.

Wart is a very serious disease of potatoes, causing practically a total loss in badly infested soil. It attacks the tubers, causing warty outgrowths, which may practically cover or consume the potatoes. Its present known occurrence in the United States is confined to gardens in a few mining villages in Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Maryland, from which its spread is restricted by state quarantine laws. The disease attacks only the stems and roots of the tomato plant, causing small warts; it probably does not reduce the yield of fruit.

The importance of the discovery of the susceptibility of tomatoes to potato wart lies in the fact that affected tomato plants will serve to carry the disease over from year to year in the absence of potatoes, and to introduce it into new localities through the transplanting of tomato seedlings grown in infested soil. It is not yet known definitely whether all varieties of tomatoes are susceptible to the wart disease, but it is feared that such may be the case. Other plants belonging to the potato family are suspected of being susceptible to wart, and some of these have been tested, but with inconclusive results. These tests will be repeated.

STOCK SELLING READILY.

Market conditions are much improved over the previous two weeks. While prices have not advanced the supply has diminished until it is practically all absorbed daily and there is very little left for the wholesale houses to carry over. The retail stores all complain that business is slow but that is usually the case just before Easter, and this year is no exception. Roses are in somewhat smaller supply than last week, and with a few exceptions clean up daily. Premier seems to be the best both in quantity and quality. Columbia is good and as popular as ever. Butterfly and Ophelia sell readily and in this section Butterfly has not been able to supplant Ophelia in popularity. Other arrivals include Pink and White Killarney, Maryland, Hilda, Pilgrim, Sunburst, Ward, Milady, and Richmond. The carnation arrivals are smaller than they were for two weeks past, and it looks as if the big crop is over for the present. The price of Easter and Calla lilies is more steady than it has been and most of them are sold at list prices. Jonquils, tulips, and Paper White narcissi are still plentiful; in fact too plentiful to realize any decent returns. Sweet peas, snapdragons, and iris are good property and clear daily at fair prices. The demand for lily of the valley, orchids, and violets is light, and at times they are hard to move at any price. There is a surplus of southern greens on the market at present and some of it finds its way to the dump.

RETAIL FLORISTS' ASSOCIATION.

The Retail Florists Association met at the Seventh Avenue Hotel for their regular monthly meeting March 3. Many out-of-town members were present. The McCallum Co. orchestra furnished the entertainment, which was enjoyed by everyone present. One of the questions brought out by some of the retailers, was that some of the wholesale houses were selling stock to the street boys for a fraction of what it was offered to them for. E. J. McCallum of The McCallum Co., in answering said that it was foolish to think that any business man would dispose of his stock to the street boys for a smaller price than could be realized on it from the regular trade; that a business could not exist that did business that way. He brought out that the retail stores would not handle the stock sold to the street boys at any price. It matters not to the street boy if the carnations are all White; a carnation is a carnation to him regardless of color, and flowers are flowers no matter what they are; he will take everything left that looks like a flower. It is a question long discussed and more than likely it will never be settled to everyone's satisfaction, but it is believed the street boy helps and does not hurt the business, and the wholesaler is not doing justice to his growers who throws stock away that will sell for anything at all. Ageratum Fraseri

We feel confident in offering Ageratum "Fraseri" to our customers that we are offering what will be one of the most valuable acquisitions to the bedding plant line in recent years, that it is a blue a decided blue that would be continually in bloom. In our trial grounds last summer "Fraseri" attracted more attention than any other bedding plant. It only grew about 8 to 10 inches high and was covered the entire summer with what can easily be classed as immense truss of flowers, as many of them were over 2½ inches across, while the individual flower would be ⅞ of an inch in diameter. The plant spreads about 12 to 15 inches across. It can easily be used with alternantheras as a border plant.

Being an early bloomer and dwarf, compact grower, it makes an excellent pot plant.

Mr. W. I. Ferguson, Smiths Falls, Ontario, under date of Dec. 2nd, 1919, writes us the following in regard to our petunias: "Last year I purchased petunia seed from you. I think every seed germinated and the blooms were the finest ever seen in this part of Canada. Only about 8% of the plants could be classed as common. I want more of the same quality each year."

Mr. Rudolph Nagel, Lancaster, Pa., under date of Dec. 14th, 1919, writes us: "I had, last year, just a few of your petunias, but I am sure I could have sold thousands of them. They surely came up to your claim and way ahead of my expectation."

SEEDS.

THE DIENER TOMATO

Increase your tomato yield one hundred per cent by raising the new DIENER TOMATO. 30-40 tons of ripe fruit to the acre.

This tomato was raised last year all over the United States and Canada with the greatest satisfaction.

As smooth as an apple and of a magnificent dark red color. Single tomatoes weigh up to 3 lbs. each. The flesh is more solid than that of any other tomato. The fruit contains very little seed and is solidly filled out. This tomato is free of the acid taste, and for dehydrating catsup and canning is the best tomato in existence today.

The DIENER TOMATO is blight-resisting as well as drought-resisting. It will not crack from the rain and will not rot while lying on the ground in wet weather. This tomato will grow in almost any kind of soil and it commences to ripen the first part of August.

It is the greatest novelty in the tomato line, and it will soon crowd out the present varieties from the market by its far superior qualities.

Price of the DIENER TOMATO SEED: Sample pkg., 25c; one-quarter of an acre pkg., 50c; one acre pkg., $1.50.

SEEDS.

DAHLIA SEED.

This seed is raised from the most up-to-date dahlias in existence. No place in the world have dahlias been brought up to such perfection as they have been around San Francisco. This mixture contains all colors and types of peony, cactus and decorative varieties. The seed we sent out in previous years was highly praised by all who raised dahlias from it; but this seed is far superior to what we have sent out in previous years. The seedlings will commence to flower two months after sowing and almost a month earlier than plants raised from blubs. Price, $0.50 per package.

The Amateur Gardener.

This is a song of garden seeds
I planted in the spring,
Tended by all the rosy hopes
That colored plates could bring;
Alas! some ne'er came up at all,
And some, they died a-borning,
But a valiant few poked up their heads,
So I'm working every morning.

Now in the stilly nights there crawl
Ogres I seek in vain,
Who eat along the tender rows,
Leaving behind the slain;
Fe, Fo, Fi, Fum! off go their heads
Without the slightest warning;
But I'll down those villains yet, I vow,
So I'm working every morning.

And then the weeds—the sturdy weeds
That grow, and grow, and grow;
It needs sweet visions, weeks ahead,
To spur my rake and hoe,
Of lettuce crisp and tiny peas
The menu oft adorning;
Oh, there's lots of fun in growing things,
So I'm working every morning.

NEW YORK SPRING SHOW.

Grand Central Palace, March 14-20.

Fine Show Well Staged.

Taking a general view of the New York Spring Show we believe that in arrangement it is the best ever staged in the Grand Central palace. In this, we by no means criticize the quality of stock; it is fine, and the artistic arrangement greatly enchances its beauty. As in former years, the competitive groups and features are largely on the main floor. From the main entrance a broad circle runs almost the depth of the building with leading features on both sides.

To the right at the entrance, Adolph Lewisohn, Ardsley, N. J., (John Canning gardener) occupies 500 square feet with a beautiful collection of flowering plants. Trellises of American Pillar and Tausendschon roses in the background and wings greatly add to the attractiveness of this exhibit. Large genistas, buddleias, lilacs and a great variety of smaller plants make up a choice collection of blooms. To the right of this group, the same exhibit has large space in a variety of fine crotons, dracaenas and pandanus being also exhibited. To the left of the entrance and circle, Mrs. Payne Whitney, Manhasset, N. Y., (George Ferguson, gardener) occupies 500 square feet with another exhibit of flowering plants. Cedar trees are used as a background for this exhibit. Rhododendrons, azaleas, genistas and many smaller plants, are noteworthy in this exhibit.

Moving onward, the model lawn garden and home grounds of F. R. Pierson, Tarrytown, N. Y., deserve attention. We would call this exhibit a masterpiece of landscape art. The (stage) mansion is located on an elevation and below it is a smooth and gently sloping lawn, in which are walks. Groups of flowering shrubbery, borders of low flowering plants and around the entire space, an evenly clipped border of boxwood, all planted in rich soil, make it a true model for home grounds and gardens. We consider this exhibit a fine educational feature for old and young. Bobbink & Atkins, Rutherford, N. J., have a model garden of 1,000 or more square feet. It is well laid out and has a fine display of rhododendrons, hardy azaleas, roses and flowering shrubbery. This firm has also a rock garden that occupies considerable space, planted as such gardens usually are.

The Julius Roehrs Co., Rutherford, N. J., have a model garden and greenhouse inclosed in 1,000 square feet of space. A walk leads through the garden to the greenhouse which is filled with choice plants. The garden contains a fine display of rhododendrons, flowering shrubs and trees, including magnolias and a collection of conifers and foliage plants. In another section this firm has a fine display of orchid plants in 300 square feet, arranged on a background of palms.

The Joseph Manda Co., West Orange, N. J., has an exhibit of orchid plants of which further mention will be made. The John H. Scheepers Co., New York, occupies about 1,000 square feet with an attractive garden, laid out with a fountain in the center. The beds and borders are largely planted with Darwin tulips, hyacinths and narcissi.

W. R. Coe, Oyster Bay, N. Y., (A. E. Thatcher, gardener) occupies large space with an exhibit of camellias and acacias in tubs, as well as other flowering plants. Some of the old timers that remember the camellia in its reign of popularity might be skeptical about there being plants of that genus in existence, large enough to fill a 24-inch tub, over six feet high and covered with flowers. In this exhibit there were eight such plants and two in 18-inch tubs. The acacia plants were also above ordinary size and finely flowered.

Mrs. F. A. Constable, Mamaroneck, N. Y., (James Stewart, gardener) occupies another large space with a fine collection of acacia plants, well flowered. A group of finely flowered imantophyllum (clivias) were added attractions to this exhibit. W. B. Thompson, Yonkers, N. Y., have about 500 square feet with a good collection of flowering and foliage plants. The Duke farm, (A. E. Miles, gardener), J. B. Duke, Somerville, N. J., occupies considerable space with an orchid display.

Edward Gillett's Flower and Fern farm, Southwick, Mass., occupies large space with a garden of exclusively native plants. Daniel Guggenheim, Port Washington, N. Y., (T. Layden, gardener) has a model garden well filled with flowering plants. On the mezzanine floor, this exhibitor has a splendid display of amaryllis and other flowering plants.

The Tea Garden.

The tea garden is the chief attraction of the mezzanine floor, through the clever work of Wadley & Smythe, the decorators. It occupies almost the entire west end. Cedar trees are banked against the wall and balustrade, but leave wide openings at intervals over the balustrade for a view of the main floor. The windows are lightly draped with southern smilax and pots of roses and other flowering plants are placed on the sills. On the open spaces of the balustrade large flowering hydrangeas are placed. In corners and available windows there are tubs of bay trees. A long row of Chinese lanterns diffuse a mellow light.

It may here be noted that the cedars are largely used throughout the building as backgrounds and diversions of the various exhibits. If there is any criticism to offer, it is on a few of the exhibitors who were too slow in placing their stock. But due credit must be given the majority that worked like beavers to have their exhibits well staged for the opening.

Bird Bath and Planting Features.

The bird bath and planting exhibits open to members of clubs affiliated with the Garden Club of America, located on the mezzanine floor, are attractions that greatly interest the ladies.

The Central Park, New York, greenhouses, have an attractive exhibit of flowering and foliage plants on the main floor. Max Schling, New York, has considerable space devoted to the exhibition of the craftmanship of his store. W. D. Guthrie, Locust Valley, N. Y., (J. A. Winsock, gardener) made a good exhibit on the mezzanine floor of hybrid cinararias and Primula malacoides.

The Opening Day.

The New York Spring Show was opened to the public at two p. m., March 14, with a fair attendance which greatly increased as the week progressed. The weather conditions on the first day of the exhibition as well as the preceding week were more like May than March, and were particularly favorable.

The judges were kept busy on the various groups, gardens and pot plants as well as orchids and miscellaneous cut flowers. Roses and carnations were judged later. First prizes in orchids were taken by the Julius Roehrs Co., Rutherford, N. J.; Lager & Hurrell, Summit, N. J., and J. B. Duke, Somerville, N. J. A number of visitors from other cities were present at the opening and so far as interviewed, were well pleased with the show.

Excellent features in the following cut stock were judged: Amaryllis, lilacs, mignonettes, callas, freesias, stocks, snapdragons, calceolarias, larkspurs, buddleas and wallflowers. Darwin tulips, hyacinths and narcissi in pots and pans were of fine quality. Beautiful plants of schizanthus and Primula malacoides were noteworthy features. Specimens of schizanthus, bushy plants, were three to four feet in diameter and covered with flowers.

Early Awards.

The fine weather and good attendance continued Tuesday when the following awards were made: International Garden Club, gold medal for best exhibit of private grower, Adolph Lewisohn; gold medal for commercial exhibit, A. L. Miller. In cut roses, 100 Hadley, Duckham Pierson Co., first; 100 Russell, 100 Hoosier Beauty, F. R. Pierson Co., first, also silver medal for 25 pink undisseminated variety; 100 Ophelia, Florex Gardens, first; 100 Premier, Joseph H. Hill Co., first, also silver medal for 25 white undisseminated variety; 50 Crusader, Joseph Heacock Co., first, Traendly & Schenck, second; 50 Sunburst, Wm. Vert, first; 50 Ward, Traendly & Schenck, first; 25 red undisseminated variety, Noe & Ruzicka, silver medal; 50 Dunlop, Joseph Heacock, first, L. B. Coddington, second; 50 Pilgrim, A. N. Pierson, Inc., first, Joseph Heacock Co., second; 100 American Beauty, Noe & Ruzicka, first, Gude Bros., second; 100 Columbia, Florex Gardens, first, L. B. Coddington, second; 100 Scott Key, F. R. Pierson Co., first, Traendly & Schenck, second.

Outside of the tea garden, the mezzanine floor is largely occupied by commercial exhibitors; there being also a number on the main floor. Aside from this utility, there are attractive features among these exhibits.

GREENVILLE, S. C.—In the matter of Harold E. Rodgers, bankrupt, proprietor of the Rodgers Flower Shop, the referee advises that the first meeting of the creditors to prove their claims, was held March 17.

GARY, IND.—John Owen, of the Union Floral Co., the original florist here, says his flower business continues very satisfactory, although there are now four florists in the city. The ironworkers are still quite busy, only two of the 11 blast furnaces being closed down.

ST. PAUL, MINN.—The Holm & Olson greenhouses present a fine appearance with Easter stock of the highest quality, well finished in every respect. James Soudem, the superintendent, has retained all his old-time skill as a grower, showing a great variety of plants in the best possible condition. The lilies and ramblers are especially fine, also Boston ferns in many varieties.

THE RETAIL TRADE

Conducted by Robt. Kift, Phila., Pa.

Easter.

There is no more trying business period during the whole year for the florist than the week previous to Easter Sunday. For the grower it is the culmination of from three to six months' preparation when he cashes in on a whole season's work. For the retail florist it means after a long period of preparedness a week of almost continuous labor, lightened to a degree, by carefully planned systematic methods that have provided stock for instant use and in many other ways relieved the rush hours of their continuous grind.

Easter presents a grand opportunity to elevate and exploit the business. There is an insistent demand that is rapidly increasing and can be further encouraged by intelligent educational publicity.

Every retail florist puts his best endeavors into his Easter business, according to the requirement of his trade; the best the grower has is none too good for his customers, and every effort is made to present his goods to the best advantage. The supply houses are called in for their latest novelties in baskets and all sorts of pot covers and trimmings, and no expense is spared to make his store worthy of the occasion.

Easter Plant Decorations.

The importance of embellishment and featuring flowering pot plants, pans and plant combinations for the Easter trade is not realized as it should be by the great majority of retail florists. First of all growers should be required to deliver their plants, with pots, and pans thoroughly scrubbed and cleaned, both sides and bottom. There should be in stock, material for or made up covers, to give every plant or combination a decorative touch or finish that will make it much more presentable. Crepe paper and mats of various colors can be made into covers to fit standard sizes of pots and pans. With these in stock the transformation from a plain pot to a nicely finished harmonious colored effect is but the work of a moment, rendering the plant more salable and at a better price.

Japanese bamboo pot covers dyed in various colors or in gilt or bronze are now available that give a neat finish and are very good stock to carry. A tasselled cord, tape or fibre ribbon bound round the crepe or mat cover apparently to hold it on gives a good finish. Color combination or contrast is essential; blues and pinks, orange and brown or green, yellows and white are effective.

TUMBLER BASKET OF SPRING FLOWERS.
Daffodils and Daisies.

Gilt covers work well with almost all colors. A cover of white paper made by placing a pot in the center of a square paper which when drawn up around on all sides and bound with a cord or fibre ribbon gives an irregular finish that when the plant is in place makes it look much larger. These can be made over an empty pot and stacked together when they will hold their shape and are ready for instant use. The cord or ribbon should be pinned or sewed in place, preferably the color of the flower.

Laurel branches, pussywillows and leucothoe sprays are useful in rounding out or finishing an irregular shaped plant. The pussywillows if used judiciously will make almost any plant or combination more attractive. They are often used entwined and arched over the top to make a handle for a plant, giving it a basket appearance, which is further enhanced by a bow of ribbon at the side. A shallow flat of 50 tulips with a crepe paper or mat cover, arched over the top with pussywillows from each corner of the box caught in the center with a bow of chiffon gives a very decorative effect and adds at least 25 per cent to its value.

High handled plant baskets to hold from six to 10 inch pots, can with plants in place and chiffon or silk ribbons and pussywillow sprays be made to give the appearance of a basket combination. Pussywillows can also be used to decorate pots and pans of tulips, hyacinths and daffodils, short sprays being stuck in through and around the outer edge.

Combination Plant Baskets.

One of the most salable of the Easter offerings is the plant basket or hamper. There is great variety in these combinations, the essential flowering plants for which are heather, azaleas, Baby Rambler roses, bougainvillea, hyacinths, lily of the valley, spireas, daisies, hydrangeas, Easter lilies and genistas. Foliage stock necessary are small kentias or arecas, pandanus, maidenhair and Glory fern, crotons dracaenas, the variegated pteris, Cyrtomium or Bird's Nest fern.

A number of the growers in the neighborhood of the large cities are now filling these baskets to order for the stores, while many, getting the stock together at one place will have their artists fill these on the last days of the week before or on Palm Sunday. Standing two or three days in a greenhouse adds greatly to their appearance and they are then at their best, ready for delivery on the day desired at the store. Color combination and the artistic arrangement of the various plants is essential. Bulky stock such as spireas and maidenhair when root bound can be divided by cutting from the bottom of the pot up to within an inch of the top in three or four sections. The roots can then be easily pulled apart giving a fairly bushy top with small root space. This root separation appears not to affect the stock in the least. All hyacinth flowers should be tied to stakes close to the bulb so that when set in place they will stay. Many when not protected in this way bend over and snap off with the weight of the flower. When getting their finishing touches of ribbon at the store irregularities in spaces can be filled in with leucothoe, or laurel branches and pussywillows.

Combinations of several lily plants together are always good sellers; these can be made up in white tubs with gilded bands. Should the foliage be a bit scant at the bottom several of the "split" spireas around the edge, will, with their bushy foliage and graceful flowers give a decorative finish. Made-up hydrangeas in 10 to 12 inch tubs in either white or light blue coloring to contrast with the pink or blue flowers will make a very finished and decorative combination. All white hydrangeas in a blue tub with gilt bands tied with a blue ribbon bow will be much admired.

The six to eight inch well flowered hydrangeas in baskets with the proper shaped handle, the pinks in blue baskets, the blues in a white or silvered decoration and a ribbon bow on the handle, will add variety as the stocks run down.

DAFFODILS AND YELLOW RIBBON.

Easter Plants.

Considering the ease with which they are handled the well flowered pot plant is the most profitable item in the list of Easter offerings. Rambler roses, hydrangeas, heather, spireas, genistas, Easter lilies and bulbous stock in pots and pans are delivered from the growers in fine condition, with clean pots, and are at once salable. There is not one of these but may be the better with an artistic finish, in pot covering or high handled basket, or touch of ribbon. But unless preparations for their quick handling in this manner have been made and are at hand for instant use, they are sold as they come from the grower and the extra prestige and revenue that could have been derived from this finishing touch is lost.

Well flowered Rambler roses are first choice with many buyers; there is something irresistible in their wealth of flowers and coloring. Wherever possible these roses grown in comparatively small pots, should be placed in tin lined pot covers or high handled baskets, there they can be kept saturated with water, which is so necessary to these root bound plants. A bow of light blue ribbon is a great addition and finish to any of the pink varieties. Miniature artificial or natural bird's nests with eggs can be attached to large plants and give it an additional selling point.

The smaller Baby Rambler type is also very attractive and popular on account of their price and the fact that they will flower all summer long. Magna Charta and some of the hybrid tea roses are done splendidly for Easter by growers and are good stock to carry.

Hydrangeas, now that the Belgian azaleas are impossible, take their places as near as can be. The new French varieties have good range in form and coloring and when well done are very showy. Some growers feature them nicely in four-inch pots, plants that contain from two to four blooms of fair size which work up well in plant basket combinations. Larger sizes in from six to 10 inch pots and 10 to 12 inch tubs, are wonderful with their wealth of bloom. White, blues and shades of pink are the colors. Hinodigiri azaleas are now grown in large quantities by nurserymen both for planting on the lawn and for forcing for Easter. When well budded they are very showy and are effective in small sizes as in three-inch pots and before long will be seen in pyramid form in large plants.

Well flowered genistas are a great addition to the Easter stock, their fluffy yellow racems that cover the plant completely are wonderfully effective. Stocks of these should come in every day as the blossoms close up quickly in the ordinary store atmosphere.

The Store Arrangement.

The placing of the stock and the extra stages and tables necessary, should be given careful thought well in advance of the time. An extra and nearby store room, if it can be hired for the week, is a great asset. Surplus stock may be received and stored here, and all deliveries made from this point. As sales are made in the store, the plants are at once sent to the annex and are placed in the east or west, or up and down town delivery sections. To be able to get sold stock off the floor at once is a great help at such a busy time, people help themselves to things that are picked out, and this causes great annoyance, as nothing else in the stock will do.

The stock is more effective and handled with less confusion if all of a kind, and even of a color are kept together. The masses of hydrangeas in pink and blues and whites are much more striking in blocks than if mixed together. It is the same with Rambler roses and Easter lilies in a mass; they attract much more attention that if scattered all through. Customers are waited on more promptly when they have such a block to select from and are not wandering all over the store to try and find something better. Decorative effects may be made with handsome specimens given prominence anywhere, but the quick moving stock should be where all of a kind can be seen at once.

The combination baskets and hampers are best displayed on tables together. With the aid of pedestals and shelf boards, several tiers may be arranged so as to make a great collective show and yet each basket be within reach without disturbing the others.

Cut Flowers for Easter.

While flowering plants are the main stay of the Easter business there is also a good demand for cutflowers for use in church decoration, for the cemetery, as gifts, the same as plants, and also made up for personal adornment.

About one third of the lilies grown for Easter are sold as cutflowers, they being the favorite for churches and for the cemetery. Callas also sell up close. Roses of all kinds are in demand as are carnations. Stocks or gillyflowers, with their long spicy spikes of bloom are favorites. Sweet peas which are at their best at this season are always popular. Daffodils are a quantity product as are tulips. Violets are still favored, but are not nearly as important as before the advent of the orchid sweet peas. Cattleyas and lilies of the valley are always a strong factor, while gardenias are falling behind.

At a busy season like Easter it is best to confine one's efforts to carrying and pushing certain lines of flowers rather than spreading over the whole list. Three-fourths of the customers have no definite idea as to just what they want and select from what they see before them, particularly when the beauty or effectiveness is brought out by good salesmanship.

As a rule flowers are ordered for later delivery, comparatively few being sold to be carried away. For this reason the case should only contain samples from which orders are taken, and for the experienced salesman these are not necessary, as the moment he knows his customer's wants, his quick mind suggests this or that and the order is booked at once. A few boxes of flowers in the case ready to hand out to those who want them at once is a help. There should be a few choice corsages in boxes at various prices, which quicken the taking of an order of this kind.

Expediting Delivery.

Everything should be done to expedite the business of the last rush days. It is a great help to have all the orders, as soon as taken, turned into the office for the final writing of tags, card envelope, day and hour of delivery, and slip containing order and price. With the address tag legibly made out, a card envelope and slip with items of order, day and hour of delivery, clipped together, and placed in the box with that day's orders, all further detail is avoided. Everything pertaining to the order is there ready for instant use.

When Saturday's orders are all out and the store is cleared for the Sunday orders, the cutflower stock should be brought up and one man with an assistant select the flowers. These are passed in to the clerks at the counters or tables, who arrange them in the boxes, give the order slip a final check up and file it. This is a much more expeditious way than to let each clerk select his own order. There is no hurried writing of tags; they are correct.

BOUGAINVILLEA WITH MAT COVERING.

Cards get into the right boxes and the double checking of the list of flower slips insure that the order has been filled properly.

Corsage orders should be in competent hands, and great care given to their on-time delivery, as many are to be worn to early church services and a half hour delay may mean a total loss of money and the customer.

Displaying Easter Lilies.

Lilies always have a large part in any Easter stock as they are the Easter flower. Single and two plants together in six-inch pots are the standard size. Many of the larger stores handle made up plants in pans and tubs that contain 15 to 25 buds and flowers each. Planted in tubs painted white, with gilt bands, they look very effective. Heathers in variety give character to any collection. From three-inch stock up to plants in six to eight-inch pots they are very desirable. The smaller plants work up well in plant basket combinations. Spireas are indispensable and give more appearance for their money than almost any other offering.

Deutzias are showy with their graceful racems of flowers and are especially to be recommended for the cemetery. Marguerites with their wealth of flowers are popular with many; large specimens in eight to 10 inch pots are very decorative.

Bougainvilleas either trimmed into formal shapes or with their natural long sprays of light purple flowers hanging gracefully in all decorations are one of the choice Easter specimens.

Pelargonium, Easter Greeting, is a most showy plant, there is never too much of this about as when well flowered it is one of the first selections. Small plants, such as pansies and forget-me-nots in pans, are very salable. They should be at their very best when offered for sale as they begin to go back after the first night in the atmosphere of the store. Primulas can be brought in full bloom for Easter and will fill the bill where something moderate in price is desired. Cinerarias are also very acceptable and a great favorite with grower retailers.

Placing Lilies Among the Palms.

A handy device to assist in placing lilies and other cut flowers among the palms in a decorative group, is a round tin tube two inches in diameter by 12 inches in length, with a stout hook soldered to one side at the top. This is painted green and can be hung to strong palms near the center or pot covers, or a stout stick stuck in a pot. Lily stalks or any long stemmed flowers are supported firmly in this way and being in water will last as long as if in the the pots and are much easier to arrange.

Any shelves or window ledge boards filled several days ahead will freshen up and present a much better appearance than if placed hurriedly at the last minute. Where a banked white effect is desired in a church in which there is little room to spare, racks with slanting shelves that will hold three to five tiers of six to eight inch pots may be placed against the wall. The hydrangeas in green buckets, out of pots packed, in which sphagnum is well saturated, will last through two days without further attention.

Memorial windows can readily be taken care of by retail stores. The treatment is more or less elaborate with all vases of cut flowers or plants and cut flowers. These well banked with Easter lilies or callas makes an elaborate effect. In all cases where plants are used there should be deep saucers well filled with water for each pot.

When dealing with church committees there should be a distinct understanding as to the effect desired, and then it is to be left in the hands of the florist. To have a committee, as the work goes on, try to tell how to place the plants, is very annoying and takes much valuable time.

The piece for the font, with its formation of green should be all ready with its center vase for lilies or base on which to stand a cross of same. The large cross of lilies to be suspended high in the chancel if such is to be used, should be mossed and ready for its flowers; this can be done much better two weeks ahead than at the last minute.

The cut flowers for the altar vases should have careful selection. Easter lilies, callas, white stocks, white lilacs and white roses are the favorites. As a rule the brass altar vases do not hold much water and it is well to see that the stems and flowers are well saturated before leaving the store.

EASTER PLANT BASKETS.

Tausendschon Rose, Pink Hydrangeas, Pink Spiraeas, Pandanus Veitchii, Marguerites and Pink Ribbon.

Easter Church Decorations.

The decoration of the church at Easter is quite an important branch of the business. The orders are, however, not considered much of an asset for as a rule the meager appropriations to cover the expected display leave little if any profit.

Coming as they do at a time when the facilities of every kind are rushed to the utmost, such orders should be handled by those who make a specialty of decorations, who have greenhouses with quantities of palms and stocks of azaleas, genistas and other plants that are flowered year after year for this purpose. All such work should be planned well in advance. Exact measurements of ledges, platforms, etc., where filled boards may be used to advantage, should be taken; also the number and size of palms and flowering plants and the necessary pedestals required. A sketch or ground floor plan showing just where the plants are to be placed, and the quantity for each group is of the greatest assistance both when the stock is being selected and at its setting up in the church.

The decorations will be successful according to the effect produced, not one plant more than is necessary should be used. All should stand so as to provide the best appearance as a whole. Wild smilax, southern Sabel leaves and laurel branches are of great assistance to conceal pots and pedestals and fill in where the palms are showing the results of the winter's campaign.

Made up palms and blooming plants stood individually, can at times be used to better advantage than banks of the same. One of the greatest assets for these made up plants are galvanized iron buckets from 12 to 18 inches in diameter. With a tall palm for a center and filled in with Rambler roses, lilies or hydrangeas, and a vinca vine hanging over the front, a fine appearance is presented. Such an arrangement will fit a large pot cover or the bucket can be covered with green crepe paper. All plants but the palm can be taken out of the pots and the balls wrapped with cheese cloth; they may be packed with sphagnum. One good saturation will guarantee their keeping fresh until Easter Monday. The buckets should be painted green.

Next Week in the Flower Shop.

In these days of reconstruction when so much is expected of the better times coming, it behooves everyone to get busy and keep going with no let up, for business will be just as good as you make it and no better. What the other person is doing will help, but it is your own personal energy and initiative that you must depend on for the real results. "He's a hustler," is the caption given by common consent to the man who is forging ahead. There is no secret to his success, he is just on the job all the time. He carries good stock and plenty of it, presents it in a novel inviting way that attracts buyers; he makes a strong bid for business and gets it.

People who have no thought of buying flowers will become interested when they see them attractively displayed, or when at home, they read the neat, crisp folder telling of the splendid stock to be seen in the shop. A weekly letter to the store's list and prospects is invaluable at this season; penny stamps will carry them, and if a progressive printer gets them up, they are sure at least of a once over.

Keeping the outside front of the store at its best has great publicity value. The side show at the circus would do no business but for its wonderfully alluring signs, and everything in decorative publicity that can be used to impress the stranger with the importance of the store is worth while and bound to bring good returns.

Don't be a waiter. The minute that trade begins to slacken, get out and start something. A glance at the window may show that it is too tame and commonplace; it is not pulling. Fifteen minutes will put in another setting that because of its novelty will at least attract attention. An all daffodil or all sweet pea decoration with price cards will be pretty sure to start things moving. Set outside the door some jars of pussywillows with prices; they will almost walk away. If the weather is mild, a low shelf outside in front, below the window will hold an effective showing of decorated bulb pans, hyacinths, tulips and daffodils that will attract attention and customers.

In every department of the shop there should be an effort to increase the efficiency, and give the interior decorative scheme a few extra touches. Another small table of novelties perhaps, or rearrangement of the furniture to better feature this or that specialty that you are trying to make a run on. Make a pre-Easter plant display, this will be interesting to many and bring to mind that the day is rapidly approaching.

IMPORTANCE OF EASTER DISPLAYS.

To much thought cannot be given to this important event; if the schedule is getting behind in any particular, now is the time to catch up, not in the overcrowded days of that busy week. Everything possible of a preparatory nature should be pushed now. Every hour gained at this time takes off the strain and eases up the work of the rush period.

Pansies are now at their best, they are everybody's favorite and can be artistically arranged in small low baskets and in corsages.

The little colonial bouquet with its miniature lace paper is always popular and sure to attract attention. Made up almost out of scraps, put together with good color contrasts they are very effective and when well displayed often suggest to the observer that they are just the little novelty to be sent here or there and the sale is made.

Do not overlook the little leaflets that can be used to carry all sorts of messages of the store in every box of flowers or package that goes out. This is not only the best but also the least expensive form of publicity as there is no cost for distribution.

How is the telephone service? There should be immediate and constant attention to every call. Persons should be spoken to over the telephone the same as when in person they call at the store. In replying always announce the firm name and Mr. or Miss —— speaking. The telephone should always be within reach of office attendants or cashier, who being on duty can answer at once; perhaps take the order, or give the information desired, or if not, call the proper party. So much business is now transacted in this way that the service should be more than sufficient, and the best that the store can provide.

Aster Diseases.

ED. AMERICAN FLORIST:

During the past three years I have had poor success with asters. I raise quite a number of plants for bedding out, and am able to grow good strong stock and I have a great many in thumb pots. With these I have no trouple, for when the plants are put out in the open they make good growth, but when the buds are of good size, they turn yellow and I do not get one-quarter the number of blooms I should from them. I have sold plants which promised very good blooms, but most of the buds turned out badly. Can you advise me as to the proper treatment to remedy this trouble.

Z. C. F.

New Brunswick, Canada.

Each year there are many inquiries for the best methods of combating aster diseases. To tell the truth we have no remedies in mind that are effective. The diseases most common are stem rot and yellows. The former attacks the plant much the same as soft stem rot on carnations. The first indication of its presence is given by the wilting of the plants, which never revive, but finally wither and turn brown. Upon examination it is found the stem or bark at the surface of the ground is affected with a dry rot, which encircles the stem and destroys the tissues of the bark, to such an extent, that the sap cannot be transferred to the leaves and consequently they wilt and die. It is our opinion that this is a fungus disease and its prevalence is largely due to conditions, either of the soil or climate.

This year we have yet to find the first plant that shows a trace of stem rot, and as we have heretofore lost more or less plants from this cause we feel the health of our present crop sustains our belief that conditions are quite or wholly responsible for this malady or scourge, which it becomes in some instances. One field has been planted to asters for three successive years and the other two seasons, which explodes the theory that stem rot is due to continuous croppings. We must admit the real cause is still obscure to us.

Yellows affect the plants at flowering time, the buds turning yellow and the petals failing to reach their normal length. This disease, like stem rot, is very hard to combat, for the reason it is not apparent until too late to apply remedies. The tarnished plant bug (Lygus pratensis) is the worst enemy we have to contend with and we feel certain many growers attribute their depredations to disease. This little insect punctures the soft growing stems and extracts the sap, causing them to wilt, and thus growth stops. The plant sends up lateral growths which, if unmolested, will give excellent returns, but should the attacks be continued the latter are ruined, resulting in a crop failure.

This little insect is so active that hand picking is of no avail and we have yet to learn of an application that will check its devastations. We now have one of the experiment stations interested in the work of securing a parasite fungus that will spread from one to another by contact and thus destroy them, the same as the chinch bug is being controlled in the western states. What the results will be we are unable to predict, but it is to be hoped that success may crown these efforts.

ELMER D. SMITH.

of an exhibition being staged by the well trained men on our committee, but what is safe to depend upon at least 40,000 paid admissions.

"The results from our last shows are such as to convince us we are right in our method and the utmost care must be given to the material of the national flower show committee and to select capable men with experience, wisdom and ability, and no thought of personal friendship must enter into the selection of those who can best serve on this important committee. If you will but look in the proceedings and see the gross expenditures of the last show—over $50,000—which was practically be placed, before the gates opened to the public, you will realize the enormous responsibility this committee shoulders. This amount of money represents a sum of more than equal to that which the Society has in its treasury, and which it has been over 35 years in accumulating.

"Thus you will see that you ask and expect of this committee to be the advance guard of horticulture in this country. To them, has to be entrusted the correct and best method of displaying to the public the rarest, choicest and best grown of our products, and to be staged on a plane that has no superior; to place the exhibition so that every branch of horticulture receives some benefit and that there can be no criticism on our great organization for the work done, and so that the people will know us and our work the better. Therefore, to this committee, is left to figure out protection as much as possible from bad weather or any calamity that would mean disaster or ruin to the exhibition; also we must guard carefully against liability to the public, should a catastrophe occur or an accident of any kind during the progress or installing of the show. These are a few of the perplexing problems of importance that arise.

"In the past we have been working with the assistance of the various horticulture organizations, and such organizations as the American Rose and Carnation Societies, which have always co-operated, but did not have any financial responsibilities, as far as sharing in profits or losses were concerned. The present working condition is different. Prior to the contemplated show in St. Louis, we entered into an agreement with the American Rose Society to have them act as co-partners with the Society of American Florists in promoting that show. And as I stated before, the calling off of the St. Louis exhibition, left us with a loss of about $7,000. We did not ask the guarantors for the two above mentioned societies to pay any part of this loss, but rather to charge it up against the expense of the next exhibition, inasmuch as we had a flower show fund that the money was charged against. As a basis of what proportion the American Rose and Carnation Societies participated, is based on the amount of premiums earned. That is to say, the present premium list is written on a $20,000 basis. The possibilities are, the amount awarded will not be over $13,000 or $14,000.

"Now it will merely be a matter of figures as to what proportion was underwritten by the American Rose Society, and what proportion was underwritten by the American Carnation Society. And basing the matter on results from the last national flower show in Philadelphia, the American Rose Society would have been entitled to about 13 per cent of the profits and the American Carnation Society to about eight per cent. These figures are merely in the rough. Thus we have two guarantors not mentioned before, as both of these organizations are responsible for losses in the proportion as to the amount of money they are to participate in the profits of.

EASTER PLANT BASKET.
Acacia, Pink Hydrangea, White Spiraea, Light Pink Azalea.

"I wish also to have your body know, that every item of expense such as mileage to the meetings, clerical hire, stationery, and all kinds, has been paid for as an expense to the exhibition, I point this out to you as I wish you to know that there is no expense whatsoever in connection with the national flower shows, that is not defrayed from the receipts of the exhibitions. I believe too, we can point back with pride to the results obtained of the exhibition in the cities where the same has been held. We also feel proud that all of our exhibitions have been successful and that all purchasers of space in the trade section have reported very profitable business.

PROMOTING NATIONAL SHOWS.

"Just a little about how we organize to promote these enormous affairs. It is our aim to work not with any particular local organization, but with all of them. And all of the allied interests of the section where the exhibition is being held are called upon as workers in forming the 20 committees that we have to have. The chairman of each of these committees form what we have called an executive committee. This body meets, not less than once a month, and there to discuss the reports worked out by each individual committee, and to pass upon the endorsement of such recommendations. Also this executive committee is to endorse any appropriations asked for. After such endorsement, same is submitted to the national flower show committee for final appropriations. Thus you will see that all the time your committee of experienced workers stand back of every action that pertains to the spending of moneys. The chairman of the national flower show committee, presides at the meeting of the executive committee, and in his absence the vice-chairman presides, who is also a member of the national flower show committee. And in this instance, Herman Knoble, a member of our committee, has been elected to serve as vice-chairman, Cleveland being his home.

"You all know of the wonderful building we were fortunate in securing in Cleveland. Present indications are that our show will be the first that will be staged in this wonderful building and we believe that we have a rare opportunity before us. But I wish to point out to each member of the board present, the urgent necessity of helping our committee in the success of the coming exhibition. We positively must have high grade exhibits. We must have donations to the premium list. We want your support to talk about the national flower show at all of your meetings, as we believe that the exhibition is of so much importance that no florist ought miss it, as undoubtedly it will be an inspiration to him and will be of wonderful educational value to know he is part of so enormous an institution.

"I sincerely hope that the board of directors assembled here will not forget to help endorse the resolutions that will provide for the meeting of the Society of American Florists at the time of this show, as with this action we can secure the rate and a half from railroads which will be a saving of 25 per cent on railroad fares.

"Should there be other information desired, I will be more than pleased to have you command me."

The report was, on motion of W. F. Gude, accepted and approved. In the course of a discussion which followed, Herman P. Knoble reported that the building in Cleveland which was to house the show would be completed by October 1 next, and its use for the purpose was assured, as far as anything could be assured. He urged that everybody co-operate to make the exhibition a success, and promised wholesouled co-operation on the part of the Cleveland interests. Wallace R. Pierson, Cromwell, Conn., who by unanimous consent of the board was seated as taking the place of Robert Pyle, who was called away, and representing the American Rose Society, said that he personally, and as chairman of the committee on commercial cut flower interests of the American Rose Society, was going to work his head off to put a rose show in Cleveland that no member of the Society could be ashamed of. J. F. Ammann moved, seconded by W. F. Gude, that the board recommend to the August convention that a special meeting of the Society of American Florists be held in connection with the national flower show in Cleveland in the spring of 1922, and the motion was carried unanimously. Adjournment was then taken until 7:30 P. M.

THIRD SESSION MONDAY EVENING.

A letter from Roy F. Wilcox & Co., Monticello, Calif., was read, in which the question was asked whether the Society was represented at any of the hearings held by the Interstate Commerce commission, in regard to a proposed increase in the express classification rates on nursery stock. On motion of Mr. Ammann, who said that he believed Mr. Gude had the matter well in hand, the letter was referred to the committee on tariff and legislation.

REPORTS OF PUBLICITY COMMITTEE.

Chairman Henry Penn of the publicity committee made the following report:

"Our campaign has accomplished so much for our business that it is hardly necessary for me to go into much detail. Your committee to a man feels its importance and have evidenced it by their attendance at every meeting. "Say It With Flowers" as a keystone for every advertisement is favorably known to everybody, both here and we may say abroad, and every now and then we are in receipt of advertisements containing the phrase "Say It With Flowers;" but it is only in its infancy yet and the fruits of the campaign are yet before us.

"If our campaign had done nothing else but to have made our retail florists see the light of advertising, and have helped create new as well as making more sales for our products, it would have been well worth while. How many lines can say their volume of business in 1920 has been anything like 1919? Yet our general volume the country over shows a decided increase. Another tribute perhaps to the fact of more energy is the printed word as well as a desire to do bigger things. Just a few examples of advertising, and incidentally the adverse side by not advertising are given by some of the following examples.

ST. JACOB'S OIL.

"Did you ever hear of St. Jacob's Oil? Not so many years ago, as time goes, it was a nationally known proprietary: it was the biggest selling product in a day when national distribution of a commodity was the exception. St. Jacob's Oil was advertised well, and by advertising was the business built. Then Charles Vogeler died. His widow called in a banker to straighten out affairs. Patiently, microscopically he toiled through the books: noting with increasing outrage the tremendous sums spent for advertising. Such extravagance, such foolhardiness would never do. Now, the widow had faith in her husband, for she had seen millions of bottles shipped to uncounted buyers; but the sums spent for space in magazines, on billboards, were awful, and a banker is an all-wise business man.

"So when the contracts ran out they were not renewed. St. Jacob's Oil which was known to every man, woman and child in America through the enormous force of advertising, began to quietly efface itself from public view. Within a year the advertising had practically ceased. St. Jacob's Oil had a wonderful distribution. It was known throughout the length and breadth of the land, yes, even the world. The banker said people would buy it anyhow.

"Complaints began to reach headquarters. St. Jacob's Oil was not selling as it had.....Why continue the story? It is only with an effort that old timers recall the product. St. Jacob's Oil is no more.

"Take another case, more recent. Yet it is doubtful if many will remember James Pyle's Pearline. A splendid product with a splendid distribution. It was advertised persistently and constantly since 1877; and in 1904 the appropriation reached half a million. Pearline was well and favorably known. Then in 1907 the last of the Pyle family died. The estate felt that Pearline was so well known that it needed little further advertising. The Procter and Gamble Co., Cincinnati, O., bought the business in 1914 to save it from actual bankruptcy.

"Spasmodic, sporadic advertising accomplishes nothing. Advertising must have a unity of purpose, and above all a continuity. Repetition is to the memory as the drop, drop, drop of water on the stone. The public must be constantly reminded. A year of silence will undo the work of five years of advertising, if perseverance is a characteristic of good salesmanship, it is an essential of advertising.

WHO PAYS FOR THE ADVERTISING?

"Who pays for the advertising? List to this tale:

"Twenty-eight years ago the makers of a watch produced a large machine-made article, priced at $1.50. The first year without advertising they sold 12,000. Next year with some advertising 87,000 were sold. Then increasing the factory and the distribution by having created a market and stablized it, they reduced the sizes of the watch, the price to $1 and by advertising sold 485,000 the third year.

"The makers of a famous camera, when they began advertising over 30 years ago, made a camera which took a two and one-half inch picture and which sold at $25. In 1917 (at a time of the violent rise in cost of material) they made a far better camera which sold for $10.

"When the manufacturer of a well-known breakfast food began advertising, his goods sold at 15 cents a package. In 1917 (the fatal period again) his package was 50 per cent larger and sold for 10 cents.

"In 1908 a magneto sold for $150. Ten years later a much better magneto used for the same purpose was sold at $81.

"An internationally known maker of chewing gum advertises today "five cents before the war, five cents during the war, and five cents now."

"These are not the exceptional cases—just illustrative. Illustrative of how the consumer pays for advertising; by lowering the production and selling costs, and improving the quality.

"Here is a classic example compiled a few years ago by J. G. Frederick. When Hart, Schaffner and Marx began to advertise they were doing a business of $1,500,000 annually. Ten years later this had increased to $15,000,000. A comparison, of four ready-to-wear men's clothing manufacturers, was made at the time Hart, Schaffner and Marx reached the fifteen million dollar mark between selling costs and expenditures for magazine advertising.

	Mag. Adv.	Sales Cost Per Cent
Hart, Schaffner & Marx..	$85,000	2½ to 3
B. Kuppenheimer & Co...	49,000	4
Samuel W. Peck & Co...	29,000	6
Alfred Benjamin	24,000	7

"We are desirous of showing the florists if they spend a little money in advertising locally, plus the fact we continue with our national advertising, the business is going to give them three times the effect it has given them in the past three years, and we cannot afford to slow up. Our committee has met and they are very enthusiastic because they all feel to a man that our national advertising campaign is of vast importance. We believe it is up to the national body now to give us the financial reports. We started, and we made a very good success. We feel if we get a new revenue of moneys, that we can raise a great deal more and do justice to a national campaign.

"Mr. Ammann has gone forward in all his work and has been very enthusiastic on the subject of advertising, and he has made out a general report which he will give to us. It will give us a general knowledge how we can best go about to finance the campaign. I would like to ask Mr. Ammann to give his plan in detail."

J. F. AMMANN'S REPORT ADOPTED.

Mr. Ammann's report of the publicity committee has already been published in the trade papers. The report and plan was, on motion of Mr. Kohout, seconded by Mr. Hendrickson, adopted as read, after a discussion which lasted over three hours and was participated in by practically everyone present. Consideration of details was augmented by experience. Major O'Keefe, of the P. F. O'Keefe Advertising Agency, who was present by invitation, made the closing address, and in summing up the discussion declared that in his opinion that night was epoch-making. "There is no question," he said, "but what the 26 or more men in this room are going out to different sections of the country spreading this propaganda."

COMMITTEE ON FINAL RESOLUTIONS.

Secretary John Young announced the appointment of a committee on final resolutions as follows: J. F. Ammann, Carl Hagenberger, A. Rasmussen, Henry Penn and I. S. Hendrickson.

BUDGET COMMITTEE.

The budget committee or committee to recommend appropritaions for 1921 was announced as follows: H. P. Knoble, C. C. Pollworth, Thomas H. Joy, Paul Klingsporn and John Young. Mr. Knoble moved, seconded by Mr. Ammann, that it be recommended to the publicity committee that an abstract of the minutes of the publicity proceedings at this session be sent broadcast to the trade.

Adjournment was then taken until 10:30 a. m. Tuesday morning.

FOURTH SESSION—CONVENTION HALL.

The fourth session opened promptly January 25 at 10:30 a. m., and President Roland called for the report of the committee on Convention hall. W. F. Gude, for the committee, reported that the Wardman Park inn and Convention hall had been visited, and it was recommended that Convention hall was best suited for purposes of the trade exhibition. It was well lighted and practically the same size as the Coliseum in Chicago, so should be ample for the purpose, and the location, 14 minutes from the railroad depot, was ideal. Secretary Young said that while Wardman Park inn was a wonderful place, certain conditions, which he mentioned, would make it undesirable for convention and trade exhibition purposes. The Emery building could not be examined. The committee could not get terms for rental of Convention hall, but expected to get them later in the day.

For the tariff and legislative committee, Chairman Gude reported the appearance of the special committee before the congressional ways and means committee that morning, but found that owing to conditions, they would have to face, it was feasible to carry out the instructions of the board, therefore decided to leave the matter as settled by the standing committee. The report of the committee was accepted and the committee discharged.

The secretary read rules and regulations to govern the trade exhibition, which were practically the same as used at the last convention, with the same rates for space, and, on motion, they were adopted.

EASTER PLANT BASKETS.
Genista, Yellow Primula and Yellow Callus.

As the committee on program had not had an opportunity to go into the matter of preparing the program, the same was, on motion, left to the president, secretary and vice-president and the customary advisory board and that suggestions be invited from the members of the executive board. Many suggestions were made by the board members as to subjects for the program, all of which were freely discussed without action being taken. Adjournment was taken for lunch, to reconvene at 2 p. m. The members were the guests at lunch of the Washington Florists' Club.

FIFTH SESSION.

The meeting opened pursuant to adjournment and the chair called for the report of the budget committee. Herman P. Knoble for the commmittee reported that after careful consideration, it was estimated that about $16,113.60 would be required for 1921, and this sum would be in proportion to the estimated income, which would be about $18,525.. The expenses included $1,000 to cover an annual report and mailing, and $1,000 for emergencies. On motion of Mr. Penn, the report was accepted.

A lengthy discussion was then started as to the scope and cost of the proposed annual report. During the discussion, it was suggested that the standing of members in the Society of American Florists would be an important question in the publication of the annual report. Finally, it was decided that an annual report be published, printing and mailing to come within the appropriation made for the purpose.

RENT OF CONVENTION HALL.

Vice-President Adolph Gude reported that the rent asked for Convention hall for three days was $750. As there appeared to be a question unsettled concerning the time required for installation and dismantling of the trade exhibition, the leasing was, on motion of Mr. Penn, left in the hands of the committee. Vice-President Gude reported that a lease of the Convention hall was granted at the rent named, $750, which included reasonable time for installation and dismantling. Secretary Young announced that President Roland had appointed Adolph Gude, Z. D. Blackistone and David Grillbortzer, to act as the local Advisory Board on the convention. The rest of the session was devoted to an informal discussion of various matters which required no action.

JOHN YOUNG, Sec'y.

National Flower Growers' Association.

ITS AIMS AND OBJECTS.

Address by J. F. Ammann, of Edwardsville, Before the Illinois State Florists' Association, At Urbana, March 8, 1921.

The objects of our association are just as the constitution provides, the advancement of commercial floriculture under glass. These are the aims:

First—Production: To combat insects and diseases, studying elements entering into production, such as soil analysis, commercial fertilizers, temperatures, methods and cost of construction of greenhouses, growing location with reference to marketing and disseminating knowledge among members on various subjects of interest to them. Second—Marketing: Sales methods, methods of grading, storing, packing and delivery. To devise ways and means of bettering selling conditions and eliminating the present cause of waste in marketing plants and flowers. To raise the standard of industry by national advertising. Third—Credits and collections. Fourth—Legislation: To keep generally informed on legislation proposed affecting members of this Association in either state or national legislation.

Now, then, what do we mean by the terms used above? By production, we mean that by closer co-operation of the growers, studying the disease and insects and elements entering into the production through organization rather than through individuals, it cannot only be done more rapidly but at a much less cost to the individuals. The same holds true with the testing of commercial fertilizers, methods and cost of construction of greenhouses and production of plants.

So, with the second division, namely, marketing, we believe with closer co-operation of the growers themselves along with their representatives, the commission men, better sales methods can be adopted, methods of more uniform grading, the storing and keeping of flowers, packing and delivery all can be worked out so that it will prove a benefit to not only the wholesaler and the grower, but to the retailer as well. Even the public can be greatly benefited when they once know roses are uniformly graded and they can buy them more intelligently by getting acquainted with the system. Folks as a rule are vitally interested in weights and measures, grades and quality, and as a rule it does not take them long to become acquainted with a standardized article, especially if an article is judiciously advetrised and through our co-operative advertising we expect to not only create a demand for our products, but to also teach folks so they can buy more intelligently, compelling ourselves thereby to meet the standard which such advertising represents, and thereby raise the standard of our industry as well.

In the third item, credits and collections need no explanation. We know these can be bettered by proper co-operation and we, too, know that there is need for stabilizing both these items more uniformly.

In legislation, we no doubt are beginning to realize the necessity for keeping in touch with special state legislation where, as in some states, laws are already being inaugurated that make the shipping of live plants from one state into another prohibitive. In many cases these laws are very arbitrary and unjust. What assurance have we but that in the near future, some master mind may develop the idea that plant diseases are being spread with the foliage on cut flowers and some law-making body will prohibit then at once, the shipping of cut flowers from one state into another. This sounds radical, but there are some very radical people in this world and a few are found among the deep-thinking students as well as in the politicians of this country. Hence, we need to be on our guard.

Now, the president of the National Flower Growers' Association has appointed a standing committee to represent each of the above-mentioned subjects. These committees will proceed to acquire all the data possible with reference to the various items they have up for consideration, calling a meeting, if necessary, and inviting representative growers and others interested from different parts of the country to discuss and recommend for adoption such methods as can best be adapted to the entire country. The names of these committeemen will be published in the trade press, and any of them, no doubt, will be glad to have suggestions with reference to the topics just mentioned from anyone interested therein.

THE FOUR CLASSES OF MEMBERSHIP.

We have provided in our by-laws for four classes of memberships. Class A are growers who belong to an allied trade association, carrying on co-operative advertising on the percentage plan, where 25 per cent of their entire collections are turned over to this organization for national advertising, these growers by virtue of such payments automatically become members of this Association. Ninety per cent of such funds are set aside for national advertising.

Growers who are members of some district growers' organization and become members of this Association by their district paying the sum of 50 cents per 1,000 square feet of ground area covered with glass owned or operated by them, are placed in Class B.

Class C includes growers who are not members of either of the above two named organizations, but who can become members of the National Flower Growers' Association by paying the sum of $2 per 1000 square feet of ground covered with glass owned or operated by them and paid into this Association. Seventy-five per cent of such sum is set aside for national advertising.

Associate members come in Class D. Firms who are not active or voting members of this Association and who are not florists, yet who are contributing to national publicity through this organization, may become associate members. Ninety per cent of such sum is set aside for national advertising.

You will note from the above classes that from three out of the four a large percentage is set aside for national publicity. This proves that national advertising will be one of the main factors in our work, which is as it should be, and with such a programme there is no doubt but what every grower in the country should join this organization in one of the three classes for growers and thereby assist in the plan for the advancement and progress of our business. Any growers of flowers, flowering and ornamental greenhouse plants grown for commercial purposes, are eligible to become members of this Association and are herewith kindly invited to join.

What Fertilizer Studies Have Taught Us

Address by Dr. P. A. Lehenbauer, of the Division of Floriculture, Illinois State University, before the Illinois State Florists' Association, Urbana, March 8-9, 1921.

There are, in a general way, two groups of materials which we add to soil in order to make it more productive. These two groups are: 1, natural manures; 2, chemical fertilizers. When we add fertilizers of any kind to the soil, we do one or both of two things: 1, we add to the soil, substances which affect the physical properties of the soil; 2, we add to the soil chemical substances which are food materials for the plant. These two requirements are the only ones which we expect of fertilizers. Natural manures in part fulfill both of these requirements; chemical fertilizers, only one. Farmyard manures improve the physical character of soils: a, by making soils that are clayey and compact more open and porous, so that the water and air can penetrate more freely, and b, by making soils that are light and sandy more compact, by filling up the open spaces. It thus enables light soil to absorb and retain more water.

In addition to the important effects of manures on the physical structure of soils, they furnish also food materials for plants. Chemical fertilizers have, as a rule, but one function, that of furnishing food materials for the plants. Their indirect effect is seldom useful, sometimes they may even be harmful.

AZALEA AMOENA.
Pot Decorated with White and Pink Paper and Bunch of Short Pussy Willows,

THE FOOD MATERIALS OF PLANTS.

Plants require certain chemical elements in soil for food materials. All told there are only seven soil elements that are necessary. A number of these are ordinarily present in soil in sufficient quantities, so that of the seven essential elements only three are found in our soils in insufficient quantities. These three elements are: a, nitrogen; b, phosphorus; c, potassium. We will omit potassium in this discussion for it too is not ordinarily a limiting factor.

NITROGEN, ITS SOURCE AND AVAILABILITY.

When we say that a fertilizer is in an available form we mean that it is in a form that can be used by the plant directly. It is soluble in water. When we say that a fertilizer is in the unavailable form we mean that it cannot be used by plants directly, but that it must undergo certain changes in soil before it can be taken up by the plant. A fertilizer in available form can be taken up and used by the plant immediately; one in unavailable form cannot be used immediately, but must first go through a gradual process of decay in the soil.

Let us now take up some of the fertilizers which furnish nitrogen. The one most commonly used is barnyard or stable manure. Stable manure varies in composition. It contains large amounts of nitrogen and in addition it contains phosphorus and potassium. All three of these elements are used by plants. A ton of stable manure consists approximately of 75 per cent (1500 pounds) of water and 25 per cent (500 pounds) of dry matter. All the fertilizing material of course is in the dry matter. The dry matter in one ton of average mixed stable manure contains approximately 10 pounds of nitrogen, five pounds of phosphoric acid (2.2 pounds phosphorus), and 10 pounds of potash (8.3 pounds potassium).

Natural manures, therefore, contain the three chemical elements most needed by plants. However, natural manures do not meet the entire demands of plants. They fall short from two viewpoints:

1. The fertility elements contained in them are not in proper proportion. The amount of nitrogen is excessive relative to the amount of phosphorus and potash. If they are used in sufficient quantities to meet the needs of phosphorus, there is a waste in nitrogen. In other words, there is not enough phosphorus present.

2. The constituents contained in natural manures are not in sufficiently available form to provide for a quick and continuous growth. In order to get a quick response on the part of the plant very large quantities must be applied and this again results in a waste of nitrogen.

FRESH MANURE VERSUS ROTTED MANURE.

Rotted manure contains more plant food materials per ton than does fresh manure. This is because fresh manure shrinks in bulk during the decomposition process—a ton of the former will shrink to one-half or two-thirds of a ton of the latter. However, certain other changes take place during the decomposition process which affect very much its fertilizing qualities. Fresh manure contains, as a rule, much soluble and, hence, available nitrogen. During the decomposition process a large per cent of this soluble nitrogen is lost by leaching. From one-fourth to one-half of the soluble nitrogen may be lost by leaching and by passing into the air in another form. Another part of the nitrogen is changed during the decomposition process from the soluble to the insoluble form. Therefore, well rotted manure contains very little if any active nitrogen.

The phosphorus compounds are affected in a different way during the decaying process. They are changed from the insoluble form to the soluble form. Since phosphorus compounds do not leach out readily, there is no loss, as there is in the case of the nitrogen.

Rotted manure, therefore, is a more evenly balanced combination of plant food materials. Generally speaking, the phosphorus is available to a larger extent than in fresh manure. The nitrogen, however, is present in a less available condition. There is a relatively larger amount of phosphorus and relatively smaller amount of nitrogen present than in fresh manure.

NITROGEN OF MANURES IN 3 FORMS.

Natural manures contain nitrogen in three forms: a, organic nitrogen; b, ammonia; c, nitrates. The organic nitrogen, that is, the nitrogen found in the straw and other vegetable matter, cannot be used by the plant directly as food. This must first decay and change into other forms.

One of the products of this decay is ammonia. Ammonia is readily soluble in water, or as a gas it passes off quickly into the air. In this form nitrogen is readily lost. Plants do not depend upon ammonia for their nitrogen, in fact it is believed that very little ammonia is used by plants. The ammonia which is formed during the process of decomposition of the manure is changed into the third form, the nitrate. Nitrates are the chief source of nitrogen for plants and, therefore, the most important form of nitrogen compound.

Natural manures, therefore, in order to be available to plants for food materials must pass through these stages of decay. This process of decay depends upon conditions which are variable. The quality and condition of the manure, the kind of soil, the temperature, the soil moisture, all enter into the process. Therefore, keeping in mind this variable but necessary process of decay and also the more or less unbalanced ration of elements in manure, it is, from the standpoint of economy as well as results, a good practice to supplement natural manures with the so-called artificial manures.

We must remember that nitrogen is the most expensive of all the fertilizing elements. This is true because the amounts ordinarily available in nature are small, because it is the element of the soil which is most heavily used by plants and because it is the most elusive, since it changes sooner or later into some form that is easily lost to soil and plant.

DRIED BLOOD AS A NITROGEN FERTILIZER.

One of the best supplements of natural manures is dried blood. It is one of the most concentrated, and one of the richest in nitrogen of the organic nitrogen-bearing fertilizing materials. Red dried blood is uniform in composition; it contains 13 to 14 per cent nitrogen. The market product is standardized and guaranteed to contain a certain amount of nitrogen. Black dried blood is less concentrated and less uniform in composition, and due to less careful methods of preparation. It contains from six to 10 per cent nitrogen and sometimes as much as four per cent phosphoric acid.

Dried blood is one of the best organic fertilizers because its physical character is such that decay in the soil is very rapid. Dried blood is not immediately available to plants, it cannot be taken up directly by the roots, but it must first decay and change into the nitrate form. However, under favorable conditions of moisture and temperature this decay is rapid and the nitrogen thus becomes available after a short period of time.

If we represent the availability of one of our most available forms of chemical fertilizers, as nitrate of soda, by 100, the availability of dried blood would be approximately 65 or 70. On this same basis the availability of average rotted barn manure would be approximately 25 to 35. This shows the manner in which dried blood is a good supplement of natural manures. Dried blood supplies the plant with nitrogen quickly, it makes for a rapid and continuous growth by making up the deficiencies of natural manures.

PHOSPHORUS FERTILIZERS.

We will now discuss another class of fertilizers, those which supply phosphorus for the plant. Plants must have phosphorus. This element is needed in the formation of all young cells, such as are found in the young root tips and in developing flower buds. Nitrogen and phosphorus are equally essential and both are, therefore, important from the standpoint of fertilizers.

It is important that we understand the terms used for the various kinds of fertilizers containing phosphorus. The materials used as phosphorus fertilizers are of two kinds, the mineral phosphates and the organic phosphates.

The mineral phosphates are obtained by grinding rock which contains phosphorus in quantity. Rock phosphate contains the phosphorus in chemical combination with calcium. Chemically it is known as tri-calcium phosphate. The important fact to remember is that rock phosphate is practically insoluble in water, one part requiring for solution approximately 50,000 parts of pure water. In the soil it is somewhat more soluble, this depending on the presence of other substances. Because of its low solubility, rock phosphate is not readily available to plants.

In order to make rock phosphate soluble, and hence available, it is treated with sulphuric acid. The sulphuric acid acts chemically on the rock phosphate and forms two substances, acid phosphate and gypsum. This mixture is sold as a fertilizer under the name of acid phosphate or super-phosphate. Acid phosphate is not found naturally but is to be had only as a manufactured product. One hundred pounds of purchased acid phosphate contain approximately 46 pounds of actual acid phosphate and 54 pounds of gypsum. The important fact to remember concerning acid phosphate is that it is soluble in water. One part dissolves in 100 parts of water. Not only is it soluble in water but it is also available to plants.

Acid phosphate is not a completely stable compound. It has the characteristic of changing, under certain conditions, into what is known as the reverted form. In this form it is less soluble. However, it is still available to a high degree and this can still be taken up by plants.

Let me call to your attention at this time a difference between the soluble nitrogen compounds and the soluble acid phosphate. Nitrogen, when applied to the soil in soluble form, remains soluble and in this condition readily leaches from the soil. A great waste may result, therefore, if too large quantities are applied. With soluble phosphates the danger of loss or waste is not great. If applied in too large quantities, soluble phosphates tend to become insoluble, or to revert, as we ordinarily say. Acid phosphate does not leach out of the soil.

EXPERIMENTS WITH ACID PHOSPHATE.

We have been carrying on some experiments with the view of determining the results that may be obtained by the use of acid phosphate in rose and carnation soil. The results of a three-year test with roses, and a one-year test with carnations are given in tabular form below. A complete account of the method employed in the experiments will be published later in bulletin form.

The tables below show some striking results. The application of acid phosphate resulted in increased production for each variety and the increase is consistent, in the case of the roses, for three successive years. A total of 1152 rose plants and 1440 carnation plants were used in the experiment. The benches of the two houses in which the work was conducted were divided into sections, 16 rose plants and 20 carnation plants growing in each section of the two houses respectively. All sections of each house received the same treatment except that each alternate section received one application of acid phosphate, while the remaining sections received no acid phosphate.

BONE PHOSPHATE.

Another form in which phosphorus occurs, and which is used as a fertilizer, is bone meal. The phosphorus of bone is in combination with organic matter and differs in this respect from the phosphorus compounds already discussed. Good bone meal should contain on the average about 22 per cent phosphoric acid. In addition, it contains about four per cent of nitrogen. Steamed bone contains relatively more phosphoric acid, from 28 to 30 per cent, but only from one to two per cent nitrogen.

Many florists use bone as a fertilizer. It is unquestionably a good fertilizing material, for it contains much phosphorus and it is, therefore, a valuable source of phosphoric acid. However, bone is not soluble and the phosphorus it contains is not in a form which is immediately available to plants. Bone must decay before the phosphorus becomes available. Steamed bone is more directly useful to plants than is the raw bone meal, because, since it is in a finer state of division, it decays more rapidly. The rate of decay, as in the case of stable manure, depends upon variable factors, such as moisture, temperature, etc. Bone, then, differs from acid phosphate as a fertilizer in the fact that the former is soluble and immediately available to plants, while the latter is less soluble and not immediately available.

We have carried out an experiment to test the comparative efficiencies of acid phosphate and steamed bone meal in the flower production of roses. The results are given in tabular form below. The applications of the two fertilizers were such that approximately equal quantities of phosphorus were applied. Acid phosphate was applied at the rate of 40 pounds per 100 square feet. In order to obtain the same money value at the relative cost prices of the two fertilizers, 21.4 pounds of bone were applied to each 100 square feet.

It should be remembered that the results are for one year only. The differences in production would probably be less striking during the second and third years. However, for the first year acid phosphate is the more efficient, as can be readily seen by studying the data. Under the conditions of this experiment, steamed bone is less efficient in the production of roses than is acid phosphate. A detailed report of this work will be published in bulletin form in the near future.

MARKET CONTINUES FIRM.

Trade conditions are in a most satisfactory condition, and funeral work in particular has been heavy. Flowers for social affairs have fallen off considerably now that Easter is approaching. Roses of all varieties, with the possible exception of Hadley and Hoosier Beauty, are still on the short side of the market with not enough stock arriving to fill all requirements. American Beauties are now very good. The stock is of excellent color and very clean. Mrs. Chas. A. Russell and Premier are in strong demand at firm prices. Ophelia is none too plentiful and offerings clean up quickly. Mrs. Aaron Ward is the most plentiful of its color. Very few Cecil Brunners are to be had at any price. The cattleya crop has fallen off to a great extent and only a small cut is being received at present. Lily of the valley is in fairly good supply and is rapidly resuming its old place as a corsage flower, now that cattleyas are not so plentiful. Gardenias are arriving more freely than for a long time and stock moves quickly. Lilium Giganteum is coming along freely. There is every indication that there will be a bounteous supply of cut Giganteums for Easter. There has been a marked increase in the sweet pea supply due to favorable weather. The prices remain about the same as last quoted. Much improvement in stem and color are noticed. Daffodils are in large supply with many new varieties offered. Prices on this flower show a sharp decline over last week. Roman hyacinth stock is plentiful as also are tulips. The former are in strong demand for funeral work. Freesias still continue plentiful with the demand steady. Some iris continue to add to the list of spring flowers. There is a heavy supply of violets and some difficulty is being experienced in moving the cut, due to the fact that the shipping demand has fallen off considerably. There is a healthy demand for carnations and prices remain fairly steady. This flower is now at its best and the stock arriving is of first grade. Flowering fruit blossoms are still being largely featured at the various stores. Cut ericas also continue in flavor. Ferns and asparagus are again in normal supply. Rambler roses in pots appeared at most of the stores, during the week, reminding the public of the near approach of Easter. Rhododendrons in numerous varieties are also coming in. Cinerarias and Primulas malacoides are also selling well as pot plants. Very few pot lilies are arriving.

NOTES.

The Retail Florists' Association held its monthly meeting, March 2. P. Vincent Matraia, chairman of the advertising committee, reported that over $3,000 was spent by his committee during the holiday season for publicity. Owing to press of business Mr. Matraia resigned as chairman of the publicity committee and M. M. Joseph was appointed to succeed him. This committee will have charge of the Easter, Mothers' day and Memorial day advertising. It is expected that the fall show will be the largest and best ever held in this city. A committee was appointed to wait on the Pacific Coast Horticultural Society with a view of securing their co-operation in holding the proposed exhibition. All profits that are realized in the show will be used exclusively for advertising purposes. P. V. Matraia was selected as chairman of the flower show committee. The proposed new wholesale flower market for the white growers was explained to the members in detail by P. V. Matraia and all members of the organization were invited to become members in the new stock company, which will shortly be organized to purchase the proposed site. No member will be permitted to own more than $5,000 worth of stock in the new market. Mr. Matraia reported that over $75,000 had already been pledged by various members and growers and that the success of the venture was already assured. For obvious reasons the site of the new market is being withheld.

The regular monthly meeting of the Pacific Coast Horticultural Society was held March 5. A representative gathering of all the prominent plant and cut flower growers was in attendance. Several new members were admitted to membership. The Society voted to hold a Ladies' night in May. H. Plath spoke in favor of the Society holding a flower show some time this coming year. P. V. Matraia, representing the Retail Florists' Association, then outlined to the members the plan of the proposed show to be given by his association next fall and asked for their support, which was cheerfully given, and the chair appointed the following to serve: Frank Pelicano, Martin Poss, Victor Ferrari, C. Holmes, H. Plath, V. Podesta, J. A. Axell, John C. Carbone, A. Rose and John Gill. This committee will meet with the exhibition committee of the Retail Florists' Association at an early date. James T. Lynch, secretary of the Retail Florists' Association, was called upon and spoke of the plans for the proposed exhibition. J. Mischon, who has charge of the greenhouses at the University of Nevada, Reno, was a visitor during the meeting and was made a member of the Society.

A three-day wild flower show under direction of the National Wild Flower Conservation League, will be held at the St. Francis hotel beginning April 28. The exhibition is an annual affair in this city. Several elaborate features are being planned. Luther Burbank, Santa Rosa, has promised to enter a large exhibit, as have many others in the trade.

R. Dinucci, proprietor of the Belmont Florists, has purchased a large ranch in Sonoma county and plans to spend his week-ends there in the future. Business at his store has been most satisfactory all season.

John Gill, Berkeley, who is a large grower of field roses, says the spring business has been so heavy that he is entirely sold out of many varieties. He says sales are much in advance of former years.

A wide area of uprooted trees are floating in the ocean off the northern California coast forming a menace to shipping and presenting an unusual sight to passengers on passing steamers.

John Carbone's greenhouses at Berkeley are producing a fine cut of gardenias these days. He is still able to cut quite a lot of cattleyas also.

STOCK SELLING READILY.

Owing to rather unfavorable weather conditions, trade among the retail florists here was rather quiet during the week. Not many receptions were scheduled. A large number of funerals took place during the week. The ordinary run of business was somewhat limited and orders were generally small. There is a good supply of flowers of all kinds in the local market and the quality is generally excellent. The varieties selling the best are carnations, sweet peas, roses, jonquils and violets. Lilies are now arriving and are in fairly good demand. Prospects are good for an extra large supply of Easter lilies for the Easter season and florists are making arrangements for a heavy trade. Pot plants are selling fairly well as spring is now at hand and many are looking forward to considerable decorations of that character. Prices are holding firmly at former levels. Flowers are more plentiful as the result of a large amount of sunshine which has prevailed, although the end of the week was quite rainy. This affected trade on Saturday which was more quiet than usual.

THE FLORISTS' IMPORTANCE IN WEDDINGS.

The florist occupies a very important place in the preparation for weddings. This is shown by the fact that after a wedding date is decided upon, the florist is probably the first called in, after the dressmaker and the milliner. He is asked as to the proper decorations, for an elaborate wedding and is armed with all of the information. He tells the bride's family, who is to furnish the floral decorations for the house and who is to furnish the flowers and corsages for the bride, the maids of honor, and the best man and ushers. He also informs the family what presents should be given to the bridesmaid's and the best man, as well as ushers. Florists here have been exceptionally busy in this line recently, as quite a few weddings are scheduled for May and June.

FLORAL DEALERS' AND GROWERS' ASS'N.

A meeting was held at the headquarters of the Fifth Avenue Floral Co., March 16 to form a preliminary organization, of the Columbus Floral Dealers and Growers' Association. The committee in charge of the meeting consisted of Edward Ludwig, Carl H. Jagsch and Walter Stephens. Much interest was shown in the affairs of the new organization and a majority of the 25 retailers and growers of the city were present. J. W. L.

BUSINESS IN GOOD CONDITION.

March business is fully up to that of a year ago and prices are firm. Everything points to a very good Easter business. Lily of the valley is of good quality, but is not very plentiful. Pot plants in bloom sell well and the bulbous stock helps to fill out the shortage of roses. The florists' business suffered less than any other during the last six months. Lilies are good this year and sell for 50 cents each.

NOTES.

The undertakers are soon to close on Sundays, and have asked the city council to pass an ordinance to prohibit the holding of any funeral on Sunday.

LARGE SUPPLY ON MARKET.

The cut flower trade is quiet at present for there are very few social functions and no weddings of any size. There have been no big demands for funeral work. Spring flowers are here in oversupply, especially daffodils and tulips. Carnations are excellent, though the prices have dropped. There are some good lily of the valley, cattleyas and orchids arriving now.

NOTES.

Geo. T. Boucher has some attractive display windows of pot tulips and baby primroses and cinerarias.

Wm. L. Kellar is spending a few weeks in Denver, Colo., visiting his son, Wilfred.

The Rochester Floral Co. has some excellent pots of tulips, hyacinths and primulas.

A large quantity of bulbous stock is being disposed of by Salter Bros.

James Sproab, of Schlegel & Sons, is turning out artistic funeral work.

C. W. Curtis is marketing some excellent cinerarias and genistas.

H. E. Wilson is showing fine pots of deutzia this early.

Tri-City Florists' Club.

The Tri-City Florists' Club members and their families were delightfully entertained at the Davenport Outing Club, March 10, by Victor de Lascaille, Davenport, Ia. The elaborate dinner was enhanced by artistic table decorations. Flowers in great profusion were everywhere in evidence. Especially unique were dainty corsage favors for the ladies. Hand painted place cards aided in seating the guests at the numerous tables illuminated with candles. Nor were the little tots slighted. All the cunning creatures their young minds associate with Easter, awaited them. Dancing concluded the programme.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, C. Sorensen, Moline, Ill.; Vice Presidents, R. De Rycke, Moline, Ill.; John Tearney, Davenport, Ia., and M. E. Terry, Rock Island, Ill.; Treasurer, Wm. Knees, Sr., Moline, Ill.; Recording Secretary, Wm. Knees, Jr., Moline, Ill.; Financial Secretary, L. Stapp, Rock Island, Ill.; Trustees: Wm. Goos, Bettendorf, Ia., Miss M. Tearney, Davenport, Ia., and S. A. Fidycke, Davenport, Ia.

OBITUARY.

Wm. Wilcox Barnard.

Wm. Wilcox Barnard, president and founder of the W. W. Barnard Co., Chicago, died March 10, at Los Angeles, Calif., after a protracted illness, age 65 years. The condition of his health having been reported greatly improved recently, the end came somewhat as a surprise to his many friends in the trade. He had a sudden attack and was taken to the hospital two days before his death. The remains were brought home from Los Angeles and funeral services were held at the Bethany Union church, Chicago, March 16, with interment in Mount Greenwood cemetary.

Mr. Barnard was born in Chicago and was a pioneer in the garden seed business of that city, his firm ranking as one of the three largest there in that line at time of his death. At the age of 18, he entered the employ of the D. S. Heffrom Seed Co. and in 1880 joined the office force of the Hiram Sibley Seed Co. In 1886, he purchased the garden seed department of the latter concern and started in business under the firm name of W. W. Barnard & Co., and in 1905 consolidated with the Goodwin-Harries Co., incorporating as the W. W. Barnard Co. For many years the business was carried on at 108-110 West Kinzie street and in more recent years at 231-235 West Madison street. The firm's garden pea seed station and warehouses are at Reeseville, Wis., and the onion set warehouse is at Dalton, Ill.

Mr. Barnard was unmarried and is survived by three sisters, Miss Alice S. Barnard, Mrs. G. G. Howe and Mrs. George Graham. Ralph B. Howe, a nephew, who has been active in the business during his uncle's illness, will continue in charge of the family interests.

W. D. Chandler.

W. D. Chandler, a pioneer florist of Chicago, died at his home in that city, 2236 W. Monroe street, March 14, aged 87 years. Mr. Chandler was born in Wentworth, N. H., and came to Chicago from Massachusetts in 1876. A year later he opened a flower store on the corner of State and Randolph streets, erecting a one-story building, 12 by 20 feet, of wood and glass, on one of the vacant lots, which still remain there, grim memorials of the big fire of 1871. Here he remained until the site was required for the Music Hall building, when he moved to the next vacant lot, 241 Wabash avenue. This lot, being wanted for the Weber Music hall he again moved his building to another nearby lot, 281 the same thoroughfare. Being treated in a similar manner again, he located at 309 Wabash avenue. Once more, the same cause demanding removal, and he went to the other side of the same street, 312. In due time this lot was needed as part of the site of the present Auditorium building. There being still one more vacant lot in that part of the city, he moved to 49 E. Van Buren street, between Wabash avenue and State street, directly across the alley from the present Rothschild building, where the old structure did duty in its way as a flower store until 1900. This marks the passing of that kind of flower store in Chicago, and Mr. Chandler then entered the rubber stamp and stationery business, in which he continued until his retirement some seven years ago, when he located at Dearborn and Monroe streets.

Mrs. Chandler, two sons, Robert and Edwin, and a daughter, Mrs. Sarah Strail, survive. The funeral took place March 16, with burial at Rose Hill cemetery.

The Late Charles R. Kimberlin.

The late Charles R. Kimberlin, San Jose, Calif., whose death was noted in our issue of March 12, page 371, was well known, not only in his native state, but throughout the United States and Europe, where the business interests of the firm he was connected with, extends. His father, the late J. M. Kimberlin, was one of the pioneer settlers of California, coming to that state in 1852, and eventually making Santa Clara his home. Charles R. Kimberlin was born there in 1864, and resided in that city until three years ago, when he moved to San Jose.

Mr. Kimberlin was a member of the Methodist church, and was identified with the Woodmen of the World and the Fraternal Aid Society.

Albany, N. Y.

William McGinn officiated as secretary at the March meeting of the Florists' Club for the first time. Mr. McGinn was elected at a special meeting of the club held on the night of February 17, last. Nineteen members were present at the monthly meeting and the new secretary reported $434.82 in cash and Liberty bonds in the treasury. Thomas F. Tracy, a former president, acted as chairman of the meeting in the place of President Samuel Hansen, who was unable to be present on account of the recent death of his brother. The club accepted the invitation of President Hansen to have the April meeting at his place, 537 Eighth avenue, Troy.

J. G. Hills, a former president of the State Vegetable Growers' Association, was the toastmaster at the third annual dinner of the Troy Market Gardeners' Association held at Smith's Tavern, Loudonville, February 24. Commissioner George E. Hogue of the State Department of Farms and Markets, Assemblyman James M. Gaffers, L. W. Crittenden, Albany county farm bureau manager, and Attorney William T. Byrne of the Association were the principal speakers. They dwelt upon legislation affecting the business and methods of improving the Association. About 170 were present.

Make Easter deliveries, where practical before March 26, to avoid possible bad weather later.

CUT FLOWER packages, with special delivery stamp attached, are taken at all railroad station postoffices and go forward by next train. When mailed in this manner, all local transportation delays are avoided.

VERY few retailers appreciate the advertising value of the little window cards, calling attention to their special features. These cost but a trifle, but the interest they create in the articles described, is of the greatest benefit.

THE Department of Agriculture announces the development of a method for extracting phosphoric acid from rock by heating with fuel oil. The production cost is 15 per cent of the value of the product compared with 22 per cent, the cheapest at present.

INTENSIVE use of greenhouse space by careful selection and preparation, having a new crop well advanced to immediately occupy the empty benches, marks the successful grower. Catch crops catch the dollars that would otherwise be lost.

Amaryllis Show.

Secretary Wallace formally opened the amaryllis show at the greenhouses of the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., March 15, when 11,000 plants were displayed.

The parent plants of the present collections were imported from England about 12 years ago.

The F. T. D. in Florida.

ED. AMERICAN FLORIST:

A member of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association at Miami, in good standing, complains seriously of an unfair article printed in the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Journal, reflecting on all south Florida florists, and says that although written protests have been made to the editors, no retraction has been made or notice taken of the protest. The writer has visited several flower stores in Palm Beach vicinity and Miami the past month, and feels safe in assuring northern members of the satisfactory filling of telegraph orders in all of Florida east coast and I believe west coast as well.

J. C. VAUGHAN.

[No criticism reflecting indiscriminately on all the florists of an entire state, without definite charges, can possibly be a just one.—ED.]

Leaf Mold.

ED. AMERICAN FLORIST:

With leaf mold close enough to my greenhouse to make the cost very low, will you please advise me if it could be used in proportions of one-half or one-fourth with the other part composed of "river mud" in beds and benches for chrysanthemums and sweet peas? Last fall, having just completed my house, and not having time to prepare a soil of sod and cow manure composted, I used "river mud"; one part of manure to six parts of mud, and by putting on several liberal applications of lime, succeeded in growing some very good sweet peas. These have just commenced to bloom and may, of course, fail yet, but so far they look good, have plenty of buds and the vines are vigorous.

Virginia. T. J. H.

Leaf mold when properly prepared by being well rotted with manure is good material to use with the compost for growing pot plants, but it is not so good to use in the bench soil for a crop that has to remain in the soil, for as long a time as the chrysanthemum or sweet pea. It is good to lighten up the soil, but it does not have the staying qualities of fresh sod loam. We who live in the prairie country do not have "river mud" convenient for our use, so cannot tell what results would come from the use of a compost made up in the proportions of leaf mold and river mud as stated in your inquiry; but if you can get good well-rotted, porous sod soil and cow manure, there is nothing better, and it is advised to try out the leaf mold compost on a small scale for a starter, to be sure the results obtained make it worth while.

Plant Quarantine No. 37.

Imported Plants Must Be Inspected At Time of Packing and Washed Free from Earth.

The Federal Horticultural board has found it necessary to cable the following instructions to foreign inspection officers:

> Hereafter inspection must be made at time of packing and must certify freedom from pests and that roots are washed free from earth.

The requirement of inspection at the time of packing has been necessitated by the abundant infestation with brown-tail moth and other insect pests found notably in shipments of rose and fruit stocks from France, indicating perhaps that the inspection had been of a field nature earlier in the season and did not necessarily apply to the material at the time of packing. News statements have already been issued relative to this situation. The actual findings of brown-tail moth nests for example up to this time have amounted to 86 nests, substantially double the infestations found in the previous eight-year period under the quarantine. A radical improvement in the French inspection service and in the condition of imported stocks must be made or the department will be compelled to place an embargo on French importations.

The requirement that roots of ornamentals and other plants shall be washed free from earth has been necessitated by the various degrees of compliance by foreign exporters with this provision of the regulations. Many importations have come in with practically no effort at freeing the plants from earth. In aggravated cases the earth came in cubes as lifted with the spade. All shipments which have shown radical failure of observance of this requirement of the regulations have been and will be refused entry. To properly enforce this requirement of the regulations and to leave no chance for question, hereafter all rooted plants and plant roots other than clean bulbs will be required to be washed free from earth before shipment from the country of export, and to be so certified by the foreign inspector along with the certification of freedom from insect pests and plant diseases.

That such washing of plants is a perfectly possible proceeding has been frequently demonstrated on the part of shipments, notably from Japan. These shipments have included such plants as azaleas, for example, which have a very dense, fibrous root system. Large shipments of such plants have been received with the roots thoroughly washed and re-bound in bunches of moist sphagnum and thus prepared these plants have come through in perfect condition; in much better condition, in other words, than where an effort has been made to free the earth from the roots merely by shaking and then protecting them with a scanty and often indifferent packing of sphagnum or other material.

These requirements as to inspection and certification apply to all shipments from countries which have provided for inspection and certification in conformity with the requirements of the plant quarantine act; in other words, both to general and special permit material. The requirement as to freeing the roots of plants from soil by washing applies to all countries.

The authorizations which have been issued from time to time for the use of subsoil, dune sand, coral sand (Bermuda), and ground peat for the packing of bulbs is not affected by this action. Such packing is, however, not authorized for plants other than bulbs.

C. L. MARLATT,
Chairman, Federal Horticultural Board.

STOCK SELLING FAIRLY WELL.

The market does not show much change over the last two or three weeks. Stock has been plentiful and with reasonable prices, has cleaned up fairly well, several large funerals having used up the greatest part of the surplus. The supply of roses is somewhat smaller, due no doubt to the fact that the growers are preparing for Easter, and the quality is good. Easter and calla lilies have been in somewhat oversupply and at times have been hard to move. The carnation supply is about equal to the demand, and the quality of the stock is the best seen here this season. Sweet pea arrivals have been heavy and large quantities of them have been moved at prices to suit every purse. Violets are a drug on the market, and as usual at this season, the quality is not the best. Lily of the valley moves slowly, as also holds good of orchids; the latter can be bought at wholesale as low as $35.00 per hundred. Paper White narcissi are a thing of the past, and jonquils, daffodils and tulips are not near so plentiful and are bringing better prices. Mignonette, Baby primrose and calendula move slowly.

NOTES.

Members of the Florists' and Gardeners' Club visited the commercial growers and inspected the plants as offered for Easter, March 10. The morning was taken up at the ranges of The Blind Floral Co. and the John Bader Co., where the bulbous stock, rose bushes and hydrangeas are all in good shape and will be ready for Easter. Edward Blind of The Blind Floral Co., reports that his customers will not let the stock come in to bloom, but insist on it being delivered before it is ready. The members moved on to Randolph & McClements greenhouses, Stanton Heights, and found everything in the best of condition. The afternoon was spent at the Zieger range and at P. S. Randolph's, Verona. Everyone was enthusiastic about the trip and reported it one of the best ever held by the Club.

Fire broke out in the plant of Jos. N. Thomas, Greensburg, Pa., which for a while threatened the entire place, with a loss of between $5,000 and $10,000, fully covered by insurance. The Easter stock of plants were not damaged.

The stores are beginning to take on an Easter look and every one is preparing for the largest Easter in the history of the business.

The McCallum Company's basket factory is working day and night trying to get out the last minute orders for Easter numbers.

E. H. Carey, with stores at Beaver Falls and New Brighton, Pa., reports that despite the fact that most of the factories and mills in that district have closed, business has been remarkably good.

The Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co. are cutting some wonderful orchids at their plant at Barkerstown, Pa.

MARKET IN GOOD TONE.

Easter trade is expected to be good and the supply will be equal to the demand and prices will be satisfactory. The demand for cut flowers has been excellent during the past season. The spring budding stock has been in brisk demand. Roses have been moving well and the prices have been very good. Some of the dealers say that the demand has been a little greater than the supply. February brought in a better volume of trade than the corresponding month of last year, and it is expected that March will make a good showing.

The will of Julius Niednagel, for many years engaged in the floral business in this city, and well known to the trade, was broken in a trial held in the Spencer county circuit court at Rockport, Ind., on Wednesday of last week. By the breaking of the will the three younger children of Mr. Niednagel will share in the estate that is valued at more than $100,000.

Tausendschoen—Thousand Beauties

This was our finest and most popular Climber last year, and this year our stock is large and the plants are much finer.

Trained plants, fans, globular and pyramidal shapes, $2, $2.50, $3, $3.50, $4, $5, $6, $7.50 and $10 each.

Baskets, $10, $12.50 and $15 each.
Umbrellas, $6, $7.50 and $10 each.

Excelsa—New Climbing Rose

This variety is known as the Red Dorothy Perkins. The color is brilliant and it is bound to prove the most popular red Rambler. We offer splendid plants in 6-in., 7-in. and 8-in. pots, $2, $2.50, $3.50, $4, $5, $6, $7.50 and $10 each.

Baskets of Excelsa, $10, $12.50 and $15 each.

Umbrellas, $6, $7.50 and $10 each.

Rosiere—New

Dark sport of Tausendschoen. Very beautiful. A great improvement on the popular Thousand Beauties (Tausendschoen), and consequently a welcome addition to this section. While it has the same habit of growth and general characteristics as Thousand Beauties, the color is superior—a deeper and more even shade of cerise-pink or carmine. Trained plants, fans, globular and pyramidal shapes, $2, $2.50, $3, $3.50, $4, $5, $6, $7.50 and $10 each.

Baskets, $10, $12 and $15 each.
Umbrellas, $6, $7.50 and $10 each.

Hiawatha

One of the prettiest of all the climbing Roses. Deep red with golden disc in center of flower.

Trained plants at $1.50, $2, $2.50, $3, $4, $5 and $6 each.

Baskets, $10, $12 and $15 each.
Umbrellas, $6 and $7.50 each.

Paul's Scarlet Climber

One of the most promising climbing Roses yet sent out. Vivid scarlet, semi-double flowers of medium size, produced in large clusters and in great profusion. The color does not burn or fade. This Rose has been exhibited extensively in Europe and received numerous awards. 5- and 6-in. pots, trained plants, $1.50, $2, $2.50 and $3 each.

Hybrid Roses

Including Ophelia, Donald McDonald, My Maryland and Mrs. John Dunlop. Very fine plants in bud and flower for Easter sales.

6-in. pots at $15 and $18 per doz.

AZALEA HINODIGIRI

Bright red in color and one of the finest and best keeping Azaleas ever sent out. We have never been able to meet the demand at Easter. The variety has the added advantage over Indica Azaleas that it is absolutely hardy.

5-in. pots, for baskets, $18 and $24 per doz.
5½-in. pots, $2.50 and $3 each.
6- and 7-in. pots, fine plants, $3.50, $4 and $5 each.
8- and 10-in. pots, $6, $7.50 and $10 each.

GENISTA RACEMOSA

The finest stock of Genistas ever offered. Every plant grown cool, exceptionally well flowered and shapely.

4-in. pots, $6 doz. 5-in. pots, $9 doz.
6-in. pots, $12 and $15 per doz.
7-in. pots, $18 and $24 per doz.

Also some very good standard and bush forms in larger sizes at $2.50, $3 and $4.

GOLDEN CALLAS

6-in. pots at $1.25 each.
8-in. pots and Ferns at $5 each.

LILIUM GIGANTEUM

Suggest placing orders early to avoid disappointment, such as was experienced last year.

6-in. pots, with from 4 to 10 flowers.
8-in. pans, with from 12 to 25 flowers.
Cut Lilies, 25c per bud and bloom.

GARDENIA VEITCHII

We have an exceptionally fine stock for Easter flowering. There is not anything finer than the small sizes for basket work.

3-in. pots, $5 per doz., $35 per 100.
4-in. pots, $9 and $12 per doz.
8-in. Azalea pots, $2.50 and $3 each.

LILY OF THE VALLEY

5-in. pots, 15 pips, $18 per doz.

CROTONS

Immediate Delivery.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

Owing to the very great increase in price of all materials used in packing of plants, we find it necessary to make a small charge for same, as follows, much lower than the percentage plan:

Full size cases	$2.00 each
Three-quarter size cases	1.50 each
Small size cases	.50 each

TERMS: CASH WITH ORDER: Kindly send sufficient to cover the entire bill. We do not make shipments C.O.D. unless remittance has been made on account to guarantee acceptance. This does not apply to regular customers. REMITTANCES: Remittances should be made by money order or New York drafts. If money is sent, letter should be registered. All prices quoted in this list are strictly net. SHIPPING INSTRUCTIONS: Give your name, post office, county and state and the name of your nearest express office to which shipment is to be made. We have always made it prominent in our printed terms that our goods are sold F. O. B. cars at the point of shipment and are at the purchaser's risk in transit. Because of the present unsettled conditions we wish to emphasize still further that we do not guarantee safe delivery. The ownership of all goods sold by us passes to the purchaser on delivery by us to the carrier, and the issuing of the receipt by the carrier ends our responsibility. Any claims for damages should be made promptly to the agent at the point of delivery. CORRESPONDENCE: We endeavor to answer all correspondence promptly, but owing to the pressure of business, we ask that all requests be clearly and concisely stated. ERRORS: Keep a copy of your order. We aim to have our orders correctly filled. When we are at fault we shall make satisfactory correction.

Phlox Suffruticosa Miss Lingard

This is the early flowering hardy white Phlox which is so useful for cutting, coming into flower late in May or early in June and continuing to bloom throughout the season.

We offer strong 3 inch pot plants, $1.50 per dozen; $10.00 per 100; $90.00 per 1000.

Oriental Poppies

There has been a great scarcity of this showy popular perennial, which has prompted us to make early fall propagations and we are now in position to supply a thrifty lot of good plants from 3 inch pots of the following choice varieties:

Mrs. Perry. Beautiful salmon-rose.

Oriflamme. Large georgeous orange-scarlet.

Perry's White. Pure satiny white, with crimson-maroon blotch at base of each petal.

Price: thrifty 3 inch pots, $1.50 per dozen; $10.00 per 100.

PLACE YOUR EASTER ORDERS NOW.

Everyone who depends upon this market or vicinity for his or her supply of cut flowers and plants for Easter should place all orders as early as possible, for everything points to a cleanup notwithstanding the reports from some sources that certain items will be plentiful. Trade has been somewhat quiet with most of the retail florists for several months, naturally some are not in any great hurry to place large orders for either cut flowers or plants, not knowing what to expect. Easter has always been a big flower day and there is no reason why this year should be an exception. Some of the large local retailers are buying heavily and will have a wonderful supply of stock to offer for Easter judging from the amount of plants set aside for them at the greenhouse establishments. Those who are not looking for brisk business will be caught napping at the eleventh hour unless they protect their supply to a certain extent, for everything points to a general cleanup early in plants, with some of the large dealers wishing they could cut orders now. The scarcity of plants will naturally create a greater demand for cut flowers, which many of the growers report will not be any too plentiful at best, so everyone should place their order immediately so as to protect their supply. Business has been rather quiet the past week but some improvement has been noticed in both the local and out-of-town demand. Stock is plentiful in almost all lines with American Beauty roses having a good call. Mrs. Chas. A. Russell, Columbia and Premier are holding their own considering the general market conditions and the other varieties of roses are moving right along. Carnations are in good supply. Lilies and callas are seen at some of the stores in quantity. Violets are plentiful. Lily of the valley, orchids and gardenias are in large enough supply to meet the demand. Sweet peas are having a good call. White and blue daisies, pansies, tulips, jonquils, freesias, mignonettes and all other miscellaneous seasonable stock is available.

DAYLIGHT SAVING STARTS MARCH 27.

Daylight saving, approved by referendum last November, goes into effect at 2 a. m. Easter Sunday, March 27, when clocks and watches will be set ahead one hour. The railroads are already making up their "summer" time tables. The suburban trains will operate on central standard time, as last year, but trains will be scheduled approximately one hour earlier.

NOTES.

Zech & Mann are booking a large number of orders for lilies for Easter and new ones are arriving in every mail.

WIETOR BROS.

30 East Randolph St., L. D. Phone Randolph 2081. CHICAGO

Mrs. Henderson, wife of A. Henderson, Chicago, is visiting their son, James, at Boston, Mass., who is attending the School of Technology in that city, where he is making a fine record in his architectural studies, repeating in recent examinations the honors of last year, when he was first in his class.

An unusual feature of the meeting of the midwest branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, held at the Art Institute March 12, was the presentation in actual colors on steropticon slides of the Arnold Arboretum of Boston, Mass. Loring Underwood of Boston, was the lecturer.

Mrs. H. N. Bruns and daughter, Madeline, who have been enjoying a well earned vacation at Hot Springs, Ark., are expected home for Easter. Mr. Bruns says business, wholesale and retail is good.

Chief Gardener Koch, of Garfield Park, will make an Easter display of 5,000 Darwin tulips, showing all the best kinds in the conservatory, also a splendid collection of rare daffodils.

Ernst Wienhoeber, who has been resting up in Wisconsin for several weeks, returned last week to help in the preparations for the Easter rush.

Robert Arthur Meers, secretary and founder of the first horticultural society, died last week and was buried in Graceland cemetery March 10.

Vaughan's Seed Store reports liberal fill-in orders from seedsmen on all spring bulbs and flower seeds.

P. Hecht has opened a store at 61 West Randolph street which should prove to be a good stand.

Albert Koehler of the American Bulb Co. has his new car, a Buick, ready for the Easter parade.

C. S. Claussen, the gladiolus and pickle man, and Mrs. Claussen are sojourning in California.

W. J. Smyth and family are expected home from California March 23.

C. L. Washburn says that Bassett & Washburn have their entire place at Gregg's station enclosed and that all danger of losing any stock from freezing has been eliminated. Over 50 men were busy on the roofs of their establishment since the heavy hailstorm last week.

A. E. Turner, Dancy, Wis., called on the trade here this week. He says that the early ferns called "snowbirds" will not be as good as in former years, owing to the mild winter. He is now shipping a good supply of hemlock boughs into this market.

Poehlmann Bros. Co. will be in good crop with roses and carnations for Easter, including a heavy cut of American Beauties. Cattleyas and valley will also be in large supply, for the crops are just right for this occasion.

Mrs. Strail, of A. Lange's force, has the sympathy of many friends in the loss of her father, W. D. Chandler, a pioneer florist of this city whose death is recorded in our obituary columns this week.

Wietor Bros. will be in good crop with roses and carnations for Easter, and are expecting a strong demand for both, judging from the way orders and inquiries are being received.

A. L. Vaughan & Co. are receiving a good supply of Paper White narcissi in addition to their regular line of stock, which now includes heavy shipments of southern jonquils.

Peter Reinberg will have a good cut of roses for Easter, according to Herbert Hansen, who adds that many orders have already been booked for the occasion.

The Chicago Flower Growers' Association is looking forward toward a brisk Easter business and have already booked many large orders.

The J. A. Budlong Co. is having a good call for lupines and larkspur, which are arriving in good supply at its establishment.

Frank Johnson and Eric Johnson, of the A. L. Randall Co., are expected home next week from an extended eastern trip.

Erne & Co. are showing a good supply of bulbous stock, which includes some fancy jonquils. Callas are in good supply here.

W. W. Barnard, president of the W. W. Barnard Co., died March 10. See the obituary columns for further details.

The Joseph Foerster Co. is handling a fine supply of stock, including choice lilies, which are arriving in quantity.

Kennicott Bros. Co. is handling a good supply of American Beauty roses in addition to its regular line.

Visitors: Mrs. Mazey, Minneapolis, Minn.; Henry Heinl and wife, Toledo, O.

WHOLESALE FLORISTS

30 E. Randolph Street, L. D. Phone, Randolph 6578. CHICAGO, ILL.

Chicago Florists' Club.

The regular meeting of the Chicago Florists' Club was held at the Randolph hotel, March 10, President Kohout in the chair. Applications for membership were presented as follows: Frank M. Suttle, 225 N. Michigan avenue, Edward L. Martin, 174 N. Wabash avenue, Aleck F. Gardiner, 11361 Michigan avenue, John H. Faddon, 318 Center street, W. J. Sharpe, 904 N. LaSalle street, and Oscar Anderson, Morgan Park. The auditing committee presented its annual report, stating that the books of secretary and treasurer were found to be correct.

President Kohout, as affiliated member of the Society of American Florists' executive committee, presented his account of that body's recent meeting at Washington, D. C., which was greatly appreciated. The president then called upon those present to stand in silent tribute to the late Peter Reinberg, and appointed James Morton, J. E. Pollworth and T. E. Waters a committee to prepare suitable resolutions on his death.

Chairman M. C. Wright of the committee on President Kohout's inaugural address reported progress and asked for further time, the sweeping changes recommended demanding careful consideration.

Attention having been called to the Pageant of Progress to be held here July 30 to August 14, the president appointed F. Lautenschlager, J. E. Pollworth, A. Setterberg and H. V. Swenson to represent the club in the work connected therewith.

James Morton, calling attention to recent claims of an eastern city, said one member of the club was president of three trade organizations, another president of two, while many former presidents of the Society of American Florists make their homes here.

J. E. Pollworth and Henry Wehrman gave an interesting account of the Urbana meeting of the State Florists' Association.

The principal features of the next meeting will be music and dancing with the ladies in attendance, Chairman Waters of the good-of-the-club committee in charge of arrangements.

SAGINAW, MICH.—The J. B. Goetz Sons floral store has been sold to Gustav A. Granse, former manager of the Roethke Floral Co. Henry B. Goetz and his brother will devote their entire time to their greenhouses at 2165 Mackinaw street.

STOCK SELLING VERY WELL.

Market conditions have shown no marked change, and business is in general good. Bulbous stock is beginning to slow up but carnations are taking on a firm tone. The most plentiful in bulbous stock are the daffodils, freesias, hyacinths and tulips. Roses are still arriving in goodly numbers, especially the longer grades; the shorter ones are not arriving so plentifully and consequently the longer stemmed ones do not bring what they should. Sweet peas are coming in better condition than at any time this season due to the fact that bright warm weather prevailed during last week. Calendulas are a very popular flower at this time and are arriving in large quantities and going well. Snapdragons of good quality promise ready sale because of the limited amount arriving. Calla lilies are more plentiful than Easter lilies and are selling from $15 to $20 per hundred while Easter lilies bring from $20 to $25 per hundred. Violets show the effects of the warm weather and in a few more days will be at their end. Miscellaneous stock of all kinds moves well and the same can be said of greens.

NOTES.

A record week in funeral work and weddings was had by H. W. Sheppard. Florist Telegraph Delivery Association orders in which this shop excels were plentiful.

R. H. Witterstaetter, Price Hill, has sent his first shipment of rose plants and genistas to this market, including his newest rose Rosary.

Heartfelt sympathy is extended to Irvin Bertermann, Indianapolis, Ind., who was here for the funeral of his young niece.

A good week in the sale of southern smilax and other green goods is reported by C. E. Critchell.

Do not take any fake or imitation thread, claimed to be the Meyer silkaline, or smilax threads. Be sure the name Meyer is on the end of each spool, as we find there are a lot of fake brands being put on the market to imitate our green florists' thread. Weigh up our threads and then weigh up the other parties' that you are buying from and you will notice that our threads run full two ounces of thread to the spool. Be sure and get the Meyer thread.

Gustav Adrian is shipping some excellent bulbous stock to the market.

LARGE INCREASE IN SUPPLY.

This has been another quiet week on the market. The over supply of bulbs and sweet peas have a softening effect on prices of other stock, although carnations have held up their average very well. This is explained readily by the fact that some local growers have been shipping about 60 per cent of their cut to the New York market. Whether they get better prices, or do it to keep a good average here is problematical, if the latter they are getting results. Bulbs are about where they were a week ago. Sweet peas are arriving in quantity, but are bringing slightly better prices. Lilies are reasonable and of good quality. Callas are more plentiful but seem to clean up all right. Pansies, marguerites, myosotis, etc., are about equal to the demand. Roses declined considerably in price during the week. The quality is good but increased supply and light demand brought the prices down 20 to 30 per cent.

NOTES.

Prof. Osterhout, of Harvard University, was the speaker at the March 12 meeting of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society. He took for his topic the "Application of Mendell's Laws for Hybridizing." The attendance was very good.

Carl Richwagen, Needham, son of Paul Richwagen, was operated on March 5 for appendicitis, and is slowly recovering.

M. Schooumaan of the Quiduick greenhouses, Apponaug, R. I., is recovering from a severe attack of influenza.

STOCK IN LARGE SUPPLY.

The past week has been very trying for all concerns, the weather while balmy and spring like has been unseasonable, the thermometers registering over 70° several days in succession, breaking all records of the weather bureau for these dates. This has brought along all kinds of flowers very fast and the market is full of almost everything seen at this season. It has been especially hard on carnations, the stock for the most part being soft with poor keeping qualities. Some of the specials, however, looked very good. Roses were plentiful in all grades, being seen in quantity in all the street stands. American Beauties are in full crop again and while fine are hard to move. Probably the most abundant flower is the sweet pea; the quality is fine in all the grades, but it seems almost impossible to clean them up at 25 cents to $1.00 per hundred and they had to be extra fine to bring the top figure. Snapdragon is plentiful as are calendulas. There are quantities of callas many of them poor and imperfect. Easter lilies particularly Formosum were fine and not much overdone. Bulbous stock was away ahead of the demand, the best that could be obtained for extra fine Emperor daffodils was $4.00 and even less in quantity. Cattleyas, lilacs and lily of the valley all suffered with the rest. The quality was the best, but prices were shaded to large buyers. There was considerable buying both locally and from out of town customers but on account of the quantity of flowers it would be, as one of the wholesalers put it, a hard week on the growers, as for the most part pre-war prices prevailed, yet the stock was produced on a war basis with every item of expense at the top notch. The prevailing price for Easter lily flowers and buds in the pot is 20 cents, which is 20 per cent below last year. Prices of the other lines of stock is much the same as a year ago. Orders are coming in very satisfactorily and most growers anticipate a good cleanup, as their stock was never in better condition.

NOTES.

Frank M. Ross is running true to form in his progressiveness and in his purchase of the commodious store property, 1327 Girard avenue, will soon add the fourth cut flower store to his string. This latest addition is a building 20 by 125 feet which he expects to improve at a cost of $20,000. Mr. Ross owns all his store properties. Each as added has been an improvement over the others and this latest shop is to eclipse them all. The opening will be in early September.

Pennock Bros.' window with its display of all the new and standard cut roses, arranged 25 of a kind in vases, attracted great attention. The name of each variety on a neat card added 100 per cent to the interest in helping the public to call them by name. Paul's crimson climber was the feature the past week; this variety is a splendid pot rose.

Robert Craig, who is wintering in Porto Rico and at the same time working up a three acre palm and dracaena grove and other tropical plants, will on March 18 have passed his 74th milestone. He has taken on a new lease of life, drives a Ford, and hopes to live to see the realization of his tropical plant nursery ideas a success.

Shamrocks at W. K. Harris' have been a great success this season. Over 100,000 6-inch pot plants were grown and all sold. The space as emptied is being utilized to spread out Easter stock. A large stock of multiflorum lilies is very fine.

American Beauty roses in quantity, white lilacs, and special roses, are features of Leo Niessen Co. Sweet peas are also an item. Mr. Niessen is on the job again after a month's sojourn in Florida.

Charles G. Grakelow expects this Easter to be as profitable as any that has gone before and is making great preparations for a record business.

Providence, R. I.

ABUNDANT SUPPLY IN ALL LINES.

Trade the past week has been good, and stock very plentiful. Roses are coming in crop, much faster than they can be used, the growers shipping them to Boston almost every day. Sweet peas, daffodils, tulips, paper white narcissi are selling well, and the flowers are of good quality. There has been an overabundance of spring flowers of all kinds on the market the past week. Most of the growers will have all their stock in for the Easter trade, while several of them will be late. Easter and Calla lilies are coming in rapidly and they are excellent, but have small demand at present. Some of the growers have Calla lilies in pots this year and they sell well.

NOTES.

Wm. Hoffman, Pawtucket, has fine Easter stocks, and his cyclamens are perfect.

Al. Macrae has several thousand Giganteum lilies for the Easter trade.

Some fine Formosum lilies are seen at John A. Macrae's store.

Lawrence Hay has his usual fine stock of plants. H. A. T.

STOCK IN LARGE SUPPLY.

Prospects were never brighter for a large supply of flowers for Easter. Everything seems to be blooming radiantly. Roses are in plentiful supply. The Columbia variety seems to distance all rivals. Carnations are very fine. All kinds of bulbous stock may be had, and during the quiet Lenten season, are much sought after, sweet peas are arriving in large quantities, as well as lily of the valley and hyacinths. Yellow jonquils are still holding sway and street merchants have no difficulty in disposing of them. Funeral work is abundant, and that has the effect of making some trade which is, on the whole, rather quiet. Easter lilies are coming in in large quantities.

TRADE FAIRLY ACTIVE.

From March 4 to 7 the wholesale markets were quite active and the cheerful optimists thought that a few advertisements in the daily newspapers had done the trick. Being ourselves strongly in favor of it, we will agree that judicious advertising helps the business. But on March 8 there was a slump in the trade which continued until the 12th, which being Saturday, brought a little more activity. The exceptionally mild weather has been bringing in heavy supplies of stock and in some lines it has been impossible to clean up. One noteworthy feature was the crash in gardenias. Three weeks ago they were wholesaling at $12 per dozen; at the present, the best can be bought for $4 per dozen. American Beauty roses that for some time have been running at from $15 to $18 per dozen wholesale are now at $12, which, however, is yet a good price. In tea roses the specials have fared badly. Some ice boxes are constantly filled with roses, and the moving and changing in an effort to save as many as possible reminds one of a "junk-shop" job. In lilies and other bulbous stock there is a heavy supply, and it may be stated that there will be plenty of lilies for Easter. It may to some extent account for the present dullness; that the minds of the people are being fixed on Easter and they are holding off for that occasion. Easter business is also uppermost in the minds of the retailers and they are already pushing plant features, pans of hyacinths and Darwin tulips being noticeable in all the retail stores. As to the plant prospects, it seems that while there will be no great variety, there will be an abundance to supply the demand. Rose plants will loom large and with hydrangeas, a sprinkling of azaleas, cinerarias and other minor features, including the pots and pans of bulbous stock, there is likely to be a good plant trade. It may be that many of the wealthier class now in Florida or other winter resorts, will be home for Easter, which will help business.

March 14.—Continued spring weather is keeping up the supply. No improvemen can be expected for this week.

NOTES.

At a meeting of superintendents and head gardeners of private estates, held at the East Narevido hotel, L. I., on March 9, about 40 estates were represented. The wages to be paid the laborers on the estates for the coming season were discussed. During the war and up to last year, the estates were paying laborers $3.75 to $4.25 per day It was reported at the meeting that estate owners are anxious to provide work for the unemployed, but have been holding back on account of the demands for high wages. Those present at the meeting decided that there was a great amount of work that should be done in the spring and summer months. They agreed that $3.50 per day was a fair wage, both to employers and to the men, and if it is accepted many will be taken on. Representatives of estates located in Woodbury, Syosset, Glen Cove, Oyster Bay, Locust Valley, Sea Cliff, Roslyn, Mineola and Garden City were present.

George Papadakos of the Apollo Flower Shop, Kansas City, Mo., came here March 11 to attend the funeral of his nephew, George Cantos. The young man, who was 19 years old, came to this country six months ago and secured employment with Panos Bros., retailers at 237 Willis avenue. Three weeks ago he was stricken with typhoid and pneumonia fever, and the best medical skill was unavailing.

John Meis, a retired florist and farmer, aged 73, died in the Brooklyn hospital on March 9, following an operation for cancer. In late years he had resided at Riverhead, L. I.

Gilmore Clarke of David Clarke's Sons, who had a week of combat with influenza, has completely recovered and returned to business. A. F. F.

MARKET WELL SUPPLIED WITH STOCK.

There is a great quantity of stock of all kinds on the market, however, prices remain good and the demand is excellent. It is predicted that bulbous and spring flowering plants are at least three weeks in advance of the regular season, and that due to this there will be a shortage of lilies for Easter. Spring flowers and carnations are the leaders this week, and are more than plentiful but the demand is great. A limited but select quantity of Laddie carnations are offered by a few establishments for from $10 to $12.50 per 100 wholesale. Among the roses, the Mrs. Chas. A. Russell, Premier, Columbia, Ward, Butterfly and White Killarneys are most abundant and the demand for them is pressing. Roses are coming in heavier this week than last but the market is far from being flooded with them. Lilium Harrisii is plentiful and some excellent Easter pot plants are among the offerings of the retailers. The stock of callas is increasing but the demand is very good. They find their principal use in funeral pieces. A few freesias are coming in, but they are not valuable property. Calendulas are increasing. The demand for jonquils is on the decrease, but the supply remains the same. Exceptional stock is to be had at moderate prices. Narcissi are about gone. Roman hyacinths are few and far between, and consequently bring a good price. Tulips of the common varieties are plentiful, but there are few Darwin and Murillo varieties to be had. The supply of sweet peas is limited and the demand for them is brisk. Green carnations are to be had in limited quantities. Daisies are more plentiful this week and are good sellers. Spanish iris is limited as to quantity, but the quality is exceptional and it sells fast. Violets are not plentiful and only home grown stock is offered. Orchids of the cattleya varieties are plentiful and in great demand for use in corsage bouquets. Cyclamen plants are about gone and cinerarias are on the decrease also. A few primroses are in and are being sold in combination with willows. Pandanus and dracaenas are found in the majority of windows and a few fine pot plants of the fern, Cibotium, are also shown. Several of the retailers are showing some fine pot plants of Deutzia genistas and lilacs. Greens are plentiful. Asparagus plumosa and sprengeri show slight fluctuations in price and ferns remain at $5.00 per 1,000. A limited quantity of fine wild smilax is being offered.

NOTES.

The Florists' Club held their regular meeting March 10, at the offices of the Smith Wholesale Floral Co. L. P. Jenson, of the Missouri Botanical garden, gave a most instructive lantern-slide lecture on "Landscape Gardening." After the lecture, Robert Newcomb, Burlington, Ia., exhibited a new carnation and a new adiantum fern. Both were of exceptional merit. Mr. Newcomb was awarded a certificate of merit for his new creations.

Grimm & Gorly had an unusually attractive St. Patrick's day window. The Irish flag was represented by flowers of green, white and yellow. There were many shamrocks and green sweet peas most artistically arranged against a background of white and lighter colors.

The "Say It With Flowers" bowling league will meet for six more consecutive weeks, and will then hold its annual tournament when prizes amounting to $1,000 will be given away. Each member of the league is expected to receive a prize.

SEED POTATOES at Chicago are $1.50 per hundred pounds.

CALIFORNIA seed crops look good and the weather continues quite favorable.

FAVORABLE weather in the east and middle west last week gave a considerable spurt to the retail counter trade.

VAUGHAN'S SEED STORE, Chicago and New York, reports mail order business in March well ahead of last year, some days making a record.

PRICE of bags at Chicago, March 16: American, 16-oz., $35.00, per bale, in bale lots or over; Railroads, 16-oz., $30.00; Crown, 12-oz., $23.00.

NEW YORK.—Manager C. W. Scott, of the Yokohama Nursery Co., has returned from the west well pleased with business conditions in his lines.

VISITED CHICAGO: A. J. Brown, of the A. J. Brown Seed Co., Grand Rapids, Mich.; R. Galloway, of the Galloway Bros. Co., Waterloo, Ia.; V. L. Outerbridge, representing Henry & Lee, New York.

LOS ANGELES, CALIF.—John Bodger, senior member of the John Bodger & Sons Co., has arranged to leave for Europe, March 26, by way of New Orleans, Washington and New York. Mrs. Bodger accompanying him.

ERFURT, GERMANY.—Werner Schmidt, sole owner of Haage & Schmidt, died February 11. He succeeded his father, the late Carl Schmidt, only about a year ago, was 39 years old, and leaves a widow and three young sons.

SHORT flower seed items are Aristolochia Sipho, Statice latifolia, Viola odorata, V. Cornuta, Humulus Japonicus and H. Japonicus, fol. var., Primula veris, Phlox decussata and P. Drummondii, nana varieties, Asparagus Sprengeri, striped zinnia, pink verbena and portulaca.

ONION SET growing contracts in the Chicago district are being placed with farmers freely on the south side about 40 cents lower than last year, but the north side contracting has been slow thus far. Recent prices for sets on South Water street were 60 cents to 75 cents for colors and $1.25 for whites.

THE late W. W. Barnard, president and founder of the W. W. Barnard Co., Chicago, whose death is recorded in our obituary columns this week, had a remarkable grasp of the details of his business. Seed growers say he could enumerate his requirements in varying amounts of 10 to 100 bushels of a kind, making a total of many kinds, all from memory, without referring to lists or other memoranda.

D. M. FERRY & Co., of Detroit, Mich., are introducing a new shipping tomato, which they call Gulf State Market, color, deep purplish, shape, round, size, large.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Chairman Penrose of the senate finance committee, has promised speedy action of tariff and tax revision at the special session of Congress.

The Late W. W. Barnard.

French Bulbs.

The weather has been unfavorable to French bulbs and definite information regarding the crop will not be available before the latter part of April.

The French bulbs of all kinds shipped to the United States in 1920 numbered upwards of thirty-six and one-half millions.

Field Seeds.

There was a decided improvement in the demand for clover seed during the week ending March 5. Favorable weather for farm work in many sections reminded farmers to make arrangements for obtaining seed. Seedmen's stocks of most kinds of seed are reported to be smaller than normal but stocks held in the country are estimated to be much larger. Somewhat higher prices are being offered to growers for several of the important kinds and many growers are of the opinion that now is the opportune time to dispose of their surplus seed before it is too late for seedsmen to receive, reclean, and get seeds to their customers in time for planting.

Clovers and Alfalfa.—Red clover prices advanced $1 to $2.50 per 100 pounds in most markets. The demand during the week showed much improvement over that of last week and spot stocks were being reduced materially. A freer movement from growers to seedmen is helping the latter to replenish their stocks. Imports of red clover amounting to over 30,000 pounds were received from Germany.

Alsike quotations were 50 cents to $1 higher in a number of cities. Offerings from the country continue to be rather small, but because of the $2 to $5 premium for alsike clover over red clover, the relative demand for alsike is less than for red clover.

The urgent demand for alfalfa and sweet clover usually comes somewhat later than that for red and alsike clover. Prices were firm for alfalfa and about 50 cents per 100 pounds higher for sweet clover in a few important markets.

Grasses—The prices for grass seeds were supported largely by the increases in clover prices. Redtop showed some independent strength and was quoted firmer and a little higher in a few cities where some difficulty was being encountered in replenishing stocks. About 60,000 pounds were exported to Great Britain and 3,300 to Holland during the week.

Meadow fescue exports, amounting to 55,000 pounds, of which 44,000 were billed to Great Britain and 11,000 to Holland, were reported from New York.

Forty-sixth annual convention will be held at Chicago, June, 1921.

PORTLAND, ORE.—New roses, produced by government experts, will be christened at the time of the Rose Festival, to be held here in 1922.

THE multiplication of homes, in Florida, with elaborate landscape decorations, has been the cause of great increase in southern nurseries, many so far beginners only.

WASHINGTON, IA.—Profit in new apple orchards is seen by D. E. Lewis, manager of the Central States Orchard Co., who states that there has been a decrease in orchard acreage in the United States in the past five years, and a slump in European production.

Winter-Flowering Witch Hazels.

The flowers of these interesting plants have never been more beautiful and abundant then this year. The flowers of Hamamelis vernalis, the species from southern Missouri, usually open late in December and in January, and those of the Japanese and Chinese species, are usually fully open in January and February. In the size of the flowers and in the length and brilliancy of the bright yellow petals, Hamamelis mollis, a native of western China, is the handsomest of the witch hazels. The pale green foliage of this shapely shrub is also attractive. It is very hardy and grows rapidly, and might well find a place in any garden or city plot in public view during the winter months. This witch hazel is one of the most valuable and interesting shrubs brought in recent years to the United States.—Arnold Arboretum Bulletin.

Young's Good Letter.

J. A. Young, of Young's Seed and Plant House, Aurora, Ill., in sending out his new catalogue, mails separately to customers and prospective buyers, the following good letter:

"Dear Friend:

"I send you my seed and plant book. I am proud of this book for two reasons:

"First—It is a good book and well printed. The type is clear and all statements made are positively true.

"Second—The prices are made just as low as I can possibly make them and at the same time give you honest goods.

"The grape vines listed on page 17, at $10.35 for 100, are only one of the many splendid bargains. In fact, the whole book is full of bargains. Compare my prices with any seed and nursery house.

"Will you do me a favor? I want not a few thousand but many thousand satisfied customers. Please put down on the back of your order a few names of people who ought to buy seeds or plants.

"Remember that I can look pleasant and say thank you for an order for a dime as well as for the big orders. I get both of them. I want customers and many of them.

"I thank you for paying attention to my advertisement and hope you will read my book and get others to read it. At least your order will be thankfully received and filled as honestly as anyone can put up an order.

Very truly yours, Youngs Seed & Plant House."

VAUGHAN'S ASTERS

OSTRICH FEATHER

This is the finest type of Aster for all purposes, especially for market cut flowers. The graceful long petals are thickly produced.

Crimson, Light Blue, Lavender Pink, Rose, Soft Pink, Dark Blue, Pink, White, Silvery Lilac, Terra Cotta, Trade Pkt. 35c.

		Trade pkt.	Oz.
Any of above, except where noted	¼ oz., 40c.	$0.25	$1.40
Mixed, all colors	¼ oz., 35c.	.25	1.20

QUEEN OF THE MARKET

The Standard Early Flowering Type

White, Crimson, Lavender, Pink, Purple, Dark Blue, Scarlet, Flesh, Light Blue

Any of above	lb., $12.00; ¼ oz., 30c.	.15	1.00
Mixed, all colors	lb., 10.00; ¼ oz., 25c.	.10	.80

GIANT BRANCHING

White, Lavender, Rose Pink, Crimson, Purple, Deep Violet, Peach Blossom, Azure Blue, Daybreak

Any of above	lb., $12.00; ¼ oz., 30c.	.15	1.00
Mixed, all colors	lb., 10.00; ¼ oz., 25c.	.10	.80

CREGO

This flower is giant in size, many blossoms six inches across. The petals are nearly double the length of the older varieties and are twisted and curled into a very fluffy effect.

White, Crimson, Dark Pink, Lavender, Purple, Shell Pink, Dark Blue.

Any of the above	¼ oz., 40c.	.25	1.50
Mixed, all colors	¼ oz., 40c.	.25	1.40

THE ROYAL—Early-Flowering Branching

This type fills a gap between the Queen of the Market and the Late-Flowering Branching Asters. Sown early inside, and planted out with Queen of the Market, it follows that variety very closely.

White, Shell Pink, Rose Pink, Lavender, Purple

Any of the above	¼ oz., 40c.	.25	1.40
Mixed, all colors	¼ oz., 40c.	.25	1.40

THE KING

The habit is similar to the Giant Branching, vigorous in growth, long stiff stems. In form the flower is entirely distinct from any other variety; petals somewhat resemble the quilled varieties, but are much larger and broader, those in the center being curled and incurved, completely covering the crown. In shape and size the bloom is round, full and very large.

Rose. Pink. Violet. White. Crimson. Lavender.

Any of the above	¼ oz., 40c.	.25	1.40
Mixed, all colors	¼ oz., 35c.	.25	1.20

OTHER AMERICAN ASTERS

Heart of France. Heart of France opens red as the purest ruby, deepens with age and retains its remarkable color to the very end. The petals appear strikingly changeable, showing now a glow and sheen quite unique, now a soft warm velvety texture .... ¼ oz., 55c. — .35 — 2.00

OTHER AMERICAN ASTERS—Continued

	Trade pkt.	Oz.
Peerless Pink. The flowers are enormous, globular in shape, many five inches across, of a most delightful and pleasing rich shell pink. First flowers appear about the middle of August, but the plant is at its zenith about four weeks later	$0.25	$1.80
Sensation. Dark rich garnet or ox-blood red which glistens in the sunshine like a live coal. The plants are of the free branching habit, about 18 inches high, the double flowers averaging about 3 inches in diameter are borne freely on stems about 12 inches long ... ¼ oz., 45c.	.25	1.60
Mammoth Non-Lateral Branching White. 2 ft. This is without doubt the largest Aster on the market. Many of the flowers will measure four inches in diameter. The plants grow about two feet high with a low branching habit, and the flowers which are borne on non-lateral stems are full, with petals curled and incurved, making the flowers appear like a cross between an Ostrich Feather and a Giant Branching .. ¼ oz., 55c.	.35	2.00
Mammoth Non-Lateral Branching Blue. 2 ft. A medium shade of blue ... ¼ oz., 55c.	.35	2.00
American Beauty. Rose Pink. 2½ ft. Is similar in type of flower and growth to the Late Branching Asters, but differs in that all the large blossoms are produced on much longer and heavier stems. The flowers are fully double to the last and are a most lovely shade of bright carmine-rose, almost identical with the World-Famous American Beauty Rose. Each plant forms a perfect bush ... ¼ oz., 50c.	.25	1.80
American Beauty. Lavender ... ¼ oz., 65c.	.35	2.40
American Beauty. September Pink ... ¼ oz., 65c.	.35	2.40

ASTERS IN MIXTURES

Vaughan's Florists' Mixture ... ¼ oz., 45c.	.25	1.60
White Tall Varieties. Mixed ... ¼ oz., 45c.	.25	1.60
Vaughan's Excelsior Mixture, Tall Asters. This is a mixture of the most beautiful, striking and distinct colors of the tall growing Asters, selected from the cream of the Giant Comet, Ostrich Plume, Branching and other desirable sorts, includes many kinds separately purchased for this mixture ... ¼ oz., 50c.	.25	1.80

BALL'S WHITE ASTER

The seed of this splendid Giant Aster of the Late Branching Type—the product of twelve years' selection to develop the ideal of a perfectly double flower, of flawless color—is offered in 1921 for the first time.

It has been grown and the seed carefully selected every season since. In 1918, three-quarters of an acre netted $2,320. An exceptionally good market helped, but this variety has always sold for 50 per cent. more than ordinary White Asters.

The flowering season comes between the Royal and Late Branching types, filling in between the early and late glut of flowers. It grows to a medium height with full, distinctively centered blossoms, ideally formed for long distance shipping. The seed of this Aster is about two-thirds the size of ordinary varieties. It is sold in ¼-ounce packets, containing about 4000 seeds at $3.00 per trade packet.

We are the introducers of this new Aster, jointly with the originator, Mr. Geo. J. Ball.

Louis F. Miller, Toledo, O., President; A. J. Doolev, Cook County, Ill , Vice-President; S. W. Severance, Loui-ville, Ky., Secretary; H. J. Cheney, Grand Rapids Mich., Treas.

FOUR inches of rain fell in south Florida on March 11, doing much damage to tomato and pepper crops on low undyked land without pumps.

J. W. B. DAVIS, the greenhouse vegetable specialist of Aurora, Ill., who started his business at Glendale, Calif., last year, by building two houses 36 by 300 feet, is adding the third house, 53 by 700 feet. All three houses have been supplied by the John C. Moniger Co., Chicago.

Prices of Indoor Fruits and Vegetables.

CHICAGO, March 15.—Cucumbers, 2-dozen box, $4.50-$5.75; leaf lettuce, per box, 32½ to 35 cents.

NEW YORK, March 11.—Cucumbers per dozen, 75 cents to $2.75; mushrooms, $1.00 to $2.25 per three-pound basket; tomatoes, per pound, 15 to 50 cents; radishes, per 100 bunches, $3.00 to $7.00.

Vegetable Growers' Ass'n. of America.

ALBANY WANTS NEXT MEETING.

Efforts are being made to have the Vegetable Growers' Association of America hold its convention in Albany, N. Y., in November. At a recent meeting, held in the rooms of the Albany Chamber of Commerce, there were present officers of the vegetable growers' association of Albany, Rensselaer and Schenectady counties, farm bureau agents of this section and representatives of the Chamber of Commerce to discuss plans. Officers of the Chamber of Commerce will meet later with Colonel Charles E. Walsh of the New York National Guard to ask the use of the state armory on Washington avenue. The large drill shed in the armory could be used for exhibits and special features and rooms in the armory would be available for meetings. The Chamber of Commerce rooms could be used for convention headquarters. The gathering would bring to Albany between 600 and 1,000 delegates. R. D.

Vegetable Plants.

We have found that whenever industrial depression exists like at present, vegetable plants are good property. Many who are temporarily out of work, through sheer loneliness, take to some form of gardening, while others think this pursuit a form of economy. In regard to the latter we have our own views, which may not harmonize with those who are enthusiastic on this subject. However, we have never moralized on this subject. We proceed from this viewpoint that as long as there is a demand somebody is going to try to supply it. This applies to vegetable plants.

Some gardeners object to furnishing the city dweller with plants, claiming this helps to glut markets. This view if of course, a narrow one and needs no attention. We have practiced production of plants for years and have found it profitable. It gives us something to do on rainy days and the money is much surer than some of our market crops. In recent years we have sold most of our tomato plants in berry baskets—one dozen in each basket. That way they are easily handled and most satisfactory to the purchaser. Another form is the larger flat to hold 100 plants. We make them by ripping apple boxes into four flats. We buy these boxes in large quantities at five cents each and thus have a cheap yet uniform box for the purpose. When so little soil is used, care must be taken to have it rich and mellow, or the plants will not come up to size. We find a little sulphate ammonia in water, say three per gallon, will finish off these plants in fine shape. Among varieties to plant we try to reduce to the lowest limit.

Below is what we grow: Tomato—Bonny Best, Ponderosa, Stone; Cabbage—Copenhagen Market, Enkhepizen, Wakefield; Peppers—Ruby King, Ohio Crimson, Golden Queen, Cayenne; Celery—Easy bleaching, Giant Pascal; Head lettuce—Big Bottom, May King; Leaf lettuce—Grand Rapids, Simpson; Sweet potato—Yellow Jersey; Egg plant—Black Beauty; Cauliflower—Snowball, and Melon—Tip Top.

We find an increasing demand for melon plants in pots.

Ageratum Fraseri

We feel confident in offering Ageratum "Fraseri" to our customers that we are offering what will be one of the most valuable acquisitions to the bedding plant line in recent years, that it is a blue, a decided blue, that would be continually in bloom. In our trial grounds last summer "Fraseri" attracted more attention than any other bedding plant. It only grew about 8 to 10 inches high and was covered the entire season with what can easily be classed as immense trusses of flowers, as many of them were over 2¼ inches across, while the individual flower would be ⅞ of an inch in diameter. The plant spreads about 12 to 15 inches across. It can easily be used with Alternantheras as a border plant.

Being an early bloomer and dwarf, compact grower, it makes an excellent pot plant.

PETUNIAS.
Dieners' Ruffled Monsters, single. The largest and most beautiful ruffled varieties of Petunias in existence. Ruffled monster seed in separate colors, pink, red, variegated, white, red with black center, pale lilac, and all colors mixed.
The following somewhat smaller than the Ruffled Monsters, colors, flesh pink frilled, (Pearl of Kentfield), purple or blue, and white frilled (dwarf). Price, per package, 50c. Catalogues will be sent free on request. Write for it today.
Mr. W. I. Ferguson, Smiths Falls, Ontario, under date of Dec. 2nd, 1919, writes us the following in regard to our petunias:
"Last year I purchased petunia seed from you. I think every seed germinated and the blooms were the finest ever seen in this part of Canada. Only about 8% of the plants could be classed as common. I want more of the same quality each year."
Mr. Rudolph Nagel, Lancaster, Pa., under date of Dec. 14th, 1919, writes us:
"I had, last year, just a few of your petunias, but I am sure I could have sold thousands of them. They surely came up to your claim and way ahead of my expectation."

SEEDS.

DAHLIA SEED.
This seed is raised from the most up-to-date dahlias in existence. No place in the world have dahlias been brought up to such perfection as they have been around San Francisco. This mixture contains all colors and types of peony, cactus and decorative varieties. The seed we sent out in previous years was highly praised by all who raised dahlias from it; but this seed is far superior to what we have sent out in previous years. The seedlings will commence to flower two months after sowing and almost a month earlier than plants raised from blubs. Price, $0.50 per package.
RICHARD DIENER CO., INC.
Kentfield Marin County, Calif.

SEEDS.

THE DIENER TOMATO
Increase your tomato yield one hundred per cent by raising the new DIENER TOMATO. 30-40 tons of ripe fruit to the acre.
This tomato was raised last year all over the United States and Canada with the greatest satisfaction.
As smooth as an apple and of a magnificent dark red color. Single tomatoes weigh up to 3 lbs. each. The flesh is more solid than that of any other tomato. The fruit contains very little seed and is solidly filled out. This tomato is free of the acid taste, and for dehydrating catsup and canning is the best tomato in existence today.
The DIENER TOMATO is blight-resisting as well as drought-resisting. It will not crack from the rain and will not rot while lying on the ground in wet weather. This tomato will grow in almost any kind of soil and it commences to ripen the first part of August.
It is the greatest novelty in the tomato line, and it will soon crowd out the present varieties from the market by its far superior qualities.
Price of the DIENER TOMATO SEED: Sample pkg., 25c; one-quarter of an acre pkg., 50c; one acre pkg., $1.50.

A Full Width Opening And a Tight Close-Down

Wolf Ventilating Apparatus will open a series of sash up to 350 feet in length—from one operating station—using only one-inch single strength pipe shafting—without variation in width of opening anywhere along the line. And it will pull every sash down snug and tight on the close-down.

—this enables you to put your operating stations at the most convenient points.

—it gives uniform ventilation and makes a neat-appearing greenhouse.

—it effects a material saving in the cost of pipe shafting.

Wolf Ventilating Apparatus

can now be supplied promptly anywhere in the United States. We have acquired Wolf patents and equipped a new factory to produce Wolf Ventilating Machines solely. We are prepared to give you prompt service.

NEW YORK SPRING SHOW.

Grand Central Palace, March 14-20.

Gotham's Greatest Success.

In a show of the magnitude and variety of this one, the perspective improved as one became more familiar with its attractive features. The groups of flowering and foliage plants and the landscape details, were a never failing source of interest to the crowds of visitors throughout the week. In addition to the plant features mentioned in our issue of March 19, the collections and specimens of cinerarias, cyclamens, chorizemas, hydrangeas, schizanthus, primulas in variety, genistas, lilacs, marguerites, and other flowers were all noteworthy. Regardless of the rulings of the Federal Horticultural Board, no offence being intended, there were creditable specimens of Azalea Indica and others plants now barred from importation. If this show was a forecast, there is every reason to believe, that quarantine or not the orchid will be with us for years to come. The bulbous plants largely from private estates, such as freesias, hyacinths, lilies, narcissi and tulips, were all that could be wished for. Excellent stocks of Easter lilies were also exhibited by commercial growers. In this survey of the opening of the Spring Show a tribute may be appropriately paid to the owners of private estates and their gardeners for having accomplished so much to make it a success. Wealthy men and women are doing a great service when they place the products of their gardens and conservatories where they can be seen by the people. One was strikingly reminded of this on the morning after the opening, when a young lady, probably a teacher, guided through the show a little company of children, every one of them in some way crippled or deformed.

The entries on Tuesday, March 15, were cut roses by commercial and private growers and table decorations of roses by the latter. After viewing the exhibits by commercial men of Premier, Hadley, Columbia, Ophelia, and other varieties, one need not be surprised at the passing of the American Beauty rose, for the handsome debutantes have made a great impression. The private growers came out strongest in their plants and plant arrangements, and their cut roses and table decorations were very creditable. The display of cut roses in 300 square feet, on Thursday, were added attractions. F. R. Pierson, Scarboro, N. Y., received the first prize for the following varieties: Francis Scott Key, Premier, Columbia and Ophelia. His other offerings were fine. As accessories, the various types of ferns that he has made famous were used. The Cromwell Gardens, Conn., A. N. Pierson, Inc., contained fine stock, which was well arranged with large cibotiums supplementary and took second prize. This firm's commercial exhibit of cut roses and rose plants was throughout the week a never failing object of interest to the visitors. More cut roses, carnations and sweet peas were staged on Friday, March 18. First prize winners in roses among the commercial growers were F. R. Pierson, L. B. Coddington, Murray Hill, N. J.; A. N. Pierson, Inc., Duckham-Pierson Co., Madison, N. J.; Traendly & Schenck, New York (Rowayton Greenhouses), and Wm. W. Vert, Madison, N. J. The second prize winners also had fine displays.

Carnations.

Carnations by commercial and private growers and more table decorations by the latter, were the chief entries on Wednesday. Some have thought that the carnation was in decadence, but if the size of the bloom and length of stem are leading factors it is more than holding its own. Laddie has already been noted a fine carnation, but one commercial grower exhibited a vase of 100, taking first prize, that would have astonished the pioneers in carnation growing. Among private growers, a good collection of leading varieties was shown. Of the commercial growers, S. J. Goddard, Framingham, Mass., exhibited 100 Laddies that for size of bloom and length of stem, were probably superior to any exhibit of the kind that has yet been staged. Strout's Inc., Biddeford, Me., exhibited 100 of a yellow variety that looks promising. The same firm displayed a new bright pink, and another with a pink heart, shading to pure white on the edges of the petals. The Springfield Flower Co., Springfield, N. J., showed a creditable vase of their new production, "Hope Henshaw," (non-competitive), a handsome flower. M. Matheron, Baldwin, N. Y., had a splendid exhibit of Mrs. C. W. Ward. The displays of carnations covering 150 square feet, on Thursday were of good stock and finely staged, Henry Hession, Flatbush, Brooklyn, N. Y., taking first prize. This display was staged on ferns, placed in the form of a cone, the cap of which was a large cibotium. The varieties were Welcome, light pink, and Harvard red. The flowers were good and the staging very effective. The Springfield Flower Co., second prize winners had a number of vases of the leading varieties of carnations, all good stock. In addition to other special awards, W. B. Thompson, Yonkers, N. Y., received a gold medal for a specimen plant of the Dracaena Victoria, 15 feet high. Mrs. Charles M. Schwab, Loretto, Pa. (H. Ireland, gardener), was the recipient of a gold medal for a collection of vegetables, and J. B. Duke, Somerville, N. J., a gold medal for a specimen plant of Odontioda Brewii and President Harding.

Sweet Peas.

The private growers made excellent displays in sweet peas. The number of commercial growers exhibiting was much smaller than last year, and had it not been for the splendid display of 50 varieties in 100 square feet, by the W. Atlee Burpee Co., Philadelphia, Pa., the commercial section would have presented a rather lonesome appearance. In addition to the first prize on this exhibit and a certificate of merit for a new salmon pink named Mrs. Warren G. Harding, this firm was awarded a gold medal for its commercial exhibit and certificates of merit for White Star, Cheerful, Fire Flame, Silver Blue and Burpee's Orange. The other commercial exhibitors were John M. Cook, Tarrytown, N. Y., and H. Mamitsch, Rockville Centre, N. Y. The only entries on March 17 were table decorations of orchids by private growers. In this connection it may be stated that while the orchid displays of the Julius Roehrs Co., the Joseph Manda Co., Lager & Hurrell, Summit, N. J., and James B. Duke were well staged and attractive. There was not the wealth of bloom that has sometimes been seen. This was largely due to the best cattleyas being off crop this season. But there were fine features in cymbidiums and oncidiums. To recapitulate, the show was a great success. The weather was all that could be desired, the attendance exceeded that of any previous show, the attractions of the tea room and the excellent vocal and instrumental music were alone worth the price of admission. If President Payne of the Exposition Company, Superintendent Herrington of the Show, Secretary, John Young and Charles H. Totty who attended to the details of the awards, did not work themselves into nervous prostration, they were constantly on the job.

The Closing Day.

After a steady attendance throughout the day the flower show closed at 10:30 p. m., March 20. Doubtless on account of June, instead of March weather that took the people to the country and the parks, the crowd was not as great as on the previous days, but there was a good attendance. Just before the closing hour, President Payne of the Exposition Company, stated that while all details could not then be given, it was in every way the most successful Spring Show that had ever been held in the Grand Central palace.

Notes of the Show.

The exhibit of the City Garden Club, which might be called "before and after," was instructive as well as amusing. One side showed a neat back yard, the other a collection of old fruit cans, bottles and other rubbish. Circulars were distributed reading in part as follows: "Plant Trees in Backyard—Plant Japanese Maple, Magnolia, North Carolina Poplar, Catalpa Bungii, Weeping Beech, Weeping Mulberry, Ailanthus. Do you know that trees eat up poisonous gases and give out pure oxygen?"

The activities of the ladies of the different garden clubs were noteworthy. In the competition with vases and baskets of flowers, March 16, awards were as follows: Garden Club of Greenwich, Conn., silver cup; of Easthampton, N. Y., silver medal, and of Rumson, N. J., Hartford, Conn., Wilmington, Del., and Summit, N. J., honorable mention.

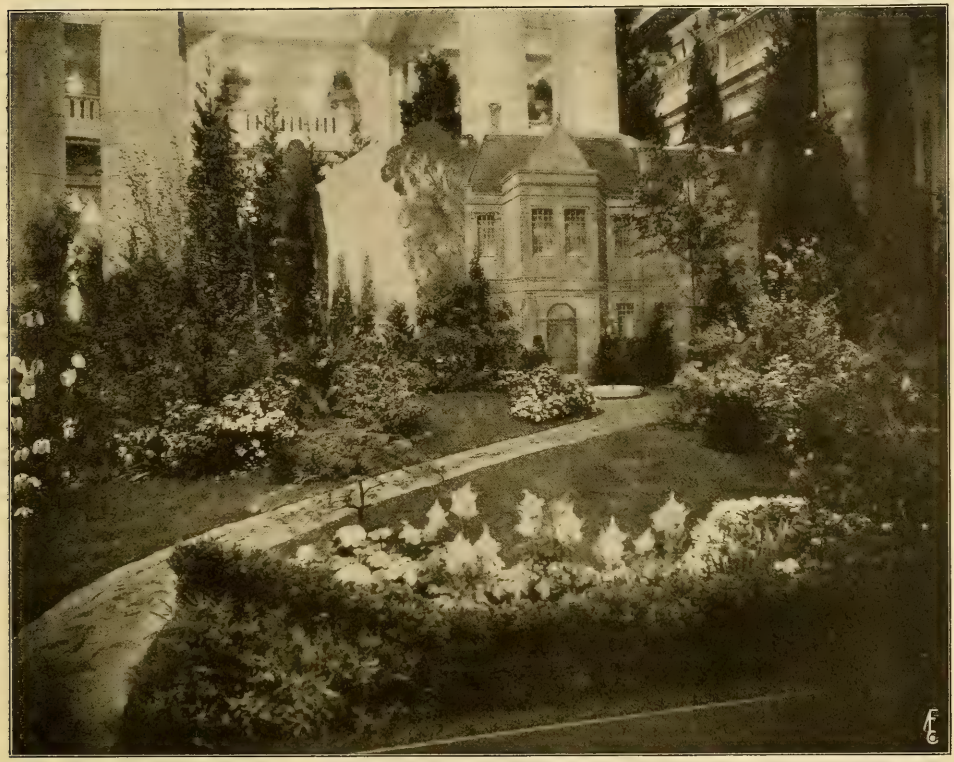
The Julius Roehrs Co.'s garden and greenhouse was finely arranged to enable the people to get a close-up view. A winding walk led through the garden and into the greenhouse, the exit being on the same aisle as the entrance, and there was always a steady stream of sightseers passing through.

On the mezzanine floor was an ingeniously arranged garden, two by five feet, containing wild plants collected this winter and also mosses and lichens, arranged and exhibited by B. T. Fairchild, Greenwich, Conn., who was awarded the Max Schling gold medal for this display.

The R. & J. Farquhar Co., Boston, Mass., in their commercial section, made a good display of specimen azaleas and Lilium regale (the regal lily). Commercial exhibitors interviewed, expressed satisfaction with the extent of their business.

The ribbon men, so necessary to the retail trade, made attractive displays,

EASTER PLANT BASKET.
Hydrangeas, Yellow Callas and Heather.



NEW YORK SPRING SHOW.

Garden Exhibit of the F. R. Pierson Co., Tarrytown, N. Y.

noteworthy being those of the Schloss Bros., Ribbons, Inc., and the Kervan Co., both of New York, the latter having good decorations of their florists' ferns.

With due credit to the commercial men who made such fine contributions to the exhibits and did so much to make the show a success, we must confess that there is a tendency to turn these shows from exhibitions into fairs.

In the booth of the American Dahlia Society, Secretary Vick and several young lady assistants were busy handing a gay little handbill that offered "three fine dahlia bulbs for $1," to new members of the Society.

Regardless of what wholesalers, retailers or the general public may think of Premier, Hadley, Columbia and Francis Scott Key as commercial propositions, they are unquestionably the best exhibition roses.

An interesting plant that like some others was not so placed as to show to advantage, was an Andromedia floribunda, exhibited by Mrs. F. N. Lewis, Pelham Manor, N. Y. (Jas. Lecune, gardener).

We do not like to praise a man too much for fear he will get proud, but speaking of John Canning, gardener to Adolph Lewisohn, Ardsley, N. Y., it is only necessary to read the awards.

In their commercial section, Bobbink & Atkins, Rutherford, N. J., made fine displays of the roses Tausendschon, Dorothy Perkins and Paul's Scarlet Climber, and the Azalea Yodogawa.

In these quarantine days large and well flowered azaleas are worthy of note. Two fine specimens were exhibited by Richard Hughes, gardener to J. A. Macdonald, Flushing, N. Y.

The Charles H. Totty Co., Madison, N. J., made a fine display of cut and pot roses and other plants and having a staff of handsome and clever young attendants, did a good business.

Exceptionally fine among many other exhibits, were the Premier roses of the Joseph H. Hill Co., Richmond, Ind., first prize winners in the cut rose competition of March 15.

One party who looked at both the Jos. H. Hill Co. exhibit of roses and S. J. Goddard's Laddie carnations said: "Roses and carnations are getting to be too big."

A large and finely flowered plant of erica by Mrs. F. E. Lewis, Ridgefield, Conn. (G. W. Smith, gardener), took a first prize, and was really worthy of a gold medal.

Kroeschell Bros. Co., Chicago, represented by Fred Lautenschlager, had space, where photographs, and literature on boilers and greenhouses were distributed.

We would have been pleased to have noticed more exhibits of rambler roses by commercial growers, who were busy no doubt with Easter preparations.

The National Association of Gardeners had a large booth, furnished with plenty of easy chairs, making a fine resting place for members.

David Burpee, Philadelphia, Pa., a visitor at the exhibition, stated that business in their seed store was better than any previous spring.

One of the attractive commercial exhibits was that of the W. Atlee Burpee Co., where George Kerr had new features in sweet peas.

The Max Schling silver medal was awarded the Short Hills, N. Y., Garden Club for its "bird bath and planting arrangement."

Edward Gillett, Southwick, Mass., who had a display garden of exclusively native plants, was awarded a gold medal.

The booth of the Horticultural Society of New York, was a restful oasis, particularly for the ladies.

Additional Exhibitors.

Cohen & Hiller, New York, florists' ribbons.

Warren E. Cox, New York, lustre ware, lamps and cut flowers.

Melrosine, New York, insecticides.

Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, New York, food products and handiwork.

The Tree.

What do we plant when we plant the tree?
We plant the ship, which will cross the sea.
We plant the mast to carry the sails;
We plant the planks to withstand the gales—
The keel, the keelson and beam and knee:
We plant the ship when we plant the tree.

What do we plant when we plant the tree?
We plant the house for you and me.
We plant the rafters, the shingles, the floors,
We plant the studding, the laths, the doors,
The beam and siding, all parts that be:
We plant the house when we plant the tree.

What do we plant when we plant the tree?
A thousand things that we daily see:
We plant the spire that out-towers the crag,
We plant the staff for our country's flag,
We plant the shade, from the hot sun free:
We plant all these when we plant the tree.
—Henry Abbey, in The Outlook.

ORDER FOR BULBS.

THIS MEMORANDUM OF AGREEMENT, made in duplicate this..... day of....., 192 ....., witnesseth that..... ..... representing ..... of ..... Holland, seller, hereby agrees to sell, and..... of.....hereby agrees to purchase the bulbs described below, subject to the following conditions:

1. These stipulations, terms and conditions shall be and at once become binding upon the parties hereto, irrespective of any and all terms and conditions submitted by the seller, which are in conflict herewith.

2. All goods are purchased f. o. b. shipboard, Rotterdam or Amsterdam, Holland, plus actual cost of containers and marine insurance on shipment.

3. All bulbs are purchased for the purpose of forcing in flower earlier than at their natural time for blooming, when not forced. It is therefore understood and agreed between the parties hereto that all bulbs are sold for the flower they produce, and further, that the purchaser will not be required to pay for any tulips or narcissus bulbs that fail to produce standard flowers under normal forcing conditions.

4. The seller hereby agrees that all goods shipped in excess of this order, or goods of the same variety, but smaller in size than ordered, are not necessarily a part hereof, but may be rejected by the recipient at his option. In event such goods are tentatively accepted and are planted, the question of fixing the price on such goods shall be left entirely to recipient and such goods shall not be subject to list price as quoted.

5. Purchaser must notify shipper in writing within reasonable time of any known defects in goods received.

6. All bulbs used to fill this order are guaranteed to be free from disease and decay.

(Sixteen blank lines follow.)

7. This order not valid unless signed by both parties or their representatives.

Next Week in the Flower Shop.

This is the period when lost motion greatly retards and when all that has been done to further the work in the way of preparedness counts to a great degree. So much, very much more, can be done when all the little details have been planned and provided for weeks ahead; then everything works out to a nicety and the perfected machine takes up and carries the load all through the early and later rush days of the week, to a grand and final finish Easter morning.

It is of the greatest importance that the store should be kept up to its utmost efficiency all the time, particularly in the heavy shopping periods when customers are constantly coming and going and the stocks are being depleted and gaps left here and there, while the floor is littered with plants that need setting up again. It should be the business of some one to keep straightening up the stock, putting back plants not selected and keep the stock in its best presentable condition. Customers are very quick to say, "The best is all gone—we are too late."

A little rearranging and spreading will fill up the gaps and the stock will soon present a full and complete appearance. It is always well to keep in reserve, some of the plants that are selling well, as frequently orders are taken to be picked out later and there is trouble when it is found there are none available.

The auxiliary annex is a great help at this time as extra stock can be stored there, and all plants sold can be immediately taken there for delivery. It is a great matter to get all selected or sold plants out of sight as soon as possible as there is certain to be nothing else just as good in the eyes of the next customer. Keeping stock of a kind together so as to make solid color effects, all pinks, blues, whites, and lilies in blocks, gives each plant a much more attractive appearance, and the decorative effect is much more positive than when there is a general mixture. Customers are waited on in half the time, as all of this or that is right before them and there is no tedious going up and down the store taking up valuable time.

TOUCHING UP MISSHAPEN PLANTS.

There should be a good supply of material to add too and give an artistic finish to a misshapen or imperfect plant. Pussy willows, laurel sprays, a slender bow of chiffon or a pot cover or mat, all of which with but a few minutes work, will put many a plant forward that was scarcely being noticed.

It is important that there be a system about meal times, particularly at supper, which should be over early, so the night work may be well progressed before all get weary. Avoid late night jobs. The large stores now send their employees to a hotel for four to five hours' sleep the last rush days. They are worth twice as much the next morning.

Try to keep all stocks moving; if a certain line sells too fast, do not see it, when the new customers come in, but be particular to call their attention to the things that need pushing. At least half the time they will act on your suggestion. It is not good policy to cheapen prices towards the end, for quite frequently last minute customers will happen along who want the best in the shop and are quite willing to pay good prices, in fact they judge the articles by the amounts asked for them. Many apparent over stocks have disappeared in the late Saturday afternoon rush at regular prices to people who were glad at the late hour to find such a good assortment to select from.

It is a good time to acknowledge acts of courtesy received through the year, by sending out specimens, plants or plant baskets of the stock on hand on Sunday morning. They will be received in good time and in their missionary work bring good results. These values can be charged to publicity of which this is one of the best forms.

There can be considerable saving in expensive cut flower boxes by using large sheets of white paper in which Easter lilies, callas and other long stemmed stock can be wrapped in a cornucopia of the paper, with their flowers exposed. When nicely arranged and tied at the stems with a tape in which is placed a small knot of flowers, such as a bunch of pansies, etc., the whole presents an artistic finish that attracts attention, and is even more acceptible than the box.

The best care should be taken of any left overs in plants to see that they are all gathered together and made as presentable as possible, as frequently there is a demand on Monday from late buyers to send to friends who had been overlooked.

Too much attention cannot be paid to the telephone, which should be answered immediately, and kept clear of all calls except those essential to the business. Florist Telegraph Delivery Association orders are important; many out of town deliveries will come your way if this service is kept to the front at this busy period.

European Floral Conditions.

Extracts from a paper by Sidney Bayersdorfer, of H. Bayersdorfer & Co., Philadelphia, Pa., read at the seventh annual convention of the Tennessee State Florists' Association, Memphis.

"The first thing that struck me on my arrival in London, as I was going to the Savoy hotel, was a florist shop. I looked in and found them selling hothouse fruit, and baskets made up of both fruit and flowers. Going about London, I found the same thing everywhere. Almost all the good florists are handling fine fruits with their flowers. The following day, I made a trip to the wholesale market. Many of the flowers in London come from the south of France. England has not progressed in the last few years in its floral business, as has this country, although its shops are very beautiful.

"From England, I went to Holland, where there are fairly modern flower shops, and they are using many baskets. Of course, Holland has beautiful flowers.

"My impression of the first flower shop visited in Germany was wonderful. The windows were full of flowers, one being filled with wreaths for funerals. It is quite a custom in Europe to show the funeral wreaths in the shops. They always have natural designs in stock. In Europe, however, the wreaths are not made on wire frames, but on sticks or hoops, and wound around to make either a crescent wreath, which is very graceful, or the entire wreath. Most funeral wreaths average from three to seven feet in diameter. They do not make the fancy thing we have in this country; their main thing is wreaths. Europe caters to funeral designs in preference to any other type of work.

"To get back to the first flower shop I saw in Germany. The window was filled with fine draperies, beads of amber and other fine texture. I went into this establishment and met the proprietor, who told me that during the entire war they did a wonderful business. His sales increased three times over what they were prior to the war, the reason being that the people had lots of money, especially the working class, and not being able to spend it on food, as there was none to be had, spent it on flowers.

"I went along "Unter den Linden," and there I saw the flower shops carrying fine antiques. The proprietors claim that the people are anxious to spend money, so they carry this line in connection with the florist stock, and when they send antiques, fine china, etc., they decorate them with flowers.

"The flower shop in Germany has improved considerably since I was there prior to the war. They have all the material and the flowers to make up most beautiful work, yet have not the artistic arrangement the florists of the United States have. I showed them all of our ideas; some took them and some did not. I told them about the baskets used for funerals in this country. Some laughed; others took it seriously, and are going to try it. This I told to the florists in France and all the other countries I visited.

"An interesting thing about Germany is that you find flowers in every home, poor or rich. They have window boxes in the smallest alleys. I have gone into some of the houses of the poor working class and found plants and cut flowers around. This was encouraged during the entire war. During the war they encouraged giving birth to children, and the florists always had some novelties to send to the newborn boy member of the family. In the case of a girl, it is not considered important. One of these novelties I picked up, read: 'Another soldier for Hindenburg.'

"While the Germans were not restricted in flower growing, they were very much handicapped during the war in obtaining ribbon or any kind of silk or cotton. I found some ribbon that was made of paper and you could hardly tell it from that manufactured from the silkworm.

"Most of the German shops employ women as designers, as this class of labor is very cheap. Few florists have ice boxes, and these are not modern.

"Many flowers are seen at railroad stations. It is customary to present men and women, arriving and departing, with a gift of flowers.

"In France, the beaded wreath is much used. All florists carry large stocks of these, made from glass beads in various colors.

"Summing up conditions in Europe, as a whole, I would say that, although the floral business originated in Europe, today the United States is far ahead in this line of trade. This is a result of the American florists combining to help one another through the Society of American Florists and the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association. In Europe, every florist is a competitor of his neighbor."

Bulb Mite.

In a recent publication of the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment station (Bulletin No. 225), the author, Dr. Philip Garman, states that during 1919 the inspection of over a million bulbs in that state brought to light the significant fact that nearly all shipments contained the bulb mite, R. hyacinthi Banks. In many shipments, only a few infested bulbs were found, but in others, as high as 15 to 20 per cent were apparently destroyed. Shipments were, however, frequently delayed in transit, according to reports, a state of affairs doubtless responsible for the poor condition of many bulbs when they arrived at their destination. Rotten bulbs, too, are not always the result of mite infestation alone, there being several other causes of rot and disease—but the almost universal presence of the mites in decayed bulbs has led to the present study of life history, habits and control of the pest. A. F. Woods, of the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., claims that the Bermuda lily disease, caused in part by mite infestation, results in a yearly loss of 20 to 60 per cent of the entire crop where the plants are forced. Destruction of bulbs has also been noted by many other American and European workers. The injurious effects of the species in Connecticut were first described in the report of the state entomologist for 1915, when 3,000 Easter lilies were destroyed. Since then, no specific case in which extensive damage was done has been reported to that office, but there is doubtless a small per cent of loss each year, which should be prevented by proper inspection, care and treatment of the mite-infested bulbs.

Narcissus, hyacinth, tulip, crocus and Easter lily bulbs are infested by the bulb mite. In the laboratory, it has been reared on onions and potatoes, and it is probably capable of subsisting on almost any tuber or bulb. Its common occurrence in narcissus and lily bulbs may be due to the fact that these bulbs offer least resistance to attack, since the scales are loose and the mites find it easy to penetrate to the interior. Tulips are least injured, owing to their outer skin and tight-fitting scales, which have no place for the mites to enter. Hyacinths seem to be less easy to penetrate than narcissi, while onions, artificially infested with mites, were not injured unless they were partly rotten or bruised in the beginning. That the mites are able to feed on healthy tissue seems evident, both from numerous references to this particular ability by various writers, and from the experiences of those connected with that office in the case of the Bermuda onions already mentioned. A small number of tests have been conducted by Dr. Garman, in which mites entered and fed on growing narcissus bulbs. In these tests, rotten bulbs containing mites were placed in pots of soil just below the healthy ones and the mites readily left the rotten and entered the healthy bulbs. E. J. Welsford, in his "Investigation of Bulb Rot of Narcissi," claims that the rot of narcissus bulbs is transmitted by the minute worm or nematode, T. dispaci Kuhn, and not at all by the mite, Rhizoglyphus echinopus. This worm, however, has not been found in many of the rotten bulbs examined, while in few cases have mites been absent from diseased examples. Mr. Welsford admits that the bulb mite does a great deal of damage, but he does not consider it equal in importance to the nematode as a carrier of disease.

Morpholigical studies show that the mite has no tracheal system and cannot be killed, theoretically, by ordinary fumigants. H. E. Ewing, of the Oregon agricultural experiment station, demonstrated that 4.1 ounces of potassium cyanide per 5,470 cubic feet, or one ounce per 133 cubic feet of air space, was insufficient to kill the bulb mite. Fumigation at the New Haven laboratory with carbon disulphide in an air-tight container, one ounce to 100 cubic feet, required 48 hours to obtain a good kill. Mites on the interior of the bulbs were not destroyed, even with this length of exposure. P. Sorauer, an entomologist of Germany, recommends for use against the mite, R. echinopus, the use of a 48-hour carbon disulphide fumigation or immersion in tobacco extract. Forty per cent nicotine sulphate 1-400, with the addition of soap, killed only 7.1 per cent in tests conducted at this station. Fir tree oil was considerably more efficient, killing from 60 to 90 per cent in some instances, while in bulbs soaked in water heated to 55 degrees, Centigrade, nearly all were killed. A. F. Woods treated bulbs with mercuric chloride, 1-1,000 and 1-2,000, formalin 1-1,000 and 1-2,000, without success. A good kill was obtained by Dr. Garman with formalin heated to 50 degrees, Centigrade (122 degrees Fahrenheit), the bulbs being left for a period of 10 minutes. Nicotine sulphate 1-400, heated to 50 degrees Centigrade, and nicotine oleate heated to 50 degrees were also very successful acaricides. In all cases, careful observations were made on the hypopus because of its greater resistance, and the mites were examined daily for three days after treatment to be sure of results.

A few tests were conducted with narcissus bulbs in order to be sure that no injury results from the more successful treatments. Ten narcissus bulbs were first heated to 59 to 65 degrees Centigrade, in hot water, and left for a period of 30 minutes. Two bulbs were retained as checks. All treated bulbs were killed, but the checks remained healthy and grew. Shortly after, two narcissus bulbs were treated with hot water at a temperature of 50 degrees Centigrade for 10 minutes. These bulbs had fresh roots about one inch in length. Two bulbs were retained as checks. All bulbs grew, but the untreated ones were seen to be in better condition at time of blooming, and on removing from the pots, the original of the treated were found to be dead and a new lot in their place. Fifty degrees, Centigrade, is therefore non-injurious to narcissus, if the bulbs are without fresh roots and the period of immersion is not great. Paper White narcissi were used in these tests and none of the bulbs had any fresh roots. Some of the treated bulbs grew better and were more vigorous than the checks. All bulbs grew and the plants were approximately the same height at the conclusion of the test.

CONCLUSIONS.

In summing up his experiments on the bulb mite, the following conclusions were arrived at by Dr. Garman:

First—The bulb mite is capable of injuring healthy growing bulbs. Second—It is spread from place to place chiefly by means of the hypopus, which clings to small flies emerging from the decayed bulbs. Third—The life cycle may be completed in less than a month (nine to 29 days), or may be extended to a month and a half if the hypopial stage develops or if adverse conditions prevail. Fourth—One of the most satisfactory means of killing the mites were found to be that of dipping the bulbs in nicotine sulphate 1-400, or nicotine oleate, heated to 50 degrees, Centigrade. Hot water at the same temperature also destroys a good percentage. Fifth—The authority commonly given for the scientific name should be changed to Banks and the name should read Rhizoglyphus hyacinthi Banks.

BOSTON, MASS.—Arrangements for the big rose show in Horticultural hall, April 6-10, indicate a big success in this event.

BROOKLINE, MASS.—W. N. Craig, who has been ill for several weeks, has had a relapse and is again confined to his home.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND.—The range and retail establishment of the McDonald Floral Co. have been purchased by A. P. Morris and C. W. Jack, owners of the Morris & Jack Lettuce Farm, who will continue the business.

Kaolin Dust for Aphis.

The walnut aphis, the insect that destroys the foliage of the walnut groves of California, can testify to the narcotic effect of nicotine. Because the insect feeds upon the under side of the leaves it is very hard to control with ordinary spray applications, but two per cent, by weight, of nicotine sulphate at 40 per cent strength mixed with kaolin to give the poison bulk will go wherever the insect goes. The nicotine is applied to the foliage in the form of dust which premeates to every crevice and leaf fold. A single touch of the mixture is sufficient to make the aphis let go all holds and come tumbling to earth.

Nicotine sulphate dust has been so effective against the walnut aphis that the Bureau of Entomology, United States Department of Agriculture, decided to test it on truck crop insects. Recommendations based on the results of these tests are to be found in Department Circular 154. While a two per cent nicotine sulphate was sufficient to kill the walnut aphis, it was soon apparent that for other species a stronger proportion must be mixed with the kaolin. The melon aphis required about five per cent of the poison, but with that amount the results were entirely satisfactory. The most satisfactory type of machine for applying the dust was found to be a hand-operated bellows duster. With such a machine one man can cover two acres of full-grown melon plants in a day, using about 50 pounds of the mixture. The nicotine sulphate-kaolin mixture costs about 12 cents a pound in the five per cent strength. The cabbage aphis succumbed to a six per cent mixture. The pea aphis, onion thrips and western cucumber beetles were all susceptible to the dust in various strengths. The proper proportions and methods of application are given in the circular.

The development of this poison puts a very effective weapon in the hands of the truck grower, specialists of the department say. Dust can be applied more easily and quickly than spray, and larger areas can be treated in a given time. Its killing efficiency is always equal and usually excels that of spray. It costs less than spray and power dusters are cheaper than power sprayers. In dust from the poison can be combined with arsenate of lead or sulphur and applied dry for insects and fungous diseases.

Nicotine dust will lose its strength if it is not kept in air-tight packages. It is sometimes disagreable to the operator, particularly if the latter is inexperienced. It cannot be combined with Bordeaux mixture except when the latter is dry. In action, the nicotine sulphate is similar to nicotine and sulphate spray but much more rapid. When used as recomended by the Department of Agriculture, the dust has proved superior to spray in controlling certain insect pests.

Miller's New Range.

A. L. Miller, president of the Society of American Florists during the year 1920, has just placed an order for six greenhouses, each house being 20 feet-four inches wide by 150 feet long. These houses will be built at Jamaica, L. I., where Mr. Miller already has an extensive range of greenhouses. Each house will be five feet-seven inches from the ground to the eave line. The ridges will be 12 feet in the clear. The type of construction of the superstructure will be Lord & Burnham Co.'s, Irvington, N. Y., standard steel frame. Heretofore, Mr. Miller has built his greenhouses of pipe frame construction, but has come to the conclusion that the increase in cost of the steel frame over the pipe frame, is so slight that one is warranted in taking the steel rafter construction, which is far more durable. The houses will be furnished with cypress plant benches, supported by pipe post legs, and will be glazed with double thick glass 16 by 24 inches. Continuous ventilating sash on each side of the ridges, operated by Lord & Burnham Co.'s standard ventilating machinery, will furnish the necessary ventilation. Concrete walls four inches thick will be built around the sides of the houses, extending about two feet-four inches above grade. This takes the place of the usual double boarding, and will last indefinitely. The sides above the concrete wall will be constructed of glass. The houses will be heated throughout by hot water, circulated through two-inch steel pipes. A new Lord & Burnham Co. sectional cast iron boiler will be added to the already extensive heating plant. The contract for the range has been awarded to the above named concern. This firm has built all of Mr. Miller's greenhouses.

It is gratifying to note the steady and healthy growth of Mr. Miller's business at Jamaica. Starting with a few houses, he has gradually added to them, and today he has one of the largest, if not the largest, range of greenhouses devoted exclusively to the growing of plants. A constantly increasing number of visitors, both purchasers and members of the trade, testify as to Mr. Miller's reputation and fame as a plant grower. A visit to his establishment is well worth while, especially now, before Easter, and at Christmas time.

That Mr. Miller should place an order at this time, when so many of the trade are holding back, pessimistic as to the future, shows that he is still as optimistic as ever about the future of the plant business. Mr. Miller states that he has never yet been able to grow enough plants to fill his orders, that his business increases faster than he can build, and thinks that any florist who does not, or is afraid to go forward, will surely go backward.

The Late Arthur Bauscher.

Arthur Bauscher, president of the Bauscher Bros., Floral Co., Freeport, Ill., died March 17, at the Rockford hospital. He killed himself over a love affair with Miss Helen Wilson, whom he also shot, and who died shortly afterward. Mr. Bauscher was in business with his three brothers, and had the misfortune of losing his wife 18 months ago. At that time Miss Wilson was Mrs. Clarance Widholm, wife of an automobile salesman of Rockford. Dissension broke out in the family, and six months ago she filed action for divorce. Miss Wilson went to Freeport where she obtained employment at the Bauscher greenhouses. Mr. Bauscher fell in love with her and the two were often seen together. She received her divorce decree some weeks ago, and Mr. Bauscher at once proposed, but to no avail. Miss Wilson stated that she loved her former husband, and was on her way to see him in Rockford when the tragedy occurred.

Mr. Bauscher was a Mason, and is survived by two children, a boy and a girl.

Say It With Flowers in Japan.

The Yokohama Nursery Co., of Yokohama and Tokio, Japan, is advertising "Say It With Flowers" in its floral business. H. Suzuki, the head of the firm, says the slogan cannot be translated into Japanese and is therefore used in the original English wording.

Easter.

Easter, the most important floral holiday of the year, is just around the corner; be prepared to welcome the event with the greatest stock and most efficient service of your career.

The usual large crop of Easter weddings is now looming up. The progressive florist with a fine assortment of flowers, the latest novelties in artistic arrangement of bridal bouquets, and other accessory features at this time, will be sure to profit by such display.

The floral supply dealers are certainly keeping up with the procession. Their offerings of variety in plant baskets, hampers, pot coverings and other novelties for Easter, exceed in beauty and usefulness that of any previous season. Business is reported phenomenal.

Immediately the rush is over make a record of the Easter business, its successes and failures. The time to plan for next year is right now, when experiences are fresh in your mind.

Plan for a quick filling of the benches emptied at Easter. Such space must be pulling every week in the year for the best results.

The National Rose Show.

The 1921 National Rose Show to be held in Boston, Mass., April 6-10, in Horticultural hall, under the auspices of the American Rose Society and the Massachusetts Horticultural Society now promises to be one of the best exhibitions ever staged. Officials of the two organizations, after discussing plans recently, report that there is a great interest in the show on the part of rose distributors, rose breeders, rose amateurs, and that already there has been evidenced a fine support and plans for a heavy entry. Thousands of dollars are offered as prizes; also some very valuable medals by both societies, and by interested growers. In connection with the rose show there will be held lectures upon rose culture at 3:30 each afternoon of the exposition, and the Massachusetts Horticultural Society will stage its annual spring exhibition of orchids and spring blooming plants. This exhibition of orchids is the talk of the trade all over the country. President Albert C. Burrage, of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society, is doing much to encourage interest in orchids, not only in New England, but elsewhere.

All interested in exhibiting should write for the premium list, addressing the secretary of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society, Horticultural hall, Boston, Mass.

New Orleans Protest.

Conditions in a certain city of the south have been such that a storm of protest has arisen among the retail florists. Complaints are heard on all sides that some of the wholesale dealers of Chicago are supporting these so-called unfair competitors by supplying them with stock and supplies to carry on their business. Of course, the wholesaler has a perfect right to sell his goods to anyone who has the money to pay them, but the retailers, who are in business the whole year round, and are steady buyers from the Chicago market (even during the dull summer months) should deserve more consideration than those who come here and squat on the sidewalk, or others who have no place of business whatever, and solicit orders for floral work of every description, including weddings, receptions, teas, etc. They carry no regular stock on hand, they have no high rent or taxes to pay, no expensive working force; in fact, they have practically no overhead expense, to which the legitimate retailers are subject. How can the latter compete against such odds?

With stock so scarce and at such high prices (wholesale) the margin of profit for the retailer is so small that he can just about "break even," with nothing left to carry him through the dull summer months. It would be well for some of the wholesalers to think this matter over, if they would not kill "the goose that lays the golden eggs."

The department and 10-cent stores are selling young rose stock cheaper than the florists can buy them. We think the Springfield people should give the florists the preference. The express wagons were peddling carnations the other day; they were refused by the street peddlers. The landscape gardeners are complaining about the superintendent of one of the parks, doing jobbing work, using the park as his place of business. The gardeners say they cannot meet obligations with unjust competitors. This kind of business should be stopped, or let them fall in line and pay taxes and labor, and be put exactly on the same footing as they. Let the gardeners have a square deal.

C. L. OBY, Sec'y,
New Orleans Horticultural Society.

ED. AMERICAN FLORIST:

Will you kindly give these few lines space in THE AMERICAN FLORIST, as it may be of some protection to our brother florists. About three weeks' ago a certain German applied at the Metaire Ridge Nursery Co., New Orleans, La., for work. He gave a hard luck story, and the writer promised to give him something to do until he could straighten out his finances. The German asked for money several times before he had completed his first week of labor, and at the end of that time was paid $18, with which he made a few necessary purchases.

The following week he borrowed money from most of the men and women on the place, and when Saturday came, he was paid in full, and promised to settle all accounts the following week. He never came back, and was last seen making his way toward Texas and California. If any florists in those states meet this party, the writer hopes they will be on their guard. He left without paying for his room or board, and swindled a Chinaman who operated a restaurant, out of some meals, charging the same up to the Metaire Ridge Nursery Co. The party in question is a German who was interned during the war. He is well built, weighs about 180 pounds, has red hair which he wears long, and speaks very good English. He told that he had formerly been employed by Max Schling, New York, Gude Bros., Washington, D. C., and had worked in Charleston, S. C., and Laurel, Miss.

BUSINESS FAIRLY ACTIVE.

Business was fairly good all week, funeral work in particular being heavy. There is a marked increase in the supply of many seasonable flowers, with the possible exception of roses. This flower still continues in short supply with prices remaining very firm. Wholesalers predict a much larger cut by Easter as the weather is now very favorable to the coming crop. American Beauty roses have increased lagely in the daily arrivals and the crop may now be said to be at its best—an average of $5.00 per dozen is being paid the growers for this stock. Columbia of the finest quality noted this season is arriving and cleans up readily at fancy figures. Mrs. Chas. A. Russell continues in short supply with a constant demand. Premier is scarce. Ophelia is increasing gradually in the daily arrivals with no change in prices. There seems to be enough of Hadley and Hoosier Beauty to meet all requirements. Cecil Brunner is practically out of the market at present. The first cut of grown sweet peas came in during the week and found a ready market. The colors, however, are not decided enough and it will be some time before they are at their best. We are now at the height of the daffodil season, and while the offerings are all that could be desired, it is a case of naming your own price. The supply is so great that the market is totally unable to absorb the greater part of it. On every corner in the downtown district may be seen boys and men with great baskets of this flower offering them for whatever they will bring. Iris is improving in quality and is being featured in basket work. There is also a great over-supply of violets. Carnations are coming in large quantities. This has caused a drop in price on all varieties with the exception of Laddie which still retains its old price of $1.50 per dozen wholesale. There is plenty of Dutch hyacinths coming into the market and just at this time it does not seem to move very rapidly. The same is true of tulips and other bulbous offerings. Freesias are getting scarce and good stock sells quickly. There are still some yellow freesias to be had. Callas are a drug on the market. Cattleyas are again a scarce article with a brisk demand. Lily of the valley continues in fairly good supply and brings good prices. There is still a scarcity of good snapdragons. Ferns and asparagus are now equal to all requirements as are all green stocks. Many Easter plants are already arriving. Azaleas may now be had in all colors and no finer plants could be asked for than those now on display. There is also a good assortment of rhododendrons in various sizes to select from. Rambler roses are another addition to the list of flowering plants. Ericas and cinerarias are plentiful. From present indications there is going to be a bounteous supply of flowering stock for Easter. Lilium Giganteum also promises to be in ample supply. The call for foliage plants continues active with nephrolepis leading.

THE GLADIOLUS

Is more satisfactory and lasting than many higher priced flowers. I am now shipping FINE GLADIOLUS SPIKES to florists all over the Continent. Satisfactory condition on arrival guaranteed. Same level price to all florists, postage added. Order a trial box of 50 or 100 by wire at my expense.

NOTES.

Daniel MacRorie, of the MacRorie-McLaren Co., says the spring plant trade this year is much ahead of past seasons. His greenhouses are filled with Easter stock. Rhododendrons, principally Pink Pearl, are coming along nicely. The firm is very busy with landscape work also.

The Art Floral Co. has received an order for the decorations on board the new liner "Golden Gate", which sails for the Orient next week. Joseph Bungard of this firm will be in charge of the work which calls for a large amount of stock.

B. M. Joseph, in charge of the Easter advertising campaign of the Retail Florists' Association, reports that a substantial sum has been collected to advertise "Say It With Flowers," for the Easter trade.

A special meeting of the Retail Florists' Association was held on March 17. Important matters pertaining to the new wholesale flower market were brought to the attention of the members.

The State Floral Society held its regular monthly meeting, March 10. Miss Alice Eastland, the noted California botanist, gave an interesting lecture to the members on "Spring Flowers."

PRICES SLIGHTLY HIGHER.

Prospects for Easter trade are very promising. Judging from the way people have been buying there should be a good demand for the staples such as roses, carnations, violets, Easter lilies and sweet peas. The supply of flowers is as large as usual and the quality is generally excellent. Prices for Easter in roses and carnations will be slightly higher than usual. On other varieties of flowers the same prices will prevail as have been recorded for the past month. Demand has been very good at all of the stores. One of the features has been the good demand for corsages as there have been many social events. Weddings are now more numerous and will increase during the spring. There has been considerable funeral work also. Plants are selling well with the main varieties, Easter lilies, hydrangeas, hyacinths, etc., leading. Easter lily plants sell from $2.50 to $15.

At the meeting of the Flower Growers' and Dealers' Association, which was formed last week, the following members were enrolled: Carl H. Jagst, Franklin Park Floral Co.; S. F. Stephens, S. F. Stephens & Son; G. A. Ackerman, G. A. Ackerman Floral Co.; Albert M. Mills, Indianola Floral Co.; Herman W. Kropp, Cottage Rose Gardens; I. D. Siebert and G. H. Woodrow, of the Fifth Avenue Floral Co.; H. H. Munk and Ralph Munk of the Munk Floral Co.; Frank Townsend, Rolph Zetlitz Co.; Ernest Helm, F. A. Brigel, C. W. Hubber, W. J. Brunst, T. J. Ludwig and Edward D. Ludwig of the T. J. Ludwig Floral Co. It was decided to hold the next meeting at the offices of the T. J. Ludwig Floral Co., April 6. At that time the constitution and by-laws will be ready for consideration and permanent officers will be elected. Edward D. Ludwig is acting as temporary secretary of the association. J. W. L.

Rochester, N. Y.

STOCK IN ABUNDANT SUPPLY.

Trade has been rather quiet preceding Easter and there has been an abundant supply of all kinds of cut flowers, but no outlet for the stock. Roses of all kinds are excellent but there is an oversupply. Calendulas, Paper White narcissi, cut primulas, hyacinths, callas, tulips, etc., are all abundant and the price is low. Carnations are very poor in quality and in weak stems, but acacia and Scotch heather sprays are finding favor with the flower buyers, even though they are expensive. There are fine primulas, genistas, tulips, daffodils, and a few azaleas in the market. Everything looks bright for a big Easter trade.

NOTES.

On Friday, March 11, the Florists' Association held a carnation and sweet pea exhibit at the Osborne house, which contained many of the new and better varieties. David J. Scott, wholesale grower, Corfu, N. Y., gave a talk on "The Growing of Cut Flowers and How to Get Best Results." Max Schling, New York, was announced as a speaker for the next meeting of the association.

An immense green harp, holding green carnations, was a feature of the central figure of the St. Patrick's day display at J. B. Keller Sons.

The Rochester Floral Co. had a fine display for St. Patrick's day, of green carnations.

James Vicks' Sons are making a specialty of fancy plant baskets for Easter.

W. L. Keller has returned from Denver, Colo., and reports a fine trip.

Hart & Vicks report that their seed trade is very fine.

The American Florist Company's Directory of Florists, Nurserymen and Seedsmen of the United States and Canada.

(Copyrighted and Title Trade-Mark Registered.)

Directory Revision

We are revising our Trade Directory of the Florists, Nurserymen, Seedsmen, etc., of the United States and Canada, and as there have been many changes in firm names and considerable extension of the area under glass, nursery grounds, etc., you would greatly oblige by supplying the following information with reference to your business:

In all cases state (1) Name of firm or proprietor, with the officers of corporations; (2) Name of manager; (3) Address, giving street and number or rural route; (4) City or town; (5) State; (6) When business was established; and (7) Whom present owner succeeded.

If Florists, state whether (1) Grower; (2) Retail, having store only, (3) Wholesale; or (4) Commission. If a grower state acreage of ground operated and give number of square feet of glass.

To ascertain the number of feet under glass in a given house, multiply the length (145 feet) by the width (12 feet) and you have in that house 1,740 feet under glass, thus,

If Nurserymen, state whether (1) Wholesale; (2) Retail; (3) Acreage of ground operated, and area under glass as in the case of florists above.

If Seedsmen, state whether (1) Dealer: (2) Grower; (3) What your specialties are; (4) If a grower, state acreage operated and area under glass, as in the case of florists above.

Inclose your printed letterhead or business card with above details of the business.

Please send the names and addresses of new firms in your vicinity.

EARLY EASTER DEMAND IS BRISK.

Business was very good last week when a large quantity of stock that had accumulated was disposed of at fair prices, considering the dull period that has existed for sometime. The out-of-town demand was good and the city call for stock was exceptionally heavy. The retailers in general were well pleased with business and the wholesalers have no complaint tc make. The early demand for stock for Easter is very encouraging, and if the weather is any at all favorable the market should clean up completely in all lines. Blooming plants are reported to be scarce and all the dealers are completely sold up in this vicinity. Cut lilies are in strong demand and fancy stock is commanding high prices. Many of the wholesalers are anticipating a complete cleanup in this item, while some are looking for a great scarcity before the week is over. Callas are having a good call and are none too plentiful. American Beauty roses are in good supply, and in good demand. Columbia, Russell and Premier are in strong demand and there is a brisk call for Milady, Sunburst, Ophelia, Butterfly, Mrs. Ward, Montrose, Victor, Golden Rule, Double White Killarney and all the other varieties grown for this market. Cecile Brunner and Nesbit are cleaning up fast each day. Colored freesia are in good supply and are moving nicely right along. Carnations are plentiful, but are moving well at this writing, and should be completely disposed of before the rush is over. Violets are in strong demand and so are sweet peas. Lily of the valley, orchids and gardenias are in good supply, but are moving nicely. Daisies, jonquils, tulips, Darwin tulips, calendulas, mignonette, pansies, choice lupines, Narcissus poeticus and snapdragons are included in the offerings and are all having a good call. Southern jonquils are arriving in large quantities and are in strong demand. Greens are in good supply but are selling well. The retailers are making a strong bid for the Easter business by making large displays of stock and advertising, either direct or through the daily papers.

NOTES.

Wietor Bros. report business as good with a cleanup in stock each day. The early outlook for a brisk Easter business is very encouraging at this establishment and a complete disposal in stock is expected with favorable weather.

Do not take any fake or imitation thread, claimed to be the Meyer silkaline, or smilax threads. Be sure the name Meyer is on the end of each spool, as we find there are a lot of fake brands being put on the market to imitate our green florists' thread. Weigh up our threads and then weigh up the other parties' that you are buying from and you will notice that our threads run full two ounces of thread to the spool. Be sure and get the Meyer thread.

Commercial Flower Growers Ass'n.

The Commercial Flower Growers' Association held its regular monthly meeting at the Hotel Randolph, Thursday evening, March 17. Henry Wehrmann read a very interesting paper on "Sweet Peas" and the rest of the evening was devoted to the discussion of advertising relative to the Allied Florists' Association. Those present were well pleased with the results of the assessment plan the past year, but the general opinion was that the retailers as a body were not giving it the support they should. The following had exhibits:

Hans Jepsen, Maywood.—A fine display of Zvolanek's sweet peas and General Pershing freesias.

Henry Wehrmann, Maywood.—A fine collection of sweet peas.

George Ball, Glen Ellyn.—Sweet peas of splendid quality. Awarded a certificate of merit for variety Annette.

G. Swenson, Elmhurst.—Exceptionally well-grown sweet peas.

Ernest Weiss, Maywood.—Splendidly grown sweet peas.

A. E. Hunt & Co., Evanston.—Lupines and white, yellow and blue daisies.

Henry Neve, Des Plaines.—Asparagus sprengeri.

George Ball, William Duntemann and A. E. Hunt acted as judges.

DEMAND FOR STOCK GENERALLY GOOD.

There is a great supply of all kinds of stock on the market. The demand is good, however, and prices have been conducive to a large trade. Funeral work has comprised about 75 per cent of the trade this week. All bulbous stock is going rapidly and there will be a shortage of lilies for Easter, it is predicted. Prospects are bright for a big retail trade during Easter. The florists of this city are making up some very fancy baskets of violets, bulbous plants, and lilies in an endeavor to attract the Easter trade. Roses of the colored varieties are plentiful but the market is short on whites. The Russell, Premier, Butterfly, Ward, Ophelia and Killarney are leaders and bring good money. Carnations are more than plentiful and may be had at all prices. There is a very limited quantity of Laddie carnations among the offerings and these bring very fancy prices. Jonquils are of the finest grade and are to be had everywhere. The demand, however, is surprisingly good. Narcissi of the common types are entirely gone and a few Poeticus narcissi are beginning to come in. There are never any left over, for the demand for them is great. Lilium Harrisii is seen at every florists, and the demand is excellent.

both for cut flowers and pot plants. The market is flooded with lily of the valley for which there is no demand. Violets are coming in in large quantities and the offerings are of very poor quality. Some excellent pot plants of violets in fancy containers are to be had at most establishments. Calendulas of good quality are few and far between and are valuable property. Sweet peas of the large flowered varieties are quite plentiful and the demand for them is good. It is predicted by florists that corsage bouquets will be more popular after Easter. Snapdragons are in great demand but the supply is limited. Stock on hand, however, is of good quality. The supply of daisies coming in is increasing steadily and they find a ready place on many tables. Tulips are very plentiful and there is good supply of Darwin and Morilla varieties among the offerings. Roman hyacinths are very scarce this week. Pot plants of tulips, hyacinths, jonquils and freesias are important factors in most of the window displays. Orchids of the cattleya type are very plentiful, but the demand for them is not good. A few dealers are displaying some fine pansies in from two to six inch pots. They are the season's first and therefore, are going at a high price. Roses of the small clustered types are seen in many windows. Deutzias are also commonly seen among the offerings. Dracaenas of both red and green varieties, pandanus, crotons and ferns are seen in all windows. Cinerarias are

Albany, N. Y.

An enjoyable trip by automobile was had by six of the local growers and retailers to the New York Spring Show last week. On the way down to the show the party followed the route along the west coast of the Hudson river, spending a few hours at the range of Henry Hansen at Catskill, and the establishment of Herman Burgevin, near Kingston. A fine time was had by all at the exhibition.

The Florists' Club held a show for the members and their friends at the Albany Cut Flower Exchange, March 17. There was a generous display of hydrangeas, rose bushes, carnations, and bulbous spring stock. Most of the stock was auctioned off to the retailers present after the show and the sum of about $200 was turned into the Club treasury.

H. D. Phillips of the State Bureau of Foods and Markets, will be one of the speakers at the convention of vegetable growers of the state to be held in Syracuse, March 29. Mr. Phillips will tell of the reporting service maintained by his bureau and which is said to be a help to the business.

SECOND ANNUAL CONVENTION.

With a splendid attendance of between 200 and 300 members of the trade and their wives, and a well-arranged programme that held interest during two days, the second annual meeting of the Michigan State Florists' Association, which was held at Saginaw, March 7-8, was a complete success in every detail. At the opening session, Tuesday afternoon, the visitors were warmly welcomed by Mayor B. N. Morcer, followed by President Goetz, who delivered his annual address, which included many suggestions of timely interest. Other well-known speakers at this session were Professor G. Koons, of the Michigan Agricultural College, Lansing, who discussed "Principles of Disease Control in Greenhouses," in a most able manner, and Philip Breitmeyer, Detroit, who was listened to with interest in his talk on "Readjustment of the Retail Business." In the evening, the visiting florists were guests of the local craft at a theater party.

Wednesday morning was devoted to an inspection of the local ranges and retail establishments, the business session of the second day being scheduled for the afternoon, the principal speaker being Professor R. P. Hubbard, of Michigan Agricultural College, who addressed the association on "Greenhouse Problems From the Standpoint of a Plant Physiologist." Considerable routine business was transacted, and previous to adjournment, the following officers were elected to serve during the ensuing year: S. W. Coggan, Battle Creek, president; Henry Smith, Grand Rapids, vice-president; W. S. Wells, Ann Arbor, treasurer; Robert M. Plumb, Detroit, secretary. Grand Rapids was chosen as the convention city for 1922. In the evening, the annual banquet was held in the Masonic Temple. In addition to an excellent menu, the affair was made all the more enjoyable with a musical programme, interspersed with short talks. The dining room was beautifully decorated for the occasion.

A splendid feature of the convention, of much interest to the visitors as well as to the general public, was the flower show staged in the large hall of the Masonic Temple, planned and arranged by Chas. Frueh & Co., Grohman, the Florist, J. B. Goetz's Sons and the Roethke Floral Co., the exhibition being open both afternoon and evening on both days of the meeting. Attractively arranged on long tables the blooms appeared to fine advantage, and so successful was the idea that it will probably become a feature of the association's annual gatherings. One of the outstanding features was an immense American flag, carnations being employed in its design, which occupied a prominent position at the entrance to the hall. This won praise from all. The hall, with its tasty decoration, formed an excellent setting.

BUSINESS IN GOOD CONDITION

Stock has been plentiful and cheap, and large quantities have been moved daily. Both Easter and calla lilies are coming in in large quantities and prices had to be cut in order to move them. At present it looks as though there would be plenty of both to take care of all Easter orders. The supply of roses is on the increase and the quality is the best of the season. If the Easter supply is as good as at present there will be very few complaints on roses. Carnations are also in large supply and the quality is the best. The warm spring-like days have brought in the sweet peas by the thousands and it has been impossible to realize anything near what they were worth, and only the best have been used to fill orders; the balance usually find their way to the street boys. The supply of tulips has been small and it looks as though the Easter supply would not be very large. Some fine jonquils are arriving, among them a few King Alfred. Violets have been very poor, and it is to be hoped that the quality will improve before Easter, or there will be a lot of dissatisfied customers. All indications point to a big Easter business. The wholesale houses report advance orders away ahead of expectations, although the out-of-town florists seem to be ordering heavier than the local trade.

NOTES.

A grippe epidemic has struck the McCallum Company, affecting at least one person in each department, the office having four confined at home. Geo. McCallum, sales manager for the company, is in Detroit where he will be found till after the Easter rush, while Mr. Phillips, manager of the decorative department, is in Chicago attending the Marshall Field & Co. opening.

A. W. Smith, of The A. W. Smith Flower Stores Co., has returned from Fairmont, W. Va., where he was attending the convention of Rotarians.

Jacob Gerwig, of The Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co., is in Buffalo, N. Y., attending the National Bowling tournament.

Edward Weaver, of Randolph & McClements, has come back from a trip to Cleveland, O., and Detroit, Mich.

A QUIET TONE IN THE MARKET.

Business this week showed no improvement over the past few weeks; trade in general being very quiet. The supply has been rather overabundant except carnations which cleaned up fairly well at good prices, considering the amounts offered for other stock. Roses are increasing steadily with not a very ready demand. Calla and Easter lilies are plentiful and sell well but not at any fancy prices. Sweet peas are still coming in far in excess of the demand, although the fancier ones sell well. Marguerites, pansies, etc., have receded somewhat in price but they hang on and sell only with great urging. Bulbs are about the same as a week ago except freesia, which is pretty well gone, only very poor stock arriving. Violets show the effect of the few warm days and only a few more such as we had this week would finish them before Easter. Orchids and lily of the valley were more in demand this week than for some time past. Green carnations sold well for St. Patrick's day. The stores were looking to the wholesaler for this variety when it got too late to dye any more. The sale of shamrocks was far below the past few years. There will be an abundant supply of stock on hand for Easter, at reasonable prices.

NOTES.

The Gardeners' and Florists' Club held their monthly meeting at Horticultural hall, March 15. Robert Cameron spoke on "The Best Things to Plant for a Hardy Garden and How to Obtain the Best Results."

M. Aaronson, commission salesman at the Co-operative Flower market, was found dead in bed, recently. Mr. Aaronson had been in poor health for the past two years.

J. McNamara, salesman for the Montrose greenhouses, is expected back to work in a few days. E. F. S.

TRADE GRADUALLY IMPROVING.

Business has picked up considerably from last week, although there are few, if any, social entertainments to call for a lavish display of flowers. There are no weddings, though engagements are still announced giving a promise of good business after Easter. In fact the trend of all thoughts is toward Easter and roses are being held back, while lilies are urged forward so as to be ready for the great day. All kinds of plants are coming in and there is a very good trade in them. Cinerarias, primulas, tulips, narcissi, pansy plants and even geraniums are in the market; also some calla lilies, which are always a favorite with some people. The weather has been ideal, except for the intervention of a snow a week ago. The street market is well supplied with jonquils and in nearly every corner one sees a street merchant with huge baskets of the golden blossoms. They retail at 10 cents a dozen. Violets are also being vended. Roses are coming on in profusion, and are somewhat cheaper in price, and fine in quality. There seems to be considerable lily of the valley. Carnations are more profuse than ever before with a slight drop in price. Farmers everywhere are plowing the city lot gardens.

The firm of L. H. Haury & Sons will continue business under the same firm name and John Haury will manage the business. They have fine prospects for the Easter trade and are well prepared in all lines. Louis Haury will continue to manage his own plant on the Foster road.

Geny Bros. are cutting a nice lot of roses, for which they have good sales. They have a good supply of Calla lilies, while their supply of Easter lilies will be very fine. Their carnations are blooming profusely, and their plant collection is unsurpassed.

The Joy Floral Gardens are turning out very wonderful roses. They have made fine preparations for the Easter season, and have a good supply, too, of carnations and quite a variety of other cut flowers.

The McIntyre Bros. Floral Company are well up in their Easter preparations and expect to have a fine and full stock of roses, carnations, lilies and plenty of nice plants.

GOOD EASTER TRADE EXPECTED.

The business of the past week has been discouraging; there were little spurts and a fairly good clean up on Friday and Saturday, but there was an old style Lenten dullness that kept prices at a level that will make very unsatisfactory returns. The quality of nearly everything is quite ahead of any previous season. This is due principally to the superb new roses, which are now handled by enough growers to make them fairly plentiful. Premier, Pilgrim, Columbia, Crusader and Dunlop are all truly fine roses, which with Mrs. Chas. Russell make a great sextette. There is also very fine snapdragon in a number of colors which is very decorative. Callas are plentiful, a certain freaky kind much too plentiful. Short and twisted imperfect flowers may count numerically but they certainly will not make much of a showing in the return. Good Godfrey calla bulbs or corms, while they cost a dollar or two more a hundred than the ordinary field grown common stock of California, are almost certain with common sense culture to produce perfect flowers that are always the choice of the market. Sweet peas have had a wonderful run the past three weeks, owing to the mild weather. Easter lilies are quite sufficient for the light demand. Violets are almost gone and it is a question if there will be any for Easter. Cattleyas are stiffening up a bit with the prospects of the Easter harvest in sight, some quoting the best stock at from $1.50 to $2 each. Daffodils, particularly fine Emperor, have been offered freely; such stock should sell at sight but the men in charge of the selling end appear to be falling down on their job. It should not be hard to move 1,000 or more a day of such fine flowers, in any of the larger stores. The lily of the valley offered now is of very good quality. We do not know of a season when Easter stock has been more varied and in a better state of forwardness and perfection. There is a splendid lot of Giganteum lilies, exceptionally fine in all that goes to make such plants perfect, at the price 20 cents per bud and flower. Never have hydrangeas been so well done. There are quantities of the smaller sizes which always sell out first. The colors of many of the French varieties are wonderfully bright. The rambler roses are very fine. Even the late flowering Dorothy Perkins and Lady Gay are sure to be in full bloom and at their very best for the holiday. Some very elaborate forms, such as aeroplanes, large baskets, pyramids and other forms in large sizes are wonderfully well flowered. Genistas are a quantity stock with several growers. Hinodigiri azaleas are of good quality in a number of the stocks. There are also a number of American grown spireas that appear quite equal to the imported stock. Cinerarias are a quantity stock with some growers; they look very showy. Bulbous stock of good quality is seen with men who make such stock a specialty.

NOTES.

All of the up-to-date growers, retailers and commission men, journeyed to New York during the week to look over the great Spring Show. They were much pleased with its various features, declaring it to be quite in advance over that of previous exhibitions. The Joseph Heacock Co., Ogontz, and Florex Gardens, North Wales, upheld the prestige of the rose growers of this section by each winning three firsts out of four entries in the various rose classes.

S. S. Pennock sailed on the S. S. New Amsterdam from New York March 26, for a six months' sojourn in Europe, with headquarters in Berlin, Germany. Mr. Pennock will have charge of the Friend's Relief Association of America, who devote their energies to caring for the underfed and sickly orphans of ex-soldiers. He states that all members of the association wear a button identifying them with the work and they are treated with the greatest respect everywhere they go.

Our friend "Phil" will find a news item referring to the good work done by that great Philadelphian, Charles H. Grakelow, at Scranton, in our issue of February 19. There is nothing about Hamlet, movies, stenographers, telephones, etc., just plain facts, which "Phil" has our permission to use at any time.

J. J. Habermehl's Sons are prepared for the largest Easter business they have ever experienced. An elaborate lot of plant baskets is being disposed of according to Harry Jones, who is in this line.

All that is lacking in this city for a similar first class flower show is a suitable hall. Everybody push for the completion of Convention hall on the Parkway.

American Beauties, high grade Russell roses, lily of the valley and cattleyas are features at the Leo Niessen store. Corsage roses are also leaders.

According to Sydney Bayersdorfer, H. Bayersdorfer & Co., are having a great Easter trade and they expect to be busy up to the last minute.

At Berger Bros. everything is set for Easter with a large stock of bulbous flowers of all kinds. Easter and calla lilies are a feature. K.

LOUISVILLE, KY.—August R. Baumer, prominent florist of this city, has been elected treasurer of the local lodge of the Loyal Order of Moose.

EVANSVILLE, IND.—According to a recent report, this city now has 550 acres in parks on which extensive improvements are planned to be made this year.—W. B. C.

New York.

Business was slow throughout the past week up to March 19, when there was much activity. There was some trade in green carnations for St. Patrick's day, which did not compensate for what was lost in other lines. But we had a great flower show; so why worry? The warm weather has been bringing along stock in fine shape, and there have been fears that lilacs and some other plants were advancing too rapidly. However, Saturday was quite cool and it continued so throughout the day. As this is March, when the weather sharps say "unsettled weather", it is probably as good a guess as they could make.

March 21—Sunday was the warmest day of which the weather bureau has record, the temperature ranging from 72 to 76 degrees. At this writing it seems to be making a drive for a higher record today. There is little change in the condition of the cut flower market and if this weather continues it will register gloom for Easter. Orchids are scarce, selling at $100 to $200 per hundred.

NOTES.

The annual banquet of the Florists' Club, held at the Hotel Biltmore, March 16, was a tribute to the youth and beauty of the city. Of the 300 in attendance, a large number were on the border line of their teens. About 10 p. m. President Hendrickson started the oratory by introducing William F. Gude, Washington, D. C., always a popular and interesting speaker. J. F. Ammann was next introduced and in speaking of the flower show he quoted a passage from St. Paul's writings, as illustrating his inability to describe its beauties. Joseph A. Manda then came to the front, in fine fettle for a presentation speech, which was cheered to the echo when he got to the silver tea set and presented it to Past-President Henshaw in behalf of the members of the Club. In a clever response Mr. Henshaw intimated a possible high percentage of strength in the tea, which Mrs. Henshaw will serve to their generous friends, at a favorable opportunity. Dancing continued until after midnight.

"Le Moult, the Florist," will soon leave the Bowery; the present proprietor, Adolph Le Moult, son of the founder of the business, so informs us. The store at 51 West 28th street is being thoroughly refitted and he will occupy it as soon as the changes are completed. Figuratively speaking, the Bowery is losing its vitality and is getting to be a "molycoddle."

David A. Dean, son of the late James Dean, has gone into the seed business at 19 Park place, the firm name being Dean & Campkin. The Dean family has long been well and favorably known in the florist business of this city, James Dean, the father, having been president of the Society of American Florists in 1892.

The entry of carnations in the Spring Show by Henry Hession on March 18, which took first prize, was staged and arranged by the staff of the Hession Store, Madison avenue and 76th street.

J. F. Ammann and George Asmus, who had been attending the flower show, left for Boston, Mass., to attend a meeting of growers.

Mrs. Cronin, mother of Mrs. Charles H. Totty, died at her home in Canandaigua, N. Y., on March 11, age 84 years. A. F. F.

BALTIMORE, MD.—At a recent meeting of the Florists' Club, Max Schling, New York, demonstrated the art of making bouquets and brought out that it was more important to blend colors than to match them. A resolution was adopted to have a flower show next fall.

STOCK IN LARGE SUPPLY.

The warm weather the past week has been a great help to the lily growers and there will be a fine supply for Easter. Stock of all kinds excepting roses is fairly plentiful and business keeps up well for this season. The St. Patrick's day trade is generally reported to have been the same as last year although green carnations were not as noticeable as formerly. Shamrock sold well and there was some good stock. Roses seem to be the only variety of stock which will not be plentiful for Easter, but the growers are holding the prices on these so high that there will no doubt be plenty to go around. Bulbs and flowering plants are of good quality and in large supply. Sweet peas are coming in in fine shape and with orchid, lily of the valley, violets and other small stock, there will be plenty of variety for corsage work. There is a feeling that the Easter business will possibly not reach the high mark of last season, but the retailers are advertising extensively, so it should help sales considerably.

Members of the Club motored out to the range of J. H. Dunlop & Son, Richmond Hill, on March 15, and had a very enjoyable time. Roses are the main crop here, and are in excellent condition. The F. W. Dunlop rose, as grown here, is producing specimen blooms. Columbia shows a number of sports which are being carefully looked after. Lilies are looking fine and the place generally is in model condition.

The Florists' Club held a box social at their regular meeting recently, and those who attended, spent a most delightful evening.

LOUISVILLE, KY.—The Louisville Garden Club, organized by local women during the war, has disbanded, due to lack of interest.

PETERBOROUGH, ONT. — The annual convention of the Canadian Gardeners' and Florists' Association will be held in this city, August 9-11.

HUNTLEY, ILL.—The Soil Vaccine Co. has been incorporated with a capital of $25,000, to deal in soil vaccine, operation of greenhouses, agricultural clubs and associations. The incorporators are Victor Mey, J. F. Ryan and A. C. Dious.

MADISON, WIS.—The Madison Floricultural Society, the first organization of its kind in this city, was formed March 2. The Society plans to hold spring and fall flower exhibits, and hopes to arouse the interest of school children by furnishing bulbs and holding prize contests. The following officers were elected for the coming year: Elmore T. Elver, president, Mrs. Frank Kessenich, vice president, and Miles C. Riley, secretary and treasurer.

KANSAS reports fairly good buying of seeds and implements by farmers.

TAMPA, FLA.—Crenshaw Bros. Seed Co., is employing billboads extensively in its advertising.

ONION SET prices on South Water street, Chicago, remain the same as last week, 60 to 75 cents for colors and $1.25 for whites.

PRICE of bags at Chicago, March 23: American, 16-oz., $30.00 per bale, in bale lots or over; Railroads, 16-oz., $30.00; Crown, 12-oz., $23.00.

HONEY DEW melons were selling in New York at $3.50 each during the week ending March 19. They came from Cape Colony, South Africa.

COCOANUT GROVE, FLA.—David Fairchild, of the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., is spending his winter vacation here.

VISITED CHICAGO: R. C. McGill, of the McGill Seed Growers Co., San Francisco, Calif.; O. V. Zangen, formerly of Hoboken, N. J., now at Orlando, Fla.

OUR price of $1.50 per 100 pounds for seed potatoes at Chicago last week was an error, the correct figure then and now being $2.00 per 100 pounds in car lots.

NORWICH, N. Y.—A. H. Goodwin and wife, Chicago, have disposed of the historic tavern here known as the Eagle hotel, standing on ground 110 by 176 feet.

AT the funeral of the late W. W. Barnard, Chicago, March 16, the local trade was well represented and the floral tributes were numerous and beautiful.

BOARD OF TRADE—Prices for grass seed on the Chicago Board of Trade, March 23, were as follows: Timothy, $4.25 to $5.50 per 100 pounds; Red Clover, $12.00 to $18.00.

THE growing of sweet peas for seed in California, has been aided materially by the use of kaolin dust for aphis. An article on the use of kaolin will be found elsewhere in this issue.

S. D. WOODRUFF & SONS, New York, say their business is now equal to that of last year at the same date, the past three weeks showing material improvement. A good season seems now assured.

The J. Steckler Seed Co., New Orleans, La., complains of a very trying season, many of its customers, growers of rice, sugar and corn, having gone out of business. There is just as much activity as last year, but the orders received are smaller and the value much reduced.

MARIETTA, PA. — Charles Johnson, well known seedsman, for many years agent for Denaiffe & Sons in the United States and Canada, will visit that firm at their establishment in northern France in the near future.

CARLOAD shipments of field beans this season have been about 400 cars less than last season. California fell short over 1,000 cars, while Michigan gained nearly 600 cars and other bean-shipping states averaged about the same.

L. D. WALLER of the L. D. Waller Seed Co., Gaudalupe, Calif., writes March 14, as follows: "We have just had 1.32 inches of rain, making a total of 8.22 inches for the season to date, against 3.80 inches this time last year."

Ferrell & McCullough, Fishermen.

A. T. Ferrell, Saginaw, Mich., and J. Chas. McCullough, Cincinnatti, O., and Their Big Sail Fish Caught in Florida Waters Measuring Seven Feet, Two Inches.

WOOD, STUBBS & CO., Louisville, Ky., report only a fair volume of field seed business, with these stocks practically cleaned up, especially clovers. Grass seed demand has been slower and the supply is greater. The garden seed orders equal those of last year in number, with the money value about one-half. Very little garden planting has been done thus far and it is believed improved garden seed demand will come later.

Railroad Rates.

We understand by the Interstate Commerce Commission ruling that the passenger and freight rates in Nebraska must be increased again, the increase to take effect March 22, 1921. It seems to us the time has arrived when the people of the United States should rise up in a body and protest to every representative and every senator in Washington, D. C., against these continuous increases in passenger and freight rates, also increased rates of all public utilities, such as telegraph and telephone companies, electric light, gas and power companies, street railways and express companies.

Is it not, therefore, time that some concerted action should be taken when every one is trying to reduce the high cost of living, to have a decrease in the rates to something like they were in normal times and in keeping with the reduced prices on nearly all commodities at which the manufacturers and business men are obliged to sell their products? These continuous increases in freight and passenger rates result in lower prices to the producers who are obliged to stand the freight from point of shipment to the cities and terminals, and on the other hand the consumer is obliged to stand the increased rates also. It, therefore, seems to us that the public in general should demand that the railroads reduce their expenses in the way of high salaried officials, train dispatchers, etc., also the excessive high wages they are paying their employees, so as to bring down the freight and passenger rates where they belong and we trust you will use your influence and write to the commercial clubs and all other influential parties that should take these matters in hand; also write or request your members or clients to write to the senators and representatives of their district at Washington, as concerted action only will have the desired result.

W. Atlee Burpee Co. Philadelphia

New York Seed Trade.

With the spring business moving well, all the seedsmen are now busy. In connection with their store trade, a number of them deserve much credit for the exhibits they made at the flower show. J. M. Thorburn & Co., Vaughan's Seed Store, Roman J. Irwin, Stumpp & Walter, Atlantic Grass Seed Co. and Muller-Sealy Co., were all well represented.

The members of the new firm of Dean & Campkin, which has taken offices at 19 Park Place, have a host of friends who wish them success. David A. Dean is a son of the late James Dean and his partner has been well known for the past nine years as a salesman in the Boddington Store, having also had experience in England.

Philadelphia Seed Trade.

The W. Atlee Burpee Co. is proud of its smart sweet pea exhibits at the New York Spring Show last week, receiving gold medal for the best trade exhibit and first prize for the best display in competition. This firm was also awarded certificates for six seedlings, Silver Blue, Fire Flame, White Star, Cheerful, Burpee's Orange and Mrs. Warren G. Harding. The seed business continues about 20 per cent ahead of last year, with greatly increased demand for vegetable seeds.

At Henry A. Dreer's there is greatly increased demand and the largest force this firm has ever had is having much difficulty keeping the work up to date. The forward season has thrown two months' business into one, with the heaviest early spring trade this establishment has ever experienced. The demand covers the entire list of vegetable and flower seeds.

The Henry F. Michell Co. reports an exceptional demand for flower seeds, private and commercial, with a wonderful counter trade in vegetable seeds. Every department is rushed to capacity, the new store recently added being a great convenience at this time.

Grass and Clover Seed Prices.

The following were the wholesale prices in dollars per 100 pounds on timothy, Kentucky blue grass, red top and red clover at principal points of distribution, March 12, 1921, as given by the Government Market Reporter of March 19, 1921.

Corn Breeding

What is probably the longest corn breeding experiment in existence is being conducted by the agricultural experiment station at the University of Illinois, Urbana. The breeding has been maintained for 24 generations, with records continuing unbroken from the beginning. Out of a single variety of ordinary corn, four different kinds, with respect to the composition of the grain, have been created, one in which the protein content has been increased from 10.92 per cent to 14.70 per cent, while another has been reduced from the same original figure to 6.46 per cent. Selection for such characteristics as height of ears, position of ears on stalks, and number of ears per stalk has also been carried on with very marked response. After 14 years of selection for two-eared stock of what was originally a single-eared variety, accounts last year showed 85 per cent of the stalks bearing two or more ears. This selection seems to have been attended by a small increase in yield.

The purpose of this particular project is to test the principle of continuous selection as applied to such a complex plant character as yield. The experience of seven generations has brought out the inherent difficulty in this line of work, however. The selection has produced a strain that is outyielding one of the best old varieties. As a six-year average, the new high yielding type produced 55 bushels per acre alongside the standard Reid's Yellow Dent, which made 51 bushels.

The Nursery Trade

American Association of Nurserymen.

Lloyd C. Stark, Louisiana, Mo., President; M. R. Cashman, Owatonna, Minn., Vice-President; John Watson, 400 Nassau Street, Princeton, N. J., Secretary; J. W. Hill, Des Moines, Iowa, Treasurer.

Forty-sixth annual convention will be held at Chicago, June, 1921.

RED OAK, IA.—Emil Peterson has purchased land near this city and will establish a nursery.

ALBANY, N. Y.—The Davey Tree Expert Co., of Kent, Ohio, has been incorporated in this state for $50,000.

ROCHESTER, MINN.—The Mayo Nurseries have been incorporated for $5,000 by K. E. and J. G. Mayo and others.

TEMPLETON, FLA.—Burglars here recently stole 300 Temple orange trees from the field, value $750.

MIAMI, FLA.—Reports received here indicate that the goal of a membership of 2,000 will be reached by the Florida State Horticultural Society before its annual meeting here, April 12.

LAST year was an off season with the pecan industry in Florida because excessive rains washed off the pollen. Indications are that the crop this year will be full and the finest in many years.

Fruitland Nurseries Succeeds Tarnok & Co.

Following the retirement of Sigmund Tarnok, the firm of Tarnok & Co., who succeeded P. J. Berckmans Co., Augusta, Ga., will in future be conducted under the name of Fruitland Nurseries, with J. G. Bailie, president. The new firm has retained the services of the most experienced superintendent, foremen and propagators of the P. J. Berckmanns Co., and will specialize in ornamentals. They now have a large stock in the nursery and propagating houses.

The Cornelian Cherry.

The cornelian cherry, which is a dogwood (Cornus mas), is one of the earliest trees or tree-like shrubs with conspicuous flowers to bloom in eastern Massachusetts. The flowers are light yellow and are borne in clusters in the axils of the unfolding leaves and, although individually small, are produced in such profusion that the branches are covered with them. The flowers are followed by bright red, lustrous, oblong fruits the size of small olives. The flower buds and the flowers of this tree are not injured by cold. The habit of the plant is good; the foliage is dark green and abundant, and the fruit, although somewhat hidden by the leaves, is handsome. The cornelian cherry, which is a native of Europe and western Siberia has been a habitant of gardens for more than three hundred years. In the United States it was probably more often planted in the first half of the last century than it is at present, although there are not many early-flowering trees hardy in this climate which are better worth a place in the garden. The largest specimen we know in eastern Massachusetts is in the public garden of Boston, near Boylston street. In the arboretum it may be seen with the other dogwoods at the junction of the Meadow and Bussey Hill roads.—Arnold Aboretum Bulletin.

DAYTON, O.—Harry A. Bunyard is now with the Zetlitz Floral Products Company, as manager of production.

NASHUA, N. H.—The Concord Greenhouse has been sold at auction after having been closed some time, to W. E. Farmer.

SAN ANTONIO, FLA.—Miss Marie Louise Wichers, daughter of A. Wichers, has lately returned from Sacred Heart college, Montreal, Que.

BEACON, N. Y.—Benjamin Hammond, well-known manufacturer of insecticides and greenhouse paints, as president of the board of education, is devoting much of his time to gardening activities of the school children, and recently appeared at Albany with objections to the Fearson bill which would hamper educational boards.

Louis F. Miller, Toledo, O., President; A. J. Dooley, Cook County, Ill., Vice-President; S. W. Severance, Louisville, Ky., Secretary; H. J. Cheney, Grand Rapids Mich., Treas.

NEW ORLEANS, LA.—With the crop about a month earlier than usual, and the largest acreage ever known, shipments of Louisiana strawberries began to move northward March 7.

MOVEMENT of the main onion crop to March 1 exceeded the entire movement of last season, about 17,500 cars having been rolled, compared with last season's total shipments of 16,704 cars.

FLORIDA tomatoes were firm in consuming markets last week, closing $5.00 to $5.50 in Philadelphia, Pa., Pittsburgh, Pa., and Cincinnati, O.; $5.50 in New York and $6.50 to $7.00 per crate in Chicago.

BARBERTON, O.—The range on the Anna Dean, said to be one of the largest in the country, built by the late A. C. Barber, has been sold to Yoger Bros., who have been in charge of the produce raised under glass for several years.

LOUISIANA strawberries in 24-pint ventilated crates ranged last week 22 to 25 cents per pint in New York and $3.50 to $4.00 per crate in Pittsburgh, Pa., and Chicago. Prices at shipping points advanced from a level around $2.50 f. o. b. early in the week to a range of $3.75-$3.90 per crate.

PALATKA, FLA.—Shipment of potatoes from the Hastings-Palatka section will begin about April 1. Growers say the season has been ideal, and January plantings are large enough to be used now. The new crop is already on local tables and is of fine quality. Acreage is somewhat smaller than last season, but the yield is better.

LUTHER BURBANK is trying to produce a seedless watermelon. Great Scott, don't do that! Jefferson county, Florida, is producing melons for the seed only—and the producers there want a melon with more seed. And think of the beauty that would be lost by the absence of that black and red color scheme in the heart of a luscious melon!

Prices of Indoor Fruits and Vegetables.

Chicago, March 22.—Cucumbers, 2-dozen box, $4.50 to $6.50; leaf lettuce, per box, 25 to 27½ cents.

New York, March 18.—Cucumbers per dozen, 75 cents to $2.75; mushrooms, $1.00 to $2.25 per three-pound basket; tomatoes, per pound, 15 to 50 cents; radishes, per 100 bunches, $3.00 to $7.00.

Notes on Fertilizers.

The present condition of the fertilizer trade is a very difficult one. Having bought the new materials in the summer and fall at high prices and made up the goods under high wages for labor, the fertilizer men find great apathy among the gardeners and farmers owing to the present depressed market. The farmers figure they cannot afford to buy these high-priced goods and in turn produce more crops which sell below cost of production. In turn the fertilizer people are reluctant to accept enormous losses. This state of affairs emphasizes the great readiness of our present-day civilization to inflict any amount of damages upon the farming classes and to be very slow to do the same thing to industry. Realizing this desperate condition, the fertilizer makers have issued revised prices several times this winter, and probably no further reduction will be made before the spring trade is over. Our advice would be to proceed with moderation. We believe growers should plan to produce a reasonable amount of produce—neither shirking their duty to keep things alive, nor plunging themselves into more trouble. At present, there is in this section of the country, an abundance of labor and it would be easy for growers to take advantage of this fact and produce to the limit, thus glutting the markets. It stands to reason that if growers had to operate practically without labor for years, it will not do at present to greatly increase outputs.

In regard to fertilizer materials, nitrate of soda and sulphate of ammonia are all quoted equals in price at present, about $75 per ton. At equal rate, sulphate ammonia is the cheaper as it contains more nitrogen than soda. Bone meal is much higher than acid phosphate, yet under glass we would prefer the bone and pay the difference. In potash, the prices are still high, about $120 for sulphate potash, yet where nitrate of potash is available, as it is here, at $100 per ton, we believe it is the cheapest form to get, both in nitrate and potash. Some manufacturers are again offering fairly complete mixtures, like 2-8-8. This latter makes an excellent vegetable formula for all crops, provided we add a little more nitrogen in the form of nitrate. To use such a formula, apply at least 1000 pounds per acre broadcast and work it into the soil. After the crop is started, add from 100 to 200 pounds of either nitrate of soda or sulphate ammonia.

With the great scarcity of animal manures, the pulverized grades, such as dried chicken droppings and sheep manure obtain more importance. These two should be used only in connection with a liberal allowance of either bone meal or acid phosphate to furnish the lacking element. While lime is not a fertilizer, it must not be ignored; in many cases lime is the missing link and will do more good than anything else. A safe rule to follow is that on worn-out soils, lime alone is worthless. Lime is a stimulant that forces the other elements into action. There are soils that have had manure for years get are poor producers. Often such soils respond wonderfully to lime; use at least 1000 pounds of hydrate lime per acre, and twice that much is often needed, and double that amount if using raw rock lime pulverizer.

Ageratum Fraseri

We feel confident in offering Ageratum "Fraseri" to our customers that we are offering what will be one of the most valuable acquisitions to the bedding plant line in recent years, that it is a blue, a decided blue, that would be continually in bloom. In our trial grounds last summer "Fraseri" attracted more attention than any other bedding plant. It only grew about 8 to 10 inches high and was covered the entire season with what can easily be classed as immense trusses of flowers, as many of them were over 2½ inches across, while the individual flower would be ⅞ of an inch in diameter. The plant spreads about 12 to 15 inches across. It can easily be used with Alternantheras as a border plant.

Being an early bloomer and dwarf, compact grower, it makes an excellent pot plant.

2-inch, $1.00 per doz.; $ 6.00 per 100.

Mr. W. I. Ferguson, Smiths Falls, Ontario, under date of Dec. 2nd, 1919, writes us the following in regard to our petunias:

"Last year I purchased petunia seed from you. I think every seed germinated and the blooms were the finest ever seen in this part of Canada. Only about 8% of the plants could be classed as common. I want more of the same quality each year."

Mr. Rudolph Nagel, Lancaster, Pa., under date of Dec. 14th, 1919, writes us:

"I had, last year, just a few of your petunias, but I am sure I could have sold thousands of them. They surely came up to your claim and way ahead of my expectation."

SEEDS.

THE DIENER TOMATO

Increase your tomato yield one hundred per cent by raising the new DIENER TOMATO. 30-40 tons of ripe fruit to the acre.

This tomato was raised last year all over the United States and Canada with the greatest satisfaction.

As smooth as an apple and of a magnificent dark red color. Single tomatoes weigh up to 3 lbs. each. The flesh is more solid than that of any other tomato. The fruit contains very little seed and is solidly filled out. This tomato is free of the acid taste, and for dehydrating catsup and canning is the best tomato in existence today.

The DIENER TOMATO is blight-resisting as well as drought-resisting. It will not crack from the rain and will not rot while lying on the ground in wet weather. This tomato will grow in almost any kind of soil and it commences to ripen the first part of August.

It is the greatest novelty in the tomato line, and it will soon crowd out the present varieties from the market by its far superior qualities.

Price of the DIENER TOMATO SEED: Sample pkg., 25c; one-quarter of an acre pkg., 50c; one acre pkg., $1.50.

SEEDS.

DAHLIA SEED.

This seed is raised from the most up-to-date dahlias in existence. No place in the world have dahlias been brought up to such perfection as they have been around San Francisco. This mixture contains all colors and types of peony, cactus and decorative varieties. The seed we sent out in previous years was highly praised by all who raised dahlias from it; but this seed is far supeior to what we have sent out in previous years. The seedlings will commence to flower two months after sowing and almost a month earlier than plants raised from blubs. Price, $0.50 per package.

THE EASTER TRADE.

Business Surprisingly Good.

In view of the general depression in all industrial lines, the Easter business of the florists far exceeded the expectation of the trade, wholesale as well as retail. Good lilies, plants and cut flowers, were in short supply but all other specialties of the season were abundant and good, except of, course, such subjects as azaleas, rhododendrons, araucarias, etc., mostly imported from European and other countries in former years. Bulbous stock was plentiful and many of the tulips and hyacinths were of unusually fine quality. Pots and pans of lily of the valley sold well as substitutes for lilies. Plants at moderate prices sold without pushing, but expensive roses and even lilies moved less freely. Corsage bouquets were in heavy demand. Telegraph orders were numerous, with perhaps somewhat more complaint than usual of the small orders. The weather generally favored business and deliveries. Some of our early reports are presented herewith.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—Business in this city proved of good proportions, both as to number of sales and volume. Prices were slightly lower in all lines, and the buying public took full advantage, with lilies moving freely as first choice. Sweet peas were the best stock in the market and were the first item to close out. Lily of the valley enjoyed a fine demand. Summing up, it might be said that the volume of trade was fully as large as last year, with a decrease of 15 per cent in prices.

LOS ANGELES, CALIF.—Wholesalers and retailers report an excellent clean-up on everything. Lilies were in short supply, both cut flowers and pot plants. Rambler roses were good, the local stock as well as those shipped in from the north; heather in variety sold well, and there was not enough bulbous stock to go round. Both pot plants and cut flowers sold freely, the demand being slightly in favor of the former. The total of sales was above the average.

BOSTON, MASS.—Sales were from 25 to 40 per cent better than for the same period last year, according to the retailers with prices approximately the same. Lilies were the favorites, with rambler roses and hydrangeas closely following. Bougainvilleas had a poor call. In cut flowers, bulbs, roses, carnations and lilies were the leaders, with only marguerites and mignonettes going slowly.

NEW YORK.—From all indications, the business was one of the best in years. With fine weather in their favor, many of the stores sold out completely. Lilies as usual had a heavy call. Azaleas went very well, especially in combinations. In cut flowers, sweet peas were favorites, roses following. Snapdragons and colored stocks proved the slow items. Prices as a whole were not much below the 1920 level.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Gude Bros., while handicapped with extremely warm weather the few days preceding Easter, closed the period with a volume of business 20 per cent better than a year ago. The cut flower supply was ample for all needs. In plants, lilies easily took the lead, with all other stock registering a complete clean-up.

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIF.—The total sales were slightly in excess of last year, with prices about the same as in 1920. The supply of both plants and cut flowers was fully equal to the demand. There was less call for rambler roses and a largely increased demand for lilies, as well as for medium priced pot plants.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.—With prices about the same as last year, the volume of this year's trade at the establishment of Henry Smith showed a 10 per cent increase, compared with that of 1920. Plants were plentiful with the exception of lilies. There was an excellent call for roses and bulbous stock, with little demand for genistas. In cut flowers, lily of the valley and sweet peas were the leaders, but all high grades sold very well. A good trade was experienced with large flowering plants and made-up plant baskets.

OMAHA, NEB.—Hess & Swoboda report a 10 per cent increase in the volume of their business as compared with a year ago, but with a decrease of nearly 40 per cent in prices. With the exception of lilies, which were very short, the plant supply was sufficient to care for all orders. Spiraeas and lilacs had a poor call, while roses in pots, tulips and daffodils were very popular. An ample supply of cut stock moved well, especially spring flowers. Cold weather on Saturday hurt trade to a certain extent.

NASHVILLE, TENN. — Sales during the 1921 period were more numerous, with a considerable increase in volume but at prices 25 per cent less than those of a year ago. In pot plants the supply of lilies was not equal to the demand, with the offerings of cut flowers, however, greater than ever before. Roses and lilies were the leaders in the latter group, with carnations following. The trade was superb, and undoubtedly the best enjoyed in this city for several years.

DALLAS, TEX.—Although sales were considerably more than last year, the Lang Floral & Nursery Co. report a substantial reduction in prices, lilies alone selling at former levels. The telegraph orders were excellent, showing a wonderful increase over last year. A large supply of plants was sold and there was also a good call for baskets. All offerings in cut flowers, including American Beautiy roses, which were in short supply, found ready buyers.

TERRE HAUTE, IND.—N. B. & C. E. Stover report that prices were about 10 per cent less than last year, but total sales in money value were 20 per cent over those of 1920. The supply of plants while large, was far short of requirements, lilies easily taking the lead. Cut flowers were available in ample quantities with the exception of cut lilies. Considering the present conditions the florists were satisfied with the business.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—While prices were slightly better than last year's level, the large increase in volume of business was more than satisfactory. The supply in both cut flowers and plants was generous and made it possible to meet the choice of the customer in nearly all cases, according to the Louise Flower Shop. In cut flowers, roses easily took the lead, while in plants, hydrangeas and roses were the most salable.

WORCESTER, MASS.—Easter sales this year were just as good as for the same period last year, according to Lange Florist. Plant prices, with the exception of lilies, held their own, while in cut flowers, violets and carnations were not in large enough supply to meet the call. By consistent advertising, the florists were able to convince the public that Easter prices were not prohibitive, and succeeded very well.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y.—The Saltford Flower Shop experienced a very satisfactory trade with stock selling about in fine condition and entirely sold out the same as last year. Bulb stock was Lilies were plentiful and were disposed of at a good price. Rhodendrons were next in popularity. Violets were the ledaers in cut flowers and sold well. The Florist Telegraph Delivery orders were very heavy, and the best experienced in many years.

RACINE, WIS.—With prices reaching a lower level than last year, cash sales were about the same as in 1920, due to increased volume. The plant supply was fully equal to all requirements, lilies taking first place, followed by hyacinths. Cut flowers were available in ample quantities, with daffodils the best sellers. There was not much call for roses and carnations, according to the Brux Greenhouses.

COLUMBUS, O.—Sales were considerably less than for the same period a year ago, with prices at about the same level. The cut flower supply was ample, with a strong call for sweet peas. Lilies easily took the lead in pot plants, and the supply was exhausted before the end of the week. Although orders were more numerous than in 1920, the average size was somewhat smaller.

NEW ORLEANS, LA.—Abele Bros. report a 10 per cent increase in volume of business over 1920, which, however, was offset with a lower price level. Both plants and cut flowers were in good supply. Any well grown plant met with a ready sale, while for cut flowers the demand was excellent.

PITTSBURGH, PA.—Sales this year were about the same as in 1920, with plant and cut flower prices somewhat lower. It was impossible to fill the demand for any stock. Although corsage flowers were the early favorites, they were soon disposed of. A number of establishments reported they were completely sold out on Friday.

LOUISVILLE, KY.—With prices the same as last year, the volume of trade was the best ever experienced, according to H. G. Walker. Many of the stores closed March 25, because of the exhaustion of stocks. Plants were plentiful with a strong call for lilies, but cut flowers were the favorites for the week.

BANGOR, ME.—Adam Sekenger reports a 20 per cent increase in the volume of his business over last year, with prices better in pot lilies and roses. The quality of everything offered was excellent and plants, with the exception of rambler roses, cut flowers and corsage bouquets sold better than ever before.

BRAMPTON, ONT.—While prices were lower than last year's level, the increase in volume was very satisfactory, according to the Dale estate. The supply in plants was poor, lilies being sold out on Monday. Orchids were popular, but in cut flowers, roses easily took the lead, selling remarkably well.

HARRISBURG, PA.—Charles L. Schmidt reports the volume of business about the same as last year with no change in prices. There was very little demand for bulbous stock, but with cut flowers, which were in ample supply, violets and sweet peas were the favorites.

Easter in New York Retail Stores.

All of the retail stores were, according to their requirements, well stocked with plants. With the customers of a number of the shops of this city the price is not so much an object as quality, and then there are many other stores where, if business is to be done, the prices must be moderate. While all the leading establishments carried considerable stocks of choice lilies, in the first line-up they appeared to be overshadowed by other large plants. Well flowered plants of the roses Dorothy Perkins, Tausendschon and Hiawatha were noteworthy. A few crimson ramblers were seen and it is yet a rose of which none need be ashamed. Beautiful Acacia pubescens were displayed to advantage in a number of the leading shops. Other attractive Easter plants were the bougainvilleas, and while no exceptionally large specimens were noticed, the medium sized and small plants were gay with flowers.

It must be acknowledged that since the beneficent(?) Plant Quarantine No. 37 went into effect, no Easter collection of flowers can be as attractive as those of preceding years. We believe that the greatest loss to the holiday trade from this quarantine is Azalea Indica. Small lots of fairly well flowered stock of it were in a number of stores, but nothing approaching the glory of former years. There was also a moderate exhibit of the Japanese variety. Finely flowered genistas and hydrangeas were prominent. In the smaller and cheaper offerings, hyacinths, Darwin tulips and yellow narcissi were notable. Well arranged in pans and pots, they were attractive features. Considerable stocks of primroses, candytuft, mountain phlox and other minor offerings were frequently seen. The continued warm weather had bleached the color from many blooms on the pink rambler roses, but there were acceptable specimens. In other stock the quality was as good as could be expected, better in some lines than in former years. The hyacinths were never better and with the Darwin tulips were strong factors in the moderately priced trade. Large and expensive plant combinations were not so plentiful as in some previous years.

NOTES.

Malandre Brothers, Broadway and 76th street, had a splendid display of roses grown in bush and standard form. Acacias, lilies, lilacs, hydrangeas, genistas, azaleas and attractive combinations of various specimens made up an excellent collection.

In addition to many other good features, Adolph Meyer, Madison avenue and 80th street, had an exceptionally fine lot of hydrangeas, many of them being prominent features in combination baskets.

David Clarke's Sons, Broadway and 75th street, had a fine collection of rambler roses, pink, blue and white hydrangeas, and a fine stock of lilies.

A number of good azaleas were seen at the Chas. A. Dards store, Madison avenue and 44th street. As on all holidays, they were well stocked with excellent plants. Bongainvilleas, lilies, lilacs, acacias and many handsome combinations, made up a grand display.

A. T. Bunyard, 413 Madison avenue, once said to the writer: "When you start in to knock you just hammer." But that was about a matter not connected with his store. For Easter he had a collection of plants that were second to none and it would have been difficult for a professional "knocker" to have found fault. Fine lilies, genistas, bongainvilleas, roses and hydrangeas were leading features.

Features at Alfred Kottmiller, 426 Madison avenue, were a particularly fine stock of lilies, Dorothy Perkins, Tausendschon and Hiawatha roses.

There was an immense stock of fine Easter plants at G. E. M. Stumpp's, Fifth avenue and 58th street, arranged for effect that is characteristic of the proprietor. It would take large space to enumerate even the leading features. The large show window contained a number of fine specimens, notably genistas. Excellent specimens of schizanthus were noticed, plants seldom seen in the shops.

The store of Irene Hayes, Inc., Park avenue and 74th street, was well filled with fine plants. Mr. Alexander, former manager for Fleischmann, is now associated with Miss Hayes in the business.

Tall and finely flowered specimens of Acacia pubescens were leading features at Max Schling's, Fifth avenue and 60th street. Good specimens of bush and standard rose plants were among other attractive offerings. The only plants of amaryllis noticed were at this store.

Andrew Eckrich, 924 Madison avenue, made a fine display in lilies, Crimson Rambler roses and hydrangeas.

Henry Hart, 1000 Madison avenue, always has fine plants and if there was any exception for the Easter trade it was that they were exceptionally attractive. The finest roses, genistas and dydrangeas were prominent features.

N. Christatos, Sixth avenue and 58th street, is another retailer who always comes out strong in the holiday trade. The best collection of Crimson Ramblers noticed were at his store. There were also good azaleas and a great variety of other stock.

An interesting collection of Acacia armata was seen at W. H. Long's, 412 Columbus avenue, in addition to a good general stock.

N. J. Miller and wife, who have a neat shop at Columbus avenue and 86th street, carried a good stock of the best known varieties of plants.

The store of James Weir, Inc., Brooklyn, carried a fine stock of plants and they were practically sold out by noon, March 26.

S. Masur, 256 Fulton street, Brooklyn, carried good stock and reported an excellent business.

A fine display of plants in acacias, azaleas, bongainvilleas and other attractive offerings were seen at Chas. Thorley's, Fifth avenue and 49th street.

At the stores of C. E. Zervakos, Madison avenue and 92d street, and Columbus avenue and 86th street, there were fine displays of roses, genistas and other large plants and a good collection of hyacinths, tulips and smaller stock.

In their new shop at Lenox avenue and 126th street, the Massas Floral Co. have wide window space for display, which was well utilized with many fine displays in plants

At Ralph Armstrong's, Madison avenue and 47th street, in addition to other good features a fine stock of bougainvilleas were noticed.

S. H. Calamaras, who recently opened a store at 113 E. 34th street, which he has named the "Park Florist," had fine windows for display, and a good Easter stock.

Hession, Madison avenue and 76th street, had a splendid stock of all the leading varieties of plants. A permanent feature in display at this store will appear in a future issue.

Easter in the Chicago Stores.

It rained so heavily March 24-25 that the total sales for these two days were very disappointing and amounted to practically nothing compared to those of the corresponding ones of last year. On Friday evening it appeared as if the unfavorable weather would continue and that everyone was going to be hit heavily owing to the large amount of stock on hand. The weather was ideal on Saturday and the demand was so heavy that it was impossible to handle the customers that kept flocking in. To make a long story short the buying of three days was crowded in to one, and it is doubtful if there ever was so much business handled in one day before as that of March 26. The daily papers contained the report that the florists were profiteering, one of the items reading as follows: "Don't buy flowers for Easter," warns Russell J. Poole, high cost expert. "Teach the retail florists a lesson. They have boosted the cost of Easter lilies and other flowers from 200 to 2,000 per cent. This is unfair merchandising — plain profiteering." This write-up no doubt caused considerable damage notwithstanding the fact that the same mediums published a statement later from the Allied Florists' Association informing the buying public that the report was untrue. On top of all the hard sledding the total sales for March 26 were so large that practically everyone cleaned up all the plants they had to offer and what promised for a time to be one of the poorest showings for Easter on record turned out to be exceptionally good. Some report their total sales for the week ahead of last year while others say that they were not quite so good but entirely satisfactory considering the unfavorable weather. Blooming plants were handled on a large scale, especially lilies, which cleaned up at an early hour and were scarce. Tulips, daffodils, hydrangeas, hyacinths, cinerarias, azaleas, genistas, deutzias, crocus, rambler roses, begonias, spireas and other seasonable stock in pots, boxes and combination baskets were the principal offerings. Cut flowers had a good call considering the weather. Violets were exceedingly scarce and so were sweet peas, which commanded high prices in the wholesale market. Roses and carnations sold well. Orchids, lily of the valley, gardenias and other corsage flowers were in strong demand. Southern jonquils came in handy for those that did not have much money to spend. Cut lilac, daisies, calendulas, callas, snapdragons, freesias, lupines, larkspur, pansies, stocks and other miscellaneous reasonable cut flowers had a good call—but the real business that was done was in plants. A. Lange, Fleischman, George Wienhoeber, Alpha Floral Co., Johnson & Chronis, Mangel and the Bohannon Floral Co. had advertisements in the daily papers and the Allied Florists' Association used some very effective copy in practically all of them throughout the week. One thing is certain and that is there are still plenty of flower buyers in spite of the reported hard times and that if the weather was favorable for Easter the sales would have been the largest on record judging from the amount of business that was enjoyed on March 26 and the sales that were lost owing to the fact that it was impossible to handle the crowds that kept pouring into the stores the last day.

Next Week in the Flower Shop.

The spring wedding season is now in full flower and everything pertaining to the many important social events of this character that are of daily occurrence should be featured and displayed in the most advantageous manner possible. Almost everything in the flower shop is appropriate as a wedding gift. Choice flowering and foliage plants in fancy jardinieres can be more or less elaborate. Wicker plant stands when nicely filled are very decorative. Silver and cut glass ferneries are also appropriate. Flower vases and flower bowls are, when artistically filled, as beautiful as anything in the stock and sure of a front space in any array of gifts. These and many other items are available and will stand well with the hundred and one articles that are daily advertised as most suitable by other lines. But they must have a chance to get into the running by being well featured at the store, by direct circular appeal to customers or through the newspaper columns. The jardiniere and pedestal, the wicker plant stand, the flower bowl, the handsome cut flower vase and the fern dish, are all featured by the department stores and other dealers in gifts. None of these, however, have the advantage of the florist who can fill each of them artistically, showing them off to the best decorative effect.

It is by constant featuring and display that people are informed and get accustomed to looking for and expecting to see and associate various lines of stock with certain events. If by continuous display, hammering and reiteration at opportune times, the use of flowers as wedding gifts becomes recognized, then it will be the custom to go to the florist and choose from his stock in preference to his competitors in other lines.

WINDOW BOXES.

It is none too soon to start a window box campaign, the first move of which should be a filling of the store boxes with the best the growers have in stock. To make this department of the business successful those in charge must be enthusiastic on the subject. Their theme must be the "City Beautiful" at all times. If they go at it in earnest, they will soon enlist the support of garden clubs, city improvement associations and community centers.

There should be carried in stock a full and varied line of wooden, slab and bark covered boxes; as well as terra cotta, cement and iron frames, together with self-watering devices, all of which are practical and in their variety, fitted for almost any kind of architecture. With the help of the community associations there can be contests with prizes for the best window box or pair of boxes of a certain type, the awards to be made the first of June, July and August. In the meantime the regular store trade should be canvassed energetically. If it is thought too early for the summer flowers, push pansies and daisies, which will make a fine showing for another month.

A leaflet or folder extolling this window ornament as a help in the "City Beautiful" movement, the variety in boxes, the various plants for sunny and shady situations and their care, should be sent to every customer and prospect on the store's list.

If an account of the recent Easter trade has not as yet been written down it should be done at once. What is fresh in mind now in reference to success or failure, will in all likelihood be forgotten when next year's preparations are under way, without such a record to refer to. Each one of 50 details are worth recording and will be invaluable for guidance when next year comes around.

A stork window, or at least a table in the store, keeping in its decorations the importance of flowers for such occasions before the customers, is well worth while. It is certain to attract attention and make sales, if not then, later on.

It is well to keep a watch on accounts that appear to be falling behind. To get them in their season is best, for it is very hard to collect a bill three months' old and it gets more difficult week by week. Get a promise as to a definite date and be johnny on the spot at the time.

Uniformity in Stationery.

It is well worth while to have the store stationery from address tags to bills and letter heads and envelopes, a uniform color; something that will at once attract attention, a little out of the ordinary, and that while answering the purpose admirably, will at the same time have a distinct advertising value because of its novelty. All printing houses have paper stocks in various shades of color: greens, blues, yellows, browns, etc., from which to select. Tags and envelopes had best be selected first and their colors matched in the lighter papers of which there are many more shades than in the heavier stock. The order should be given for a year's requirements on which quantity there is likely to be a rock bottom figure. This with the discount off, insures a high grade stationery and full supply for a twelve months' period, at lowest possible cost.

Envelopes should have no printed corner piece on the front and only the number of the street and city at the point of the flap on the back. The business of the flower shop is in a manner personal, and when bills are sent to customers it is just as well that they alone know from where the message comes. Always include tag and card envelopes for holding customers cards. The card envelopes should have boldly printed on it at the top: "This envelope contains card;" and in a line below "To go with;" and a blank space in which is to be written whatever the order calls for as: "Boquet of roses," or Spray of sweet peas," etc., for Mrs. A. Smith and address. The practice with some is to leave the address to an additional address tag. The tag envelope describing the gift and containing the donors name is a great help when acknowledgments are being made, as with this information, the basket is not called a bunch of roses or something else, as might be the case when at a tea or large funeral there are hundreds of separate pieces sent.

Many florists use perforated tags, the end portion which after being signed, is detached and filed at the store showing the receipt of the order at its destination. This is especially valuable at commencements, theatres and other public gatherings where it is not possible to make personal deliveries.

Florist's Telegraph Delivery Activities.

Paper by Karl P. Baum, Knoxville, Tenn., read at the annual meeting of the Tennessee State Florists' Association at Memphis.

In dealing with this subject, I believe a brief review of the Indianapolis convention will give a good idea as to what this organization is doing. It would take much time to go into details, so rapid has been the growth, and so great the accomplishments of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery.

The growth of the association from the standpoint of membership has been wonderful. The directory issued in November, 1916, which is the earliest statistics I was able to obtain on such short notice, shows a membership of 347. The present membership is approximately 1,700. During a period of four years, the organization has more than doubled its membership twice, and has thus gone far beyond the fondest hopes of its most enthusiastic founders. What can we not expect in the next four years? The Florists' Telegraph Delivery has been a very important factor in increasing the volume of flower business in the last five years, and it is safe to say that real F. T. D. service connected with the national slogan, "Say It with Flowers," has been the means of placing our business on the elevated plane it now occupies among leading industries.

The Indianapolis convention was one of enthusiasm from start to finish, and was easily the best in the history of the F. T. D. Its sessions were crowded full of actual business, and every subject of importance to the retail florist was ably presented by men who have made good. The address of Ira. C. Harper, of the A. W. Smith Company, Pittsburgh, Pa., on the subject of bookkeeping was well worth the expense of the trip. The paper presented by Herman P. Knoble on the "Cost of Doing Business" was the fruits of months of careful study, and was within itself a masterpiece. The illustrated lecture and practical demonstration by Max Schling, of New York, was very entertaining as well as instructive. The address of the president, Philip Breitmeyer, will furnish the florists with food for thought for some time to come. All the other numbers were equally as important as those I have mentioned, and it is impossible for me to picture to you the true greatness and importance of this convention. Only those who were there and participated, can really appreciate it.

One of the paramount issues of the convention was that of publicity. George Asmus, Chicago, who is chairman of the publicity finance committee of the Society of American Florists, was given the floor during the morning session of the first day, at which time he pleaded with the F. T. D. members for support. So effective was his appeal that hundreds of slogan signs were readily disposed of. Previous to this, the hat had been passed, and approximately $2,000 was quickly donated to the publicity campaign.

An important feature of this convention was the commercial displays. The supply men were there in large numbers, and occupied nearly all of the rooms along the corridor leading to the assembly room. The convention hall, itself was beautifully decorated and contained several conspicuously beautiful displays of plants and flowers. There were several new features introduced at this convention which were very effective, and which indicate that the Indianapolis florists were on the job. One of these was a collection of F. T. D. drawings, furnished by the children through the city schools. The ideas brought out in some of these drawings were indeed wonderful, and were the occasion of much favorable comment. Prizes were awarded for the best pictures. Another feature worthy of mention was the F. T. D. window displays made by the florists. All the flower shops of Indianapolis entered into this contest and some wonderful feats of floral art were evident. The F. T. D. News awarded prizes in the form of cups for the first, second and third best windows. Still another feature that impressed me very much was the F. T. D. window displays made by the department and other retail stores. The professional decorators of these stores introduced some very good F. T. D. ideas. Many of them used natural flowers, and our national slogan was made conspicuous by its frequent usage.

It would not be fair to talk about the F. T. D. for any length of time without mentioning the F. T. D. News. However, it is not necessary to say very much about it. It speaks for itself. That it is a retail florists' trade paper of the highest quality, is without dispute.

The F. T. D., like all other organizations, owes its origin and existence chiefly to a few great men. Among these, we would enumerate the late J. A. Valentine, William F. Gude, Irwin Bertermann, Philip Breitmeyer, William L. Rock and others, but in my estimation, the man to whom is due the most praise and credit is our wide-awake secretary, Albert Pochelon, or "Push," as he is better known among his friends. He was once alluded to as the "F. T. D. Nut" on account of his vivid predictions regarding the future accomplishments of the F. T. D., but now that many of his dreams have come true, I think he should be dubbed the "F. T. D. Prophet." Mr. Pochelon's enthusiasm is without bounds, and I regret very much that he was unable to attend this convention and address us on the "Doings of the F. T. D."

It has not been many years ago that we only had about three F. T. D. members in Tennessee. Now we have 16, and I hope before another year that every flower shop in the state will become a member. It will mean a great deal to the flower business in our state.

I look forward to the time when the florists of Tennessee will entertain the F. T. D. convention. This may seem impossible to us at this time, but if we continue to make the progress in the next five years that we have made in the past, there is no doubt but that we will be able to take care of such a convention. The inspiration of an F. T. D. meeting would be well worth the effort and time. Let us look forward to the time when this dream may come true.

BELLEVUE, IA.—Chas. Hyde, recently of Chicago, has opened a flower shop.

ST. MARYS, O.—Four greenhouses will soon be built by Elmer Stinson on land that he recently purchased.

SIOUX FALLS, S. D.—The city branch of the South Dakota Horticultural Society met recently, when an interesting exhibit of evergreens and flowers were used in emphasizing points brought out by the speakers.

LAKE FORREST, ILL.—John Francis Kiley, head gardener to Dr. Arthur Bevan, died March 23. The funeral services were held at St. Mary's church, March 25, with a large attendance of the local craft and Chicago friends. Mrs. Kiley and four boys survive.

SANTA ANA, CALIF.—A range valued at half a million dollars is to be erected here by Amling Bros., Chicago, for the purpose of developing a new rose, a cross between the greenhouse product of the east, and California's outdoor rose. The American Greeenhouse Mfg. Co., Chicago, will have charge of the construction.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.—There was a local shortage of lilies and nearby cities were unable to help. Notwithstanding the lily shortage, flower stores were generally well supplied with other cut stock and plants, doing a good business. Two grocers displayed plants, while a "forest nursery" showed the back end of a cart at the opening of an alley, saying it with flowers in big dogwood and other wild blooms for sale.

Fifth National Flower Show at Cleveland

MARCH 25—APRIL 1, 1922.

A meeting of the national flower show committee was held at the Grand Central palace, New York, March 15. There were present, Chairman George Asmus, Secretary John Young, Society of American Florists, President Thomas Roland and Vice-President Adolph Gude, of the same organization, F. H. Traendly, Herman P. Knoble, Patrick Welch, F. C. W. Brown, Carl Hagenburger and A. F. J. Bauer, of the American Carnation Society. The preparatory work being accomplished by the local committees in Cleveland, O., was detailed in a report made by Mr. Knoble. A meeting of the committees had been held in Cleveland on the afternoon of March 13, and the different chairmen were most enthusiastic over the prospects for the show. Each promised his heartiest cooperation in a general effort to make the exhibition a huge success.

THE TRADE EXHIBITION.

Considerable discussion took place in regard to the arrangements for the trade exhibits. In accordance with the plan discussed at the Washington, D. C., meeting relating to the adoption of a uniform decorative scheme to cover all trade displays, the secretary presented a sketch embodying a layout, which the committee took under consideration. The lack of such a decorative scheme at the New York Spring Show, then in progress, was commented upon by different members of the committee, and it was unanimously agreed that it was the one weak feature of the show, and opportunity for a perfect decorative scheme being lost because each exhibitor had been free to work out his personal ideas, resulting in a jumble of decorative effects far from pleasing. It was decided that estimates from Cleveland dealers be obtained as to the cost of carrying out the idea expressed in the sketch, including uniform railing and other details. The rental for trade space was, on motion of Mr. Knoble, fixed at $1.75 per square foot, this price to include the erection of a booth after a style decided upon, suitably decorated, and the official sign, which would also be made part of the decorative scheme.

A GRAND CAPITAL PRIZE OF $5,000.

There was a lengthy discussion as to the providing of an exhibition feature which should be the principal attraction of the show. It seemed to be the consensus of opinion that this feature take the form of a garden, and, finally, on motion of Mr. Roland, it was decided that provision be made for four garden groups, for which $4,000 be appropriated, with a special sweepstake prize of $1,000 for the most meritorious and adaptable exhibit in the class, which is to be open to all, and known as the grand capital prize class. The schedule description of the class was arranged as follows: The best development of a garden covering 1,000 square feet. An exhibit may include lawns, flower beds, rose gardens, shrubbery, borders, rose beds, bulb beds, or any exhibit that the artistic ability of an exhibitor may suggest, as the widest latitude will be allowed in the competition. The first four entries are to have preference in allotment of space. This capital prize is believed to cover the largest amount of money ever offered in one class at any exhibition in this country. It was also decided that all entrants in the capital prize class must pay a guarantee fee of $200 to the secretary, previous to January 1, 1922, as an evidence of good faith in the fulfilment and completion of an entry; and that such fee should be forfeited if an entrant does not complete his entry and make the exhibit. The fees so paid are to be returnable upon completion of the entries.

The committee was of the opinion that the prizes offered in the schedule for a display of bulbs, etc., arranged as a bulb garden covering 500 square feet, were too low, and it was decided that the prizes be changed to read: First prize, $500, with second prize $300; and that the offer of a gold medal in this class be withdrawn. Considerable time was devoted to a discussion of a budget of expense covering the inauguration and dismantling of the show, but no action was taken upon it as a whole, the general opinion being that with the exception of a few appropriations which were absolutely necessary to cover preliminary work, general appropriations could be arranged for as required.

The secretary reported that up to the time of the meeting the sum of $16,297 had been subscribed to the guarantee fund, by the following subscribers:

Boston Flower Show.

The National Rose Show with wonderful exhibits of orchids, carnations and spring-blooming plants scheduled for April 6-10 in Horticultural hall, Boston, Mass., is to be a winner, according to the eleventh hour statement from the officials in charge. The special committees of the American Rose Society and the Massachusetts Horticultural Society have been reporting response and interest in the show.

Entries for the money prizes and valuable medals have been coming in freely from various parts of the country. The rose exhibit will be the finest ever shown in New England and probably the country. All the recent introductions and many varieties not yet shown will be displayed.

Boston orchid shows are famous the country over and the display in connection with the Rose Show will be the equal of anything ever seen in that city. Many new named and unnamed varieties will be on exhibition from the Cooley, Burrage and other orchid greenhouses.

One hundred plants of the Karune azaleas from the John S. Ames estate, North Easton, will be one of the feature displays in the main hall.

CLASS SIXTY-SIX

In this class, display of cut roses April 8, covering 300 square feet, decorative green of any kind, including plants, will be permitted, quality of bloom, artistic arrangement and general effect to be considered in making award.

The lecture programme prepared and conducted under the auspices of the American Rose Society and to begin at 3:30 p. m., is as follows:

Wednesday, April 6—"Roses and Rose Gardens," illustrated, by Robert Pyle, President American Rose Society.

Thursday, April 7—"The Rose in America," illustrated, by J. Horace McFarland, Editor American Rose Annual.

Friday, April 8—"Roses in Europe and America," by C. H. Totty, Treasurer American Rose Society.

Saturday, April 9—"Suggestions on The Culture of Hardy Roses," by Wm. N. Craig, Faulkner farm, Brookline, Mass.

Sunday, April 10—"Rambler Roses in New England," by Prof. Frank A. Waugh, Massachusetts Agricultural college.

For schedules and further information apply to the Massachusetts Horticultural Society, Horticultural hall, Boston, Mass.

National Flower Growers' Association.

ORGANIZING OHIO DISTRICT.

The work of forming the Ohio district of the National Flower Growers' Association will be pushed now that the Easter rush is over. Organization meetings have been arranged as follows: Toledo, evening of April 7; Springfield, Tuesday afternoon, April 12; Dayton, the evening of April 12, and Cincinnati, April 13. Very successful meetings have already been held in Cleveland and Columbus.

The temporary officers and directors who will attend these sessions are: Carl Hagenburger, W. Mentor, president; F. C. W. Brown, Cleveland, first vice-president; H. P. Knoble, Cleveland, second vice-president; and Geo. Bate, Cleveland, secretary and treasurer. Directors: Lars Anderson, Rocky River; Albert Barnow, Macedonia; Wm. J. Kramer, Rocky River; Louis Koehl, Cleveland, and Wm. H. Temblet, Cleveland.

VERY GOOD EASTER TRADE ENJOYED.

From reports gained thus far the trade have all reasons to be grateful with the Easter business. There was enough stock of most of the cut flowers to give satisfaction and that which came in brought good prices. It was by far a plant day and it was to be regretted that as to variety it was rather short compared to pre-war times. Easter lilies again took the lead with bulbous stock in pans of small oblong boxes a good second. Roses, genistas, a few spireas primulas and bougainvilleas about completed the list. Due to the fact that the large lots of hydrangeas did not arrive in good shape last fall this showy plant, which was very popular in the past was little seen. In the cut flower line the supply of roses was fair and of good quality; the cut of carnations ran ahead of expectations but not enough to affect the listed prices of $6 to $10 a 100, Laddie excepted. On Palm Sunday we experienced an exceptianolly hot and windy day, which put the violets out of commission and hastened on the sweet peas. The remainder of the week was mostly cloudy, consequently the supply of sweet peas for Easter was far from adequate, selling at $2 to $3 a 100. There was a good cut of calendulas. Snapdragons and daisies were quickly disposed of. A noticeable feature locally was that the public held off until the last minute, causing a great rush on Friday and Saturday. The weather for delivering was ideal.

NOTES.

The Holton & Hunkel Co. had an exceptionally large lot of fine Easter lilies in pots, besides the many other offerings, such as roses, spiraeas, genistas, bougainvilleas and the various varieties of bulbous stock. They report a grand cleanup on all stock.

A large amount of blooming plants for the holiday was seen at the C. C. Pollworth Co. They were sold out long before the rush began and report a fine shipping business as well.

All available space with plants and cut flowers for Easter was used at the Loveland Floral Co., and it was an empty looking place after the rush was over.

R. Lietz, who grows quite a quantity of bulbous stock for his own use, had it in good condition, and realized excellent returns.

At Gust Rusch & Co.'s a large amount of stock was disposed of. Business was excellent and resulted in a complete cleanup.

The regular Florists' Club meeting will be held on April 7, and President Gutermuth is anxious to have a large attendance. E. O.

EXCELLENT EASTER BUSINESS.

As is usually the case just before Easter, trade was somewhat quiet during the past week. The store forces, however, are all busy getting ready for the rush due this coming week. Prospects are excellent for a heavy Easter business and many large advance decorations are booked for this period. Everything points to a good supply of lilies this year, both cut stock and pot plants. The quality seems to be much better than last Easter, when much of the cut lilies were very short stemmed. This season fine long stemmed stock is the rule. A splendid lot of rhododendrons is arriving in all colors. Azaleas are also coming into the market. All the plants are well flowered. Very few rambler roses are to be had as yet but it is expected they will be largely in evidence by the early part of the week. Genista racemosa is a plant that is meeting with great favor. Ericas will not be as plentiful as heretofore owing to the lateness of the season. A fine stock of primulas is being handled. Dutch hyacinths promise to be plentiful and made up pans of six to eight bulbs will be largely used. The past week did not show any great increase in the rose supply and while the demand was not very strong the limited supply did not last long. Good American Beauties now are in and bring fancy prices. There has been no change in the prices for Mrs. Chas. Russell, Premier or Columbia roses. The cut of Ophelia has increased somewhat. Red roses are the only ones that we have a good supply of and the stores have been pushing the sale of these whenever the opportunity offers. Baby rambler roses are scarce, with no indication of a liberal supply until the outdoor cut appears. Owing to the difficulty in getting these roses to bloom in the winter months they have been discarded by many of the growers. There is still a great surplus of daffodils, and as they are sold at such low figures by the street peddlers they are not receiving very much attention from the retail stores. Violets also are in over supply and do not seem to be in much demand. As a cheap flower they suffer in competition with the daffodil at present. There has been a greatly increased supply of all varieties of carnations and during the past week this stock could be had at low figures. The market will stiffen considerably in the next few days, however. Laddie continues far in the lead as a popular variety and still brings $1.50 per dozen, wholesale. Sweet peas are showing gradual improvement in quality, although the supply is still short. Cattleyas are in strong demand with not enough stock for all requirements. Gardenias are coming in freely now and sell readily. Lily of the valley continues in normal supply with the call about equal to arrivals. The first pink peonies came in during the week and at once leaped into favor. The flowers are very large and of a beautiful pink. Freesias are about over for the season. Tulips are in great supply and cheap. Iris are also plentiful and are mostly used for basket work. Cut Lilium Giganteum are steady at $6 per dozen stems. Snapdragon is on the short side. Asparagus, ferns and other greens are plentiful.

RETAIL FLORISTS' ASSOCIATION.

A special meeting of the Retail Florists' Association was held March 17 to hear the report of the committee in charge of the plans for the purchase of the new flower market. President Albert O. Stein was in the chair. In the absence of Angelo J. Rossi the matter was presented to the members by P. Vincent Matraia, who has devoted much time to this matter, and he made an eloquent plea to all the members to become stockholders in the company to be incorporated to purchase the building, which the committee has agreed will be the most suitable for the purpose. This property is in the center of the wholesale flower market on Bush street and contains five stories and basement. According to Mr. Matraia, it can be purchased for $135,000. The initial payment required is $75,000. It was stated that this building could not be erected at the present time for less than $200,000. The board of directors will consist of six growers and five retail florists. No one florist or grower will be permitted to subscribe for more than $5,000 worth of stock. Mr. Matraia showed the members where the investment will pay a high rate of interest to all stockholders, in addition to removing all existing abuses and inconveniences of the present system. The president then declared a recess for the purpose of signing the subscription list. It was very gratifying to find that every member present had pledged himself for stock in the proposed market. The secretary then read the list of subscribers showing that $51,700 had been subscribed. Many growers and retailers are yet to be heard from, and it is confidently expected that the sum will be oversubscribed, for the first payment on the property. Among the members who have taken stock to the limit are Podesta & Baldocchi, Pelicano, Rossi & Co., Frank D. Pelicano, H. Plath, Art Floral Co., and Ferrari Bros. Victor L. Podesta made a short talk in favor of the new market and congratulated the members on the splendid showing made in such a short time. B. M. Joseph made a fine address and said the association had done more than anything ever attempted in this city to elevate the florists' profession. It had already accomplished Sunday closing and by its advertising campaign a forward movement had been made. He said that any organization of business men that could raise $50,000 for better conditions in a comparatively short time would rise immeasurably in the esteem of business circles here. The meeting then adjourned until the next regular session on April 6.

NOTES.

The exhibition committee of the Pacific Coast Horticultural Society met with the same committee of the Retail Florists' Association on March 18 at the offices of the Art Floral Co. There was a very representative gathering of plant and flower growers present to arrange plans for the flower show to be held next fall. P. Vincent Matraia, president of the Art Floral Co., and originator of the proposed exhibition, was made permanent chairman and James T. Lynch was elected secretary. The question of a suitable hall was gone into thoroughly, and it was decided that the Civic auditorium was the only place large enough to hold the show. The following were appointed by the chairman to arrange for securing the auditorium: Angelo J. Rossi, Victor Ferrari, Charles W. Brown, P. V. Matraia and F. C. Jaeger, Jr. It was also decided that the Japanese growers be invited to stage exhibits, particularly the chrysanthemum growers. All members of both committees were appointed on the advertising committee. The following were appointed on the prize committee: H. Plath, chairman; John Carbone, Frank D. Pelicano, Eric James and John R. Walsh. The finance committee is composed of Victor Ferrari, chairman; Victor L. Podesta, Angelo J. Rossi, B. M. Joseph, P. V. Matraia and Richard Dinucci. It was decided that the show be held some time between October 15 and November 1. All of the members of the various committees have had much experience in handling flower shows and no better selection could have been made to assure the success of the coming show. All the proceeds, after expenses are paid, will go to the advertising fund of the Retail Florists' Association to be used to further the sales of plants and flowers. Mr. Matraia stated that for several weeks before the show every box of plants or cut flowers sent out will contain a printed slip advising the recipient of the exhibition and extending an invitation to attend.

The Menlo Park Horticultural Society has elected the following officers to serve during the coming year: Percy Copp, president; Thomas Templeton, vice president; John M. Daly, recording secretary; Arthur Bearsby, financial secretary, and George Munn, treasurer. A schedule of monthly competitive prizes for the year has been drawn up also. This society will not stage an exhibition at Menlo Park this year as nearly all of its members will be exhibitors at the show to be held in this city. Their meeting date has been changed from the second Thursday in each month to the first Thursday.

Pelicano Rossi & Co. took over another store during Easter week to accommodate the large amount of Easter plants and to facilitate packing and delivery. Rambler roses, lilies, azaleas and rhododendrons are now arriving at this establishment in large quantities.

The display of pink peonies at the store of Podesta & Baldocchi last week was a splendid one and attracted crowds to their windows. This firm had a record Easter trade, particularly in flowering plants.

Frank D. Pelicano, who has been suffering from a severe attack of rheumatism, is spending a few weeks at Byron Hot Springs. Late reports are that he is improving.

William McCardle, Delta, has shipped over a million strawberry plants from his nursery this season. He received $10 per 1,000.

Victor Ferrari and wife are receiving the congratulations of their friends on the arrival of a daughter.

B. M. Joseph was in charge of the Easter advertising for the Retail Florists' Association.

The E. W. McLellan Co. had an excellent cut of roses for their Easter trade. JAMES T. LYNCH.

Indianapolis, Ind.

A FAIR EASTER DEMAND.

Inclement weather rather held back the demand for flowers of all sorts for the Easter sale. However, business was as good and in some cases was better than was expected. As it was, the demand was almost equal to the supply because of the cloudy previous week. Taken as a whole the market price averaged about 25 per cent lower than at the same season last year and the demand on an average was about the same. Easter lilies, snapdragons, sweet peas and pot plants all had a fair call. The carnation demand was a little off. The present week opened with a good call for shrubs and the spring business in nursery stocks promises to be as good next year. During the past week there have been several funerals of prominent persons here, which has caused some increased demand which would not have been noticed otherwise.

NOTES.

Extensive plans are being made for the next meeting of the Indiana Florists' Association, which will be held here, April 5. The educational film put out in the east will be shown for the first time. The business meetings will take place at the Chamber of Commerce, with general headquarters at Smith & Young Co.'s plant.

Fred W. Hoffman, of the Greater Terre Haute Club, with Leon Leonian and E. C. Yates, have organized the Terre Haute Horticultural Service Co. They will be advisers about tree planting, tree spraying and care of shrubbery.

The Indiana conservation commission has requested Governor McCray to give consideration and assistance toward the establishment of a tree nursery at some state institution, preferably the boys' school at Plainfield.

Baur & Steinkamp were hosts recently to a party of 12 from Illinois university, including Professors Dorner and Hall, and was composed of students in the floriculture course at the university.

Bertermann Bros. Co. have started some extensive remodeling which will make their Massachusetts avenue store one of the most modern retail establishments in the city.

Henry Henningsen, Greensburg, was naturalized as a citizen of the United States recently. E. B.

EASTER TRADE GREAT SUCCESS.

The Easter business was very successful. With some retailers it was their banner week in all respects; with others the sales were more numerous, but the net volume measured in dollars was not as great as last year; but all were surprised by the incessant call for both plants and cut flowers, particularly on Saturday when the weather was fine as was Friday, in contrast with the first four days of the week. All were well supplied with a good stock and variety of plants and cut flowers of the bulbous varieties. Roses were not so plentiful and a decided shortage was indicated early in the week, which, however, as on former similar days, changed at the eleventh hour and a full supply was available. Sweet peas, violets and small flowers, suitable for corsage work, were short of the demand and the quality of the peas was poor, due to the weather conditions. Prices on many items in cut flowers were fully as high as last year and in plants the lilies maintained the same price as for a year ago and in some cases superior stock brought more. There was an immense amount of bulbous plants on the market; every little greenhouse establishment had a greater stock than ever before and even amateurs with hot beds and frames increased with their stock the enormous quantity the regular growers had prepared for the week. Rambler roses seemed to lead with some, as lilies were short in supply. Very fine bulbous stock in the usual sizes were to be had everywhere and some spireas and snapdragons completed the list of the better plants, while cinerarias, daisies and genistas were available in many places. Very few, if any, florists had any good plants or cut flowers on hand Sunday evening, and nearly everyone was surprised as well as pleased with the final results.

NOTES.

"We did not handle Easter lilies and that alone reduced our total volume of business which otherwise was most satisfactory," said M. Constantine, of the Majestic Flower shop.

Easter was a great success and a pleasing surprise according to Philip Breitmeyer, of John Breitmeyer's Sons. They registered a complete cleanup in stock.

Walter Taepke cleaned out everything except high priced roses and could have sold more corsages had suitable stock been available.

Peter Papes, of Papes Brothers, and Central Floral Co., was well satisfied, although he lost some trade by a change of location.

J. K. Stock was well pleased with the outcome of his Easter trade, but it did come up to the banner year of 1920.

Practically all of the plants they had prepared for the occasion were sold at W. B. Brown's establishment.

With volume of sales away ahead of last year Chas. H. Plumb was well pleased with the results.

A. Pochelon reports that business was fully up to that of last year.

A fine cleanup of stock was had by Peter Reuss. J. F. S.

Wichita, Kan.

SUPPLY SUFFICIENT FOR DEMAND.

While exact figures are not available, it seems quite safe to state that the record for Easter trade will show an increase of 20 per cent over any previous Easter. Prices were at the same level as the corresponding period a year ago. The cut flower supply was adequate in most lines with prices remaining about the same as for the past few weeks. Bulb stock was in ample supply, as well as plants and cut flowers, which sold fairly well at profitable prices. Plant sales covered more than half of the volume of business with lilies easily leading in demand and quantity. Other plant stocks included hydrangeas, bush roses, cinerarias, pelargoniums and bulb stock. Prices were on a basis to compete with lilies at 50 cents per flower and large bud. Made up plant baskets sold well in the moderate price range of $5 to $10 each. Florist Telegraph Delivery Association business was worth while, both in and out of the city, and showed a growing appreciation on the part of the flower buying public.

Nassau County Horticultural Society.

The monthly meeting of the Nassau County Horticultural Society, was held at Glen Cove, N. Y., March 9, President Wm. Noonan in the chair. At the exhibit held in connection, Frank O. Johnson won first prize for his display of tulips and Jack Henderson carried off the honors for his exhibit of three heads of cauliflower. The committee on the schedule for the tulip show made its report, and from the variety and number of classes, all will be able to compete. Exhibits for the meeting to be held April 13, will consist of 12 spikes mixed antirrhiums, pot of Primula obconica and 25 string beans. William Carter told of his interesting experiences while in Europe, recently. The President announced that two applications had been received for membership in the Society.

The annual dinner of the Society was held March 15, James Burns acting as toastmaster. Mr. Burns presented a small token from fellow members to Ex-President Thos. Twigg, who responded with a clever speech of thanks. John F. Johnston gave a short talk on the aims of the Society and was followed by W. J. Collins, Boston, Mass., who spoke for the seed trade. President Noonan concluded the evening's programme with an outline of activities for the coming year. There were about 100 members and guests present, and a very enjoyable evening was had by all.

ARTHUR COOK, Cor. Sec'y.

The Late Frederick Zahn.

Frederick Zahn, a well known retail florist of New York, died at his home in that city on March 24, after a protracted illness, age 60 years. His father, a florist, settled there and opened a retail store on Grand street in 1853, and Frederick was born in that neighborhood. After leaving school he grew up with his father's business. For the past 25 years he had been in the retail business in the Harlem section, his last location being on Seventh avenue near 125th street.

Mr. Zahn was a man of genial personality, beloved by his family and highly respected by a large circle of friends. He was a member of Bunting lodge No. 655, F. & A. M., Sylvan chapter No. 188, R. A. M., and Constantine commandery. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Margaret E. Zahn and two daughters, Mrs. David Waterbury and Miss Eloise Zahn.

Funeral services were held at the family home, 137 W. 126th street, on the afternoon of March 27, when prominent Masons paid tribute to the memory of their departed brother. A. F. F.

ST. AUGUSTINE, FLA.—E. Benson, who for some seasons past has grown jonquils for the local market, has an acre of these flowers, and his place is quite an attraction to thousands of visitors.

IT is announced that almost all the Detroit automobile manufacturers will resume 100 percent production next week.

THE growers of summer annuals to supply the cut flower market can lengthen their season by successive sowings of seed.

TWO useful bulletins of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society, issued recently, are the "Arrangement of Flowers in Public Exhibitions," and "Winter Flowering Begonias."

THE most important feature in making up cut flower work, is to first select and mark down the cost of the flowers to be used. This should insure the exact amount of gross profit. To tie up, or stick them in, until the effect is considered good enough, too frequently runs away with nearly all the profit.

The Late John Burroughs

At 84 said: "The fact that flowers bloom and fruit and grains ripen, that the sun shines, that the rain falls, that food nourishes us, that evolution has brought us far on our way, that our line of descent has survived all the hazards of the geologic ages, all point to the fact that we are on the winning side, that our well-being is secured in the constitution of things."

American Rose Society.

The Garden Club of America has offered its silver medal to the American Rose Society. At the meeting of the executive committee of the American Rose Society, held in New York on March 16, it was decided to offer this medal as a sweepstakes prize for the best 50 roses in the class calling for 50 blooms, at the exhibition of the National Rose Show, in Boston, Mass., April 6-10.

Annuals.

The Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., under the title of "Growing Annual Flowering Plants" (Farmers' Bulletin No. 1171) has just issued a timely pamphlet of 83 pages on garden annuals, by L. C. Corbett and F. L. Mulford, containing a large amount of valuable information on the uses, culture and arrangement of these plants. The pamphelt is well illustrated and a table at the end gives a long list of kinds, with common names, height, grown for flowers or foliage, colors, preference for sun or shade, hardiness and reference to description.

Park Flower Shows Aid Florists' Sales.

Florists of Spokane, Wash., have been able to trace steady sales of flowers to many homes in that city through interest aroused among the general public by the fine exhibitions staged at the municipal greenhouses in Manito park, under the supervision of Park Superintendent James Duncan, a horticulturist of many years' experience and who may be justly proud of his displays. From time to time, the park greenhouses are thrown open to the public, and as the city authorities are careful not to conflict in any way with the trade, the retail stores need only display the same varieties in their windows to attract the buyers

National Hospital Day.

An announcement by Matthew O. Foley, secretary of the National Hospital day committee, states that May 12 has been designated as "national hospital day," the purpose of which is to make the public better acquainted with these institutions. President Harding, governors of states and officers of corresponding rank in Canada are being asked to proclaim "national hospital day" with some reference to the work being done in these institutions in housing thousands of sick and wounded ex-service men.

Since thousands of people who visit their sick friends on that occasion will take flowers, the day should offer an opportunity to florists to increase their sales.

Confidence Coming Back.

The widespread optimism and confidence that marks the present business situation is founded upon a knowledge of the inherent strength and soundness of the nation's economic structure, Archer Wall Douglas, chairman of the committee of statistics and standards of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, declares in his monthly review of business conditions in The Nation's Business.

"Nothing is more significant and encouraging at this time," he says, "than the belief in many quarters that better conditions will prevail as the season advances. As a natural consequence of this growing cheerfulness there is actually more business being done today, both materially and mentally, as it entails the buying of seasonable goods. A general decline in prices is realized to be the only way out of the existing unnatural situation, and while it is a painful process, it is none the less essential. The sooner it is over, the sooner we shall arrive at an enduring basis.

"The almost forgotten slogan 'back to the farm' is being heard once again. This means that farm labor will not be so scarce as a year ago, nor will the hired man command such high wages. Also it now seems very sure that there will not be such acreage of staple farm products as last spring. For there is not the same incentive. Nor will the cost of production be so great. Thus the farmer's problem of the relation of his cost and selling prices seems likely to be solved by supply, which will ultimately tend to bring about higher prices, while decreased cost of production will match itself with demand. Decreased production insures a better margin of profit. This is the way the natural laws of trade take care of such problems. Resumption in industrial life is usually accompanied by reductions in wages. Farmers are gradually selling their products as they find a demand, or as necessity compels. Movements of corn and wheat are larger than generally supposed."

American Rose Annual.

We are in receipt of the American Rose Annual for 1921, another of the valuable series edited by J. Horace McFarland. The new book is well abreast of the times as to the high character and variety of contents covering many topics of interest and value to amateur and commercial rosarians. The new roses are ably discussed by E. G. Hill and Courtney Page, and Harold Hume presents some interesting details on "Rose Stocks and Root Systems." Other articles of special importance to the trade are "The Rose Cut Flower Situation," by Wallace R. Pierson; "Greenhouse Roses This Year and Last," by Chas. H. Totty; "Commercial Roses as the Wholesaler Sees Them", by S. S. Pennock; "Cut Roses Around Chicago", by W. J. Keimel; "Commercial Roses in the Pacific Northwest", by Thos. C. Luke and "Roses and the Retail Florist", by Thomas Roland.

The annual is issued by the American Rose Society, of which John C. Wister, 606 Finance Building, Philadelphia, Pa., is secretary. The volume is illustrated, printed and bound in the best style and in itself is well worth the Society's annual membership fee of $3.00.

Wild Profiteering Statements.

Some Chicago newspapers gave currency last week, three days before Easter, to the wild statement of an alleged cost expert, charging that florists were profiteering, having advanced the price of lilies two thousand per cent. If his statement was intended to injure the trade, the gross inaccuracy of his figures defeated that purpose. Although the papers afterward printed contradictions, these were too late to be effective. The Chicago public is well informed as to prices by local advertisers and the mis-statement of facts had but little, if any harmful result. The incident, however, shows the urgent need of watchfulness on the part of the local trade bodies in exercising their right to consultation before printing statements which may be untrue regarding their product or merchandise.

GROWERS---AFTER-EASTER---PLANNING

FORCING BULBS FOR IMPORT

With Easter behind us we know what Forcing Bulbs have sold well and paid a profit during the past five months The retail flower grower as well as clerks now know what flower buyers most appreciate and these details are fresh in their minds. This is the time therefore to make up the Import Bulb list for the coming season.

1st. Long and satisfactory connections with the best foreign houses.

2nd. Credit arrangements and closest buying at favorable exchange rates.

3rd. First early shipments, followed by one or more later ones covering entire shipping season.

4th. Earliest deliveries of early forcing items which cannot rightly be delayed for main supply.

5th. Covering by us of all "fancy" and excess brokers' fees and port charges at New York, in which nearly every U. S. Florist grower has been persistently robbed for the past five years. We eliminate this.

6th. Because of the above, we ask that you submit to us a list as nearly as possible of what you expect to use between now and next November in these imports, part of which we specify below, and let us submit to you approximate prices and certain further details regarding delivery dates which we know will interest you.

We take this opportune time to list here a few vital reasons why Vaughan's Seed Store at New York and Chicago is especially well prepared to take the responsibility of supplying in season at right prices your whole list of Forcing Bulbs both American grown and imported French, Dutch and Japanese.

COMPLETE DISPOSAL OF EASTER STOCK.

Easter, the greatest day in the year for the florist, is now a thing of the past, and what a day it was! Ideal weather conditions prevailed, which brought everybody out and the trade registered a complete cleanup of all salable stock. Prices were reasonable, in some cases from one-third to one-half lower than last year, which may account for some florists not doing as much volume as last year with its high prices; but in number of sales and stock moved, it was without doubt the biggest day experienced. From the street merchant with his stand outside the City market to the best shops in the city, all report the same story—sold out; and it was not one or two items that were disposed of, but everything from pot tulips to the best cut of American Beauty roses. On Thursday morning, before Easter, the wholesale houses refused to book any more orders for any item on the list with the exception of bulbous stock, and before the rush was over, that was also cleaned up, and the retailer who delayed placing his order, with the thought that stock would be plentiful and cheap at the last minute, got left and it was with difficulty that he received any stock at all. Stock in general was in first-class condition, and there have been very few complaints as to quality. The supply of American Beauties was small and many more could have been sold. They brought anywhere from 10 cents for the shorts up to $1.00 apiece for specials. The rose cut was large but not nearly great enough to supply the demand, and while Premier, Columbia and Butterfly were the favorites, it did not seem to matter what variety it was as long as it was a rose. Lilies were the one big disappointment. Contrary to all expectations there were not nearly enough to go around, and there were no orders filled in full; it was simply a case of dividing them up and giving everyone his share. Due to the shortage of Easter lilies, Callas had their innings, and on an ordinary Easter there would have been too many. This year they cleaned up early at good prices. Carnations were in heavy supply and of good quality, but when the business was over there were none left. The supply of sweet peas was a disappointment, not coming anywhere near the estimated cut, due to the warm weather which prevailed the two weeks preceding Easter, thus bringing them on prematurely. Lily of the valley was another item that suddenly came into its own after having lost favor for the past two years, due to high prices, and from all reports there was more used this Easter than ever before. Violets as usual were poor. They were sweet and fresh but were fading to such an extent that the majority of them could not be used. Bulbous stock was in heavy supply and the stock was in fine condition, and while at times it seemed as if the quantity was too great to move, when the end came they were all gone, and there were very few of them that had to be sacrificed. Other seasonable stock, including snapdragons, calendulas, mignonettes, freesias, myosotis, daisies, and baby primroses cleaned up early. Orchids were scarce and in demand and after Thursday it was impossible to obtain any at any price. Plumosa from the south arrived in poor condition, and the most of it was unfit to send out. The business this year goes to prove that with reasonable prices and a little advertising, the public will buy flowers. As we all know, the business depression is general all over the country, and every line is complaining of poor trade, but in spite of that the florists have just had the biggest business in their history, and with advertising and reasonable prices there is no limit to what the business can do.

Dear Sirs:

The work done by your company at Briarbank has proven very satisfactory and has helped to preserve a good many of the beautiful trees on the estate which were fast going to decay. I want also to congratulate you on the class of men you have sent here to do work. They have proven themselves gentlemen in every respect—were very energetic and seemed to take great pride in not only doing their work well but would at all times try and finish a job in the least possible time.

Yours very respectfully,
W. M. Story, Supt. Briarbank.

Every gardener and estate superintendent has a most important work in the saving of the trees under his care.

PETER REINBERG

Wholesale Florist, 30 East Randolph St., CHICAGO

Columbus, O.

FINE EASTER TRADE ENJOYED.

Easter business among the florists of Columbus was exceptionally active in every way. Orders were probably more numerous than in any former Easter season although the average size of the orders was somewhat smaller than usual. This has been the trend of the market for some time and as a result was not surprising to any of the florists. The usual run of flowers was in demand and all had a fairly good sale. Violets were the scarcest because of the lack of sunshine and supplies were soon exhausted. Other varieties such as roses, carnations, sweet peas, Easter lilies, jonquils and lilies of the valley were in fairly good supply. The result of the week's business was a cleanup of stocks at all of the local establishments and consequently there was nothing to carry over. Roses were of good quality and sold from $4 to $14 per dozen. The extra long varieties brought the top price. The favorite varieties were Mrs. Chas. Russell, Premier, Columbia, Sunburst and Butterfly. All varieties of carnations sold around $3 per dozen. The varieties in the market were White Enchantress, Pink Enchantress Supreme, Mrs. Aaron Ward, Belle Washburn and Aviator. Narcissi were plentiful and the demand was good around $2.50 per dozen. Sweet peas were quoted around $2.50 per bunch when the supply was good and slightly higher as the supply diminished. Plants were also in good demand with Easter Lilies the best sellers and primroses the least in demand. Other varieties of plants were hydrangeas, hyacinths, genistas and cinerarias. On the whole the trade was very satisfactory and the florists were compelled to employ a good deal of extra help to keep ahead of orders.

The Wilson Seed Co. has secured a lease for 99 years on the four-story building at 25 E. Town street, and will secure possession May 1. Extensive repairs and alterations will be made and it is expected that the company will remove to the new location about July 1. They will occupy the first floor, having rented the upper floor also. Mr. Wilson is planning on the Pearl street side of the building, a show window conservatory which will be very elaborate. J. W. L.

RAIN AFFECTS LOCAL DEMAND.

The heavy rain, March 24-25, affected the local demand to such an extent that there was practically nothing doing in the wholesale market considering that it was Easter week. Carnations were sold in large lots at low prices compared to the advertised quotations in order to move them and roses also were sacrificed at attractive prices to the buyer. The shipping trade was good but not up to that of last year, but it appeared to many early in the week that the market would clean up completely if the weather was anything at all favorable. The rain affected the local demand to such an extent that the retailers in general report that their sales for March 24-25 amounted to very little and less than half of those for the same period last year. The weather was fine March 26 and the retail florists had more business than they could possibly handle in spite of the profiteering report appearing in the daily papers which was later contradicted. All the retail stores were filled to the limit with plants and naturally they devoted their attention to unloading all they could the last day and did remarkably well considering the amount that had to be sold during that time. With all their efforts devoted to pushing plants the retailers did not give much attention to cut flowers only where it was absolutely necessary; consequently the market suffered considerably and while a few report business as very satisfactory the majority were disappointed and admit that it could have been a whole lot better. Cut lilies cleaned up early at good prices. Violets were scarce and so were good sweet peas due to the cloudy weather. Callas were disposed of quickly. The rose and carnation market suffered as previously mentioned, and all that can be said about these two items is that they sold far below the advertised quotations here, owing to the unfavorable weather. Southern jonquils were plentiful and cleaned up early. Orchids were in good demand and lily of the valley had a splendid call. Freesias moved nicely considering the general market conditions. Daisies, tulips, Darwin tulips, calendulas, mignonette, pansies, Narcissus Poeticus and other miscellaneous seasonable stock were included in the offerings. Greens were in strong demand. In summing up the whole Easter business all that one can report is that it could have been a great deal better.

Do not take any fake or imitation thread, claimed to be the Meyer silkaline, or smilax threads. Be sure the name Meyer is on the end of each spool, as we find there are a lot of fake brands being put on the market to imitate our green florists' thread. Weigh up our threads and then weigh up the other parties' that you are buying from and you will notice that our threads run full two ounces of thread to the spool. Be sure and get the Meyer thread.

The Central Floral Co. received its new Buick delivery truck in time to use it during the Easter rush. This firm had a wonderful showing of plants all last week and is well pleased with the amount of business that it enjoyed for Easter. The demand for corsages was heavy.

Zech & Mann had a heavy call for cut lilies and cleaned up so completely in this item that they did not have any to offer the day before Easter. Allie Zech says that this is the first time this occurred in the history of the firm.

Albert Koehler, of the American Bulb Co., was in the Easter parade with his new car. One of the other drivers thought it looked too classy so he smashed his machine into it and scratched it up a little.

Jens Jensen, consulting landscape architect to the West Park board, has vacated that position in favor of some one more favorable to the present administration. His successor has not yet been named.

Fred Lautenschlager has returned from New York where he attended the spring show at the Grand Central Palace, March 14-20. His firm was one of the exhibitors in the allied trade division.

The Flower Service is what the firm calls itself that opened for business recently at 321 South Clark street.

E. J. Ahles, representing the Ove Gnatt Co., LaPorte, Ind., is back from a southern business trip.

George Wienhoeber disposed of his entire stock of plants that he had to offer and is more than pleased with the whirlwind finish. The sales at his store March 26 were tremendous and offset those that were lost owing to the rainy weather during the two previous days. Every order was delivered at 8 o'clock Easter morning. A fleet of taxi-cabs and motor busses were pressed into service in addition to their own car. Bert Cole is on the job here.

John Reitmeier has the sympathy of the trade in the loss of his wife, whose death occurred last week. She was about 50 years of age and the oldest daughter of John Kruchten. The funeral was held March 28 from the home at 2536 Winona street, with services at St. Matthias' church and interment at St. Henry's cemetery. The funeral was largely attended and there were many beautiful floral pieces from friends in the trade.

Poehlmann Bros. Co. has a strong demand for orchids at Easter in addition to a heavy call for all other stock. John Poehlmann says that his firm's Easter business as a whole was very satisfactory and honestly believes that the strong local demand the retailers enjoyed is due to the advertising campaign of the Allied Florists' Association.

All the Peter Reinberg stock of roses, chrysanthemums, pompons and carnations that were grown for his own use for next season's planting are being advertised for sale. Peter Showsboe, foreman of the Reinberg greenhouses, says the stock is all in the best of condition.

A. Lange's sales for Easter were equal if not better than those of last year with blooming plants of all kinds having a heavy call. This establishment had a magnificent showing of stock for this occasion and made a strong bid for the business in this vicinity.

The Chicago Flower Growers' Association had a heavy Easter business with its total sales running ahead of last year. Each rose growers' stock is now being shipped out to the customers under his own number and wrapped in special paper.

The E. F. Winterson Co. unpacked a large shipment of tie sprays this week from the John C. Meyer Thread Co., Lowell, Mass. The Meyer threads have stood the test of time and this firm's brands are recognized by this house as the best sellers.

The J. A. Budlong Co. had a big Easter business and the force was obliged to work overtime to take care of all its orders. Their growers were all in good crop and no trouble was experienced in disposing of the stock.

The Bohannon Floral Co. disposed of all its plants at Easter and had a strong call for cut flowers. This firm was well pleased with its total sales, which showed an increase over those of the same period of last year.

Bassett & Washburn sold all the stock it cut for Easter without any trouble, and has no complaint whatever to make in regard to business. A steady supply of roses is arriving here daily with a strong demand for same.

The Joseph Foerster Co. enjoyed a large Easter business, and took care of all its customers in grand style. One of this firm's sweet pea growers cut 500,000 flowers the past four weeks with a good proportion for Easter.

Mangel, the Palmer House Florist, enjoyed a brisk Easter business and his sales March 26 established a new record. This firm had a very attractive advertisement in the leading daily, March 24.

A. L. Vaughan & Co.'s sales for Easter were away ahead of those of last year. This firm's sales for the month up to March 15 were nearly $3,500 ahead of the same period of 1920.

A. T. Pyfer & Co. sold all the lilies it had to offer for Easter at at early hour and enjoyed both a brisk local and shipping demand.

Joseph Ziska & Sons lost a couple of hundred dollars worth of goods one day last week when one of the water hydrants opened accidentally and flooded the place.

Wietor Bros. enjoyed a good Easter business and cleaned up nicely in all lines each day. Some fine callas were included in their shipments last week.

Percy Jones, Inc., had its usual Easter demand for stock, Manager Van Gelder had the market sized up early in the week and governed himself accordingly.

James H. Burdett, director of the Seedsmen's National Garden bureau, is writing a series of articles for the Chicago Daily News on home gardening.

The Weiland-Risch Co. cut its first indoor grown gladioli this week with Mrs. Frank Pendleton the only variety so far on the list.

It is rumored that one of the old wholesale firm's in this market will suspend business about June 1.

Philip L. McKee of the American Greenhouse Manufacturing Co., is in California on business.

Do You Know

a retail florist can most intelligently buy Cut Flowers through the use of our MARKET LETTERS by having direct connections with what is in the market "IN and OUT" of season?

With such direct information a retail florist knows whether the market is "ON CROP or OFF CROP," whether the demand for any one particular variety of flower is on the "SHORT SIDE" of the market or whether it is in heavy supply.

Since it is part of your business to know the quality of every flower you buy and its market value, you then know what the cut flowers are going to cost you at the time your order is written.

Our original and exclusive sales system for the OUT-OF-TOWN buyer is upsetting all precedent in getting NEW BUSINESS.

For the retail florist "buying Cut Flowers is as safe as the growing of them."

Schiller's had a magnificent showing of stock at both stores and cleaned up surprisingly well. Their two establishments were completely filled with customers all day March 26, when the demand was remarkably strong.

H. N. Bruns had all the business he could handle for Easter at his West Madison street store. The heavy sales March 26 easily offset those lost during the unfavorable weather of the previous two days.

John Stobie, formerly of Evanston, will confer a favor upon his sister, Mrs. Isabella M. Valent, 427 Rebecca avenue, Wilkinsburg, Pa., by sending his present address for important news from home.

The Fleischman Floral Co.'s sales for Easter were large and entirely satisfactory. This firm had a large advertisement in the leading daily for this occasion, which brought home great results.

GOOD EASTER TRADE EXPERIENCED.

Stock generally speaking was very scarce shortly before Easter. Business was slow during the forepart of the week, but picked up with a rush during the last few days. Prices were high accordingly and the call splendid. All spring flowers were in great demand and Easter lilies headed the list. Due to the excessively early season there is a scarcity of this flower and the demand was great. The weather for the past few days has been extremely mild and all bulbous plants have come on with a rush. Roses stiffened up considerably. The supply was very limited and the demand was good for Premier, Mrs. Chas. Russell, Ophelia, Butterfly, Ward and Killarney. The market was flooded with carnations of the common varieties and they were to be had everywhere. There were comparatively few Laddie carnations among the offerings and they brought fairly good prices. Sweet peas sold well for use in corsage boquets and the supply was very limited. Calla lillies were scarce and brought a good price. They were practically all used with the pot plants for funeral purposes. The call for pot plants of callas was brisk and many were sold by wholesalers as well as retailers. Lily of the valley is more than plentiful and found everywhere. It was much used in corsage work this week. Exceptionally fine stock of calendulas were offered at $3 per 100 wholesale. the demand being brisk. Violets were in limited supply, and of rather poor quality, but were good sellers however. Daisies are increasing steadily and the demand for them for table use was excellent. Mignonette, the season's first, has arrived, and its selling quality was very good, the supply being limited, however. It was used to a large extent in combination with other flowers in baskets. Some superior quality snapdragons are to be had at the fancy price $12.50 per 100 wholesale. Poeticus narcissi both southern and home grown, are arriving in limited quantities. Orchids of the cattleya group were plentiful. There are no cypripediums to speak of. Roman hyacinths are entirely gone and pot plants of the commoner varieties though plentiful are on the decline. Tulips of the ordinary varieties were offered at all establishments at low prices. Darwin and Murillo varieties were scarce and brought a fancy price. Spanish iris is coming in in limited quantities and brings a high price as it is the season's first offering. Some excellent plants of lilacs, deutzias, genistas and loniceras were seen among the offerings. The lilacs sold from $6.50 and up according to size and variety. Pansy plants were in great demand and were good property. Violet plants though not plentiful were to be had at moderate prices. Cinerarias are declining rapidly. Dracaenas, pandanus, ferns, etc., were without change in price this week. Greens were very plentiful and ferns were selling at $4 per 1,000. It may be said that the Easter rush taxed all of the stores to fullest capacity.

NOTES.

Fred C. Weber had a very attractive Easter window which was worthy of much praise. The main feature of the display was a large Easter egg used in attractive combination with lilies, bulbous and spring flowers.

George H. Pring has returned from a trip to New York, where he attended the spring show. Mr. Pring states the exhibition was without doubt one of the finest ever held in this country.

Grimm & Gorly attracted much attention by their gorgeous Easter display, the main feature of which was a large white cross embanked with Easter lilies.

H. J. Berning reported an unusual amount of Easter orders and was hard pressed to fill the demands of his customers.

EXCELLENT SUPPLY OF STOCK ON HAND

The Easter season of 1921 was marked by one of the largest, finest and most satisfactory collection of plants and cut flowers ever known at this time. One reason for this is the forwardness of the season which is several weeks ahead of this time last year. All varieties of narcisus and jonquils have bloomed and gone. Iris is in bloom and was very plentiful for Easter, as were also the lilacs, both white and pink. Roses are in great shape, both as to color and size, and are plentiful. The varieties are the Columbia, Premier, Milady, Killarney, Ophelia, Mrs. Chas. Russell, Cecile Brunner, Sweetheart and other varieties. They retailed at $4.00 to $10.00 for the best. Florists had all they could do to keep up with the demand. There was almost a glut of Easter lilies, for every grower was determined to fill as many orders as possible. The price was fully 25 per cent cheaper than last year, which held true in other lines. But the volume of trade was way over that of last season. Easter lilies scored as best sellers but pot plants, hyacinths, tulips, cinerarias, Baby rambler roses, hydrangeas, birch boxes, and decorated baskets met with a ready sale. For everything in cut flowers, the rose perhaps led the call, while carnations were a close second. The latter line was excellent, and the price cheaper than last year or than the last few months. The price of Easter lilies was 50 cents a bloom, and cut lilies $6 per dozen.

NOTES.

The Joy Floral Company had a fine stock, supplying not only this city but Chattanooga, Tenn., and Atlanta, Ga., as well. To each of the above cities they shipped an extra carload of plants, which included cut flowers and any number of lily plants. This concern with their great resources, were able to wholesale a lot of cut flowers, roses and carnations in other cities without in the least diminishing their home supply.

A superb stock of flowers was seen at Geny Bros. It required the entire effort of the store force, which had been increased, to keep up with the demand. Their lilies were very fine, as were their roses and decorated plant baskets. Easter trade at this shop was much better than for the same period last year.

The usual market house merchants were on hand the day previous to Easter, with all the smaller and cheaper plants. Geraniums, hydrangeas, pansies and ferns were their specialties.

L. H. Haury & Sons had a very creditable supply of Easter flowers, roses, carnations and decorated boxes and baskets. They had fine lilies, tulips and hyacinths, and sold out completely.

McIntyre Bros. had a beautiful stock of plants and cut flowers. Their lilies were fine and they had a variety of cut roses and carnations for which there was a good sale.

A good Easter business was experienced by C. H. Trichler, who was well supplied with lilies and pot plants.

UNUSUALLY GOOD EASTER TRADE.

Business for Easter was very good, there being an increase shown by most stores of 25 to 40 per cent on total receipts over the previous year. Stock cleaned up every day very well. Carnations, Easter lilies and sweet peas were the leaders. Carnations were not very plentiful and consequently brought a good price, the average being about $10 per hundred. Easter lilies did not move very rapidly early in the week at $18 to $20 a hundred, but were very shy later in the week and advanced in price as high as 35 cents for long-stem flowers. Violets were poor and scarce which caused a large demand for all other corsage flowers. Sweet peas were greatly in demand and brought as high as $5 a hundred. These were followed closely by Mignon, roses, orchids and gardenias. Gardenias were of good quality and sold up to $9 a dozen. The supply of orchids was about equal to the demand. The Triane were the poorest in quality and sold at $12 a dozen. Good Mossiae sold as high as $2 each. Roses were plentiful and considering the supply brought good prices. Shorts sold at $10 a hundred and fancies as high as 50 cents. Callas were in great demand for church work for Holy Thursday, and brought $5 a dozen for the large flowers. The supply of Easter lily plants fell far short of the demand, the average price paid by the stores was 20 cents on orders booked. But on Friday and Saturday the stores were offering up to 35 cents a bud and were glad to get them without even one open flower to a plant. Rambler roses were next in demand to lilies, Tausendschon was the only one to be had. The thornramblers did not get in flower. Bougainvilleas were of very good quality but had to be pushed to move them. This plant has fallen off in demand the past few years so that not more than 10 per cent is now grown of what there was five years ago. Pan bulbs sold about the same as in previous years. The French hydrangea has pushed the Otaksa off the stage entirely and none of the old-fashioned ones were to be seen on sale anywhere. The pinks and blues of the French variety sold without any effort.

Carl Shifiman, salesman for J. M. Cohen at the Co-operative market, has gone in as a commission man for himself. He will have Lenks' roses and also one or two other growers.

J. M. Cartwright, formerly with the Waban Rose conservatories, is going to build a King house on his father's place at Wellesley, and will produce carnations.

Atlanta, Ga.

Flower publicity was in the air here Good Friday, when the Dahl Co. had big newspaper space, offering 10,000 lilies, while the wagons of the Atlanta Floral Co. carried banners announcing three car loads of lilies and the West View Co. placarded its wagons with four-car signs.

Saturday was lily day at the Dahl establishment. The new store was banked four shelves high the full length on both sides with lily plants, ramblers in bloom, cinerarias and primulas, while the center line of tables carried many finished plant and flower baskets and boxes.

The West Peachtree street branch store of the Joy Floral Co., had a brilliant display of general stock.

The West View Co., besides the regular store, had an overflow stand of lily plants.

Stallings made a fine window display of plants, flowers and baskets.

AMPLE SUPPLY WITH GOOD DEMAND.

The Easter business exceeded expectations in every department of the craft. The wholesale supply houses who started the ball rolling all declare this to have been their biggest volume of trade. Then the growers of Easter plants began their record breaking sales, which when the stores got their stocks in place was kept up until there was nothing salable left. The commission cut flower men had a splendid early shipping trade to out of town customers, which later was taken up by the local stores and a clean-up was effected in everything except possibly daffodils, of which stock there were some thousands too many. The weather for the week was exceptional; a little rain and cloudiness on Wednesday, but all other days were bright and sunshiny with record-breaking temperature. If it had been 10 degrees cooler, it would have been better for shipping and handling all kinds of cut flowers, with which the market was never better supplied. Easter lilies ran out toward the end, late deliveries being very tight and many of the pot plants being seen without a bud open. Good open flowers easily brought the top price of 25 cents all day Saturday. There was a good supply of carnations, which in the higher grades cleaned up at eight to 10 cents. Sweet peas were the best stock in the market and sold up to the last bunch; they were not any too plentiful. There was an abundance of roses and they sold up pretty close at 40 cents. Callas were in good demand at 25 cents. Larkspur was one of the choice things at from 25 to 50 cents per spray. There were a few violets, but they were so nearly out, only those compelled to do so bought them; also, a good demand for lily of the valley, with cattleyas portioned out to those who deserved them. Emperor daffodils were quoted at four to six cents, but there were quantities of the best stock at $40 per thousand. Southern daffodils in variety hit the market strong and while only fit for street sales had their effect in cheapening the better stock. The street men also handled quantities of long roses left over from early in the week and the week before. The wholesale houses all experienced an excellent out of town demand, declaring it to be quite as good as last season and some claiming an increase. The stores put their best efforts in their displays and some beautiful specimen hydrangeas, rambler roses in trained forms, heather, genistas, bougainvilleas, etc., were features in all the stocks. Splendidly filled baskets, tubs, and individual plant holders were high lights in all the stores.

March 28—The market opened strong this morning, there being a good demand all along the line, which was a healthy sign, showing that the clean-up on Saturday and Sunday had been general.

NOTES.

A large wholesaler, in summing up the business of the week, said that from what he could see the volume was fully as large as last year but prices were about 15 per cent lower. While this would cut considerably into the profits all around, he felt the trade was to be congratulated on the outcome, for compared with other branches of business it was largely to the advantage of the florist.

An exceptionally fine line of plants and plant baskets and hand-painted tubs, artistically filled, were seen at S. S. Pennock Bros. Handsome ribbons gave a correct color touch to all specimens. The whole assortment was splendidly arranged. An immense business was done here.

A splendid line of made-up plant baskets and handsome specimen plants were seen at H. H. Battles. His Century shop adjoining was as closely packed as possible with choice quick-selling plants. A wonderful business was transacted in these two stores.

J. J. Habermehl's Sons' Bellevlue-Stratford shop and their store in the Ritz-Carlton made an excellent display of baskets. There was great variety in the filling and all were elaborately decked with ribbons. Trade was very good here.

C. H. Fox had a fine assortment of baskets and individual plants that sold out clean. His display of made-up corsages and boxes of cut flowers in the flower case were up to the minute in stock and artistic arrangement.

The Jos. Heacock Co. have made splendid use of a propagation house, planting the benches of the same with Godfrey callas, which have turned out a wonderful crop, their Easter cut being particularly strong.

Voller's House of Flowers was very tastefully arranged with choice plants and made-up baskets. A very good business was reported, particularly in corsages, of which line he has been making a specialty.

The featured specimens and plant baskets of Charles H. Grakelow were excellent. His Florist Telegraph Delivery Association business was the largest he has ever experienced.

Edward Reid was much pleased with his Easter trade. Business was active the Monday following, with choice roses, snapdragons and carnations being features.

The store of T. Nelson Geiger was crammed to the door with the choicest of Easter plants and baskets. A strong demand was experienced.

The Monday morning rush at the Leo Niessen Co. was very active, carnations, sweet peas and roses being particularly in demand.

Chas. Stahl, on 11th street, enjoyed an excellent business. He had a fine stock of plants and baskets and sold out completely.

Good sales on daffodils were reported at Berger Bros. Roses, Easter lilies and sweet peas were specials.

The London Flower Shop reported a good clean-up of their fine display. Heathers were a feature here.

Victor Ridenour had his usual handsome display of stock, if possible more up to date than ever.

A number of orders for cemetery decoration were had by John C. Gracey.

FINE EASTER TRADE.

With an abundant supply of stock and faultless spring weather, the florists had reason to expect a good Easter trade. The result showed particularly in the case of the retailers, that their expectations were in a large measure realized. Visits to a number of leading retail stores on the evening before Easter found some of them completely cleaned out of plants; others almost so, and general satisfaction was expressed over the results of the day's business. When a shop was completely sold out it may be supposed that the early customers took what pleased them best and that those that came later did likewise and so on, until the stock was reduced to zero. When everything was disposed of it is unnecessary to give minute details of what sold best. The pink rambler roses were prime favorites and good plants of Azalea Indica were quickly taken at high prices. One retailer who had several large and well flowered azaleas, sold them from $50 to $60 each. Moderately priced combinations, from $15 to $50, went exceptionally well. These figures, of course, apply to the larger stores whose patrons can afford to pay for what pleases them. There were sales in such shops of specimen plants and plant combinations from $75 to $100 and upward. In places that catered to another class, small plants were sold as low as 50 cents each. It is a reasonable estimate that throughout the city the bulk of the plants and plant combinations went at prices ranging from $5 to $50 apiece. There will always be a demand for lilies for Easter, but in recent years, with so much gay colored stock coupled with the high prices on lilies, we have thought that their popularity has somewhat waned. Nevertheless on the evening of March 26 there was a strong demand for cut stock and it was said that some wholesalers were asking 40 cents, bud and flower. The business of the wholesale cut flower dealers was not as satisfactory as that of the retailers, for three reasons: First—the desire of the retailers to sell out their plants. Second—An oversupply of poor stock. Third—the irregularity in prices, as we migh say putting prices too high. Toward the end of the week it was rumored that cattleyas would be scarce and prices took a jump. It turned out that there was plenty of them and some dealers were glad to sell at $12 to $18 per dozen, which however, were good prices. A considerable stock of cimbidiums and oncidiums were on the market, which being useful chiefly for display purposes, went slowly. American Beauty roses, specials, ranged from $75 to $125 per 100, according to quality. In special Premier, Mrs. Chas. Russell, Columbia and Dunlop roses there were a few sales at the rate of $40 to $50 per 100, but taking the entire special stock of tea roses it is doubtful if it averaged $30 per 100. Good carnation stock ranged at from $8 to $10 per 100 and rather slow at that. The Laddies brought $10 to $12. Good violets brought $2 per 100, but there was a lot of poor stock that was chiefly useful to the street merchants. Efforts to boost violet prices turned the buvers to sweet peas which went quite well at $2 to $4 per 100, although there being a great stock, they were not entirelly sold. The best gardenias brought $6 per dozen, but small and spotty stock was slow. The tulip and narcissus market was in a rather demoralized condition. The quality of all had deteriorated from warm weather, and in yellow narcissus great quantities of both southern and domestic stock came in, which made any kind of reasonable prices impossible. The snapdragons and colored stocks were also very poor propositions.

March 28.—As reports come in from all sections, here and the neighboring cities, they confirm our summary of the Easter business, written on the night of March 26. The plant trade was particularly good and as Sunday was a fine day as to weather, the retail stores had considerable business, in the forenoon, in cut flowers. In the wholesale district, although considerable stock was left over, it is acknowledged that the quantity sold exceeded that of last year. Aside from the surplus of bulb stock and poor violets, the slowest stocks were special roses. The weather is warm today and with the usual afterholiday reaction a slow market may be expected for this week.

NOTES.

A fine trade was experienced by Malandre Bros., who had a great stock of plants. They made up a number of combinations in large handled baskets, pink rambler roses being the leading feature, with small hydrangaes and heather as accessories, which sold for $75 each. A number of plants of Acacia pubescens, six feet high and finely flowered brought $100 each at this shop. Amusement was furnished to the sidewalk crowds by a flock of large butterflies in their show windows, which their gardener had developed from caterpillars, in the greenhouses.

It is customary to call it a "cleanup" when almost everything in a shop has been sold. In the case of the Chas. A. Dards store on the evening of March 26, "almost" could be left out. In many years of observation we have never noted such a complete disposal of plants.

A number of wholesalers, in addition to their cut flowers, carried considerable stocks of Easter plants. In the 18th street market M. C. Ford had a good stock of Darwin tulips, hyacinths and candytuft.

Geo. J. Polykranas had a fine stock of lilies, hydrangeas and tulips. At almost all seasons he carries plants. A feature at present is a number of good Cibotium ferns.

On the morning of March 26, David Cralke's Sons had disposed of their first stock of plants and had refilled their benches with others that were soon sold.

William Mackie, wholesaler, in the 18th street market, had a fine stock of sweet peas and carnations. He made one shipment of 60,000 sweet peas.

The new firm of Sullivan Bros., 112 W. 28th street, sold out everything. One partner stated that it was their best day since going into business.

Doyle & Booth, 121 West 28th street, are now receiving gardenias and orchids from the range of Thomas Young, Jr., Bound Brook, N. J.

On 28th street, William Kessler displayed a fine stock of well flowered geraniums, hyacinths, bougainvilleas and cyclamens.

The veteran Charles Morley was another retailer that had nothing to do but smile on empty tables and ice boxes.

Henry Hart, 1000 Madison avenue, had sold out about all of his fine plants by the evening of March 26.

At the shop of the Boulevard Floral Co. it was stated that all plants had sold well.

Frederick Zahn, a well known retailer, died on March 24; see obituary column.

J. K. Allen carried tulips, hyacinths, candytuft and mountain phlox.

J. C. VAUGHAN, Chicago, has returned from Florida.

THE demand for flower seeds is said to be ahead of that of recent years.

VISITED CHICAGO: W. H. de Graff, of de Graff Bros., Noordwijk, Holland.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA. — George B. McVay, Sr., is taking a rest vacation in Longview, Texas.

VISITED CHICAGO: H. W. Buckbee, Rockford, Ill.; W. H. de Graff, of de Graff Bros., Noordwijk, Holland.

THE Albert Dickinson Seed Co., Chicago, has subdivided 70 acres near its plant into tracts for industrial sites.

HOWARD M. EARL, of the Jerome B. Rice Seed Co., while improving steadily, is still confined to his home at Doylestown, Pa.

NEW YORK.—Carl O. Giessler, manager of Max Schling's seed department, has recently taken unto himself a bride, Miss Faulkner.

PRICE of bags at Chicago, March 30: American, 16-oz., $30.00 per bale, in bale lots or over; Railroads, 16-oz., $30.00; Crown, 12-oz., $23.00.

COLUMBUS, O.—The Wilson Seed Co. has secured a 99-year lease on the 4-story building at 25 E. Town street. The firm expects to move about July 1.

SAN FRANCISCO CALIF.—Lester L. Morse and Frank G. Cuthbertson, of C. C. Morse & Co., are making an eastern trip, due in Chicago the later part of the week.

PITTSBURGH, PA.—Beckert's Seed Store has had exceptionally large sales of flower and vegetable seeds since March 1. Gross sales to date show a considerable increase over the same period last year.

JAMES VICK'S SONS, Rochester, N. Y., advise their business is 25 per cent ahead of last year's to March 15 in number of orders, with greatly increased demand for flower seeds, both wholesale and retail.

THE Pieters-Wheeler Seed Co., Gilroy, Calif., has in course of erection a new seed cleaning plant of capacity far in excess of the firm's present requirements. This proves Mr. Wheeler's abiding optimism, which merits the steady stream of contracts now flowing his way.

JOHN BURROUGHS, the well known naturalist, died March 29. He was an intimate friend of the late John Lewis Childs and it seems strange that both men should die at different times on a New York Central train returning home from California. Mr. Childs passed away March 5.

H. B. HAYT, veteran traveling representative of the Jerome B. Rice Seed Co., Cambridge, N. Y., celebrated his seventy-sixth birthday anniversary at Atlanta, Ga., last week feeding the swans in Druid Hill park, watching the opening dogwood blooms and dreaming of coming days when deflation will be no more.

CINCINNATI, O.—The J. M. McCullough Sons Co. say business in both field and garden seeds is good. The dealers, however, are making more work for the firm by carrying small stocks and ordering in only limited quantities. Orders are ahead of last year, everything moving freely, and the present outlook is for one of the best seasons in recent years.

EVANSVILLE, IND.—Three suits have been filed here against the estate of W. H. Small and the Mercantile Commercial Bank, the trustee of W. H. Small & Co., which made an assignment several months ago, by Guy M. Purcell, H. J. Brinker and Geo. S. Vickery, former employees of the company, asking judgment for varying amounts aggregating $16,900, to cover stock of the company which they bought.

Southern Seed Business Slumps.

H. G. Hastings, head of the H. G. Hastings Co., Atlanta, Ga., and president of the American Seed Trade Association, writes as follows, March 23:

"Our mail order business is very materially less than last year. This was not unexpected, as the 1920 business was abnormally large. January showed a slight increase in number of orders as compared with January of 1920, but the average per order was considerably less. February was off in both number of orders and average per order. March, so far, is comparatively better than January and February, approximating the same number of orders for the same period, but the lower average per order persists. Our business is very largely with farmers in the cotton growing territory, and we attribute the shrinkage in the buying materially to the financial conditions brought about by a drop of 350 to 400 per cent in the price of the farmer's product.

"We are far enough along to know that the season, as a whole, is going to be an unsatisfactory one from the profit making standpoint, and we see no reason for any attempt to camouflage the real situation. When the farmer feels poor, he feels awfully poor and hangs on to what little money he has, very firmly, and this is of course not conducive to the purchase of liberal quantities of seeds. The truck growing situation in Florida along the gulf coast and south Atlantic shows very marked decrease in spring plantings. This is due to the fact that they rightfully figure that between the decreased buying power of the northern markets and increased freight and express rates, their product cannot be sold at prices that will afford anything for the grower. This truck seed situation has been further aggravated by the unloading into this territory of a bankrupt stock of seeds from an eastern source at prices that going concerns cannot meet."

Field Seeds.

The third consecutive week of marked activity in the seed business was recorded during the week ending March 19. The unusually fine weather of the past two weeks continued and the sowing of grass and clover seeds was proceeding rapidly, according to the government report of March 26. Toward the end of the week some of the larger seedsmen noted a decrease in orders from the south but an increase from the north, where sowing operations are not so well advanced. It is thought that the peak of the spring selling season for clovers and grasses has been about reached. There was little change in prices during the week except for the few commodities that are mentioned below.

White clover prices soared $5 to $10 per 100 pounds for the better grades in some cities. Stocks are reported to be small and the demand continues to be excellent. Red clover advanced 25 cents to $1 in some markets but declined the same amount in a few other markets. Over 1,200,000 pounds of red clover arrived at New York from France, exceeding the large imports of the preceding week by nearly 300,000 pounds. Little or no change of importance in demand or prices for aslike and sweet clover took place and the demand in general was only fair to good. Approximately 38,000 pounds of crimson clover were imported from Germany, 33,000 pounds arriving at Baltimore, Md., and the rest at New York. Alfalfa prices were 50 cents to $1 higher in important jobbing markets. Some difficulty is being experienced in obtaining northern-grown seed that contains less than 100 dodder seed per pound of alfalfa.

Kentucky bluegrass and orchard grass prices were firmer to somewhat higher because of the improved demand. Approximately 25,600 pounds of redtop were exported to France and Great Britain. Redtop and timothy prices in most cities showed no change from those of the previous week, although redtop was quoted as being firmer in a few cities.

There has been a fairly good demand for cowpeas and soy beans for several weeks. St. Louis, Mo., seedsmen are having difficulty in obtaining Whippoorwill cowpeas to take care of their requirements. Louisiana farmers have been trying to purchase considerable quantities of Clay, Brabham, Iron, and Red Ripper cowpeas at about $3.50 per 100 pounds delivered, but apparently have not entirely succeeded in doing so up to this time.

Prices for Canada field peas have remained at the same level for several weeks and are being offered at $4 to $4.25 per 100 pounds in the principal markets.

The arrival of approximately 218,000 pounds of rape from Holland will help to replenish the reported short stocks that are being held in some cities. Prices were 50 cents to $1 higher. Further imports are expected within a few weeks.

Grass and Clover Seed Prices.

The following were the wholesale prices in dollars per 100 pounds on timothy, Kentucky bluegrass, redtop and red clover at principal points of distribution, March 19, 1921, as given by the Government Market Reporter of March 26, 1921:

	Timothy	Ky. Blue Grass	Red Top	Red Clover

The Nursery Trade

American Association of Nurserymen.

Lloyd C. Stark, Louisiana, Mo., President; M. R. Cashman, Owatonna, Minn., Vice-President, John Watson, 400 Nassau Street, Princeton, N. J., Secretary; J. W. Hill, Des Moines, Iowa, Treasurer.

Forty-sixth annual convention will be held at Chicago, June, 1921.

SOUTHERN florists and nurserymen should not forget the Florida state meeting at Miami, April 9-12.

HOBE SOUND, FLA.—Kumquat trees in half-barrel tubs, fruiting, are being grown by F. Schultz for porch decoration.

CARL CROPP, of Vaughan's Nurseries, Western Springs, Ill., states that the nursery season will be very short unless the cold weather continues.

THE Storrs & Harrison Co., Painesville, O., says it never had so much business in March as it has had this year, on account of the mild winter.

YAKIMA, WASH.—C. W. Hauck, acting district horticultural inspector, has resigned and will take a position with the Bureau of Markets at Columbus, O.

NEW HARTFORD, N. Y.—The formation of a junior branch of the Central New York Horticultural Society was decided on at a recent meeting of that organization in this city.

FRUIT crops of Maryland, Ohio, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Nebraska, Missouri, Wisconsin, Michigan, Indiana and Illinois have been seriously damaged by the cold weather of the past week.

HORNELL, N. Y.—What is claimed to be the largest apple tree in the United States stands in the grounds of L. W. Rockwell. It is 11 feet, eight inches in circumference, and is about 150 years old.

VISITED CHICAGO: C. B. Knickman, of McHutchison & Co., New York, returning from the south, where, he says, the florists are enjoying good business; J. W. Fraser, of the Fraser Nursery Co., Huntsville, Ala.

THE Huntsville Wholesale Nurseries, Huntsville, Ala., report their sales greatly in excess of those of last year. Their surplus is the smallest in many years. Roses, privets, shrubs and evergreens are none too plentiful. Dealers, they say, should buy and sell quickly on account of the short season and limited stocks.

SEATTLE, WASH.—At a recent meeting of the Seattle Horticultural Society, it was decided to hold an exhibition during the week beginning July 12. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Ronald E. Chapman, president; R. J. Fisher, vice-president; Dr. Cecil L. Tenney, second vice-president; J. J. Bonnell, treasurer, and H. B. Orr, secretary.

Plant Quarantine No. 37.

NURSERY STOCK ENTRY CONDITIONS.

Hereafter all nursery stock, plant, and seeds entered under Regulations No. three will be refused entry unless and until the notices required in Regulations Nos. 10 and 11 are fully made out and lodged with other entry papers with the collector of customs. Hitherto this requirement has applied only to the notice of arrival, but hereafter it will apply, as indicated, both to notice of arrival at the port of entry and to notice of shipment to the ultimate consignee.

This action has been necessitated by the growing laxity on the part of importers and brokers in submitting the notice of shipment required under Regulation No. 11. Numerous complaints have been received from state nursery inspectors that they frequently receive the notice provided for in this regulation long after the stock has reached destination or even after it has actually been planted. Moreover, in some instances no reports are received at all. The board has a drastic remedy which it is loath to apply under Regulation No. 13, viz., failure of the permittee to give any notice required by the rules and regulations under the quarantine may be made the basis of canceling existing permits and refusal of further permits to the importer at fault. The action now taken will make the submittal of these notices, in the manner indicated, a necessary condition of entry, and customs officials will be so advised. The distribution of these notices to the Secretary of Agriculture and to the duly authorized inspection officer of the state, territory, or district to which the nursery stock and other plants and seeds are to be shipped, will be completed by the inspector in charge of the work of the Federal Horticultural board at the port of entry.

This order will apply merely to ports where the Federal Horticultural board maintains such inspection service. At other ports the importer will be required to make out and submit these notices as formerly, and at such other ports he is cautioned to mail these reports both to the Secretary of Agriculture and to the proper state official before or at the time of shipment and distribution of the imported stock. Failure to do so may lead to the enforcement of the penalties provided for under Regulation No. 13.

C. L. MARLATT, Chairman.
Federal Horticultural Board.

Early Rhododendrons.

Rhododendron Dahuricum has been in European gardens for more than a century, but is still little known in the United States. It has small dark green leaves which in this climate remain on the branches until late in the winter, and small bright rose-colored flowers. These are often destroyed by spring frosts. There is a variety, sempervirens with more persistent leaves and darker-colored flowers. Usually Rhododendron mucronulatum is the earliest of the rhododendrons to bloom in the arboretum. This is a tall, perfectly hardy, deciduous-leaved shrub which has flowered freely every spring in the arboretum for the last 20 years, and is chiefly valuable for the earliness of the flowers which appear on the leafless branches and are rarely injured by spring frosts. In the arboretum the leaves turn bright yellow before falling in the late autumn. There is a group of these plants on the lower side of azalea path.—Arnold Arboretum Bulletin.

Insect Bored Boxes Objectionable.

According to Commerce Reports the federal director of quarantine at Melbourne has brought to the attention of Vice-Consul W. J. McCafferty at that city, the fact that officers dealing with food substances and general cargo imported into Australia from the United States find that the packing cases are not infrequently constructed of wood that shows the borings and workings of insect timber borers. In order that destructive boring insects should not in this manner be introduced into Australia, the federal director of quarantine has requested that the matter be brought to the attention of the United States government and the shippers. It is important that some action should be taken to prevent the packing and shipping of goods intended for Australia in wooden cases presenting evidence that wood-boring insects are or have been present.

Corn Root Rot Control.

The investigations of the United States Department of Agriculture on corn root rots are by far the most important work on corn that has been done in the last 20 years. Begun as a simple pathologic problem, the study of the root, stalk and ear rots of corn soon developed into a complex study involving many phases. Conservative estimates from this disease place the annual loss in the corn belt at from two to ten per cent., and in some cases much more than ten per cent. where the fields are badly infested. The most effective means of controlling corn root rot yet known lies in selecting seed corn free from disease. The right type of ears should be selected from healthy stalks in the field, cured promptly, and the seed thoroughly tested for germination. The germination test approved by scientists of the Department of Agriculture is made with a special type of rag-roll germinator.

A demonstration of the value of these investigations was made recently in the Utility Corn show at Galesburg, Ill. One of the chief requirements of prize winning ears was that they should be practically free from disease in order to win high rank. To determine freedom from corn root rot the entries were subject to the rag-roll germination test. Types of corn most likely to be free from disease were determined in the course of these investigations. To give these characteristics and the results of the germination tests their proper place in determining the value of seed corn, a special score card was prepared with the various points weighted and interpreted, as follows:

General appearance carried a weight of 45 points and included six classifications, namely: First—Indentation. Ears with a distinctly rough indentation are often imperfectly matured, owing to the presence of disease, and would be discriminated against in the scoring. Second—Kernel composition. Starchy seed ears produce many diseased plants, giving poor yields. Third—Shank attachments. All ears must have the shank attachments intact, just as the ear was broken from the shank. Many ears which have the pink, slightly pink, brown or shredded shank attachments were produced on diseased stalks. Fourth—Tips of ears. The tips of the ears should be bright and free from discoloration of any kind. Fifth—Lustre or polish. Ears having a bright, rather oily appearance, have higher yielding qualities than dead or dry looking ears that have no lustre. Sixth—Kernel characteristics. Kernels from normally matured, healthy ears, are nearly always plump, bright and clean, possessing well developed germs. Such kernels usually have a distinct horny endosperm. The germination record was allotted 35 points. It was important that seedlings in the germination tests should show thick, sturdy sprouts and good root development, while weak, slender seeedlings having short feeder roots were not desirable. Twenty per cent for vitality and vigor and 15 per cent for freedom from disease symptoms, were the weights given by the judges for the germination tests. Twenty per cent was required for perfection in type and uniformity, shape and size of ear and uniformity of kernel being the chief points given consideration.

Ageratum Fraseri

We feel confident in offering Ageratum "Fraseri" to our customers that we are offering what will be one of the most valuable acquisitions to the bedding plant line in recent years, that it is a blue, a decided blue, that would be continually in bloom. In our trial grounds last summer "Fraseri" attracted more attention than any other bedding plant. It only grew about 8 to 10 inches high and was covered the entire season with what can easily be classed as immense trusses of flowers, as many of them were over 2½ inches across, while the individual flower would be ⅞ of an inch in diameter. The plant spreads about 12 to 15 inches across. It can easily be used with Alternantheras as a border plant.

Being an early bloomer and dwarf, compact grower, it makes an excellent pot plant.

2-inch, $1.00 per doz.; $ 6.00 per 100.

PETUNIAS.
Dieners' Ruffled Monsters, single. The largest and most beautiful ruffled varieties of Petunias in existence. Ruffled monster seed in separate colors, pink, red, variegated, white, red with black center, pale lilac, and all colors mixed.

The following somewhat smaller than the Ruffled Monsters, colors, flesh pink frilled, (Pearl of Kentfield), purple or blue, and white frilled (dwarf). Price, per package, 50c. Catalogues will be sent free on request. Write for it today.

Mr. W. I. Ferguson, Smiths Falls, Ontario, under date of Dec. 2nd, 1919, writes us the following in regard to our petunias:

"Last year I purchased petunia seed from you. I think every seed germinated and the blooms were the finest ever seen in this part of Canada. Only about 8% of the plants could be classed as common. I want more of the same quality each year."

Mr. Rudolph Nagel, Lancaster, Pa., under date of Dec. 14th, 1919, writes us:

"I had, last year, just a few of your petunias, but I am sure I could have sold thousands of them. They surely came up to your claim and way ahead of my expectation."

SEEDS.

THE DIENER TOMATO
Increase your tomato yield one hundred per cent by raising the new DIENER TOMATO. 30-40 tons of ripe fruit to the acre.

This tomato was raised last year all over the United States and Canada with the greatest satisfaction.

As smooth as an apple and of a magnificent dark red color. Single tomatoes weigh up to 3 lbs. each. The flesh is more solid than that of any other tomato. The fruit contains very little seed and is solidly filled out. This tomato is free of the acid taste, and for dehydrating catsup and canning is the best tomato in existence today.

The DIENER TOMATO is blight-resisting as well as drought-resisting. It will not crack from the rain and will not rot while lying on the ground in wet weather. This tomato will grow in almost any kind of soil and it commences to ripen the first part of August.

It is the greatest novelty in the tomato line, and it will soon crowd out the present varieties from the market by its far superior qualities.

Price of the DIENER TOMATO SEED: Sample pkg., 25c; one-quarter of an acre pkg., 50c; one acre pkg., $1.50.

DAHLIA SEED.
This seed is raised from the most up-to-date dahlias in existence. No place in the world have dahlias been brought up to such perfection as they have been around San Francisco. This mixture contains all colors and types of peony, cactus and decorative varieties. The seed we sent out in previous years was highly praised by all who raised dahlias from it; but this seed is far superior to what we have sent out in previous years. The seedlings will commence to flower two months after sowing and almost a month earlier than plants raised from bulbs. Price, $0.50 per package.

POULTRY MANURE
PULVERIZED
Premier Brand
First Among Fertilizers

Poultry Manure is acknowledged by agriculturists, horticulturists and gardeners as Nature's Most Efficient Fertilizer. It contains more nitrogen, or its equivalent, Ammonia, more available Phosphoric Acid, or its equivalent, Bone Phosphate of Lime, and more Water Soluble Potash than any other manure. It supplies the most plant food in soluble and readily available form.

Premier Pulverized Poultry Manure is superior to all other manurial fertilizers because of its high analysis and its improved condition as prepared by our Special Process. The raw product is subjected to an intense heat, which eliminates all surplus moisture and kills every noxious seed germ. It is finally pulverized for easy and even distribution and application. It is organic and stimulates bacterial action.

This Wonderful Product is especially adapted for the production of Flowers, Lawns, Fruits and Vegetables. It has all the excellent qualities desired and none that are objectionable, and it Produces Results.

Write at once for our interesting fertilizer literature, samples and quotations. All Free.

SUGGESTIONS FOR PLANT GROWERS.

Cyclamens.

The plants of cyclamen grown from seed sown last fall will now be nice, stocky little plants if properly grown and should be large enough to transplant to 2½ or three-inch pots. The soil should be live fibrous loam with about one-third leaf mold, and in mixing a liberal sprinkling of sand should be included. In potting, the small bulb should be so placed that the soil just covers it; many leave the bulb out of the soil, but best results are obtained with the young stock to leave the bulb in the soil. Later, after the bulb has grown large and mature, this is not so necessary. The plants should be placed in a cool house and if possible near the glass and where they can have all the ventilation possible. Just as soon as safe they should be removed to frames outside and plunged in the soil even with the rim of the pot. The cyclamen will not tolerate poor drainage and if anything happens to block the drainage the plant quickly sickens. This sometimes happens where the pots are sunk in the soil and is often caused by angle worms. Where these are seen or the appearance of lumps on the top of the soil denotes their presence, they should be removed at once. In the final potting, be sure and place plenty of crocks in the bottom of the pot.

Salvias.

There are few more popular plants for bedding purposes than the salvia and when properly grown they are a great ornament to a garden either as beds by themselves or as an edging for cannas or other tall plants, the dwarf varieties being especially adapted to this purpose. To make a showing in mid-summer the plants should be started early either by cuttings or seeds so that the plants at this time should be large enough for a three-inch pot and should have been pinched back at least once and beginning to branch. These can be potted into four-inch pots in April and will be showing bud by the time for planting them outside in June. Such plants of course cannot be sold as cheaply as the late-sown seedlings that are grown closely together, and allowed to run up to a single stem, but it will not take so many of the former plants to fill the same space and the bed will be in flower through the summer and fall while with the latter too often there is no bloom until just before frost, and when the first frosts are early the plants are not in bloom but a few weeks. The early plants are much more satisfactory to the customer and will cost but little more owing to the larger space which they will cover during the season.

Geraniums.

At the approach of spring, the geraniums and other bedding stock will make rapid growth and from those which are large enough, a top cutting may be taken now. While these cuttings will not make good-sized plants for bedding out, yet they can be grown on for stock plants for another year. It is time now to take account of the stock on hand and look over the amount that has been required in the past, and if it is found that there will be a probable shortage of any varieties procure them at once. They can be obtained at this time, either small plants or rooted cuttings, at low prices. Many growers lose every year by putting off their buying too late when the prices have advanced to such a figure that there is no profit in handling them. It is seldom that one who has much bedding to do has geraniums enough, especially of S. A. Nutt or Alphonse Ricard, and this is the time to procure the stock, and if a grower has any room to spare it is good business to stock up with these varieties, for there is a guaranteed sale for all well grown plants in May. The plants that are now in three-inch pots will require going over often and spacing out that well-grown stocky plants may be had. If crowded now, tall, weak, spindly plants are too often the result, and when grown in this way, are not fit to make a good showing in the bed when planted.

Bedding Plants.

The plants for bedding out in the spring will take not only much of the plantsman's time, but will keep demanding more room, for the growth from now on will be rapid, and unless constantly watched and cared for, the plants will quickly get crowded and much of the stock injured. The final shift of the geraniums in the northern section of the country may be delayed until the first of April, but the plants should not be allowed to get badly pot-bound, and they should be given plenty of growing room. The propagating bed should be full of cuttings of the more rapid growing plants and the seedlings will have to be potted as soon as of proper size. The cannas and other bulbs that have been started should be potted and given good location for growing on. Now is the time to take account of stock and see of what kinds there is going to be a shortage and of what there will probably be an oversupply and obtain the first and dispose of the second. This is the time to buy, for the stocks are large and shipments can be guaranteed, and the prices are low compared to what they will be a month hence. The amount of stock that annually goes to waste is large and a little foresight will prevent much of it. Every summer some growers throw away thousands of plants that have cost much in labor and should have made returns. Auction sales in some sections are the means of disposing of much of this stock, but this is generally at low prices. This stock can most all of it be disposed of by a little judicious advertising and letting the other fellows know where it can be obtained. An attendant at any plant sale in early spring will find many growers looking for all kinds of stock. It is often quite difficult to know just how much of each kind of bedding stock is wanted, but as soon as an oversupply is noted let the other growers know where they can obtain it, and place a price on it that will guarantee a sale. It is much better to move it at some price than to throw it away. The wide-awake, up-to-date growers clean up their stock every year.

HUDSON, N. Y.—G. C. Niebergall, proprietor of the Forest Flower shop, is adding one house 25x150 feet.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—With congress convening next week, a decided increase in trade is expected by the florists.

GOTHA, FLA.—H. Nehrling is moving to Naples, where he finds rich virgin soil and a nearly frost-free climate.

NEW CASTLE, IND.—P. J. Lynch reports business far ahead of last year's, due to his fine stock of rose plants and in some measure to the early season.

PUEBLO, COLO.—The Minnequa Greenhouses, 1400 Berkley avenue, were reopened March 26, by J. M. Fine, who has leased the property from Judge Joseph Dye. The houses, which have been closed for two years, covers space of 100x150 feet.

THE RETAIL TRADE

Conducted by Robt. Kift, Phila., Pa.

Next Week in the Flower Shop.

Everyone likes to be busy and keep busy and there is no better way to encourage trade than to keep things moving by featuring this or that article, having it in quantity so that the customer is heard to exclaim, "My, you sell a lot of these, don't you?" Then orders can be selected and put up a little in advance which, if tagged and placed near the front of the store, will add to the busy atmosphere. One florist makes a practice of having some plants and tied up cut flower boxes, tagged ready to go, conspicuously placed in the shop in front of which are the real deliveries, these being changed as their time arrives. He also marks some of the plants and other articles sold, all of which helps he says, to create the impression that his is a busy establishment.

Hydrangeas are good plants to carry at this time. Stock that did not make Easter is now fine and very decorative. When any of the colors are attractively trimmed with appropriate ribbons and good pot covers, they are most suitable for a birthday or wedding gift. With daffodils and other bulbous stock out of the market and sweet peas shortening up, daisies, white and yellow, and calendulas can be strongly featured. Larkspur is now offered freely and is a great favorite with flower lovers. The belladonna, with its lovely light blue color, arranges very well with pink roses or snapdragon in all kinds of vase or spray work. It is also beautiful with calla or Easter lilies.

Push the window and porch box campaign hard before there is any sign of the summer's exodus. There are seven weeks before the first of June and the most should be made of this as a talking point. Porch plants will soon be in demand and florists, particularly in the residential districts, should feature these in appropriate jars and pot covers. Many of these plants can be sold and much business of this nature be worked up that would never come of its own accord. Once get two or three in a row displaying plants and showing how nice they look and others will follow.

INTRODUCING NEW SPECIALTIES.

The canvassing, giving away of samples and other advertising methods that many manufacturers use to get some new article introduced, would, if such intensive propaganda was used by the florists increase their business wonderfully. It is not yet the custom, however, and will take some live wire, full of pep and enthusiasm to get it going, and then all will feel the benefit.

Hanging baskets could be sold in quantity if they were shown well filled in variety. Nothing is so decorative for the porch enclosure as well filled hanging baskets with their graceful vines.

As the time approaches for setting out bedding plants, a supply of these, out of pots with roots in paper, packed in baskets of damp moss and kept in greenhouse until well in flower, will be found very showy and salable. These baskets will be carried off by the customer when the plants in pots would not be noticed.

Out-of-door lilacs will soon be in. While they last but a short time, a week in any one neighborhood at the most, it is a popular flower and almost everyone wants to carry home a bunch or two. A good quantity well featured and sold at a popular price will attract the most buyers and in this respect while there is not much profit yet it greatly increases the number of the day's sales. Many storekeepers consider the total of the sales rather than the quantity in figuring up the day's business.

Great attention should be paid to the number of transactions as each sale means a visitor to the store, and the more there are, no matter how trivial the purchase, the greater the shop becomes known. Not only do small sales count up in the aggregate, but each individual purchase leads to a larger one. For this reason, and to increase interest in the establishment, there should always be featured, particularly on Saturdays, a lot of small things, or small portions of stock, such as roses, sweet peas and carnations, priced for quick selling. Also plants that can be sold singly at a low price. One cannot start an original sale of this kind and make a clean-up at first, but if well planned and carried on with vigor, such offerings will attract customers, whose number will increase rapidly and add greatly to the prestige of the store.

Custom is Everything.

For some purposes the custom of buying flowers has become almost universal; particularly is this true for funerals, when a sympathy is aroused that alone finds its solace in flowers. It is most important that everything should be done to encourage this demand, without which the business would undergo a wonderful transformation. Attempts have been made to break up the sending of flowers to funerals by clergymen, private individuals of prominence, and associations, which latter have sought to obtain the money for so called memorials, as founding sick beds in hospitals, etc. No perceptible difference has ever been noticed however, as a result of these various propagandas, and the demand continues as pronounced as ever. It can be said that sending flowers to funerals is now the established custom and the proper thing to do.

There are a great many situations in life that call for recognition; times of distress or accident, when notes of sympathy and offerings of service are tendered, when great success has been attained and notes of congratulation are in order, and at the coming of the stork, when there is always joy in the household. The recognition of birthdays is always a source of delight. Wedding anniversaries as they round out year after year, are always remembered. Finally there is the annual return of the day when the memory of loved ones passed away is always revered with flowers.

The importance of the custom of sending plants and flowers as gifts at Christmas and Easter cannot be over estimated, yet the writer in his experiences can remember when there was no demand for plants at Easter, and only a few grown to be used in church decorations. Sending gift plants at Easter is a beautiful custom, which has been largely brought about by the many beautiful flowering plants that have been forced for this holiday in the exchanging of which for gifts, there has been created a demand that is now universal.

To increase the sale of plants and flowers and make it the custom to use them for all the social events of life, is up to the florist. He must, by exhibiting and featuring them in connection with all social occasions, make it the custom to use or send them, which is the proper thing to do. It takes time, as the small event that only interests a few people, does not have the advantage of an Easter demand to magnify it. On the other hand, however, the small celebrations are continuous, every day affairs, of even more importance as they are with us all the year round, and once the custom of sending flowers is established, will be a wonderful incentive to business everywhere. The trouble with most men in the business is they are satisfied to let well enough alone. They would like to see business better, but they cannot sell flowers when there is no demand for them. To stock up and make a show and try and force their sale they consider folly, running a risk that would be almost sure to fail.

BASKET OF SPRING FLOWERS.

It would seem as if it was up to some national organization or local committee in the large cities to take these doubting Thomases in hand and by decorated windows and store fronts and stocking them up with flowers, give them a demonstration of modern up-to-date storekeeping that in the returns would open their eyes to things they never thought possible. There are customs to be broken up as well as established. The custom of being satisfied to stay in the old rut, which is so prevalent, should be rooted out, and the new, up-to-date, reaching out for and encouraging business, installed in its place.

A custom that the entire trade should be most aggressive in bringing about is the wear a flower habit. At every opportunity customers should be given a flower to wear. Everyone in the business who goes out on the street should be so decorated. It is a very simple thing this wearing a flower in the buttonhole; but if it becomes the custom, it will have a wonderful influence on the cut flower business. Its possibilities are beyond computation. What custom will do is splendidly exemplified in the great success of the recent New York Spring Show, which closed with a record attendance. This is because it has become the social event of the season; it is the custom to attend, the proper thing to do. This success was not brought about by the people, but by the men who made the show, and installed such a beautiful and wonderful display that New York's best citizens endorsed it unanimously and everybody went as a matter of habit. They simply had to go, as it was the one great event of the season.

Follow Ups.

When the hunter is out after game he keeps his eyes intently ahead on the lookout for the slightest evidence or trail of his quarry, which once perceived, he pursues relentlessly to the end. The business man always striving to add to his list of customers should try out and follow up every lead or trail that appears to promise results. There is the list of prospects that can be worked over and over again. This is a good deal like throwing stones into the bushes in hopes of scaring something out, but if only once in a dozen times something does materialize, the returns more than warrant the effort.

In all large advertising campaigns, follow-up letters are used to reach and interest those who have been attracted sufficiently to write for literature. These names are carefully filed and indexed and letter after letter sent, until a sale is made or the account is considered hopeless. There are many leads in the business of the flower shop which can be followed up to advantage, and if carried out in a careful, diplomatic and business-like manner, one is almost certain of a satisfactory increase in the list of customers. Perhaps the most promising line to follow up is the list of the friends of customers to whom flowers are sent. If the service and flowers are as they should be, they are sure to make a favorable impression, and be well spoken of in the note of thanks. All such names should be added to the mailing list of the store. When the first of the literature arrives, it will be remembered as the store from where Mrs. Smith sent that lovely box of flowers. Later on, a small box of a "first of the season" sample of a flower just in, will make a good impression.

A list of these prospects should be kept separate and the literature and other attention paid them checked up. It is a follow-up campaign that will admit of great variety of attack, yet must not be overdone. Although results may be disappointing at first, the system of continuous calling will in time bring in quite a few who otherwise would never have known of the store.

There are those, formerly good customers, who for some reason have ceased buying. The progressive storeman will be quick to notice their absence and will have a special follow-up in force at once. A note regretting not seeing them at the shop recently and hoping this was not due to any neglect in the service, should be sent in a box of flowers, which will be almost certain to bring a response.

There is a great deal of bidding for new business that should be followed up until there is some kind of answer. Multigraph letters in form to suit various occasions, such as school openings, birthday and other anniversaries, can have date and names filled in and when sent have all the appearance of personal communications. List of students and their home addresses are available at most schools and when circularized as above and followed up are productive of good business. Birthdays of prominent men are nearly always remembered with flowers. A list of these and the persons who are most likely to do the buying is not difficult to obtain and if followed up at the proper time is a likely source of good business.

Many association anniversary dinners occur almost every month during the season. This is a very fertile field that can be followed up to great advantage. Frequently a new committee has the matter in charge who are glad to see a well planned decoration which relieves them of the work of running around. One should be early on the scene when there is a wedding in prospect. A well planned decorative effect for both church and house may not bring a direct answer, when there should be follow-up plans suggesting changes, and if these are not successful, new plans should be put forth. Such persistent methods have frequently won out.

Not only is this a good plan to pursue in seeking new trade, but also in the conduct of the business where one success should closely follow another. It is the greatest incentive to buying to offer to customers something bright and new, an entire change from what they saw before. It requires careful planning, perhaps presenting old things in a new way, but it can be done and if followed up makes the house famous for its originality.

TOPEKA, KAS.—James Hayes is planning to enlarge his shop at 825 Kansas avenue.

HARTFORD, CONN.—Thomas Webb, florist at the state hospital, died recently of heart trouble.

DAYTON, O.—The range of the Furst Floral Co. will be torn down this summer and replaced with new houses.

DUBUQUE IA.—A. L. Glaser's Sons are asking an extension. Inopportune building operations are blamed for conditions.

EASTER TRADE.

Business Highly Satisfactory.

Confirming the early accounts of the Easter trade in last week's issue, later reports, some of which are presented herewith, show it was very satisfactory.

EVANSVILLE, IND.—Sales this year were very much better than last year, according to Wm. Blackman Floral Co. During the early part of the week prospects did not look favorable for a good business, but on Friday and Saturday, trade so improved that a complete disposal of stocks resulted. Prices were the same as a year ago, with a supply ample for all purposes. In plants, lilies were the most popular, with hyacinths and hydrangeas closely following. Roses were the favorite among cut flowers.

WICHITA, KANS.—While prices were slightly lower than last year's level, the increase in business which amounted to nearly 10 per cent was very satisfactory says Chas. P. Mueller. All well grown flowering plants met with ready sales, lilies not being in large enough supply to meet the demand. Hydrangeas and roses sold well, while there was little call for cinerarias. In cut flowers, lilies went well. Telegraph orders were numerous and showed an increase over 1920.

SPOKANE, WASH.—With an increase of 15 per cent in the volume of trade over the previous year, and with prices remaining at the same level, business was very satisfactory with Hoyt Bros. Co. The supply in both cut flowers and plants was generous and made it possible to meet the choice of the customer in nearly all cases. In cut flowers, daffodils were the most popular, while in plants, lilies headed the list. Cinerarias were off the call.

ST. PAUL, MINN.—Holm & Olson report a 10 per cent increase in the volume of their business compared with a year ago, with prices about the same. All cut flowers sold remarkably well, and in plants, the lilies cleaned up a day before the occassion. Hydrangeas were not much sought.

DETROIT, MICH.—While prices were lower, everybody was surprised with the large volume of business, in many cases greater than that of last year. Sweet peas, violets and other small flowers for corsages were short. Lily plants were short, but rambler roses were plentiful and sold well. There was a surplus of bulbous stock.

LOS ANGELES, CALIF.—Wolfskill Bros. & Morris Goldenson report an increase of nearly 10 per cent in the volume of their business compared with a year ago, with prices a trifle lower. All cut flowers sold remarkably well, and in plants, the lilies were far behind the demand. Trade was the best experienced in many years.

NEW HAVEN, CONN.—Coombs Florist reports an exceptional business considering the fact that they have been established in this city only four months. The supply in both cut flowers and plants was generous, and telegraph orders were very good. In cut flowers roses were the leaders.

WINCHESTER, IND.—Business in this city was 50 per cent better than for the same period last year. Prices were lower, and all stock cleaned up well. Lilies as usual had a heavy call, and in cut flowers roses were the favorite, with sweet peas following, according to Miss Sadie Tillson.

TAMPA, FLA.—The Tampa Floral Co., experienced a satisfactory business with sales about the same as for 1920, and prices remaining at the same level. All flowering plants were much sought, and in cut flowers, lilies, carnations and roses were the leaders.

LAWRENCE, KANS.—With sales about the same as last year, A. Whitcomb reports that both cut flowers and plants met with good demand. All plants sold readily, and cut flowers, with roses as leaders, registered a complete cleanup.

TACOMA, WASH.—With total sales fully equal to last year, prices held their own, with some of the plants selling at a higher figure, lilies excepted. The higher priced plants were in great demand. Carnations were carried over.

CYCLAMENS GROWN PAST SEASON BY J. A. PETERSON & SONS, CINCINNATI, O.

MONTREAL, QUE.—With prices remaining the same as last year the number of sales were considerably more, although the actual money value was no greater. With a generous quantity of both cut flowers and plants, combined with ideal weather, a satisfactory week was experienced by the trade. Lilies, azaleas, roses and all bulbous stock cleaned up nicely, with spiraeas and hydrangeas not much in demand. Cut flowers did not sell readily, and there was a considerable surplus of all varieties carried over.

TORONTO, ONT.—With prices at about the same level as the preceeding year, Manager Geo. M. Geraghty, of H. Dunlop's Ltd., reports a 20 per cent increase in the volume of their trade. Business was exceptionally good throughout the city, largely due to co-operative advertising in all of the local papers. The demand for both cut flowers and plants was excellent, with lilies the most called for in the latter group. A large increase in telegraph orders was also enjoyed by the trade.

FREDERICTON, N. B.—With 100 per cent increase in volume of trade over that for 1920. John Bebbington & Sons closed the week with the best business in their history. Although plant prices remained the same, cut flowers retailed at an exceptional figure. In the former class, daffodils were in short supply, although all other stock sold remarkably well. Roses in the cut flower group were the leaders, with red carnations, violets, marguerites and snapdragons closely following.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—While total sales were 10 per cent greater than a year ago, J. B. Keller & Sons report that prices were nearly as good as last year. The supply in both cut flowers and plants was generous and made it possible to meet the choice of the customer in nearly all cases. All plants sold well and in cut flowers sweet peas and violets were the leaders, with carnations slow.

SAVANNAH, GA.—A. C. Oelschig & Sons report that the volume of trade enjoyed at their store was 10 per cent better than for the same period a year ago, with prices about the same. Roses were the most called for in cut flowers, but all high grades sold very well, with the supply running short before the end of the week. In plants, lilies easily led in popularity.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—With prices much better than during 1920, the volume of this year's trade showed a 10 per cent increase, according to Macnair. Plants were of fine quality and of sufficient supply with the exception of lilies. Ferns moved slowly. Violets and sweet peas, in cut flowers, were the leaders, although other stock met with ready sale, except carnations, which were left unsold.

BLOOMINGTON, ILL.—With prices about the same as last year, the volume of trade experienced by A. Washburn & Sons, was satisfactory. Lilies had a very good sale, and in cut flowers, roses were the most popular, with sweet peas following. Carnations were used only for funeral work.

SYRACUSE, N. Y.—Gustav Bartholme reports that the volume of his trade was the same as for 1920, with prices holding firmly. In cut flowers there was not nearly enough sweet peas to go around, and all bulbous stock sold exceptionally well, especially lilies and hyacinths.

THE S. A. F.

Executive Committee Meeting.*

THE JOURNAL.

The matter of the publication of the Journal coming up for discussion, Mr. Penn, for the Journal committee, reported that it was the sense of the committee that it would be unwise to continue the publication, for the present at least, and moved that it be discontinued. The motion was seconded and carried.

COMMITTEE ON FINAL RESOLUTIONS.

J. F. Ammann, for the committee on final resolutions, presented resolutions as follows:

"That we, the executive board of the Society of American Florists in session, herewith express our sincere appreciation for the hospitalities received at the the hands of the members of the Florists' Club of our capital city. We have enjoyed the beautiful meeting room used through the courtesy of the Arlington Hotel Company; we especially commend Vice-President Adolph Gude and his genial brother William, for their every effort to make our stay in the city a pleasant one and for all the arrangements made to help us so successfully, promptly to dispose of the great amount of business which came before our meeting. To the Chamber of Commerce we also wish to extend our hearty thanks for their entertainment at lunch, and interest manifested in our welfare.

J. F. AMMANN
ANDERS RASMUSSEN
CARL HAGENBERGER
I. S. HENDRICKSON
HENRY PENN."

The resolutions were adopted by a rising vote.

After a short address by President Roland, in the course of which he thanked the members heartily for their attention to the business of the meeting, the board adjourned.

National Flower Show Committee.

A meeting of the national flower show committee was held at the New Willard hotel, Washington, D. C., January 26, 1921.

The following were in attendance at the first session, which opened at 11 a. m.: Chairman George Asmus, Chicago; President Thomas Roland, Nahant, Mass.; Secretary John Young, New York; Treasurer J. J. Hess, Omaha, Nebr.; Patrick Welch, Boston, Mass.; Frank H. Traendly, New York; Wm. H. Duckham, Madison, N. J.; Herman P. Knoble, Cleveland, O.; Joseph H. Hill, Richmond, Ind., and S. S. Pennock, Philadelphia, Pa., representing the American Rose Society. There were also present: C. H. Totty, Madison, N. J.; W. R. Pierson, Cromwell, Conn.; F. C. W. Brown and Carl Hagenburger, Cleveland, O. The meeting was called to order by Chairman Asmus.

Secretary Young read the minutes of the last meeting, which were approved with the exception of the part referring to a motion made by President Roland, and seconded by Mr. Duckham, that retail florists who would agree to make exhibits at the Cleveland National Flower show should be given each a space, free of charge, 15 feet by 15 feet, it being understood that if they should require further space they could purchase it in the trade section. Mr. Roland stated that, although it was of record, that he made the motion, it was not his intention to limit any retailer to a space of the size mentioned located among these exhibits, and believed anyone should be privileged to purchase extra space in this location in order to make a larger exhibit. Mr. Knoble said that the retail florists of Cleveland were perfectly satisfied with the ruling, considering the same both fair and equitable. Mr. Roland, insisting that the ruling as recorded was against his views, asked that the motion be stricken from the record, but stated that he would not oppose a motion covering a ruling that would best suit the desires of a majority of the local people, and he so moved. Mr. Duckham, as seconder, consented to the withdrawal, and Mr. Roland's motion, duly seconded, was carried.

After some discussion, Mr. Knoble offered the original motion in his own name, seconded by Mr. Duckham, and the motion was passed. A slight alteration was made in the minutes referring to the publication of the official programme, striking from it the direction that this programme should be gotten out on the same lines as the Philadelphia show programme, and adding that no contract should be made or expense incurred in connection with it without first submitting such matters to the national flower show committee.

Chairman Asmus, for the sub-committee, then reported the preparation of a set of rules and regulations to govern the executive committee of the Cleveland National Flower show. These rules and regulations were offered for discussion, and Secretary Young read them ad-seriatim, each being discussed as passed. Finally the set as a whole was, on motion of Mr. Welch, seconded by Mr. Pennock, adopted as follows:

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE DUTIES

1. The executive committee shall be composed of all of the members of the national flower show committee and the chairman of each of the working committees as appointed by the chairman of the national flower show committee.

2. The presiding officer at the session of this committee shall be the chairman of the national flower show committee, and in his absence the vice-chairman shall preside.

3. This committee shall meet at least once a month, and as more often as business may necessitate.

4. At these meetings the chairman of various committees shall bring in reports of the work done, with suggestions and recommendations for the full discussion and approval of the majority of members of the board.

5. Where there is an appropriation necessary or desired, the individual committee will first discuss and work out plans that will give efficiency without a great expenditure.

6. When the committee has passsed such actions, the chairman shall go to the meeting of the executive board with such a report and recommendations for the discussion of the executive board, who then will pass upon the passing of the appropriation. Such recommendation will then be passed to the national flower show committee, who will give the authority for the final appropriation.

7. The executive board shall have full power to elect its own secretary to take the minutes of the meeting and to exercise control over the office, which will be opened at the proper time to promote the exhibition and for the use of the committees, and also for the proper filing of all records.

There also shall be a treasurer elected, he to be a member of the admissions committee, as this committee through its sale of trade tickets will have the greatest need for a treasurer.

8. This committee shall have full power to regulate the conduct of the show, but always subject to the supervision or revision of the national flower show committee.

9. The following is a list of the committees whose chairmen shall have representation on the board of directors: Committee on printing, admissions, exterior decorations, interior decorations, music, lectures and school gardens, securing out of town exhibits, securing retail exhibits, securing local exhibits other than that of retail florists, securing nurserymen's exhibits, publicity, transportation, bureau of information, special features, concessions, aquarium, and securing special premiums in Cleveland and vicinity.

The duties of the various committees then came under discussion. At the Philadelphia National Flower show, a system covering directions to the chairmen and members of the local committees was devised, and the results were wonderfully good. Every member of a committee knew exactly what was expected of him and of his committee, and there was no interlapping of functions, and absolutely no friction. The work of each committee dovetailed into the work of the executive committee and the management. With the experience gained at the last show, some improvements in and additions to these directions were suggested by Chairman Asmus, and as presented to the committee entailed considerable discussion. The following is an abstract of the principal duties of these committees:

Committee on Retail Exhibits.—This committee will secure exhibits from retailers in Cleveland and throughout the country, no charge for space excepting when space beyond that alloted to all is reserved. The committee will explain to these exhibitors certain rules adopted governing care and conduct of the exhibits.

Committee on Special Features.—This committee is, in importance, second to none, aand is responsible for the conception and carrying out of features calculated to please and educate the public in the use of flowers and plants. Hardly any limit is placed upon the services of the members of this committee, although their reports must be presented to the general committee for approval.

Committee on Securing Premiums Outside of Cleveland—It will be the duty of this committee to solicit special premiums from horticultural clubs, societies and similar organizations, from wholesale and supply houses in all allied lines, all donors being entitled to special mention in the final premium list as well as in the official programme. All such premiums are required to be in the hands of this committee 30 days in advance of the opening date of the show.

Committee on Concessions.—This committee is to work in conjunction with Secretary Young, who has charge of the sub-letting of all space, and will pass upon the desirability of accepting concessionaires for the sale of soft drinks, candies, restaurant privileges, check room, etc.

Committee at Large.—The duties of this committee are various, and includes the work of obtaining privileges and concessions from the municipal authorties likely to swell the attendance and insure its safety. They also include such work as making announcement regarding the show at large meetings and gatherings, and assisting the publicity committee in different ways.

Committee on Aquarium Exhibit.—It is the work of this committee to arrange for the staging, if at all possible, of an exhibit of fancy fish and water plants, such as staged at the Philadelphia show.

Committee on Securing Special Premiums in Cleveland and Vicinity.—The duties of this committee are similar to those of the committee to be organized for the same work outside of Cleveland.

Lecture and School Gardens Committee.—This committee will have in charge the educational features of the show, which are very important. At the coming show this committee is expected to provide lecturers, or aids, to make repetition of a lecture possible at various times during the day for which it is scheduled. The school gardens, and exhibits of children's drawings of flowers, for prizes to be offered, will be in charge of this committee.

Committee on Local and Out-of-Town Exhibits Other Than Retailers.—This committee is expected to assist materially in drawing the attention of prospective exhibitors to the many classes for which exhibits may be prepared, to interest the private gardener, and the amateurs it may be possible to reach.

Bureau of Information Committee.—The work of this committee is very important, and includes the engaging of competent persons to disseminate knowledge on mattters botanical as well as information tending to the comfort and convenience of visitors to the show, and also to see that plants are properly described, and labeled according to the rules. A sign writer will, in consequence, be placed at the service of this committee.

Admissions Committee.—This committee will have charge of the disposal of trade tickets, the advance sale of which also promotes a great deal of publicity. It will also have charge of the sale of all other tickets, receive monies for same, and turn them over to the treasurer each day.

The national flower show committee discussed at length the subject of the issue of passes, and, by motion, decided that only members of the Society of American Florists in good standing would be entitled to a season pass.

Committee on Printing.—This committee will have charge of all printing, including stationery, posters, and form letters. Estimates will be obtained for all work, and submitted in due course to the executive committee.

Exterior and Interior Decorating Committees.—These two committees will take care of outside and inside decorations of all kinds. Both are expected to work in conjunction, as far as possible, with the committees on special features and publicity.

Music Committee.—This committee will make suggestions and obtain bids covering musical programmes or similar features.

Committee on Nurserymen's Exhibits.—This committee will promulgate its own ideas, and is expected to work in conjunction with the committees on decorations.

Committee on Advertising.—All matters of advertising and publicity will be in charge of this committee. After a long discussion in regard to aggregate and preliminary advertising and publicity, on motion of Mr. Roland, $1,000 was appropriated for preliminary work.

Committee on Transportation.—The duties of this committee will be to disseminate to exhibitors information as to the best means and time for shipping material, securing freight rates, rates for trucking, and facilities, and generally to see that arrivals are moved without delay.

PERSONNEL OF COMMITTEES.

On motion of Mr. Welch, seconded by Mr. Hess, the directions to the committees as amended were adopted unanimously. There was a long discussion as to the personnel of the committees, and it was decided that Chairman Asmus meet the Cleveland interests and appoint the chairmen, with a view to having the committees completed in time to make a report at a meeting of the national flower show committee to be held in New York in March, during the period of the Spring show.

The poster design or sketch secured for the projected St. Louis show was exhibited, and, on motion of Mr. Duckham, adopted for use in Cleveland. Estimates for poster stamps, or stickers, were presented and there was some discussion, but the matter was eventually referred to the committee on advertising to be appointed.

The matter of appointing a committee to judge any novelty that may be originated, with the idea of recommending an award to be made by the national flower show committee, under its powers, was discussed at length, and, on motion of Mr. Roland, it was resolved that any member of the Society of American Florists wishing the committee to pass upon a novelty of his own introduction, could present it for such purpose before a special committee by arrangement with the national flower show committee.

Secretary Young presented for inspection the Society of American Florists' medals in silver and bronze. As it was found there was no wording on the medals to connect the national flower show with the Society, the secretary was requested to ascertain from the engravers whether it would be possible to have this addition made to the die, and report on the matter at the March meeting of the committee.

UNIFORM BACKGROUND FOR EXHIBITS.

The question of uniform background and decoration of exhibits at the show was discussed at length. At many shows deficiency in this respect marred the general effect, and a flower show should not be open to criticism in this respect. On motion of Mr. Hill, seconded by Mr. Knoble, the chairman was instructed to appoint a committee to present at the March meeting data concerning decorative materials and prices of same, with a plan, if possible. The appointed are Mr. Young, Mr. Knoble and himself as such committee.

Mr. Roland pointed out the necessity for a budget committee to consider finances and expenses covering the Cleveland show, and moved, seconded by Mr. Noble, that the chair appoint such a committee, to report at the March meeting. The chair announced the following as the committee: Messrs. Traendly, Young, Duckham, Knoble and Roland.

There being no further business, the committee adjourned to meet in New York during the week of the Spring show.

National Publicity Committee.

A meeting of the publicity committee of the Society American Florists was held at the Society's administration offices, 43 W. 18th street, New York, on Thursday, March 17. There were present: Chairman Henry Penn, Boston, Mass.; J. Fred Ammann, Edwardsville, Ill.; George Asmus, Chicago; Secretary John Young, New York, and Major P. F. O'Keefe, Boston, Mass. Mr. Asmus outlined the publicity work of the Allied Florists' Trade Association of Illinois, especially insofar as it related and contributed to the national publicity campaign. Concluding his remarks, he handed to the secretary a check for $1,179.63, being 25 per cent of the total amount collected by the association for publicity purposes during the month of December, 1920. Secretary Young submitted a financial report for the months of January and February, 1921, showing receipts from all sources to have been $20,293.91. A supplementary report to March 17, showed additional receipts amounting to $1,844.63. The secretary was instructed to write to all delinquent subscribers, urging that remittances on subscription guarantees be made promptly, so that the work of the campaign could be continued.

Mr. Ammann made a report covering his field in connection with the campaign. He expressed himself as heartily in accord with the plan of organizing allied trade associations in every district, and declared his willingness to devote his entire time to such work for a limited period, but pointed out that it would be impossible for him to assume the work on a permanent basis, or for an indefinite period. He had in preparation, he said, a little pamphlet embodying advice and suggestions as to whom to form these associations, copies of which would be distributed in localities where it seemed possible to organize. Discussion of the plan showed that it was the consensus of opinion that for the present it would seem good policy to devote a portion of campaign funds available to organization work, lending every assistance in forming allied trade organizations, contributing the necessary expenses of representatives who would go into the different districts to perform missionary service along the lines determined upon. Such action would undoubtedly result to the financial advantage of the campaign and promote the raising of a continuous fund for financing the national publicity campaign. Mr. Asmus outlined a proposition to send Mr. Ammann on a trip to the west and northwest, to visit the trade in and around 15 or more of the larger cities in the interests of the campaign. Mr. Ammann announced his readiness to start on such a trip some time after May 1. The project received the unanimous approval of all present. Further particulars in regard to this trip will be forthcoming later.

Major O'Keefe gave his views in response to many questions as to practical ways of continuing the campaign, and submitted a large collection of colored pages showing how generously flowers were being featured in the advertising of many prominent concerns in the country from which florists certainly received a great deal of benefit without any cost whatever. Mr. Asmus was authorized to prepare and send out an inexpensive folder as part of an imediate effort to dispose of the balance of the slogan billboards on hand.

That all subscribers to the national publicity campaign fund might be informed as to the financial status of the campaign, the secretary was instructed to issue a folder showing the amount of money subscribed, the money received, and sums not yet collected, and the amounts received from allied trade associations and other sources, with a summary of disbursements under general headings. He was also instructed to send to the trade papers a list of subscriptions and cash received from all sources from January 1, 1921, and to send other lists at proper intervals. Many plans and suggestions were considered looking to an immediate resumption of the national advertising, but action was deferred pending development.

JOHN YOUNG, Sec'y.

The Late Walter W. Harnden.

Walter W. Harnden, president of the Harnden Seed Co., Kansas City, Mo., died at St. Joseph's hospital, that city, early April 5. Mr. Harnden was actively engaged in his business until March 31, when he submitted to an operation rendered necessary by an attack of pneumonia.

Mr. Harnden, 62 years of age, was born at Flat Rock, Mich., in 1859. He was with the D. M. Ferry Seed Co., of Detroit, Mich., until 1886, when he located in Kansas City and organized the Harnden Seed Co. there. He was an upper house alderman four years, served as judge of the county court two years, was president of the fire and water board in the Edwards administration and chairman of the Republican city committee in the Brown administration.

AMPLE SUPPLY WITH GOOD DEMAND.

The Easter business was quite active and the local florists enjoyed a rush for three or four days before the arrival of the holiday. There was a good demand for the staples, such as roses, carnations, violets, Easter lilies and sweet peas. Most of the florists report that their supply was equal to the demand. The quality of the flowers this year was up to the standard of last year and prices were fairly satisfactory. There were few weddings in March, but more are scheduled for April. A good many deaths occurred and this fact alone brought the florists a good trade. The out-of-town as well as the local demand has been exceptionally good during the past week.

W. B. C.

BRISTOL, TENN.—Fairmount Gardens enjoyed a 65 per cent increase in the volume of their business over 1920, with prices considerably better. In cut flowers roses were the favorites, with a very good call for corsages. Sweet peas and violets also went well. There was little demand for hydrangeas, while the supply of lilies was exhausted before the week was over.

DES MOINES, IA.—Sales this year were 12 per cent greater than for the same period during 1920, at the establishment of the J. S. Wilson Floral Co. Plant prices held their own, but a decrease of 20 per cent in cut flower values was noted. There was an ample supply of lilies, but hyacinths and tulips were in short supply. In cut flowers, daffodils, violets and roses were very popular, while there was a little call for carnations and mixed boxes of spring flowers. Telegraph orders were 50 per cent better than last year.

American Rose Society.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE MEETING.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the American Rose Society, held at the Old Colony Club, New York, March 16, the following members were present: F. L. Atkins, Rutherford, N. J.; James Boyd, Haverford, Pa.; J. Horace McFarland, Harrisburg, Pa.; S. S. Pennock, Philadelphia, Pa.; Geo. H. Peterson, Fair Lawn, N. J.; Wallace R. Pierson, Cromwell, Conn.; Thomas Roland, Nahant, Mass.; John C. Wister, Philadelphia, Pa., and President Robert Pyle, West Grove, Pa. The secretary's report was read and Mr. McFarland, editor of the Rose Annual, stated that the first copies of that publication were ready for distribution, and that the handbook of the Society would be off the press early in April. By action of the board, Benjamin Hammond, Beacon, N. Y., was constituted secretary emeritus, and was invited to attend all sessions of the Society and the executive committee.

S. S. Pencock, reported progress in the Portland, Ore., excursion. To charter a special train, 125 persons are necessary. For less than this number special cars can be had for each unit of 24 persons. A trip of 35 days would cost about $700. There will be an opportunity to leave the party at Portland and return independently. It was recommended that a slip-in for envelopes be printed, giving information about this trip and that this be inserted in all mail leaving the Society's office.

The following arrangement was decided upon for the dissemination of the Van Fleet roses:

"That the American Rose Society arrange with the several persons or firms agreeing to have distributed to them propagating stock or material of one of the new Van Fleet roses in equal quantity for propagating. That opportunity be offered to participate in such distribution, to members of the Society who are rose growers, who issue a retail catalogue, and will agree to the conditions as to naming, pricing, etc., as arranged with the Department of Agriculture; and who will further agree to propagate from material assigned and offer prominently in their catalogues, the resulting plants in two-year form, and to pay to the Society at the end of one selling year as royalty 25 per cent of the retail price as agreed upon, making a deposit on account of such royalty of $50, as a guarantee of good faith not less than 30 days prior to the distribution of such propagating material. That the committee on new roses arrange with the participating persons or firms for uniform distribution and offering of such roses."

The appointment of judges for the Boston Rose Show was left to the committee on commercial cut flower interests, Wallace R. Pierson, Chairman. The silver medal offered by the Garden Club of America was accepted with thanks and offered as a sweepstake for the best vase of 50 cut roses in competitive classes at the Boston Show.

The National Flower Growers' Association having indicated its desire to adopt the American Rose Society's standard of judging cut roses, permission was gladly granted them to do so. A letter from Federation Nationale des Syndicatie Hortoicoles de France was read and it was carried that the secretary write this organization asking whether the American Rose Society might become affiliated with it.

JOSEPH GODSEFF many years manager of Sander & Sons, St. Albans, Eng., died March 5, age 75 years.

PRESIDENT HARDING is reported to have promised Ferdinand W. Peck, of Chicago, that he will wear a white carnation every day.

TULIP bulbs which have been subjected to cold storage (32 to 34 degrees Fahrenheit) are said to root and bloom more quickly than bulbs not so treated.

NEW YORK.—Late buyers of bulbs the past season were greatly favored. In the first place, they bought the bulbs at their own price; secondly, the lateness of arrivals compelled the growers to use these bulbs for the latter part of the season and it so happened that Easter bulbous stocks brought much better prices than any, except those forced very early.

Glass Cheaper.

Window glass prices have been cut 21 per cent by the American Window Glass Co., Pittsburgh, Pa.

BUSINESS in Japan continues stagnant according to advices by bankers. As a result of the large volume of gold held, prices remain high and exports are small.

Coal.

During the week ending March 19, the production of bituminous coal amounted to 6,525,000 tons compared with 12,000,000 tons weekly produced several months ago. In the first week of March, 2,600 soft coal mines reported to the Geological Survey an average employment of only 19 out of a possible 48 hours. There are 204,000 coal cars idle on sidings.

Boston Flower Show.

The rose show of the American Rose Society and the Masachusetts Horticultural Society opened at Horticultural hall, Boston, April 6 with favorable weather, a splendid display of roses, orchids and azaleas in groups and a fine variety of cut carnations. Especially noteworthy were the orchids of Albert C. Burrage, the Julius Roehrs Co.'s and J. T. Butterworth. The rose gardens of Thomas Roland and Breck-Robinson Nursery were very attractive. Prof. Sargent's collections and the Arnold arboretum were well represented. The show continues to April 10, inclusive.

National Flower Growers' Association.

The National Flower Growers' Association is endeavoring to compile data with a view of getting valuable information disseminated among the flower growers of this country pertaining to insurance protection, a simplified and uniform bookkeeping system, including ways to figure cost of production, depreciation, etc. Any answers to the following inquiries mailed to the undersigned at Edwardsville, Ill., will be appreciated by those in charge of this work and materially assist in getting some definite results:

First—Do you carry insurance, and if so, what kind? Name the companies and rates paid. Second—Explain in brief outline your system of bookkeeping and how you figure cost of production, and depreciation. Third—please give such other information that in your opinion would assist materially in the above work.

ST. LOUIS DISTRICT.

The St. Louis, Mo., District branch of the National Flower Growers' Association will meet at Springfield, Ill., Tuesday, April 19. This meeting is of great importance to all flower growers in this section. If you are a member we expect you to attend. If you are not we urge you to attend and become one. The meeting will open promptly at two p. m., and the executive committee will meet at one o'clock to transact such business as may come before it. W. J. Hembreiker, Springfield, Ill., chairman of the entertainment committee has arranged an interesting programme, which consists of much business and some pleasure. St. Louis and St. Louis County has promised a large delegation which will leave St. Louis on the Chicago & Alton R. R., at 8:40 a. m., April 19, arriving in Springfield 11:25 a. m. Fare is $4.04 one way. Let us count on you for a visit to the capital city of Illinois and meet with a lot of good fellows. You will never regret it.

Tulips at the New York Botanic Garden.

Tulip lovers and others will be given a great opportunity, in the latter part of May, to visit and inspect the largest collection of Darwin and breeder tulips ever brought together in one place in this country. Through cooperation with the General Bulb Growers Society at Haarlem, Holland, a collection of over 17,500 tulips, the gift of that organization, was planted last fall in the horticultural gardens, located just opposite Fordham hospital on Southern boulevard. This collection embraces 121 kinds of Darwin tulips and 65 of breeder. Another collection at the same place, the gift of John Scheepers & Co., New York, contains over 5,400 bulbs, representing 56 kinds of Darwin tulips, 32 of breeder, and 25 of cottage. In the two collections there are about 23,000 bulbs and 241 kinds. Allowing for duplication of kinds, there are 140 varieties of Darwin, 73 of breeders, 24 of cottage, two of species, and two miscellaneous.

Another collection, more comprehensive in the types represented, is located in the beds in the court of conservatory range No. 1. Here there are over 9,800 bulbs in the seven beds, and 167 kinds, as follows: Darwin, 68; breeder, 37; cottage, 38; late double, two; early single, eight; early double, eight; Rembrandt, three, and bizarre, three. The combined display at the horticultural gardens and in the court of conservatory range No. 1, represents a total of over 32,800 bulbs, and, allowing for duplication, 325 kinds.

The Darwin, breeder, cottage and Rembrandt tulips come into bloom usually from the middle of May to the last of June, depending on the variety and the forwardness of the season. These are the tulips which are popular now, their soft colors, taller habit, and usefulness for cut flowers giving them prominence over the early tulips. The early tulips may commonly be expected to blossom the first week in May.

GEORGE V. NASH.

Personal.

Dr. R. W. Thatcher, dean of the department of agriculture and director of the experiment station, University of Minnesota, was recently elected director of the New York Experiment station, Geneva, to succeed Dr. W. H. Jordan, who retires July 1. Dr. U. P. Hedrick, chief of the horticultural department of the station, and well known authority on fruits, was elected vice-director.

Dr. George I. Moore, director of the Missouri Botanical Garden, St. Louis, is a member of the first board of trustees of the new science publicity organization, Science Service, the formation of which at Washington, D. C., was announced April 3.

Charles Thorley, New York, has an article in the April issue of the American Magazine on flowers and their uses.

Cancelitis Deferred.

An American would find humor in his own funeral. Here's a joke Dr. Denney is telling:

A retailer sent a rush telegram to a manufacturer reading, "Cancel my order at once." An hour or so later he got this answer: "A lot of people ahead of you. You must take your turn."

San Francisco.

EXCELLENT SUPPLY WITH A GOOD DEMAND.

Easter trade was fully up to expectations and a satisfactory report is heard from all quarters as to the amount of business transacted. The volume of sales, according to the latest reports, shows an advance over last season, which will long be remembered as a banner year. While the average store reports a greater number of orders than last Easter, the individual sales were hardly as large. There was a strong call for stock, especially flowering plants, at prices ranging from $4 to $7.50 each. The big surprise was the decrease in the demand for rambler roses. Even medium priced plants did not enjoy their former popularity, and it was no easy matter to move large quantities. The florists, however, anticipated that the medium priced roses would meet with the strongest demand and did not feature so many large size plants as formerly. All the popular varieties of ramblers were to be had and the supply was larger than last year. It has been many years since the stores were able to offer the buying public such a fine stock of both pot grown and cut lilies as was the case this Easter. The supply was excellent, but it was none too large for the demand which cleaned up all the stock offered. When obtainable at moderate prices, the Easter lily is still the favorite plant in this market. Single stem plants retailed at from $3 to $4 each and made up plants sold readily at from $10 to $12.50 each. Hardly any lilies were on hand at any of the stores after the last delivery on Sunday. Many elaborate church decorations were executed and a heavy amount of lilies was used in this way. Many varieties of ericas were offered as pot plants and plants that were not too large and were moderately priced found a ready market. Large specimens did not move well. A large and varied assortment of azaleas were placed on sale. There seemed to be too many white varieties, but every other color cleaned up readily. Rhododendrons were in short supply. Pans of lily of the valley were offered for the first time in years and were very popular. Cinerarias were very plentiful and so were primulas, which found ready sale where inexpensive plants were required. Made-up baskets of flowering plants, together with crotons, dracaenas and other foreign stock, were more in evidence than heretofore, and enjoyed a fine sale. Glory of Nordrecht ferns, finely grown specimens, occupied a prominent place in all the stores. Large quantities of asplenium, cibotiums and nephrolepis were ready sellers. The demand for cut flowers showed an increase over previous years. Prices of all cut stock were well maintained previous to Easter and the large supply sold out completely. Roses in all varieties were prime favorites and on Sunday morning there was hardly anything to offer in the wholesale market. Mrs. Chas. Russell was in short supply and was gone quickly. Fine Columbia and Premier also sold readily. The amount of American Beauties received was small. There was a very heavy demand for red roses which caused a sharp advance in prices. At that, more could have been disposed of if available. There was a decided increase in the Cecile Brunner supply, which was very acceptable. Carnations were quoted much higher during the latter part of the week, but they were in good demand and sold well. The supply of Laddie fell short of the demand. Cattleyas were a very scarce item. There was a continuous call for this flower. Gardenias and lily of the valley were in strong demand throughout the week. Daffodils fell off greatly and only a few were received, but tulips were in good supply and brought from $4 to $5 per 100, according to quality. Hyacinths were very scarce as were freesias. The arrivals of sweet peas were light and they sold at good prices. The receipts of violets also showed a great falling off. The first lilac, both white and purple, came in and good stock found a ready market. The iris arrivals did not sell well owing to the poor color of the variety offered. Peonies and snapdragons were scarce and high. Outdoor stock, such as acquilega, pansies, marigolds and myosotis were plentiful and entered largely into basket work, for which a strong demand was noted. The asparagus and fern supply was entirely adequate. A fine call for decorative greens and fruit blossoms was enjoyed.

NOTES.

B. M. Joseph, chairman of the advertising committee of the Retail Florists' Association, is entitled to great credit for the Easter advertising. It was agreed that all the stores remain open on Sunday to facilitate deliveries and file orders. All the telegraph offices displayed large window cards, surrounded by bulbous plants and cut flowers, advising the public to "Say It With Flowers" to their eastern friends. This without doubt helped to stimulate the sending of flowers by wire to a large extent.

Seventeen thousand young shade trees have been received from Dresher, Pa., and are being replanted at the state nursery near Davis, and will be trans-

GROWERS---AFTER-EASTER---PLANNING

FORCING BULBS FOR IMPORT

When you buy imported bulbs from us, you buy them by measure, by centimeters or inches and so stated in the order. This means much, as against those people who sell first, second and third and give you no assurance as to what their bulbs will measure.

With Easter behind us we know what Forcing Bulbs have sold well and paid a profit during the past five months The retail flower grower as well as clerks now know what flower buyers most appreciate and these details are fresh in their minds. This is the time therefore to make up the Import Bulb list for the coming season.

1st. Long and satisfactory connections with the best foreign houses.

2nd. Credit arrangements and closest buying at favorable exchange rates.

3rd. First early shipments, followed by one or more later ones covering entire shipping season.

4th. Earliest deliveries of early forcing items which cannot rightly be delayed for main supply.

5th. Covering by us of all "fancy" and excess brokers' fees and port charges at New York, in which nearly every U. S. Florist grower has been persistently robbed for the past five years. We eliminate this.

6th. Because of the above, we ask that you submit to us a list as nearly as possible of what you expect to use between now and next November in these imports, part of which we specify below, and let us submit to you approximate prices and certain further details regarding delivery dates which we know will interest you.

ORIENTAL POPPY.

ORIENTAL POPPIES

There is a general scarcity of this showy and popular perennial, which has prompted us to make early fall propagations and we are now in position to supply a thrifty lot of good plants from 3 inch pots, of the following choice varieties:

MRS. PERRY
Beautiful salmon-rose.

ORIFLAMME
A large, gorgeous orange-scarlet.

PERRY'S WHITE
Pure satiny white, with a crimson-maroon blotch at the base of each petal.

Price, thrifty 3-inch pots, $1.50 per doz.; $10.00 per 100.

PHLOX MISS LINGARD

We offer an exceptionally fine stock of this grand, free, early flowering, white variety, which comes into bloom late in May or early in June and continues to bloom during the entire season.

Strong plants, $1.50 per dozen; $10.00 per 100; $90.00 per 1000.

HENRY A. DREER

714-716 Chestnut Street, PHILADELPHIA, PA.

The above prices are intended for the trade only.

planted next year along the various state highways. This shipment is to be followed by others from eastern nurseries until the total approximates a million young shade trees. The first shipment consisted of Betula, Ulmus, Poplar, Robinia and Liriodendron trees.

One of the largest Easter decorations was that by the Art Floral Company at St. Ignatius church. There was an elaborate use of lilies, both pot grown and cut flowers. Quantities of rambler roses in the larger sizes were also used together with a large amount of seasonable cut flowers. P. Vincent Matraia personally superintends this decoration every Easter.

The seventh annual show of the California Wild Flower Conservation League will be held April 28-30, at the St. Francis hotel. Thousands of school children of the city will visit the show without charge, the object being to educate them in the permanent preservation of the native trees and flowers of the state.

Now that the holiday is over, the committee in charge of the fall flower show of the Retail Florists' Association will get to work in earnest. The exhibition hall will be selected during the next week and the committee will meet soon after to draw up the schedule of prizes.

Pelicano, Rossi & Co. sold hundreds of rambler roses in all sizes. They were fortunate in having a fine supply of azaleas and rhododendrons. This firm has purchased two additional White delivery trucks for their service.

The regular session of the Retail Florists' Association was held April 6, at Native Sons hall. The report of the committee in charge of subscriptions to the new wholesale market for white growers was presented.

Podesta and Baldocchi's store was very beautiful with large specimens of rambler roses, rhododendrons and numerous varieties of ericas. They did a larger business than in 1920.

H. Plath, proprietor of the Fern eries, says the demand for ferns and foliage plants was most satisfactory, shipping trade being particularly heavy. His stock was in demand from stores all over the coast.

The Bertrand Flower Shop in the Palace hotel was completely redecorated for the Easter trade which, Fred Bertrand says, was ahead of expectations. Many fine specimens of flowering plants were sold here.

The beautiful wistarias in tubs displayed in the windows of the MacRorie-McLaren Co. proved a great attraction during the week.

The finest collection of Easter plants seen in the city was on display at the A. O. Stein store.

The shop of B. M. Joseph featured specimen ramblers and Easter lilies exclusively.

Ferrari Bros. had a fine lot of Lilium Giganteum.

STOCK SELLING SLOWLY.

The market this week experienced the usual slump felt after a holiday. Prices reacted from those of the past week. At the opening on Monday and as the week progressed prices declined more each day with stock moving very slowly. Quantities of flowers were sold on the street at ridiculous prices but even that was some help. Roses and carnations which were leaders for Easter were first to give way to the reaction. Then all other stock followed quickly. Jonquils, tulips and other bulbous stock sold more readily than anything else. There was a small demand for White sweet peas and lily of the valley for wedding work, but not what was anticipated. Pansies, marguerites, mignonettes, etc., are better in quality but that does not seem to help the sales any. The callas and Easter lilies are still arriving fairly good and market this week at eight to 10 cents. Annunciation lilies were seen in the There is not much outlook for an increase in business in the near future unless something unforseen happens.

NOTES.

Israel Quint, an old time florist of Roxbury, died at his home early in the week. He was buried Wednesday. He leaves several children among them being Harry Quint, a well known retail florist in the Hotel Victoria.

Thos. F. Galvin, Sr., for 50 years a leading retail florist of the city, severed his connection with the Thos. F. Galvin Inc., on April 2. He will be associated with his son, Thos. F. Galvin, Jr., at 256 Devonshire street.

The National Rose Show opened in Horticultural hall on Wednesday, April 6. James Wheeler, Natick, is in charge.

SUPPLY SUFFICIENT FOR ALL PURPOSES.

With fine weather for the week preceding the holiday, and an ample supply of both cut flowers and plants on hand, a very satisfactory trade was enjoyed. The volume of trade was considerably more than last year. Prices were not advanced on any stock on account of Easter, which proved to be quite a factor in increased business. Plenty of good Darwin tulips, spiræs, well formed cyclamens, Primula obconica and malacoides cleaned up nicely. Hydrangeas were on the short side. Rhododendrons and rose bushes in baskets sold as high as $20, while pot hyacinths could be had for 75 cents. In cut flowers, daffodils met with a heavy call.

STOCK IS VERY PLENTIFUL

Stock is very plentiful at this writing and obtainable in large lots at attractive prices. Business the past week has been rather quiet and, outside of the call for wedding work and funeral flowers, the demand was most disappointing. Lily of the valley has had a heavy call and fancy stock is holding firm at $8 per 100. Gardenias and orchids are moving nicely and white roses continue to clean up well right along. Sweet peas are more plentiful and there is some very choice stock obtainable at reasonable prices. Lilies are arriving in good sized quanities and considerable pushing is needed to move them. Callas are plentiful and are seen in large numbers at a few of the stores. Snapdragons are arriving in larger quantities. White, yellow and blue daisies are obtainable. Lupines and stocks are on the list of offerings, together with larkspur, pansies, forget-me-nots, tulips, Darwin tulips, mignonette, calendulas, freesias, Narcissus poeticus, lilac and amaryllis. Carnations are in heavy supply and are obtainable in quantity and the supply of roses is exceptionally large. Mrs. Chas. Russell, Columbia and Premier are having the best call in roses. Mrs. Aaron Ward, Sunburst and Ophelia are moving fairly well, considering the general market conditions; but roses, like everything else, with one or two exceptions, are in oversupply at this writing. The weather has been mild almost all the week, consequently stock in general arrived in such large quantities that some of it had to be disposed of at exceedingly low prices to make room for the new shipments.

FLORISTS' CLUB MEETING.

At the regular meeting of the Florists' Club, to be held at the Hotel Randolph, April 7, Dr. P. A. Lehenbauer, department of floriculture, will address the members on "What We Are Learning About Plants." Dr. Lehenbauer's lectures and addresses are always valuable and interesting to florists.

Mayor Thompson is scheduled to address the club and allied organizations on the coming Pageant of Progress and the various branches of the trade should show the head of our local government that they are now and always ready to promote the city's best interests in every way possible.

The ladies' night dance proposed for this meeting has been postponed.

Do not take any fake or imitation thread, claimed to be the Meyer silkaline, or smilax threads. Be sure the name Meyer is on the end of each spool, as we find there are a lot of fake brands being put on the market to imitate our green florists' thread. Weigh up our threads and then weigh up the other parties' that you are buying from and you will notice that our threads run full two ounces of thread to the spool. Be sure and get the Meyer thread.

EASTER TRADE BEST IN YEARS

Easter business was the largest in the history of this city. All stock was just about sold out before Sunday, and a great many customers could not buy what they wanted, especially in lilies. The assortment of blooming plants, made-up baskets, novelties and cut flowers was the best and largest supply that was ever put before the public, and the prices more reasonable. Business was running smoothly when early Saturday morning the temperature dropped to 22 degrees above zero. This called for better wrapping, and not only that, but out-of-doors stock was injured considerably.

NOTES.

The Kansas City Wholesale Cut Flower Co. states that their only drawback was not having enough stock.

The Muehlebach Flower Shop could not have handled more trade, as they were completely snowed under.

The Alpha Floral Co. had a large shipping business, running short of both plants and cut flowers.

A fine cemetery trade that almost equaled Decoration day business was had by A. F. Barbee.

BUSINESS IN GOOD CONDITION

Easter business was fully equal to that of last year, with prices somewhat higher in certain classes of plants, lilies excepted. Rhododendrons, rambler roses and azaleas did not move as quickly as lilies. The cut flowers supply was excellent, with few exceptions. Very fine stock was offered at all of the establishments. Some good Maud Dean chrysanthemums were offered at one shop, and found ready buyers at 50 cents each. Cut lilies sold at 50 cents, bud and bloom, but did not measure up in quality to offerings of last year. Red carnations sold very slowly. Plenty of bulbous stock was offered, most of it grown out-of-doors. The Van Sion narcissus is looking fine, brought along by the warm weather. Ferns are plentiful, some of them being six feet in length.

STOCK IN GOOD SUPPLY.

Generally speaking, there is an abundance of stock of all kinds on the market. Business is not active this week, due to the fine Easter trade. The weather has brought on all plants with a rush, and consequently the stock is not holding up as it ordinarily would. It is predicted that business will increase during the next week. Spring flowers are not in as great demand as of pervious weeks, due to the fact that the out-of-doors spring flowers are beginning to come in. Roses are leading again and the demand is good, with prices holding their own. Premier, Mrs. Chas. Russell, Columbia, Butterfly, Ward and Killarney are the varieties in greatest call. There are no American Beauties to be had. The market is flooded with carnations of all colors and they are to be had at all establishments. A limited supply of Laddie carnations are offered at from 8 to 10 cents each. The demand for them is comparatively good. Lilium Harissii is common, and good stock is being offered very reasonably. There are some fine callas among the offerings. The majority of them are used for funeral work. Fine pot plants of callas are to be had at widely ranging prices. Lily of the valley is scarce this week and is consequently valuable property. A limited supply of out-of-door stock is offered at a few stores. Jonquils are plentiful and the demand continues to be brisk. Some good outside stock has found its way into the market and is much preferred to the other stock. Exceptionally fine calendulas are plentiful and the call is poor. Tulips are in good supply and few are being sold. Darwins are scarce and bring a good price. Plants of tulips are still plentiful and the demand is fairly good. There are no Roman hyacinths on the market, although many pot plants are being sold, the price depending upon the number in the pot. The supply of Narcissus poeticus is increasing. Mignonette is not to be had this week at any price. Snapdragons of exceptionally fine quality are coming in in limited quantities. The call for them is good and none is left over. Sweet peas are more than plentiful, but are in great demand for corsage and table use. Long steinmed fancy varieties are bringing $7.50 per 1,000. White varieties are scarce. Some fine white and yellow varieties of daisies are found among the offerings, and the demand for them is excellent. They are becoming very popular for table use, used in combination with tulips, snapdragons and ferns. A very limited quanity of Spanish iris of excellent quality and good size is coming in and is selling rapidly. Violets may be said to be entirely out of season. Cattleya orchids are scarce and valuable. There are no cypripediums on the market. Lilacs were seriously injured by the frost which occurred the fore part of last week, and good plants are very scarce. Genistas and pot plants of large hydrangeas are seen at all establishments, but are poor sellers. Cinerarias are very scarce. A few are displaying some fine pot plants of amaryllis. Willows are no longer in use and primroses are scarce. There are some fine begonias coming in and pink and white varieties of baby primrose are seen in all windows. They bring from $1 to $10. Pandanus, dracaenas, crotons, and fern plants are common, the prices showing very slight fluctuations. Greens are plentiful. Ferns are limited as to quantity. Pansy and English daisy plants are to be had at moderate prices and baskets of ferns and other plants have a great call at present.

SPLENDID BUSINESS REPORTED.

The usual after holiday dullness has prevailed in the local market the past week. The early part of the week was very slow, with a larger demand towards the end of the week until by Saturday nearly every item on the list was pretty well sold out with the exception of a few roses and carnations. Stock receipts have been heavy and the quality of the best. Roses, carnations and sweet peas are in the largest supply, with lilies, snapdragons, mignonettes, calendulas, lily of the valley and orchids about equal to the demand. Some fine Darwin tulips are seen, and a few jonquils are still arriving. Southern greens are coming in better shape and are cleaning up daily. We have yet to hear from a single person connected with the business in this section, be he grower, wholesaler or retailer, who was not more than satisfied with the Easter business They all claim that while it might not be the biggest in dollars and cents, but in stock handled and customers served it was a record breaker.

NOTES.

The Easter Flower shows at the Park conservatories excel any show held here for several years and Mr. Jones of Schenley Park and Mr. Moore of West Park deserve much credit for the same.

James Riley, assistant manager of of the factory operated by the McCallum Co., and Miss Jennie Coey of the accounting department were married recently at Wellsburg, W. Va.

Ed Weaver, manager at Randolph & McClements, reports several large wedding decorations on the list for April that will tax their decorating department to the limit.

The regular session of the Retail Florists' Association was held at the Seventh Avenue hotel, April 7.

The Florists' and Gardeners' Club held their regular monthly meeting April 5, at Carnegie hall.

A large number of after Easter orders are booked at the Mrs. E. E. Williams establishment.

The A. W. Smith Co's., decorating and landscape department is working to full capacity.

EXCELLENT HOLIDAY TRADE.

An excellent Easter trade was experienced. Business started in early in the week, and increasing in volume came to a big climax on Saturday, which was an ideal day from every standpoint. The weather was fair and balmy. On Sunday morning a rain storm put a damper on business but not enough to make noticeable inroads. Everything seemed to favor the business and it was a splendid array of flowering plants that greeted the eyes of the public in the various flower shops. Due to the fact that so many people are out of work here, the demand was mostly for the medium priced pots but the increase in the number of these sold made up in volume for the lower prices. Sales in most instances were larger than last year depending upon the confidence displayed by the florist in buying in time. Prices on cut flowers were lower than last year and plants were reduced about 15 per cent. The supply of plants was equal to the demand and their quality was excellent. Lilies were scarce and soon sold out at 65 cents per bloom. Pot tulips, daffodils, hyacinths and hydrangeas led in the selling although there was a good call for miscellaneous stock such as cinerarias, genistas, primroses, begonias and rose bushes of which there was a good supply. The supply of cut flowers was hardly equal to the demand. Sweet peas and roses led in the selling with daffodils and jonquils a close second in favor. Roses brought from $3 to $6 per dozen. Violets were scarce, some shipments coming in spoiled. Carnations were in good supply, bringing $2, but the demand was light. There was an unusual demand for corsages this year. There was a noticeable increase in outgoing and incoming telegraph orders which were stimulated by some intelligent publicity. Again we say this part of the flower business is still in its infancy and the possibilities have hardly been touched. Florists can be thankful for this Easter and have nothing to fear from now on, for flowers have come to be a necessity.

NOTES.

Schramm Bros. were the only florists who did any extensive advertising. They used half page ads in the papers and handsome folders with splendid results noted. A little paragraph in the ad explaining the telegraph service brought surprising and illuminating results. This firm went after Easter trade with a vim, bought heavily and decorated their greenhouses with artistic skill. Wild smilax was twined around the posts and here and there and in the corners, bird houses were placed. They did the largest seven days' business in their history.

Miss Helen Patten, president of the Florists' Club, was swamped with orders for corsages, at her shop, her stock being completely exhausted by Sunday morning. She told the writer that she never saw such a demand, in her business life here.

William Krueger, who makes a specialty of sweet peas and roses, sent in some great stock for Easter and sold everything he could cut. His houses are in excellent shape for a large spring trade.

Zaller & Spanner rented an additional store room, which they filled with attractive plants. They also had a stall in the West Toledo market house. Business was rushing at all of these places.

William Feniger, who recently bought the Freeman Flower Store just a half block from his Adams street shop, reported a tremendous demand for all seasonable plants and cut flowers.

At their stall in the Cherry street market house, the Navarre Flower Shop sold a great quantity of Easter plants. Their Superior street store also experienced a lively demand.

Mrs. E. Suder's establishment had an excellent trade. Armine Suder is the new manager here.

The report from retailers in all sections of the city show an excellent business for the week.

Splendid lilies and hydrangeas were grown for this market by Harry Heinl.

PLENTIFUL SUPPLY MOVING SLOWLY.

With Easter a thing of the past, business has settled down to the even tenor of its ways. Trade is fairly good at all of the down-town establishments, although some say that a certain amount of this quietude can be attributed to the unsettled industrial conditions. The trade is equal to that of the previous year as far as the number of orders is concerned, but on the average the orders were not as large as formerly and this reduced the volume calculated in dollars and cents. The supply of flowers which are in season is plentiful and the quality is generally good. The leading features are roses, carnations, sweet peas, jonquils and some spring flowers. Roses are now selling from $3 to $8 per dozen. The varieties being featured are Premier, Mrs. Chas. Russell, Butterfly, Columbia and Sunburst. Carnations sell around $3 per dozen with several kinds in the market. Sweet peas of several varieties and shades sell for $2 per bunch and the demand is quite good. There is a fairly good call for plants and the supply is dwindling and only a few varieties are obtainable. Calla lilies are still selling well. Greens are in good demand. Funeral work has been active and a good supply of flowers has gone into that channel. There is a falling off in party work. Corsages have been selling fairly well, as there are a few informal dances now taking place.

NOTES.

The meeting of the Flower Growers' and Dealers' Association, which is still in process of formation, was held April 6 when a large attendance gathered. The constitution and by-laws were adopted.

An excellent window display during the week following Easter and which attracted a good deal of attention was seen at the Art Floral Co. This shop is one of the progressive establishments here.

Thos. J. Ludwig had an excellent trade and was very well satisfied with results. He believes that business will improve steadily from this time on and has made preparations accordingly.

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y.—The establishment of Arthur Dummett, 25 South Fourth avenue, was purchased by Oscar Anderson recently, who will continue the business.

LULL FOLLOWS EASTER RUSH

From a money standpoint the past week has been very disastrous. Growers always plan for their greatest production for holiday weeks when there is a tremendous demand. Easter week, they produced the stock and there was the expected demand which took it all, so that everyone was pleased. The past week owing to the favorable weather or peculiar condition of the crops, there was more stock sent in than the week before and one-fifth the call. The quality was very fine all along the line. Superb roses, carnations, sweet peas, snapdragons, calendulas, bulbous stock, Easter and Calla lilies, lily of the valley, cattleyas, etc., were everything that could be desired and all at one's own prices. Those who were busy were in luck, as any sign of quantity buying met with offers galore. One of the dealers declared there was four times too much stock and we had to do the best we could with it. It was one of the market conditions that occurs once in a great while and the trade just has to put up with it. A better market is expected from now on. The roses were superb and the quantity of long stemmed stock that was sold by the street merchants was lamentable. Carnations, very nice flowers, were sold at 25 cents for a bunch of 25, to 25 cents a dozen. Alice and carnations of that shade were the hardest to move; Wards and bright colors sold best. Daffodils are selling poorly. A good quality of larkspur is now coming in and as it is only grown in limited quantities will no doubt command its own price. Hydrangeas that did not quite make it for the holiday are now seen in the stores; they are very decorative, and help out in the numerous wedding decorations. The growers are now rapidly filling up their empty benches with pot roses and spring bedding plants. The early Easter gives an opportunity for having a fine line of this class of stock to offer by May 1, when at this time all danger of frost should be past, although the danger date has previously been about May 10.

NOTES.

Carnation growers here appear to have enjoyed top prices for their holiday cut. A retailer recently in eastern Pennsylvania, and now located in a large town in Missouri, writes to one of his old dealers in this city, that he purchased in St. Louis, Mo., 30,000 carnations for his Easter trade at $12.50 per thousand. What would the Chester or Lancaster county growers have said of such returns for one of the best weeks of the year?

The Jos. G. Neidinger Co. report large advance orders for Memorial day wreaths and prepared flowers for the same. Such stock has now become a staple for the trade, particularly in the New England states, where the Memorial day trade is exceptionally strong, and where it is necessary to have larger stocks worked up well in advance, which would not be possible with fresh cut flowers.

The entire trade of this community would welcome such a proposition as that introduced into the British parliament recently, to make Easter a fixed date, the day selected being the second Sunday in April. Plants and cutflowers could then be moved along by a fixed schedule year after year, adjustable and varied to the state of the weather.

Robert A. Craig and Cornelius Vander Breggan sailed April 2 to visit the Robt. Craig Co.'s tropical nursery at San Juan, Porto Rico. H. C. Geiger, who returned recently from San Juan, states that the stock at the Craig Co.'s nursery looked very promising.

The Leo Niessen Co. state that the trade of the past week was difficult to handle, there being such an oversupply of flowers. Mr. Niessen looks for a better market from now on. Exceptionally fine roses in all grades are leaders at this establishment.

It is just one month to Mothers' day, Sunday, May 8, and every preparation in the way of publicity should be put

Ed. Reid declares the retailers have a grand opportunity at the present time when flowers are so plentiful and cheap, to stock up, run special sales, make money for themselves and relieve the market at the same time.

HOLIDAY TRADE SATISFACTORY.

A general satisfaction among the trade is expressed over the results of the Easter business. The retailers were well stocked with plants and cut flowers and so far as could be learned, sold out well. All the Broad street florists have reported excellent business.

NOTES.

The Victoria Florist with a store on Springfield avenue and a branch opposite the Hudson Tube terminal, had a fine business.

Charles Luthy, who has a good shop at 363 Springfield avenue, was well pleased with the holiday business.

Statements from retailers located in other parts of the city were that Easter business was quite satisfactory.

Penek Brothers of the Rosary Floral Co. experienced a clean-up on both plants and cut flowers.

At Henry S. Stein's Flower Shop in the Public Service terminal, the holiday report was favorable.

Phillips Bros. stated that their business was much better than last year.

A better trade than last year was reported by Washington Florist.

A fine business was had at the Aug. G. Begerow establishment.

LITTLE DEMAND FOR STOCK.

Both literally and figuratively speaking, a frost struck the florists and their business soon after Easter. March 28, until five p. m., was like a June day. The first intimation one had of a change was great clouds of dust swirling through the streets. By six a. m., March 29, the thermometer registered 25 and 22 degrees, according to locality. The weather continued cold throughout the week. As usually happens after a great holiday trade, the fountains of business almost dried up. A few buyers would visit the wholesale district, give the boxes and piles of cut flowers the glassy stare and go off, possibly with a dollar's worth under one arm. As a consequence there was a drop in prices and for quite a lot of stock there was no price at all. Tea roses that in times of scarcity would have been classed as specials, sold for $10 and $12 per 100. Orchids, gardenias, carnations and the bulbous stock were just as slow. As for violets they were well nigh impossible; but we repeat that there was a good Easter trade.

April 4.—Business continues light. The weather is fine and mild, which is bringing in good supplies.

NOTES.

Adolph Meyer and wife celebrated their tenth wedding anniversary at their home, 26 E. 120th street, on the evening of April 3. As everybody knows—or should know—the tenth anniversary calls for a tin wedding. William Hanft, the clever decorator of the Meyer shop, thought it a good opportunity to do an artistic job, and as Mark Tapley would have said: "Get some credit." The decorations were elaborate and original inasmuch as the entire room, about one foot from the ceiling was wired in the shape of a spider's web from the central chandelier to all corners of the room. Then, suspended from the wires were garlands of tin ivy leaves, about 200 sprays with six leaves to a spray, and tinfoil garlands about three feet long, fastened between the drapery. The drapings were of wild smilax that had been treated with alumina. In the northeast corner of the room, under a shower bell of tin leaves, the mock marriage took place after which the couple were showered with confetti and real live canary birds, released for the occasion, to be captured by the guests. We regret that a good photograph of this ingenious piece of work was not available.

The next meeting of the Florists' Club will be held in its hall in the Engineering Building, 39th street, near Sixth avenue, on the evening of April 11. Deferred business is likely to be taken up and there will doubtless be talks relating to the success of the late Spring Show. A prospect of good exhibits is likely.

Trepel & Landsman is a new retail firm that has recently started in business on Quincy street, near Broadway, Brooklyn. Mr. Trepel of this firm was for a number of years employed by J. K. Allen, the well known wholesaler. The Landsman family is well known in the trade, one brother being a grower near Flatbush.

Chatmas Florist, Eighth avenue and 145th street, who has the finest store in that section of the city, had it well filled with plants two days before Easter, and sold out well, besides doing a good business in cut flowers.

Rigo Brothers, two enterprising young men, who opened a store six years ago at 808-810 Madison avenue, say that it was the best Easter trade they have had since going into business.

Robert Christatos, who conducts a shop at Park avenue and 80th street in connection with Christatos & Koster of 717 Madison avenue, has stated that his business was excellent.

As reports of the Easter trade continue to come in from the retailers they all confirm what was outlined in our letter of April 2, to wit; that the business was excellent.

An excellent Easter business with a great sale of plants, was experienced by Mrs. Katie Kopp, who has a fine establishment at Broadway and Marion street.

Easter business exceeded the expectations of Herman Wiener, who for several years has been located at 753 Flushing avenue, Brooklyn.

A fine business in both plants and cut flowers, was experienced by the New Lexington Florist, 636 Lexington avenue.

S. H. Calamaras, who recently opened a shop at 115 E. 34th street, reported a good Easter trade.

Rochester, N. Y.

FINE HOLIDAY SUPPLY CLEANS UP NICELY.

The holiday trade just closed has been one of the largest in many years. The bulk of the business came the last three days and everything in cut flowers and plants was completely sold out. The demand for violets was unusually large with the supply limited. Sweet peas were very fine as were Cecile Brunner roses, cattleyas and orchids. Carnations were of fair quality and brought a fancy price. Roses of all kinds were excellent and the price firm. In blooming plants the cinerarias, genistas, rambler roses, in red and pink, spiraeas and bulbous stock were all fine and in great demand. Azaleas and rhododendrons were very scarce because of the embargo on such stock from foreign ports. Everything in the plant line sold well.

NOTES.

Wm. S. Riley celebrated his 19th year of service with the park department. He was originally named as a member of the park board, and later was made deputy commissioner and when A. B. Lamberton resigned, Mr. Riley was made commissioner.

Large sprays of cherry blossoms are being featured in the windows of the Salter Bros. establishment.

Mrs. Marie Jacobs is again employed at J. B. Keller & Sons on S. Clinton avenue.

C. Curtis, Irondequoit, disposed of a large quantity of plants of all kinds.

Horace J. Head recently returned from a business trip in Pennsylvania.

Quantities of fancy plant baskets were sold by J. B. Keller & Sons.

A fine trade in plants and corsages was had by H. E. Wilson.

CHESTER.

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O.—The Endres Floral Co., has purchased 86 acres of land near this city, for nursery stock.

LIBERAL, KANS.—A flower store was opened here recently by Misses Blance and Zula Weidensaul, on Kansas avenue.

HUTCHISON, KANS. — The Parker greenhouses, owned by F. L. Parker, were sold recently to the Grovier-Starr Produce Co., who will continue their operation.

SWEET PEAS in California are looking well, acreage normal.

BLUE GRASS seed advanced three to four cents at Chicago the past 10 days.

MILLETS in the east central territory have advanced 55 cents to $1.35, with equal declines everywhere.

A. H. GOODWIN of the W. W. Barnard Co., Chicago, has been under the weather with bronchial trouble.

TREASURY decision No. 38,600 has been distributed and is of interest to all importers of clover and field seeds.

GEORGE W. PARK, the old time Pennsylvania seedsman and plantsman, is now permanently located at Dunedin, Fla.

WALTER W. HARNDEN, president of the Harnden Seed Co., Kansas City, Mo., died April 5. For further details, see obituary.

SAN JOSE, CALIF., seed growing district has had more rain, making a normal supply to date, and the crops are looking well.

ROBT. LIVINGSTONE, of the Livingstone Seed Co., Columbus, O., returned last week from his winter vacation on the Pacific Coast in very good health.

THE sowing of seed for the production of large onions in the vicinity of Chicago is practically finished. The seed planted for set production at this date is about 40 to 50 per cent of the expected plantings.

VISITED CHICAGO: Lester L. Morse and Frank G. Cuthbertson, of C. C. Morse & Co., San Francisco, Calif., E. S. Gunn, of the Gunn Seed Co., Lincoln, Neb.; Fred H. Hunter, of the Hunter Seed Co., San Francisco, Calif.

THE demand for white clover has been about normal or above. Country stocks in south-eastern Wisconsin, which is the principal producing section, are reported exhausted, but the big demand for this seed has already been met.

Grass Seeds.

Prices for grass seed, according to the government report, were unchanged from last week except that Kentucky bluegrass was quoted 50 cents to $1 or more higher in a few important markets. Redtop and orchard grass were firm at last week's prices. No improvement in the timothy demand was noted and exports during the week amounted to only about 13,000 pounds to Great Britain. Most seedsmen indicated a smaller than normal demand for timothy during March.

SAGINAW, MICH.—A. T. Ferrell has returned from his southern vacation and reports the business outlook good, with wage costs more favorable.

NEW YORK.—Counter trade, which, on account of the cold snap, was rather dull last week, took a great start April 4 and the leading seed stores were thronged.

John Bodger, Los Angeles, Calif.

John Bodger, president and founder of John Bodger & Sons Co. Los Angles, Calif., is celebrating his 75th year by touring the seed growing centers of Europe. He will first visit his boyhood home in Somersetshire, England, where he began his career as a florist, nurseryman and seedsman. For 30 years after his early marriage he catered to a steadily growing trade and a still more rapidly increasing family, until on the advice of a well known seedsman, who had visited San Francisco, Calif., in 1880, he decided to dispose of his retail business in England and start life over again in California as a seed grower. The year 1891 found him established with his family in Ventura county, growing flower and vegetable seeds on a scant acre of poor ground. For the first 10 years the new enterprise had a hard struggle for life. This is not strange, considering the fact that Mr. Bodger and his sons were handicapped by scanty knowledge of California farming conditions, by adverse weather, and last but not least, by insufficient funds. However, the whole family put in their best efforts, and Mr. Bodger steadfastly fixed his hopes on that success which his sanguine nature believed to be always around the corner. To day his dreams have been abundantly realized—one might say literally a thousand-fold—as the firm of which he is still an active member, has expanded from a one-acre plot to considerably over a thousand acres of rich soil, employing scientific methods and up-to-date machinery. This large acreage, which centers about Los Angeles, is now recognized as a reliable source of supply, not only for the United States, but for countries all over the civilized globe.

The firm grows standard varieties of flower and vegetable seeds, but Mr. Bodger's personal favorities among the flowers are asters and zinnias, and for the past ten years, working in conjunction with his sons, he has not only perfected the older varieties of asters and zinnias, but has produced many entirely new types. Prominent among the asters is the long stemmed Beauty type, a valued addition to the florists' collection. Chief among the zinnias is that magnificent new race, known as Dahlia-flowered. Authorities on the subject agree that this new type is as important an advance in the development of the zinnia as was the Spencer selection in the history of the sweet pea. So large are these zinnias, so velvety in texture and so diversified in color range that they have risen from their humble place as the plebeians in grandma's garden to the proud patrician of exclusive florists' shops. The demand for these flowers is so great that the company is devoting 200 acres this season to asters and zinnias alone.

While Mr. Bodger is in Europe, his firm will be carrying on business as usual under the able supervision of his sons, Walter Bodger, vice president, John C. Bodger, secretary, Thos. M. Bodger, superintendent. The photograph for the accompanying illustration was taken just before Mr. Bodger and his wife started for New York, where they will embark for Southampton, Eng., sailing April 12. Their many friends in the seed trade tender them their best wishes for a safe and pleasant journey.

The Nursery Trade

American Association of Nurserymen.

Lloyd C. Stark, Louisiana, Mo., President; M. R. Cashman, Owatonna, Minn., Vice-President; John Watson, 400 Nassau Street, Princeton, N. J., Secretary; J. W. Hill, Des Moines, Iowa, Treasurer.

Forty-sixth annual convention will be held at Chicago, June, 1921.

BLOOMINGTON, ILL.—With the season three weeks in advance of last year, due to extremely warm weather A. M. Augustine says orders for nursery stock have been coming in rapidly.

WE are in receipt of the first number of "Portland Roses," a magazine devoted to the outdoor cultivation of roses, published by the Portland Rose Society, 267 Third street, Portland, Ore.

THE Jackson & Perkins Co., Newark, N. Y., is having by far the largest business ever experienced. Prices on some kinds of fruits have eased off recently, but ornamentals are holding firm.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y.—Some large contracts for furnishing and planting several thousand evergreen and fruit trees have been awarded to the Poughkeepsie Nursery Co., of which William J. Godding and P. J. Melle are owners.

THE Framingham Nurseries, Framingham, Mass., say business has been extra good to date and looks most promising for the rest of the season. Labor and shipping conditions are more satisfactory. Large specimen evergreens are going well.

TRADE with the Rice Brothers Co., Geneva, N. Y., is running well ahead of last year and it is expected everything in fruit, roses and general ornamentals will be cleaned up. During the past ten years this firm has not been sold out so closely as at the present time.

THE Oregon Nursery Co., Orenco, Ore., reports that scarcity of stock, especially cherries and plums, has handicapped sales. With no appreciable surplus in other lines, there has been sufficient in most cases for the demand. No boom in planting is anticipated, many looking for lower prices which can hardly materialize under existing conditions.

Pine Blister Rust.

ILLEGAL SHIPMENTS OF SMALL FRUITS.

Many illegal shipments of currant and gooseberry bushes and five-leaf pines have been made in the past four years, a large majority of them by nurserymen. An analysis of the violations of blister rust quarantines which have been discovered, shows that out of a total of 122 shipments, 49 nurseries were responsible for 105 of these prohibited sales. White pines were discovered, in a few shipments, under the name of "Jack pine," or other yellow pines. Violations have occurred from Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Louisiana and Alabama. Some of these shipments were made from regions infected with blister rust, and a few came from nurseries known to have had diseased stock the previous year. Many of these violators have been prosecuted, and a force of government inspectors are in the field to take such action as will make the quarantine effective.

The cooperation of all nurserymen is requested in upholding the federal and state blister rust quarantines. Federal Quarantine No. 26, prohibits the shipment of five-leafed pines, currants or gooseberries (the host plant of the blister rust) from points east of and including Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Arkansas and Louisiana to points west of these states. This quarantine also prohibits the shipment of five-leafed pines and black currants from New England and New York to any point outside of these states, and prohibits, further, the shipment of five-leafed pines and black currant plants from the New England states into the state of New York. These regulations are made to prevent the introduction of the blister rust into uninfected regions by the transportation of of diseased host plants, and to protect the valuable western white pine forests. A single shipment of infected stock may cause enormous loss. A bulletin giving complete information about the federal blister rust quarantine laws and the regions to which they apply may be secured from the Federal Horticultural board, Washington, D. C., of which C. L. Marlatt is chairman.

Alnus Hirsuta.

To persons who know alders only as they grow naturally in New England these plants are small or large shrubs, but the common European alder, Alnus glutinosa, is at its best a large tree; there are two large tree alders in the Pacific states and another in Arizona and Mexico and in Japan and eastern Siberia some of the species are trees. One of these, Alnus hirsuta, should be better known, for it is perfectly hardy here and has grown more rapidly than any other Japanese trees raised from the seeds brought from Japan by Professor Sargent in 1892. In the arboretum it is a shapely tree already more than 30 feet high, with smooth, lustrous pale gray bark and spreading branches, and large dark green leaves. Two plants of this alder can be seen on the right-hand side of the Meadow road in front of the linden group. In Japan it is often a tree 60 or 70 feet tall with a trunk two feet in diameter, and there appears to be no reason why it should not grow as large in this country. Of all the tree alders in the collection it has the most promise of long life and large size, and it should prove a good tree in the northern states to ornament the borders of streams and ponds. In Japan this tree furnishes wood used for many purposes.—Arnold Arboretum Bulletin.

KEARNEY, NEB.—In a recent survey of the natural timber of Nebraska, Prof. Raymond J. Pool, of the University of Nebraska, found that there were 60 different species of native trees, representing both the forests of the far west and those of the eastern portion of the United States.

PORTLAND, ORE.—The horticultural products section of the department of horticulture, Oregon Agricultural college, received donations of machinery and equipment valued at $17,500, recently, from manufacturers whose interest has been aroused by the successful work carried on in that branch for dehydrating and canning fruits.

Coreopsis Grandiflora.

Although it has been in cultivation for the better part of a century, coreopsis has shown no marked divergence from the type until quite recently. From the florists' point of view, considerable improvement has been effected in the size and form of the flower, in strength of stem and freedom of flowering. For a plant so extensively cultivated in private gardens, and so largely grown for supplying the markets with cut flowers, it is a little strange that no divergence from the easily recognized type has been observed during the passing of the years. Now, however, the golden, single bloom has increased its number of ray florets, and become semi-double. The newcomer was noticed in a batch of seedlings, and Amos Perry, who acquired and perpetuated the variety, exhibited it before the Royal Horticultural Society at the Provincial show held at Cardiff, when an award of merit was granted. The more numerous ray florets add to the substance and lasting qualities of the blooms, but fortunately, the doubling has not been carried so far as to detract from the elegance of the flower. Coreopsis grandiflora, Perry's variety, should prove a useful addition to golden flowers suitable for the hardy flower border.—London Gardeners' Chronicle.

STONEY CREEK, ONT.—Harrison & Son have completed a new house for growing vegetables.

SNOW in the Imperial Valley, California, April 4, the first time on record, damaged the important fruit and truck crops of that region.

ANNA, ILL.—A co-operative fruit and vegetable marketing bureau, is to be organized here, according to an announcement made by the Illinois Agricultural Association, April 4. The bureau will consist of the leading growers of southern Illinois, who will have for their principal aims, the standardization of packs and promotion of the fruit and vegetable products of this section.

H. A. JOHNS, of the Sioux City Seed Co., Sioux City, Ia., states the Everglades is the best thing in Florida from a monetary point of view and that in not making every effort to get the region drained and under cultivation the state is missing one of its golden opportunities; he places these lands among the richest in the world and says that one day they will support the population of an empire.

Prices of Indoor Fruits and Vegetables.

Chicago, April 5.—Cucumbers, 2-dozen box, $4.00 to $5.00; leaf lettuce, per box, 20 cents.

Spinach.

For many years Spinach has occupied a most important position with us. This crop has gradually forged to the front until today it almost holds first place. Probably one big factor is the nature of this farm. We have a warm gravelly soil which drains perfectly. Thus we are sure of an early start, which enables us to catch the early market, and we are certain to winter our late crop if anybody does.

On this type of soil the plants root deeply and are not easily heaved out by winter freezing. Further, we have a great windbreak on the west border, which protects the fields from winter storms, which are very destructive to spinach when not snow-covered. The increased express rates and high cost of packages also are operating in our favor, reducing southern competition. Altogether, we are on the market many months, from September to July, often unbroken.

The use of fertilizer is a great help, especially potash and nitrates. A favorite form is nitrate of potash, which supplies both at once. We use this form on the young crop in the spring, as the seeds have germinated and on the wintered over fields, as soon as the frost leaves the ground and growth starts. This fertilization produces a quick undergrowth of dark green color, so much desired on the markets. The fall crop for wintering is sown from September 10 to October 1, preferably two or three seedings. About Thanksgiving time a light mulch of clean straw is given, which is renewed in March. Part of the crop is left unmulched to permit winter cutting, as we often have long spells of warm rainy weather when much marketing is possible. Seeds are again sown as early as the ground can be worked, sometimes in February. All are sown broadcast, except the crops for June and September which are drilled for wheelhoeing to cut down weeds. The winter crops and early spring crops need no attention for weeds. As to varieties, only two are grown—Round-leaved for all except the first for early spring seeding, for which we use Norfolk Savoy.

Lately a serious disease has caused much damage. It is the "yellows," similar to cabbage "yellows." Against this there is probably no other remedy than to produce resistant types by seed selection and breeding. It is believed that aphis distribute this disease over the fields. It is well known that during the spells when aphis abound is this disease at its height. We delay the late sowings as much as possible which gives some relief. As a preparatory crop, use clover, preferably sweet clover can be used, which is plowed up in July or August and the field then planted to winter spinach.

MARKETMAN.

White Grub Land.

Severe injury from white grubs is to be expected this season throughout southern New York, northern Pennsylvania, northern Ohio, the southern half of Michigan, northern Indiana and Illinois, eastern Iowa and southern Wisconsin. Every three years these sections are visited with this pest, due to the fact that it takes this time for the insects to pass through their complete life cycle. They will occur especially in fields that were in grass last year, and for this reason, neither corn or potatoes should be planted on such land. By sowing oats or barley the first year, planting clover the second, and following with corn the third year, a good rotation is presented for protection against the white grub, for the beetles which are the parents of these pests do not usually lay their eggs in such crops.

Ageratum Fraseri

We feel confident in offering Ageratum "Fraseri" to our customers that we are offering what will be one of the most valuable acquisitions to the bedding plant line in recent years, that it is a blue, a decided blue, that would be continually in bloom. In our trial grounds last summer "Fraseri" attracted more attention than any other bedding plant. It only grew about 8 to 10 inches high and was covered the entire season with what can easily be classed as immense trusses of flowers, as many of them were over 2½ inches across, while the individual flower would be ⅞ of an inch in diameter. The plant spreads about 12 to 15 inches across. It can easily be used with Alternantheras as a border plant.

Being an early bloomer and dwarf, compact grower, it makes an excellent pot plant.

PETUNIAS.

PETUNIAS.
Dieners' Ruffled Monsters, single. The largest and most beautiful ruffled varieties of Petunias in existence. Ruffled monster seed in separate colors, pink, red, variegated, white, red with black center, pale lilac, and all colors mixed.

The following somewhat smaller than the Ruffled Monsters, colors, flesh pink frilled. (Pearl of Kentfield), purple or blue, and white frilled (dwarf). Price, per package, 50c. Catalogues will be sent free on request. Write for it today.

Mr. W. I. Ferguson, Smiths Falls, Ontario, under date of Dec. 2nd, 1919, writes us the following in regard to our petunias:

"Last year I purchased petunia seed from you. I think every seed germinated and the blooms were the finest ever seen in this part of Canada. Only about 8% of the plants could be classed as common. I want more of the same quality each year."

Mr. Rudolph Nagel, Lancaster, Pa., under date of Dec. 14th, 1919, writes us:

"I had, last year, just a few of your petunias, but I am sure I could have sold thousands of them. They surely came up to your claim and way ahead of my expectation."

STATEMENT OF THE OWNERSHIP, MANAGEMENT, CIRCULATION, ETC., REQUIRED BY THE ACT OF CONGRESS OF AUGUST 24, 1912, of THE AMERICAN FLORIST, published weekly at Chicago, Ill., for April 1, 1921.

State of Illinois, County of Cook.

Before me, a Notary Public in and for the state and county aforesaid, personally appeared Michael Barker, who, having been duly sworn according to law, deposes and says that he is the editor and business manager of THE AMERICAN FLORIST, and that the following is, to the best of his knowledge and belief, a true statement of the ownership, management, (and if a daily paper, the circulation, etc.,) of the aforesaid publication for the date shown in the above caption, required by the Act of August 24, 1912, embodied in section 443, Postal Laws and Regulations, printed on the reverse of this form, to wit.

1. That the names and addresses of the publisher, editor, managing editor, and business managers are:

Publisher, American Florist Company, 440 South Dearborn Street, Chicago, Ill.

Editor and Business Manager—Michael Barker, 440 South Dearborn Street, Chicago, Ill.

2. That the owners are: (Give names and addresses of individual owners, or, if a corporation, give its name and the names and addresses of stockholders owning or holding 1 per cent or more of the total amount of stock.) Estate of E. Asmus, W. Hoboken, N. J.; M. Barker, 440 S. Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill.; David Burpee, 475 N. Fifth St., Philadelphia, Pa.; John Burton, Willow Grove Ave., Chestnut Hill, Pa.; Estate of J. D. Carmody, Evansville, Ind.; W. W. Coles, Maple Hill Rose Farms, Kokomo, Ind.; Robt. Craig, 49th and Market Sts., Philadelphia, Pa.; Emmesa J. Dickey, Wahiawa, Oahu, Hawaii; Wm. EXCEPTIONAL HOLIDAY TRADE.

The holiday business is over, and the trade had more than ever before. Stock of all kinds sold well and on sight. Sweet peas, violets, roses, marguerites, freezia, pansies, lily of valley and orchids were much in demand for corsage work, and there were plenty of all flowers, except violets, for every one. In plants, lilies sold far better than was expected, and more could have been disposed of had they been obtainable. Daffodils, hyacinths, rose bushes, etc., had an excellent call. The stock as a whole this year was fine and all of the growers reported an early clean-up on their stock. Cut flowers did not advance very much, only violets and roses, which had several advances during the week. Most of the sweet peas used here came from the Boston, Mass., markets, as did the majority of the violets.

NOTES.

Smith the Florist, who had two stores on Washington street, has now combined them into one establishment, and has one of the largest show windows in the city.

Leach Florist, Seekonk, completely disposed of his lilies, but unfortunately lost several thousand lily of the valley, which he had planned for the trade here.

J. A. Macrae, who had several thousand lilies, sold out early on Saturday.

Quidnick Greenhouses sold its large stock two days before Easter.

The markets, department stores and fruit stands had their usual stock of plants, and did very well.

In addition to his two stores Macnair Florist had an annex near by.

A fine trade in cyclamens was had by Wm. Hoffman, Pawtucket.

E. E. King, Attleboro, Mass., had the best holiday trade in years. H. A. T.

Fredericton, N. B.

EASTER TRADE SURPASSES FORMER YEARS.

The Easter business was very successful. With most retailers it was their banner week in all respects. Call for both cut flowers and plants was exceptionally good, with prices for the former reaching a fancy figure, especially in roses and carnations, due to heavy importations from the Boston, Mass., market. Roses sold at from $6 to $10 per dozen retail and carnations brought $8 to $10. There was a liberal supply of plants on the market, although more daffodils could have been sold had they been obtainable. Lilies, Easter and callas, Primula obconica, cyclamens, spiraeas, dwarf rambler roses, etc., had an exceptional call. In cut flowers, roses were the most popular, with carnations, violets, daffodils, tulips, mignonettes, snapdragons, etc., selling readily. The weather was exceptionally fine for the week, which fact helped trade to a great extent. The churches and hospitals were liberal buyers, and the business throughout the city exceeded expectations.

Coal is now selling from $14 to $15 per ton. J. B.

BOSTON FLOWER SHOW.

Horticultural Hall, Boston, Mass., April 6-10.

Splendid Array of Exhibits.

As stated in our issue of April 9, the exhibition of rose plants and cut roses, orchid groups and many other plants as well as cut carnations, opened in Horticultural hall at noon April 6. The show was an ambitious effort on the part of the American Rose Society, the Massachusetts Horticultural Society and exhibitors, and the results fully justified the expectations of the most optimistic devotees of horticulture and floriculture. It may here be remarked that staged in a larger hall where the eye could have taken in at a glance the whole beauty of the scene, the effect would have been improved, but as it was, no fault could be found. To the right, one entered a good sized hall, called the lecture hall, in which were staged the orchid exhibits but roses were also shown here. The orchid exhibits of Albert C. Burrage, president of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society, have been seen at previous shows and received favorable comment both from newspapers and the trade press. On this occasion his exhibit was a crowning effort. It occupied a table six by sixty feet, with a walk on each side. The many plants and varieties were placed in moss on a rockwork base to a height of about six feet, built up on both sides to a ridge. The summit was crowned throughout with a row of large and gracefully drooping cibotium plants. Along the sides of the bench were pockets of bark in which small plants of Boston ferns were placed. An almost bewildering variety of orchids were in this exhibit, which was not in competition. Mr. Burrage also had separate orchid exhibits in both plants and cut flowers.

Opposite the main Burrage exhibit and against the wall, the Julius Roehrs Company, Rutherford, N. J., had a display of orchids in 200 square feet, finely arranged under the personal supervision of Edward Roehrs, with palms for a background. This exhibit took the Burrage silver cup, value $500. One end of this hall was occupied by the orchid displays of J. T. Butterworth, Framingham, Mass., a commercial grower; A. N. Cooley, Pittsfield, Mass., and Walter Hunnewell, Wellesley, Mass. At the opposite end of this hall there was an interesting exhibit of Holm Lea azaleas, staged by Charles Sander, gardener to Professor Sargent of the Arnold Arboretum. Interesting specimens from the arboretum were staged in connection with this exhibit which will be further mentioned. Passing from the lecture hall under an arch of roses, and down a short flight of steps, one entered the main hall. Here the rose gardens of Thomas Roland, Nahant, Mass., and the Breck-Robinson Co., Lexington, Mass., were situated. The Roland garden, which captured the society's gold medal and $1,000, occupied large space and was artistically arranged. A walk led through the center to an arbor in the rear, the roof and trellis of which were decorated with climbing roses. Bush and standard specimens were placed at convenient points. A large variety of the best known garden roses were planted in pots, in what one would call the natural rather than the formal style. Small plots of lawn were enclosed with borders of the smaller plants. The low fence that encircled the garden was handsomely twined with ramblers. The Breck-Robinson Co. garden, which was not in competition, but was awarded a gold medal, was more on the formal style with a fountain in the center and pieces of statuary placed about. It had rest boxes with seats at the sides, was well planted and was a clever piece of work. The two gardens and a display of Tausendschon rose plants in 200 or more square feet, by the W. W. Edgar Co., Waverly, Mass., H. H. Bartsch, president and manager, occupied the central space in this hall, but a number of other exhibits were banked against the walls and in niches. An azalea exhibit by John S. Ames, North Easton, Mass., (Wm. Swan, gardener), was noteworthy. The plants were arranged on rockwork around a pool of water, tall cedars being placed against the wall as a background. These azaleas were named Kurume, from the city of Kurume, in Japan. A considerable space was taken up by a collection of exceptionally fine specimen plants, shown by Miss Cornelia Warren, Cedar Hill, Waltham, Mass., (Henry Stewart, gardener), Azalea Indica, cytisus, heather and acacia were well represented in this collection. Thomas E. Proctor, Topsfield, Mass., (James Malborough, gardener), made a fine display of rhododendrons.

Other exhibitors in this hall were F. E. Palmer, Brookline, Mass., 150 square feet in flowering and foliage plants; Walter Hunnewell, group of yellow azaleas named Miss Louisa Hunnewell, and rose plants by the same exhibitor. A group of flowering and foliage plants by Thomas Roland, and a like display by Edward A. Clark, Jamaica Plain, Mass., (Walter H. Golby, gardener), were also seen here.

In a smaller side hall, opening into the one above mentioned, in addition to the carnations and sweet peas, a number of groups and specimens were staged. Edward A. Clarke made a fine exhibit of narcissi, hyacinths and tulips and took a number of prizes. Wm. Walker, Salem, Mass., had amaryllis. S. J. Goddard and Edwin S. Webster, Chestnut Hill, Mass., (Peter Arnott, gardener) displayed snapdragons. Exceptionally fine specimen plants of calceolaria were shown by Mrs. N. M. Bryant, Waltham, Mass., (Wm. Roche, gardener). Walter Hunnewell made an interesting display of Rosa Hugonis in this hall. Another good feature was a group of Dendrobium nobile by Miss Cornelia Warren. Begonias were exhibited by J. A. Peterson, Cincinnati, O., (non-competitive), and B. K. Farr, Stoneham, Mass. Australian violets by Wallrath & Sons, Waltham, Mass., were a feature.

Returning to the foyer in front of the box office, R. & J. Farquhar, Boston, had a pretty oval bed of primroses with a group of kalmias as a centerpiece. Other decorative features had been appropriately placed, noteworthy being a group of nemesia plants by Mrs. E. S. Grew, Manchester, Mass., (A. E. Parsons, gardener). In the loggia, a small room connecting the foyer with the main and lecture halls, Henry Penn and Henry R. Comley, both Boston retailers, had handsome tables upon which were baskets and other receptacles of artistic arrangement, filled with cut flowers. W. A. Manda, South Orange, N. J., had an exhibit of dwarf, or what he calls sweetheart roses. Cyclamens by Mrs. G. C. Weld, Brookline (W. C. Rust, gardener), schizanthus by T. E. Proctor, and Lilium candidum by the Edgar Co., were featured. Large plants of marguerites, azaleas, hydrangeas and other decorations judiciously placed near the entrance gave visitors a good impression of the beauties in store for them.

Cut Roses.

The cut roses exhibited on the opening day were good, in fact a poor rose would be almost a novelty in a present day exhibition. It was predicted, however, that the exhibit of April 8 would eclipse the first effort. Exhibitors on April 6 were the Florex Gardens, North Wales, Pa., and the W. H. Elliott & Sons Co., Brighton, Mass., with Madame Butterfly. Thomas Roland and the Montgomery Rose Co., East Hadley, Mass., had fine displays of Crusader, Hadley, Mrs. Charles Russell and Pilgrim. A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell, Conn., and Florex Gardens had exhibits of double White Killarney. John H. Dunlop, Ltd. Toronto, Ont., and the Florex Gardens displayed fine stocks of the new rose, Frank H. Dunlop. The Bedford Flower Co., Bedford Hills, N. Y., exhibited Ophelia.

Carnations.

An elaborate display of carnations, 15 varieties, was staged in 100 square feet by William Sim, Cliftondale, Mass. It contained all the most popular kinds, including Laddie, Matchless, Gay Gordon, Morning Glory Benora, Mrs. C. W. Ward, Rosette and Romeo. Other exhibitors of good carnations were S. J. Goddard, Strouts, Inc., Biddeford, Me.; Coombs, Hartford, Conn.; W. D. Howard, Milford, Mass., and Patten & Co., Tewkesbury, Mass. William Sim has a new variegated carnation, a cross of Rosette and Matchlesss, which he has named Grace Coolidge, in honor of Mrs. Coolidge, wife of the vice-president.

Notes of the Show.

Governor Cox and Mayor Peters, who had been specially invited, walked in on April 6, without pomp or ceremony, and the show was officially opened.

President Robert Pyle, West Grove, Pa., and Secretary John C. Wister, Philadelphia, Pa., of the American Rose Society were early on the scene. President Pyle lectured on "Roses at Home and Abroad," on the afternoon of April 6.

J. Horace McFarland, Harrisburg, Pa., in the course of a talk, on April 7, said: "If I lived in Boston, with all the resources the park department has, I would not have any peace until I had a rose garden."

An interesting feature in connection with Prof. Sargent's exhibit was a conifer, Taiwania cryptomerioides from the mountains of Formosa, at its full growth, the tallest tree in Asia or Europe. This tree was introduced by the Arnold Arboretum and exhibited for the first time at this show.

Sidney Hoffman, the Massachusetts avenue retailer, managed to make himself quite useful. He arranged the display of climbing roses by the W. W. Edgar Co., and the large display of cut roses of the A. N. Pierson, Inc.

Prof. Sargent's Holm Lea azaleas attracted much attention. For the benefit of our readers who may not be acquainted in Brookline, Mass., we will state that Holm Lea is the name of Prof. Sargent's estate. E. H. Wilson the noted traveler and collector of plants, is quoted as saying that the Holm Lea hybrid Azalea (Rhododendron) Sanderi, is one of the most interesting exhibits of azaleas in America, Charles Sander, the gardener, has been hybridizing and propagating for 35 years, and the result is a fine collection, with flowers of scarlet, crimson, pink and salmon colors.

The large plants of Azalea Indica by Arthur Lyman were handsome decorations for the foyer.

The arrangement of the exhibit of Kurume azaleas by John S. Ames, was one of the finest pieces of work at the exhibition.

The weather on the opening day was fine, then those cold gray clouds came drifting in from Alaska or Newfoundland, and first there was a misty fog and on the morning of April 9 we awoke to face a real rain storm. But regardless of disagreeable weather and the difficulties under which growers are laboring by reason of Quarentine No. 37, it was a fine show.

We were pleased to meet an old friend in the person of Joseph J. Lane, for six years with the Garden Magazine. He served a year in France during the late war and came back safe and sound. He is now connected with House and Garden, a Philadelphia publication.

With keeping tab on the attendance, the reporters, the weather and strange crafts in the offing, Albert R. Jenks, publicity director, was a busy man.

Our old friend, Edward Roehrs, made a hit as they say in stageland and baseball. In addition to the orchid group that he arranged, his big basket of orchids won first prize, $100, as the most original display of orchid plants.

Besides his large collection of orchids, A. C. Burrage had other fine exhibits. He took the Appleton gold medal for Cattleya Schroderae in a 14-inch tub, and an Appleton silver medal for a similar sized plant of C. Skinneri. Mr. Burrage was awarded gold medals for several other collections.

The Julius Roehrs Co., exhibit of odontiodas for which a silver medal was awarded, attracted much attention.

The collections of J. T. Butterworth of tall cymbidiums and Dendrobium Jamesianum, were noteworthy.

Arthur M. Cooley had good specimens of brasso-cattleyas.

W. N. Craig lectured April 8 on the "Culture of Hardy Roses."

After a heavy rain on the morning of April 9 the sun came out and there was promise of the two remaining show days being fair.

Miss Eileen Low of London, Eng., who is on a visit to this country, is said to be an authority on orchids and consented to act as a judge on the orchid exhibits.

The show was ably superintended by James Wheeler, Natick, Mass., a commercial grower, who is well and favorably known in the trade. A good word should also be said for the genial and obliging Secretary Rich of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society.

The attendance was disappointing to the management, 8,000 to 9,000. The weather after the first day was unfavorable.

THE RETAIL TRADE

Conducted by Robt. Kift, Phila., Pa.

Next Week in the Flower Shop.

The in's and out's of the business are at times very discouraging; some days the trade is excellent, the buying has been just right and very little is left at night to carry over. Again, everything is set for a busy time, good stock, well displayed, everybody alert, but for some unexplained reason, little or no trade develops, and "Where are all the people today?" is a question that goes unanswered. A vase of particularly fine flowers will grace the case and window that is as good as sold as soon as anyone of half a dozen customers views it, but lo, these beautiful flowers stand there day after day until past their best, and then, if fresh, could be sold half a dozen times over.

After a long experience it will be found it is the average that counts, not the sudden sprints, although they help to quicken matters, but the steady plodding that keeps the business moving forward a little at a time but always in the right direction. The vase of beautiful flowers while it did not sell was not a total loss, it served a purpose, in that it attracted attention and was much admired, and while a few choice flowers may and apparently must be lost occasionally, yet a persistent display will in time attract a demand that will reduce the loss to a minimum, if not altogether.

Now, that flowers of all kinds are so plentiful, they should be displayed in striking color combination in all the various flower bowls, figure vases and unique shaped baskets. Many of these can be sold if featured in this way that would otherwise remain in stock until they became junk. Some baskets require altogether different arrangements from others. The low, round or oval with a low handle will look well with sweet peas, pansies, daisies, short calendulas, lilac sprays, or with short roses laid out flat, with a good fringe of green around the edge. The high handled vase basket, large or small, has most of the flowers standing erect. Snapdragons, larkspurs, stiff stemmed roses, mignonettes and calendulas can all be used to show this style of basket to advantage.

COLOR CONTRASTS ATTRACTIVE.

Color combinations or contrasts are most important. Blues in a pink baskets or pinks in a blue basket always look well, or pinks and blues can be combined in a basket of a neutral tone. Calendulas in a basket of two-toned white and orange or light and dark yellow are always striking. Small vases or baskets of light blue filled with short pink roses are certain to be noticed and sell well. All should have a touch of color in a narrow bow of ribbon at the handle. When one gets their hand in it takes but a little while to arrange a dozen or more of these little novelties for which orders frequently come in over the phone, from those who noticed them in the shop or window and have just thought of a use for them, to send to a friend.

Exploiting the business and keeping the decorative possibilities of floral arrangement before the people in this way is always an incentive to new business. Plants and cut flowers are commodities that need pushing and selling just as do all other articles of commerce, but few, so very few of the trade are awake to this fact. They are like the spider; they spread the web and wait, and in many cases the web is a very poor affair, failing to hold but few who are for the moment caught by it. There are from hundreds to thousands of people in every community who are not, but should be good flower buyers. What they need is to be shown the beauty and comfort of having a few flowers on the table. The spot of color, the fragrance, the exquisite form and the life that such a touch of nature adds to the atmosphere of the home should be drawn to their attention. The public must be brought up against this in some practical way, such as efforts to get them to visit the establishment. Well-worded folders that follow one another with their continuous stories of the use of plants and flowers, their simplicity of culture and the joy they give to others are great helps.

Many have found that the advantage of this propaganda results in an increase of their business year after year. The man who has never accomplished anything of this kind can start in a modest way with one or two colored post cards or folders, that if prepared by an up to date printer will be very effective. They will go through the mails for a penny stamp, and in their originality will certainly be read. These should be sent to the store's list and an ever increasing number of prospects who, in their curiosity, will gradually come in to see what it is all about. Do not be discouraged if results are not immediate, for it takes a lot of repetition to get some people to notice anything. A striking phrase or the story of a flower will one day attract them and they will resolve to call the next time they have an opportunity, or something will happen, they will want a few flowers and you are then reasonably sure of an order.

Are you pushing the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association idea? This is an everyday affair, in fact, there is not an hour in the day that business of this kind may not develop if this country-wide delivery is kept constantly before your trade. Not one in 10 of the general public knows of this service. Do your part to put it before them.

Chicago Florists' Club.

The regular meeting of the Chicago Florists' Club was held at the Hotel Randolph, April 7, President Kohout in the chair. There was a large attendance, estimated at 150 to 200, attracted by the announcement that Mayor Thompson and Dr. P. A. Lehenbauer would address the meeting. Frank M. Suttle, 255 N. Michigan avenue; Edward L. Martin, 174 N. Wabash avenue; John H. Paddon, 318 Center street; W. J. Sharpe, 904 N. La Salle street, and Oscar Anderson, Morgan Park, were elected to membership. Gustaf Bloom, 11936 Eggleston avenue, and Anthony Batek, Shermerville, were nominated for membership.

REORGANIZATION PLAN.

The committee on President Kohout's reorganization plan submitted the following report:

Your committee has carefully considered President Kohout's reorganization plan and believes that with some modifications it might be approved by all the local trade organizations.

Now that the restraining effects of the war are passing away, there is opening to the Chicago Florists' Club a broad field for educational work and regulation to prevent waste in effort and expense.

The flower shows of former years needs revival, the Pageant of Progress demands united effort on the part of the trade, and there are many questions of production and distribution which must be thoroughly discussed if the trade of this territory is to be kept abreast of the times under the rapidly changing conditions now confronting us.

This work requires the earnest co-operation of all trade interests, and your committee is of the opinion that united action would produce highly beneficial results. It is, therefore, recommended that the proposed plan of reorganization be submitted to all other local trade bodies interested in the advancement of floriculture, requesting: First—Consideration of the plan. Second—Modifications or amendments. Third—Committee from each organization to discuss the situation.

On receipt of the views of other interested organizations, the Florists' Club would be in a position to take such further action as may be necessary.

It seems to your committee that the various trade organizations could advantageously unite for the common good on matters of general interest, leaving each individual organization free to transact its spcial business in its own way.

Respectfully submitted,
M. C. WRIGHT, Chairman;
MICHAEL BARKER,
PHILIP J. FOLEY, JR.,
Committee.

THE LATE PETER REINBERG.

Resolutions on the death of the late Peter Reinberg were presented as follows:

Whereas, In view of the loss to the Chicago Florists' Club sustained by the decease of our friend, member and associate, Hon. Peter Reinberg,

In view of his high standing in the councils of public service, his monument and heritage to the people in the work and perpetuation of the Forest Perserve, his many acts of kindness and assistance given to the poor, to the needy and to the distressed, has endeared his memory to all.

We are also deeply appreciative of his services to floriculture and to this Club. When he first began to lay the foundation in the west of a great and prosperous industry in the building of the world's largest greenhouses we had with us a man of vision who foresaw the opportunities and the growth in floriculture, so by his success and by the confidence of undertaking floriculture on such a large scale he materially enhanced our individual ambitions.

The Chicago Florists' Club mourn the loss of one who was so ever ready to do his share for the welfare and the prosperity of those similarly engaged and we sincerely condole with the family in the great loss.

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the records of the Florists' Club and a copy thereof be embossed and sent to the family of our deceased member and notice of such resolution be published by each of the trade journals.

T. E. WATERS, Chairman;
J. E. POLLWORTH,
JAMES MORTON, Committee.

The foregoing being adopted, the committee was requested to prepare suitable resolutions on the death of the late W. W. Barnard.

MAYOR ON PAGEANT OF PROGRESS.

At this moment his Honor Mayor Thompson arrived, giving the slogan "Say It With Flowers" as he entered, and was greeted with cheers. President Kohout then handed the gavel to Chairman George Asmus of the Allied Florists' Association, which joined the club in the pageant proceedings. Mr. Asmus introduced his honor as the greatest mayor of the greatest city in the universe, and briefly outlined some of the benefits which may come to the trade by participation in the Pageant of Progress to be held July 31 to August 14 inclusive.

Mayor Thompson, Chicago.
Promoter of the Pageant of Progress.

Geo. Asmus.
Chief of the Florists' Section of the Chicago Pageant of Progress.

"I want to try to revive the old Chicago spirit, that made this city what it is today," said the mayor. "Our population is now increasing 50,000 every year, because of the city's great natural advantages. No other city in the world has such natural advantages, and because of them it becomes the center of this, and the leader of that. If we will all put our shoulders to the wheel, we can make Chicago grow in population 100,000 a year.

"We are today the healthiest big city in the world. Many other cities in America would like to be able to use that slogan, but they can't do it. We expect to make money out of this great exposition, and half of it will go to Dr. John Dill Robertson, your health commissioner, to help keep Chicago the healthiest big city. The other half will go to the Chicago Boosters' Publicity Club, to advertise Chicago throughout the world.

"The two great halls on the municipal pier, each 2,340 feet long, have each been divided into eight sections. Thirteen of these 16 sections have already been sold, and five industries are now bidding for the other three. I predict that within 10 days, men will be criticising us because they can't get into our show."

The mayor's address was heartily cheered and on motion of D. F. Simonds, seconded by W. J. Keimel, it was resolved that the club and allied florists' committee be empowered to engage space for all branches of the florists' industry. Chairman Asmus presented the mayor with a basket of roses and Secretary Lautenschlager gave him a basket of carnations, Joy's White, the blooms from Nashville, Tenn.

President Kohout here resumed the conduct of the meeting and J. E. Pollworth of the pageant committee stated that the committee would welcome suggestions.

Prof. H. B. Dorner, of the Department of Floriculture, University of Illinois, who is a member of the university committee on education, stated there are many things we could show in connection with this exhibition. There are many ways of showing the progress made in this particular industry, as by showing the old-time method of delivering flowers in the sixties and seventies compared with the telegraph service at the present time. We can show progress of modern greenhouse construction in the old and new buildings and in greenhouse heating. The flue of the old days may be displayed with the present time water tube steam boilers. Florists' should not say we can't do it, because we can make this a wonderful exhibition. It was pointed out that the flower shows formerly held at the Coliseum simply attracted people who were interested in flowers; but at the pageant of progress this is quite different. This exhibition will show the progress of the principal industries; the progress of art, commerce, science and education, and naturally will bring people interested in all the different branches. These people will come to the exhibition, interested as they are, and many of them will see a floral and horticultural exhibition for the first time.

W. J. Keimel stated he expected to have Premier roses for the pageant as good as at any other time and George Asmus pointed out that this exhibition would open big business opportunities for the florist and cited several of the commercial aspects of the recent New York show as worthy of imitation. H. Schau, Wm. Henning and D. F. Simonds, having volunteered cash contributions to the pageant, were referred to the committee.

August Poehlmann said he was not prepared to discuss the matter in the absence of information as to its financing.

Dr. P. A. Lehenbauer then presented his able address on soils, bacteria and atmosphere in their relation to plants, which will be found elsewhere in this issue.

A communication from the membership committee of the Society of American Florists', J. F. Ammann, chairman, requesting assistance in its work, was read and referred to Paul E. Weiss, state vice-president of the national society.

E. A. Ollinger was delegated to follow the mayor to the Elks' Club with the fine roses and other flowers remaining on the tables. These were distributed to the ladies with the compliments of the florists, making a very favorable impression.

Secretary Lautenschlager called attention to a number of the club's questionaires which had been returned with valuable ideas and requested the early return of all others with suggestions of members.

What We Are Learning About Plants.

SOILS, BACTERIA, ATMOSPHERE.

Address by Dr. P. A. Lehenbauer of the Department of Floriculture, University of Illinois, Urbana, before the Chicago Florists' Club, April 7, 1921.

In my paper read at the recent meeting of the Illinois State Florists' Association, I pointed out the more important principles underlying the use of fertilizers. Commercial fertilizers, when applied to soils, often show a direct effect on the growth of plants, and it is unquestionably true that there is a direct relation between plant growth and soil fertility as measured by plant food materials. However, plant growth, and, hence, production, are not dependent entirely upon the chemical composition of soils. Other factors are involved, and these often come noticeably into play. With your permission, I shall take this opportunity to point out briefly some of these factors which influence the growth of plants. I should like to give data and experimental evidence in support of the facts I present, but this not possible in a brief paper. I can merely point out to you a few of the more outstanding facts that have been discovered in the last few years, and my hope is that you may find these discoveries not only of interest, but that you may find in them some suggestions which will prove of use as well.

In my recent paper I emphasized the fact that it is not only necessary to have present in soil certain chemical substances in minimum quantities, but that these substances must be in available form. I pointed out, also, the importance of natural manures. By natural manures I mean not only the usual stable manures, but include in that term all forms of plant material such as cover crops plowed under and also all residues of dead vegetation. Manures furnish not only an ideal physical substratum for plant growth, but they contain also food materials, especially nitrogen, in quantity. This nitrogen, however, is largely in an unavailable form—that is, in a form that cannot be used directly by plants. The nitrogen in manures must be changed from its organic, unavailable form into an available form.

This change is brought about by means of smal living organisms known as bacteria. These forms live in the soil. There are frequently from 30 to 100 millions of them in one gram of soil. This little army of workers is constantly at work transforming the organic materials into other forms, and, curiously enough, there is involved a high degree of specialization of labor. One group of organisms carries out the first step in the process, a second group another step, and still a third carries the process to final completion. With the work of this little army of bacteria the growing plant is intimately bound up. In fact, the whole existence of the plant is dependent upon it, for it is this little army of workers which transforms manures into nitrates., which are essential for the growth of the plant. There is a distinct relationship then between bacterial activity and the productiveness of soil.

Let me impress upon you that the soil bacteria are living forms. As living forms, they demand, as do our green plants, certain favorable conditions for growth and for their activities. These little organisms will not thrive in a wet soil. Neither will they thrive in a soil which is acid in reaction, and they, too, have their preferences for a certain degree of warmth. Under unfavorable conditions not only will they not thrive, but, curiously enough, their activities are displaced by the work of bacteria which are a detriment. These detrimental forms do not form nitrates; instead, they actually destroy the nitrates which were manufactured by the useful forms. It is quite evident then that in growing plants we must keep soil conditions favorable for the nitrogen bacteria. Whatever affects injuriously the nitrogen bacteria affects in a similar way the growth of the plant. The two are intimately related in their activities. When conditions are such that the nitrate bacteria thrive and multiply we have reasonable assurance that the organic materials in the soil are being transformed and that the plant receives an adequate supply of nitrate.

SOIL SICKNESS.

Let me call to your attention still another factor operating in soils. I mentioned the group of organisms, the several forms of which are useful in that they decompose the organic nitrogenous manures in the soil and form available nitrogen compounds which the plant requires. I have stated also that there is a second group which, when conditions are unfavorable for the activities of the useful forms, thrive and become harmful because they undo the work of the useful forms. There is still a third group which appears to be of great importance. Frequently we meet with a situation in which apparently the soil contains abundant food materials and these food materials are in available form, and, furthermore, other conditions, such as temperature and moisture, are undoubtedly favorable to growth. But, after a period of time, our plants fail to respond under these favorable conditions and productiveness decreases. Such a phenomenon, commonly known as soil sickness, is probably of most frequent occurrence in greenhouses. How can we explain this anomalous situation? It is believed, and we have much evidence for our belief, that the soil harbors a third group of organisms which, although they do not affect directly plant growth, they are harmful indirectly in that they apparently destroy the useful forms while they themselves multiply rapidly. In other words, so-called sick soils are sick not because there is a lack of plant food materials, or because there is acidity or possibly even because the temperature or moisture conditions are unfavorable, but because there is an unbalanced condition in the bacterial life of the soil. The useful workers, those which produce available food are in minority, while the non-producers, the parasites in the soil world, are in majority.

This is not fiction. Although many of the details still need solution, the essential facts are based upon scientific experiment. To give you all the evidence is not possible, for it is a long story; permit me to say only that if such sick soils are patrially sterilized with heat, or if treated with disinfectants, as carbon bisulfide or toluene, the productive properties of the soil reappear. Apparently, this is because the harmful forms are more susceptible to these treatments than are the useful forms, and, consequently, on the application of disinfectants, the parasitic forms are destroyed while the useful workers again multiply and carry on their productive work. Under natural conditions, that is, under conditions out-of-doors, so-called soil sickness is less conspicuous and probably of less frequent occurrence. This is probably due to the fact that out-of-doors the soil is subjected to more variable conditions such as changes of temperature and changes of moisture content. Outdoor soils are subjected to heavy freezing during the winter months, also to heavy, drenching rains periodically thruout most of the year, which is not the case in the greenhouse. Because of the latter fact, the so-called "water-cure" for sick soils has recently been advocated, based on the assumption that soil sickness is brought about by the accumulation of salts near the soil surface. The latter assumption is not justifiable in all cases, however, for soil sickness seems to occur in greenhouses during the winter months, when soil evaporation is not great and certainly but little concentration of the salts near the surface occurs. However, whatever the underlying causes may be, the water cure may be effective in some cases.

Soil sickness, although more conspicuous and also apparently of more frequent occurrence in greenhouses, is found also out-of-doors. Cases of soil sickness of field soils have been reported and some have been carefully investigated. These experiments have shown two important facts—first, that there is in sick soils a reduction in number of the useful bacteria, and, secondly that the presence of large amounts of organic materials in soil favors soil sickness. The theory often has been advanced that soil sickness is due to the accumulation of toxic or poisonous substances in the soil. Some investigations seem to have shown that the decomposition of the organic material in soils results in products which exert harmful effects upon succeeding generations of the same, or of different, plants. Others have given some evidence that the plant itself excretes into soil substances which are injurious to suceeding crops. Whether these views are correct is not known. At present the experimental data and the resulting conclusions concerning soil toxins are not yet accepted without question by all investigators and students of the problems of soil productivity. There is much evidence which apparently shows that soil toxins are not involved, but, as pointed out above, that the detrimental factor is a biological one—that is, a living organism. We find justification for this view in the fact that when partial sterilization by means of heat is resorted to, or when certain disinfectants are applied, the detrimental factor disappears and the productive powers of the soil reappear. In a short time after this treatment, the useful bacteria increase rapidly in number. If a small amount of untreated soil is added to the treated soil, in a few weeks there is again a reduction in number of these bacteria. In other words, this evidence seems to show that whatever the harmful factor may be, it is, presumably, living or biological in character.

The treatment of soils by means of disinfectants must now be extensively investigated in our greenhouses. It is not unlikely that in course of time, as our studies continue, we will be able to find a definite treatment for the so-called sick soils, and it, too, is not unlikely that in the application of the above principles we will find a solution of the problem of the ill effects resulting from the continued use of soils in our benches. At the present time the outstanding fact of these discoveries is that the soil medium, in which our greenhouse plants grow, is not a simple dead material, but a living world in itself, inhabited by different groups of organisms, some essential, others destructive. This implies that in the treatment of soils the problem is not only one of the application of proper fertilizers, but one much greater and more difficult. It is the establishmet of the proper balance in the populations of the various forms of soil inhabitants, and, at the same time, the maintenance of proper soil conditions for the activities of the useful groups. In other words, the soil is a complex of many factors, some useful, some indifferent, others harmful. Some of these are by nature living organisms and, therefore, a mere quantitative chemical analysis of soils is not a true index of the productive power of the soil.

PLANTS SENSITIVE TO LIGHT.

There is still another line of thought I wish to present. I have pointed out the intimate relation that exists between plant growth and nutrients in the soil, on the one hand, and the important relation between these nutrients and the soil bacteria on the other. The plant also is intimately bound up with the various factors which make up its aereal environment, that is, with the various conditions above soils. The plant is a living organism. As such, it is responsive to the various factors of the environment to a marked degree. I need only recall such examples as the mimosa, commonly called the sensitive plant. This plant is truly sensitive, responding to the slightest touch by closing its leaflets. The common dandelion opens its flowers only in light; the crocus, on the other hand, disregards light and refuses to open its flowers unless there is a certain degree of warmth. The opening and closing of the crocus flower is a direct response to temperature. We all agree that the human eye is very sensitive to light, yet some seedling plants will respond to a flicker of light which the human eye cannot detect.

The plant is equally sensitive to poisons. Let me illustrate this by means of the sweet pea seedling. If we expose such seedling to an atmosphere which contains cigar smoke there will be a definite reaction. In an atmosphere which contains 1,000 parts of cigar smoke to one million parts of air, the seedling will respond in three ways—the tip of the stem will grow at right angles, just below the tip the stem is much enlarged, and the stem as a whole is shorter than one growing in pure air. If we have an atmosphere which contains 5,000 parts of smoke per one million of atmosphere, elongation of the stem stops completely. I am not advocating that plant growers should not smoke when working with plants; neither am I in sympathy with any anti-smoking league. I am citing these facts merly as examples of the sensitiveness of plants.

Let me illustrate again by means of illuminating gas. Flowers and buds of carnations are extremely sensitive to this gas in the air. One part of illuminating gas in 40,000 parts of air will kill young buds in three days, and the same amount will prevent the opening of those which show color of the petals. Carnation flowers close after an exposure of 12 hours to one part of illuminating gas in 80,000 parts of air. And yet, some of your customers wonder why the flowers which they purchased only yesterday from the florist did not keep better! One part of illuminating gas in 1,000 parts of air will cause the leaves of salvia, tomato, hibiscus and other plants to fall. In order to detect illuminating gas by the sense of smell, at least one part to 400 parts of air must be present. One of the constituents of illuminating gas is ethylene. One part of ethylene in one million parts of air prevents opening of carnation buds after three days, and one part in two million causes mature flowers to close in 12 hours. The sweet pea seedling will stop growing entirely when the air contains one part of ethylene in 10 million parts of atmosphere. In fact, a sweet pea seedling grown in the dark will detect traces of ethylene that we cannot detect by means of the most delicate chemical tests.

What do these facts and illustrations indicate? They indicate that the plant, because of its extreme sensitiveness, is frequently subjected to conditions of the air which do not permit maximum growth. It need not be a poisonous substance; it may be an unfavorable condition of light, or temperature or of humidity. In other words, the soil may contain abundant plant food materials and these in available form; the soil may also contain the proper organisms in adequate numbers and yet the plant fail to respond as it should. It fails to respond possibly because of some unfavorable factor as temperature, or of moisture in the air, or of light or of a peculiar combination of these which prevents the best growth.

It is often very difficult to analyze a situation and determine what is at fault. Unfortunately, we have not yet been able to determine definite symptoms for each individual condition. In course of time we shall know more about each case. Until we do, it is necessary that each grower give his particular kind of plant the attention that is deserving a highly sensitive organism, remembering always that whatever troubles may appear may find their solution in a careful adjustment of both soil and air conditions to the needs of the plant.

KANSAS CITY, MO.—Samuel Murray reports Easter business the best on record, with prices 30 per cent less than a year ago, sales increased 50 per cent. The greatest demand was for lilies.

Dahlias of the Past, Present and Future.

There are a number of people who hardly realize the progress the dahlia is making among the flower loving public. There is a reason for this. See what a wonderful display of blooms can be had with a limited amount of expense and attention, not only in the humble gardens, but in the grounds surrounding palatial homes, as a bordering, with shrubbery as a background.

One of the attractions in the Bronx park, New York, the past season, was the dahlia borders. They were there in full variety, carefully grown, staked and plainly labeled, and were well looked after by the curator. A constant stream of visitors was there admiring them, taking down names and notes of color and variety. Many a list was carried away to be heard from by someone in the near future. Any person with ordinary intelligence can grow dahlias as they saw them growing in Bronx park. It was virtually a trial ground, with good results under fair culture, and any variety doing well there and with the same treatment, would be 99 per cent good anywhere.

The writer replied to a published article by a grower of other flowers a week or two ago who wanted dealers to cut the dahlia out at a certain period, so that other flowers could have full swing in the market. He will find upon examination that the majority are gladly handling good dahlias whenever they can procure them, and are requesting the growers to grow such types that will stand carriage, etc., with good keeping qualities, one or two types of which were shown at the last New York show. The aim of some of the best breeders is to produce this class of blooms.

INTEREST AROUSED BY SHOWS.

One of the largest wholesale houses that handles dahlias in quantities, possibly more than any other in the country, writes as follows: "I do not know of anything that promotes the growing and love of flowers in the garden, especially the dahlias by the amateur more than the shows and the distribution of well-grown flowers among the people."

You and others are aware that this firm has done a great deal in the last 10 years to promote the use of dahlias as a cut flower. The success we have met with has been gratifying and we feel ourselves well rewarded for our efforts. When we consider the dahlias that we sold eight or 10 years ago and compare them with what we are doing now, both in quality and volume, we do not think that progress has been exceeded in any other floriculture endeavors. It must be very gratifying to the American Dahlia Society that the exhibition the past year was such an enormous success and if continued along the lines started, greater success can be looked for, both in the production of better commercial and all-around flowers, and more of the types that can be used commercially will also give greater satisfaction to the amateur.

OHIO DISTRICT.

We had two very successful organization meetings of the Ohio District of the National Flower Growers' Association on March 31 at Hotel Ohio in Youngstown and on April 7 at the Waldorf hotel in Toledo. In both cities 95 per cent of the attendance signed application blanks for membership and the balance signfied their intention so to do as soon as they consulted absent associates. Altogether, owners of between 500,000 and 600,000 square feet of glass signed, and handed in their application blanks for membership. Meetings also were held in Springfield and Dayton on April 12 and in Cincinnati, April 13. J. Fred Ammann, Edwardsville, Ill., secretary of the national organization, attended the latter meetings.

It is expected that sessions of the Ohio District will be held in the near future at Canton and Cleveland.

BUSINESS VERY UNSATISFACTORY.

The weather has been unseasonably warm and stock of all kinds flooded the market with a demand that could do no more than use the best, while the balance kept accumulating until the end of the week, when the street boys had their inning. Nearly all the stores held a week-end special sale of roses, but even then there was a surplus left. The supply of American Beauties is on the increase, and by making price concessions the most of them were cleaned up daily. The carnation supply has been the largest in years, and about three-fourths of the stock has run to white, which with a shortage of funeral work, caused a glut that could not be moved at any price, and it has been many a day since carnations were offered as cheap as they have been the past week. Another item that suffered was sweet peas. The most of them arrived in poor condition due to the warm weather and were not fit to send out; consequently thousands of them were dumped. The supply of Calla lilies is also too large, while Easter lilies were a little short of demand. Lily of the Valley, orchids and snapdragons were the best property of the week, as they cleaned up daily at list prices. The supply of bulbous stock is about over, with the exception of out-door stock, and from present indications that will not last very long. From the growers' standpoint it has been a most unsatisfactory week, but here is hoping that the worst is over and that stock will tighten up some, with a better demand from now on.

The Late John S. Stuart.

The Retail Florists' Association held their regular monthly meeting Thursday evening, April 7, at the Seventh Avenue Hotel with a good attendance. In the absence of President Harper, whose mother was very ill, G. P. Weaklen was in the chair. "Advertising" was the subject, and Mr. Clark of the Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co. gave a very interesting talk on "Advertising of Thirty Years Ago." He declared that B. F. Elliott was the pioneer advertiser in this district, and gave A. W. Smith, Jr., credit for the success of The A. W. Smith Flower Stores Co. through his advertising At the close of Mr. Clark's talk, the Association voted to place a wreath on the grave of Mr. Elliott on the anniverary of his death each year in honor of the good he had done the trade by his publicity, when no one else in the trade could see the use of it.

E. J. McCallum of The McCallum Co. has just returned from a business trip to New York. He reports that things look brighter in the east, especially in the silk market.

OBITUARY.

Willis E. Hamilton.

Willis E. Hamilton, pioneer florist of Waldo County, died at his home in Belfast, Me., March 9, 1921. Never in robust health, his last sickness dated from a severe cold last October. He was born in Swansville, Me., March 22, 1857, and had lived in Belfast 40 years, conducting the only florists' business in that city for 30 years, being ably assisted by his wife. Mr. Hamilton was the originator of the Belfast chrysanthemum, probably the latest flower in variety, extant. Loved by all, he was a kindly, courteous, Christian gentleman whose honorable business methods and sterling integrity will long be remembered by all who knew him.

Mrs. Hamilton, his wife, a son Everett L., and a daughter, Mrs. Clara Seekins, who will carry on the business under the old firm name, survive him.

John S. Stuart.

John S. Stuart, age 71 years, a florist and a member of the firm of John S. Stuart & Son, Anderson, Ind., died April 10, at the home of his family in that city, following an ilness of several weeks. He was a native of North Carolina, but he had lived in Indiana for more than 50 years. He was a resident of Richmond before settling in Madison county 30 years ago. He was a former president of the State Florists' Association of Indiana. A widow and one son, Edgar Stuart, survive.

Charles Johnson.

Charles Johnson, of Marietta, Pa., for many years American representative of Denaiffe & Son, French seed growers, died March 29. He became ill three weeks previous and was taken for treatment to a local hospital, where he died. The funeral was held from the home of his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Henry Johnson, April 2, with interment in the Marietta cemetery.

DENISON, IA.—Two houses, consisting of 7,000 feet of glass, for which contracts have been let, will be built by Owen Rumble.

DENVER, COLO.—Chas. F. Edgar, formerly traveling representative for the McCallum Co., Pittsburgh, Pa., is now manager of the Alpha Floral Co., 432 East Sixteenth street.

GREENVILLE, S. C.—The Mauldin Floral Co. reports the most satisfactory Easter business in its history, everything selling out clean. The stock (all home grown) included roses, carnations, cyclamens, callas, primulas, tulips, hyacinths, narcissi, 2,500 lilies in pots and 7,000 sweet peas.

THE Florists' Hail Association has paid nearly $50,000 for glass breakage since August last.

ALBINO is regarded by European growers as a good pure white forcing tulip, with long stems.

THE council of Ottawa, Can., board of trade recently adopted a resolution urging a ban on luxuries imported from the United States, and the purchase of everything possible of Canadian product and manufacture, until the rate of exchange gets back to normal.

THE address of Dr. P. A. Lehenbauer of the Department of Floriculture, University of Illinois, before the Chicago Florists' Club, on soils, bacteria and atmosphere in their relation to plants, which appears elsewhere in this issue, will be found intensely interesting to all growers.

Chrysanthemum Misnamed.

Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich., call attention to another chrysanthemum advertised as Chicago White, which was introduced by them as Winnetka in 1914.

German Potash.

An agreement with a German syndicate whereby American potash importers will obtain a rebate in potash equal to 45 per cent of their purchases, was announced recently by the Department of Commerce. The agreement means delivery of more than $2,000,000 worth of additional potash to those American importers who bought German potash during the season ending March 31, American importers perfected an agreement with the kali syndicate through the State Department, and will be entitled to the rebate on condition that they take 80 per cent of their requirements for the next five years from the German syndicate.

Steel Prices Down.

Reduction in the price of steel ranging from $1.50 to $9 a ton for various kinds of steel, up to as much as $15 a ton for tin plate, is announced by Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the board of the United States Steel Corporation. Industrially, this announcement is of greatest importance, as the price of steel products is regarded as a guide in commercial circles. The statement said the action was taken after consultation with the presidents of the various subsidiary companies, who were called to New York. The reduction takes effect immediately. The decreases, however, are confined to certain products only, it being stated that a reduction on tubular products and sheets will be announced later, probably within the next two weeks, as the matter of adjustment in regard to these products has not as yet been definitely decided upon.

Necessity of Constant Advertising.

The growers are realizing the good of national publicity as well as local advertising, but the craft generally have not awakened to the fact that business is slipping back, and unless we fill up the coffers of the campaign fund, the florists' business is going to go back as well as all other lines. In many sections it is very noticeable already and many are asking how can I increase my volume. One of the answers is to advertise locally, and the other is to see that the national campaign gets going before we lose the advantage of our previous advertisements in the national magazines.

Advertising is a sales insurance. It helps speed up. It makes us speed up and helps us to climb higher. As Albert E. Lyons so well expressed it: "The higher you go, the more room you will find. The space below is crowded and many a man is mistaking lack of ability for lack of opportunity. You will be sure to find the opportunity when you are able to grasp it. Nogody is monopolizing that vast field of opportunity just over the heads of the crowd—it is open to all comers—it is waiting to be occupied. The way is clear, climb high."

Does it not make you think that after all we started something towards the higher up idea and that we should continue? Well, the growers have begun to do things. May they succeed to the fullest extent. The co-operative movements have also started. May they, too, continue to further success to the end that all may see the needs and the good that applied advertising will do to help more people enjoy more flowers. And those directly interested will get better results generally. Henry O. Havemeyer once said: "Business men fail because there are a lot of them who are fools. We are all born fools but some of us educate ourselves out of it." Let us take example by looking at other lines of business and why they have succeeded, then ask ourselves what have we omitted that they have continued, and your answer will explain the problem.

HENRY PENN, Chairman,
National Publicity Committee.

American Orchid Society.

The American Orchid Society is a new name in the bright lexicon of horticulture, but we make bold to predict that it will soon become a familiar one. A number of orchid growers and fanciers met in Horticultural hall, Boston, Mass., on the evening of April 7, the Flower Show having brought them together, and the above named society is the result.

Albert C. Burrage, already president of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society, was elected president of the new organization. He has an established reputation as an orchid expert and fancier and is believed to own the finest collection in this country. The vice-presidents are Clement Moore, T. H. Wickwire, Jr., Buffalo, N. Y., and C. R. Dane, Boston. A. J. Lovless, Lenox, Mass., is secretary and Louis Burke, Philadelphia, Pa., is treasurer.

A board of trustees was elected as follows: Joseph Manda, West Orange, N. J.; George E. Baldwin, N. Y.; Oliver Lines, Lenox, Mass.; John E. Lager, Summit, N. J.; Edwin S. Webster, Boston; Thomas Roland, Nahant, Mass.; Edward Roehrs, Rutherford, N. J., and Oakes Ames, North Easton, Mass.

It is expected that this Society will include horticulturists, scientists, amateurs and lovers of flowering plants, and particularly those who love the orchid. The aim and purpose of the organization is comprehensively stated as to "aid in every way possible the importation and improvement by cultivation and hybridization of exotic orchids: the preservation and perpetuation of native orchids; the dissemination by exhibitions, lectures and publication of useful information concerning orchids, and the extension of knowledge, production, use and love of these beautiful flowers."

Vaccinated With Flowers.

A number of years ago it occurred to Sir Almroth Wright, the originator of the anti-typhoid vaccine, that it might be possible to develop immunity to hay fever by an inoculation process. Experiments were therefore conducted, in which the pollen of plants was used as a preventive agent. As some pollens are noxious, an obvious expedient is the preparation of extracts of these pollens to be used hypodermically in small but increasing doses, to develop tolerance. This has now become an established practice in preventive medicine, and in many cases the results are gratifying.

Personal.

W. C. Egan, well known horticulturist of Highland Park, Ill., and former secretary of the Horticultural Society of Chicago, celebrated the eightieth anniversary of his birthday April 1.

Frank D. Pelicano, San Francisco, Calif., who has been spending a few weeks at Byron Hot Springs, is reported much improved in health and expects to return home this week.

BUSINESS IN GOOD CONDITION.

There has been a let-down since Easter's phenomenal demand, but a healthy and encouraging call for flowers and plants is still being noted. Funeral work has been constant and there has been a noticeable increase in wedding decorations. The trade is pushing the sale of flower and vegetable seeds and fertilizers, because they are beginning to realize that this is a profitable side line, if it can be called such. The weather has been mild, and stock of all kinds is plentiful and lower in price. Since April 9, however, it has been much colder. Roses have been very plentiful, the quality excellent and the prices the lowest in months. All other stock such as carnations, sweet peas, jonquils, tulips and lily of the valley is sufficient for all demands. Darwin tulips are now on the market, though in limited quantities, and enjoy a ready sale. Other seasonable pot plants are in fair demand for the sick and for the home.

SOME IMPROVEMENT IN THE MARKET

There was some improvement in the market conditions the opening of this week but prices are not anywhere near what they should be. Several of the leading department stores had special sales on roses and carnations April 9, one house offering them as low as 12 cents per dozen. Stock was exceptionally plentiful all last week and it was a question of who could give the best stock for the least money in order to dispose of it. There was some great slaughtering done in order to move the stock that had accumulated all during the week but a large portion of it was moved owing to the fact that the department stores were anxious to secure all the stock obtainable, especially where prices were exceedingly low. The cold weather April 10 checked stock a trifle and while prices advanced somewhat and the market was cleaned up better the opening of this week there is much room for improvement. American Beauty roses are in good supply and are moving fairly well considering the large amount of other stock available. Roses are selling better than they have been with Columbia, Premier and Mrs. Chas. Russell having the best call. Carnations are in good supply and are in fair demand. Callas and lilies are seen in quantity at several of the stores. Daisies, snapdragons, jonquils, stocks, mignonette, calendulas, tulips, candytuft, lupines and all other miscellaneous seasonable cut flowers are included in the offerings. Some of the wholesale houses which have refrained from selling stock to the department stores for several years broke the ice this week and joined the scramble to unload while the buying was rife, figuring that the damage, if any, to the market had already been done and that they might just as well realize a few dollars in return for their growers as dump the stock in the barrel.

NOTES.

Henry Neve of Des Plaines is offering his range of 14,000 square feet of glass for sale. He has purchased some land at Park Ridge and is planning on building several new houses in the near future.

Kroeschell Bros. Co. have the order for four high pressure steam boilers, each 350 horse power, for the new Federal Reserve bank building on La Salle and Jackson streets.

C. S. Claussen said April 9 that he had three acres of gladioli already planted at Wichert.

Do not take any fake or imitation thread, claimed to be the Meyer silkaline, or smilax threads. Be sure the name Meyer is on the end of each spool, as we find there are a lot of fake brands being put on the market to imitate our green florists' thread. Weigh up our threads and then weigh up the other parties' that you are buying from and you will notice that our threads run full two ounces of thread to the spool. Be sure and get the Meyer thread.

Growers attending the last meeting of the Florists' Club at the Hotel Randolph were greatly impressed with the new white carnation Joy exhibited by the American Bulb Co., and artistically arranged in a basket by Schiller's. It is an exceptionally good keeper and one of the local firms who is growing it on trial is well pleased with the results obtained the past season. It will be quite a factor in the local market in a few years.

J. A. G. Johnson, of Johnson & Chronis, is a regular auto fan. He has just purchased a new Paige touring car and White roadster. He uses the Paige in the morning and the White in the afternoon.

At A. L. Vaughan & Co.'s store the shipping trade has shown a marked improvement this week and the local demand is considerably better.

Zech & Mann are receiving a large quantity of fancy sweet peas this week. Roses are in good supply at this house, and so are lilies and callas.

The Joseph Foerster Co. is moving a large supply of fine sweet peas in addition to its usual complete line of stock.

The Weiland-Risch Co. is cutting exceptionally fine lilies, especially Formosum carrying six to 15 flowers. Vaughan's Seed Store supplied the bulbs and received a sample of the stock April 7, which was later exhibited at the Florists' Club meeting, where it attracted much favorable attention. Ed. Goldenstein of Vaughan's Seed Store presented the exhibit to Mayor Thompson.

Poehlmann Bros. Co. is pleased with the quality of the carnations that it is cutting and the store force takes great delight in calling the attention of it to the customers. The new white carnation Joy that is measuring up to the test at the firm's greenhouses at Morton Grove is worth any grower's investigation.

At the Peter Reinberg greenhouses the demand is exceptionally strong for young stock, according to Peter Showboe, who adds that the chrysanthemums and pompons are already disposed of.

John Furrow and wife, of Guthrie, Okla., were in the city this week on business connected with the opening of Furrow & Co.'s new retail store at Oklahoma City, May 1.

C. L. Washburn says that business has improved considerably at Bassett & Washburn's store this week, especially as far as the shipping demand is concerned.

J. A. Budlong Co. is having a good call for lupines, which is only one of the many novelties included in the shipments to this house.

Wietor Bros. are cutting a fine supply of roses and carnations. The demand for stock is much better at this establishment this week.

The Chicago Flower Growers' Association reports a great improvement in trade this week with a heavier demand for roses.

Initial figures on the recent glass loss of Bassett & Washburn by hail place it at 110,000 square feet.

Vaughan's Seed Store reports good continuing demand for gladioli, including the best named kinds.

MILWAUKEE, WIS.—Fox's Inc. report that the volume of trade for Easter was the same as a year ago, with a slight decline in prices. There was a fine demand for medium priced plants, while the higher priced stock did not move so readily. The call for spring flowers was excellent. The supply in both cut flowers and plants was ample for all purposes.

HEAVY SUPPLY GLUTS MARKET

Business has been unusually slow during the fore part of the week but has stiffened up a bit during the last few days and some fairly lively trade has been carried on. Street merchants did a rushing business the first part of the week but the cold snap experienced during the last few days put a decided damper on their sales and flowers sold at a loss. This is true of the other florists as well. The market in general is glutted, and the more common stock has sold at a loss. Roses are plentiful and the demand is only fair. Premier, Mrs. Chas. Russell, Ophelia, Ward, Butterfly and Killarney are the leaders. Short stemed carnations are more than plentiful. Carnations of extra good quality are scarce and brought a fair price. The market was very short on dark red varieties. Short stemmed sweet peas are in oversupply, with very ltle demand. Good long-stemmed varieties brought fair prices. Their chief use has been in corsage bouquets. After Easter lilies are plentiful; the demand is not brisk. The same may be said of callas but they have been in a greater general demand; many being used for funeral work and table use. Roman hyacinths are not to be had at any price, either as a cut flower or as a pot plant. Some very fine stocks are coming in now and sell very well. Their quality is excellent as they are much used in table decorations. The demand for snapdragons is good and the supply on hand is ample to meet the demand. Pink and white varieties are most commonly seen. Calendulas of exceptional size and quality are among these offerings and are to be had for a song. Their demand for basket work is fairly good. Tulips of the common varietes are more numerous than grass blades and are selling at a loss. Pot plants are about gone. Darwin tulips are holding up fairly well and the demand continues brisk. Some fine double varieties are coming in now but are not selling at all. Jonquils are plentiful and surprising enough, the call for them is good. Narcissus poeticus are few and far between and are on the decrease. The demand for mignonettes is exceptional but there is none on the market at present. The supply of both white and yellow daisies is increasing with surprising rapidity and they sell well. Their use as a table ornament has become widespread and many are being used for that purpose. Spanish iris is very limited as to supply. The demand is good but production has been seriously hurt by the cold of the past few days. Lily of the valley is commonly seen and good stock is wholesaling at from $6 to $8 per hundred. There are no violets to be had as they are out of season. Cattleya orchids are again very plentiful and their use as a corsage flower has made their demand exceptional. Larkspur both blue and pink varieties are coming in and they are bringing some very fancy prices. The demand for it is unusually great as this is the season's first. The spikes are very long and the flowers large. No primroses or cinerarias are seen on the market. Calceolarias of fine quality and size are displayed in many windows. They sell well. Baby primroses both pink and white varieties are being sold for house plants and they are in good demand. There are no more lilacs on the market as they were entirely destroyed by the last frost. Hydrangeas of fine size and quality are plentiful but there is little call for them. The same may be said of genistas. Bulbous pot plants are fast becoming scarce. Pansy plants in very ornamental boxes are sold, generally speaking, all over the city and the demand is good, considering the lateness of the season. Novelties such as pandanus, dracaenas, cibotium ferns and caladiums show no change in price and are to be had at all establishments. Some fine blooming geraniums and agerantum plants are seen. Their demand is good. Greens are very plentiful this week but in spite of this fact, asparagus plumosus and sprengeri show little change in price. Ferns are plentiful. It is expected that business activity will increase during the coming week.

NOTES.

Mrs. Klanger, wife of Mr. Klanger, of the well-known firm of Grimm & Gorly, is sick in the Missouri Baptist hospital. Mrs. Klanger has undergone a very serious operation but is recovering rapidly and will leave for her home in the near future, it is hoped. Her many friends anxiously await her home-coming.

Extensive decorations at the city hall by Grimm & Gorly is attracting much attention. The work was under the direction of Mr. Harvey, designer for this concern.

The "Say It With Flowers" Bowling league held a meeting April 8 to discuss plans for the coming tournament to be held at the West End Rowing Club.

A very attractive spring window is seen at the Fred C. Walker Floral Co., the main feature of which are jonquils with a background of dark red roses.

F. H. Weber has some fine specimen plants of calceolarias displayed most artistically with plants of baby primroses and delphiniums.

The Bourdet Floral Co. is offering some very choice geraniums and hydrangeas at exceptional prices.

The Windler Wholesale Floral Co. has been doing a good businss in high grade roses and carnations.

TRADE FAIRLY ACTIVE.

There was a rather quiet demand for flowers of all kinds the past week, although a considerable volume of business was done. Stock moved fairly well and the supply was adequate for all purposes. Roses, carnations, sweet peas, Easter lilies and snapdragons were the principal varieties Prices were maintained at former levels, and there was no tendency to cut. Funerals were rather quiet, and the same is true of social affairs. Corsages were the best feature, although there were some loose flowers disposed of. Orders were almost up to previous records as far as number is concerned, but are falling short on volume. Plants are still in demand, but the supply is limited. Lilies and primroses are the chief plants now offered for sale. Active preparations are being made for Mother's day. The importance of this day has been growing year by year, and the coming occasion is expected to be the best in years.

The Columbus Recreation department held its annual sale of fruit trees, bulbs, vines, shade trees and shrubs April 5, with a large number of buyers. Among the fruit trees sold were peach, dwarf pear, cherry and apple. Bulbs sold consisted of Maderia vines, gladioli and dahlias. Botsch ivy and honeysuckle vines were also disposed of in large numbers. Various shrubs and shade trees were also included in this sale.

TRADE GOOD AFTER HOLIDAY RUSH.

Since Easter, trade has been going along in a way that is satisfactory to all. As is usually the case at this season of the year, there has been a decided increase in the supply of nearly all classes of flowers. Roses in particular are coming in more freely now than at any time during the season. Very little decline in prices is yet noted, however, due to the healthy demand. Ulrich Brunner has been added to the rose list. This stock is grown out of doors and as yet is somewhat short-stemmed. Gradual improvement may be looked for from this time forward, until this rose resumes its place as one of the most popular varieties for the spring and summer trade. American Beauties are quite plentiful and find a ready market with no change in prices quoted last week. All other varieties are now of the best spring quality, with a generous supply. Cecile Brunner is also becoming plentiful and is very largely in demand for corsage work. There is now a heavy cut of all varieties of carnations and with the exception of Laddie all show a marked decline in price. Sweet peas are now coming in freely and much outdoor grown stock is being offered. Prices have dropped to $1.50 per dozen bunches. Every color is now obtainable in good quantity. There is a strong demand for lily of the valley reported by all the retailers. Wholesale prices range from $8 to $10 per 100 for the best stock. Violets continue plentiful with no change in price. The shipping demand is reported to have fallen off to a great extent. There is an ample cut of lilies of every grade. Long-stemmed stock remains firm in price. Peonies, both pink and white, continue to arrive in limited lots and are quickly disposed of. Tulips are still plentiful, but other bulbous stock is getting scarce. Daffodils are about over for the season. Very few freesias are in the market this week. Iris arrivals have shown a large increase and bring low figures. Cattleyas are now a little more plentiful than for some weeks, but at that the supply falls short of the demand. Gardenias are in much favor and the limited arrivals are holding up well in price. A fine lot of lilac is being received this season. Reasonable prices are being asked for this flower by the wholesalers. Flowering fruit blossoms still continue in most favor with the buying public and are largely carried by all the stores. Spring flowering shrubs are beginning to arrive and add to the variety of stock offered. Whatever stock of rambler roses that were not sold at Easter were cleaned up during the week. Many of the stores have excellent displays of first class white azaleas. A few rhododendrons continue to arrive. Pot grown ericas are getting scare, as the season for them is pretty well advanced. Some excellent genistas are arriving, many of them trained standards and globe-shaped. There is a noticeable increase in the demand for foliage plants, nearly all varieties sharing in this movement. Nephrolepis continues to be in the lead. The green market is in good condition, as there is a fine supply of all items, with a good demand.

NOTES.

A law has just been passed by the legislature of this state making it a misdemeanor to cut the berries of the red berry tree, or Heteromeles arbutifolia, in its native habitat or offer it for sale. The ruthless destruction of this beautiful native shrub at Christmas time is given as the reason for the passage of this law. The California Wild Flower Conservation League was the sponsor for this new law. This will mean that stock offered next Christmas must be procured from private owners and with their permission. The Christmas supply in the future will be affected by this new law, as enormous quantities of these berries are handled every year by the dealers in green goods.

The Chamber of Commerce will devote its next issue of "San Francisco Business," the official magazine of the organization, to the floral industry of this city and vicinity. Both the retail and the growing end of the trade are to be exploited by this association and will no doubt be of great benefit to the business. The thanks of the trade are due to Angelo J. Rossi, for it was through his efforts that the Chamber of Commerce decided to give this importance to the floral industry.

The new wholesale market committee of the Retail Florists' Association met with a large delegation of growers at the store of Podesta & Baldocchi, April 1, to hear futrher reports on the new market. Much enthusiasm was expressed by those present over the project, and also in regard to the progress already made in that direction. As yet the site of the market has not been decided upon definitely, as the present plans contemplate some changes over those originally outlined.

The exhibition committee of the Retail Florists' Association met with the same committee of the Pacific Coast Horticultural Society, April 8, at the offices of the Art Floral Company. The committeee announced that it had secured the Civic auditorium for the fall show. This is one of the largest and finest exhibition halls in this section, and it is a most suitable place for the proposed floral show.

The Dahlia Society of California is going ahead with its plans for its annual show next September. The schedule of prizes is almost ready for distribution. Secretary F. C. Burns says the premium list will be larger than last season.

Reports from the bulb-growing section, Santa Cruz county, indicate that the gladioli crop is making a splendid growth owing to favorable conditions, and a fine supply of cut blooms may be expected when the season opens up.

P. Conchi of Colma, who is our largest growr of Ulrich Brunner roses, reports his plants as being in splendid shape this season. He has 10 acres planted to this rose and dahlias, all of which is sent to this market.

J. A. Axell says his shipping trade for Easter was most satisfactory. The dmand for many items was heavier than the supply, especially pot-grown lilies and roses.

Joseph Bunyard has resigned as head designer at the Art Floral Co. He intends to enter the growing end of the business in the near future, specializing in gladioli.

A three-day floral festival will be held in Woodland, May 5-7. Growers of plants and cut flowers from this city will be invited to send exhibits.

The Menlo Park Horticultural Society held its regular meeting April 14. Prizes were awarded for varieties of spring flowers.

Eric James is sending in some fine pot-grown genistas. He reports his plant trade as having been much larger than last Easter.

The Suzanne Floral Co. has opened up a very attractive flower store on Mason street.

Frank D. Pelicano has returned from Byron Hot Springs greatly improved in health.

GOOD SUPPLY CLEANS UP SLOWLY.

The past week has not been very active with the supply of stock more than equal to the demand. Roses, carnations, violets and sweet peas are in profusion. After the rushing Easter trade society and wedding functions have taken a vacation for the time being. Everything looks promising for a good plant season. Warm weather has stimulated many to start their gardening. Saturday was bargain day with many of the trade. Violets and sweet peas sold at 50 cents per bunch. Roses of good quality sold reasonably.

NOTES.

The employees of S. A. Anderson had a party on April 6 at the Main street shop. Curtains were stretched across the front and there was dancing in the main store, refreshments being served in the work room. The event was also a birthday party for Miss Lindsay who was presented with an umbrella. All had a most enjoyable time and pronounce the place ideal for parties.

The Jos. H. Rebstock Co. has purchased a store in close proximity to his present establishment on Allen street.

Louis Newbeck, Jr., is very actively engaged in helping the disabled soldiers' campaign and is meeting with success.

Miss Edna Goebring, who was with S. A. Anderson for several years is back at the store again.

The new car purchased by Felton's House of Flowers adds much in advertising their store.

NO IMPROVEMENT IN MARKET.

The past week presented no improvement over the previous period except that the supply had fallen off considerably. The demand, however, was no better as under these conditions prices were very unstable, being very low to any one who could use a quantity. Everything due at this season is seen in profusion and of very good quality; roses are plentiful and in splendid shape. They are asking prices, but the buyer gets them at about his own figures. It is the same with carnations and in fact the whole line. Snapdragons sell well, as it is so decorative and is seen in all of the show windows. Callas are now in excess of the demand. One dealer who handles high grade stock stated that this week was the first that any stock was sold less than from $3 to $4 per dozen. The quantity of callas the market has absorbed the past season is wonderful, one reason is that when well grown they are of standard size the entire winter, which, with their lasting qualities, makes them especially valuable for all kinds of spray and design work. Belated Easter lilies are still coming in, as are daffodils from cool houses, but these latter find a very poor market. The daffodils have never, considering their quality, had a poorer demand than this winter. Sweet peas of all grades are plentiful and sell as well as anything on the list. Cattleyas hold up well, anything worth while bringing up to $1. There is also quite a demand for lily of the valley for wedding bouquets. Forced white lilac finds a good sale for the same purpose.

FLORISTS' CLUB MEETING.

There was a very good representation of rose growers at the April meeting to hear that eminent and practical rose grower, Anthony Ruzicka, Madison, N. J. The essay committee certainly made a hit in securing this rose specialist. He first read a prepared paper, an excellent essay which will be found in another column, but the most interesting of his remarks were those given at the close of his paper when President Campbell called on the audience to put their rose problems up to Mr. Ruzicka, who in his answers proved a veritable encyclopedia of everything pertaining to the rose and its culture. He spoke of the recent great advance in the introduction of new and valuable varieties, stating that such a display of fine roses as exhibited by the Florex Gardens that evening would not have been thought possible six years ago. In speaking of the popular varieties he stated that American Beauty, which had held the lead for so long, was undoubtedly losing prestige and going out. The reason for this was the competition of such varieties as Mrs. Chas. Russell, Columbia and Premier, whose flowers borne on long stems were fully as large as American Beauties and were available all the year round. Almost as good a quality was produced on stems half as long, which were preferred by florists over the extra long stems. Then there came the vital element of cost and production which greatly favored the newer teas over the American Beauty. Hadley and Premier he described as in the same class. Columbia did well everywhere. Dunlop was not making good although best in summer. Pilgrim has to be forced in its sale while Crusader only sells when there are no Hadleys. In preparing roses for market each city appeared to have a system of its own. The practice in New York was to pack in layers of 50 in boxes six inches deep, the flowers not being taken out except when sold. If not sold they are potted up and placed in the ice box in the afternoon. The bundle system of 25 rolled in paper, with the flowers exposed, as was in practice here and in Chicago, had its advantages in quick handling, but in New York they would want to see into the middle of the bunches. Boston, Mass., handled their roses in layers of 25, each layer covered with ice which he thought would be injurious to the flowers. On the merits of raised and solid benches, Mr. Ruzicka said their use depended on conditions. In the houses he had visited that day among the growers in this city, he had seen wonderful results with solid beds, while in his section around Madison, N. J., raised benches were almost universal. With them, raised benches over solid beds would give 25 per cent greater production during the winter months. He had seen stock carried for seven years in raised benches still producing splendidly. He did not believe it wise to try new systems unless thoroughly understood, for after all it is the brains and management and not the solid or raised beds that count. Of cedar or cement benches Mr. Ruzicka could not see much if any difference in growing results, but the cement has the advantage of lasting much longer. He believed there was an advantage in co-operative advertising as there were a number of instances where it had made very successful returns in both individual and co-operative campaigns. Every movement of this kind depended on the enthusiasm and work that was put into it. A florist club is what you make it; it is live if you make it so. Asked about short roses for Christmas he declared this was a difficult crop for the grower. When the chrysanthemums were in, there was little market for short roses, so they were pinched for Christmas, which incidentally gave a stronger and better plant and a sure crop of good flowers at the holidays, while without the pinching there was no certainty of a crop of any kind. Pinch Columbia for a crop when showing color, and when cutting, cut above the pinch and not below, as you then get a much better growth. For a bad dose of black spot the speaker recommended getting the house into a dormant condition and after a short rest, starting up again when the growth would all come clean. Never apply manure water to a dry bed of roses, first give a good watering and then it will be safe to apply the stimulant. From what he had observed that day he thought this city had a monopoly on Mrs. Chas. Russell as he had not seen it accomplished so well anywhere else.

larney, Dunlop and Mme. Butterfly, exhibited by the Florex Gardens, North Wales, were magnificent. The flowers were very large, of splendid color, borne on stems four to five feet in length. Myers & Samtmann, Chestnut Hill, also displayed a pink sport of Premier that looked promising. Six new names were added to the roll and three proposed for membership.

Anthony Ruzicka in speaking of the auto ride with the members of the trade among the rose growers that supply this market, said that he never enjoyed a tour of this kind so much or from which he felt more benefited, there being something new or different at each place, many of the establishments being up-to-date in every respect.

Edward J. Fancourt, on his return from the Boston rose and flower show, described the rose garden of Thos. Roland as the best ever staged in this country. The orchid display was superb. There were not as many cut roses as he expected and he was gratified that this city took so many prizes.

One of the large dealers said that while the past two weeks had been very unfavorable from a business standpoint he looked for an immediate change for the better as the glut of flowers was about over and demand and supply would be more evenly balanced.

J. A. Peterson, the cyclamen king of Cincinnati, O., was in town Monday and Tuesday, visiting the trade. His production last year was one and one quarter million seeds. This season he hopes to cross the two million mark.

Edward Reid led the homeward bound motor fleet from Florex Gardens, North Wales, on Tuesday last. He set a Premier pace that he said left no dust, and just a clear open road for the boys to follow.

Roses, snapdragons, carnations and cattleyas are leaders with the Leo Niessen Co. The stock in all lines taxes their facilities to handle it.

Berger Bros. are carrying a full line this week of which lilies, roses, carnations and sweet peas are features.

Rochester, N. Y.

STOCK IN PLENTIFUL SUPPLY.

Unusually warm weather for April has brought on an abundance of blooming plants and great quantities of all flowers. Forsythia and cherry trees are almost in full bloom. Daffodils and crocus are also in bloom out-of-doors. Violets are very poor, due to the warm weather. Carnations and roses are much improved. Red roses, however, are off crop at present. Sweet peas are excellent, and the price is low. There are some fine snapdragons on the market now. Bulbous stock is very plentiful, such as tulips, jonquils and narcissi, Caledulas, yellow marguerites, snapdragons and mignonettes are coming in in large quantities.

NOTES.

In the current issue of Country Life in America, John Dunbar has written an intensely interesting article on "Hawthorns." In it he uses some of the Rochester hawthorns as illustrations.

Geo. T. Boucher has a fine window display of flower and garden seeds of different varieties.

The cherry trees are in bloom, the earliest this spring than for many years.

Numerous large orders for funerals have been placed with J. B. Keller & Sons.

Schuyler Arnold, Coldwater, made a trip to this city recently.

Felix Albuts is making special sales of baskets and corsages.

Geo. B. Hart is the proud owner of a new touring car.

FLORISTS' CLUB MEETING.

The regular meeting of the Florists' Club was held April 11, at 7:30 p. m. with President Hendrickson in the chair. The budget for 1921 was read by Roman J. Irwin, vice-president, and was adopted unanimously by the Club. Mr. Irwin, as chairman of the banquet committee, read a report of the dinner held at the Biltmore hotel, March 6, which showed a deficit of only $34. Mr. Irwin was given a vote of thanks for his capable handling of this affair. L. D. Fernald of the New York Evening Post gave a very interesting and practical talk on advertising, showing how it applied as well and better to florists than to many other branches of business. The main point, he said, was to make people always think of flowers; then they would purchase them through force of habit. Mr. Fernald distributed booklets without charge to the members, which described advertising in a practical way. Mr. Henshaw, chairman of the allied florists' publicity campaign, followed with an account of what they had accomplished in the way of advertising in the city papers, and asked for more funds to carry on the good wrk. Wallace R. Pierson, Cromwell, Conn., also had a few remarks to make on this subject. Secretary Young reported a request from J. F. Ammann, Edwardsville, Ill., asking President Hendrickson to appoint a committee to make a drive for new Society of American Florists members. In the exhibitions held in connection with the meeting, the new snapdragon, Golden Pink Queen, grown by G. S. Ramsberg, Somersworth, N. H., and exhibited by Roman J. Irwin, was awarded a certificate of merit. Two very well grown vases of carnations displayed by the Springfield Floral Co., Springfield, N. J., consisting of Belle Washburn and Laddie, were awarded a cultural certificate. A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell, Conn., displayed one vase of the new rose, Dark Pink Sport of Columbia, which was highly commended. The meeting of the Florists' Club adjourned at 10 p. m.

JACKSONVILLE, FLA.—An involuntary petition in bankruptcy has been filed against the E. A. Martin Seed Co.

LOS ANGELES, CALIF.—John C. Bodger and wife are rejoicing in the arrival of another boy, April 3. Mrs. Bodger and baby are doing nicely.

PRICE of bags at Chicago, April 13: American, 16-oz., $30.00 per bale, in bale lots or over; Railroads, 16-oz., $30.00; Crown, 12-oz., $23.00.

PITTSBURGH, PA.—The retail establishment of the Beckert Seed Store is said to be one of the most extensive and best equipped in the country.

SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH.—The Porter-Walton Co. is asking an extension from their creditors through the partial control of their business by a creditors' committee.

BOARD OF TRADE.—Prices for grass seed on the Chicago Board of Trade, April 13, were as follows: Timothy, $4.25 to $5.50 per 100 pounds; Red Clover, $12.00 to $17.00.

RUTHVEN, ONT.—The J. O. Duke Seed Co., Ltd., has been incorporated with a capital of $60,000 to grow and deal in seed. The incorporators include J. O. Duke and A. J. Gunning.

JOHN FLETCHER, who was in Chicago as a representative of Thorburn 42 years ago, again visited this city last month. He is now located at Columbus, O., in the coal business.

CHARLES DICKINSON, former president of the Albert Dickinson Co., Chicago, now devotes most of his time to aviation and still wears top boots, one of the few pairs extant in the city.

MINNEAPOLIS MINN.—The idea that by holding back grain, much higher prices would be forced, is pretty well exploded. Nevertheless, there is persistent holding yet in many localities.

THE week ending April 9 was probably the peak of the counter business in the midwest. Sales of shrubbery were checked by the sudden leaf growth of all this stock not heeled in, but the cold weather of April 10-13 has helped this trade.

PORTLAND, ORE.—For several days recently there were no bids and no quotations published on wheat here, owing to low prices. Offers made in the surrounding country were as low as 93-95 cents a bushel. Large quantities of wheat are still in the hands of northwest growers and warehousemen.

KNOXVILLE, TENN.—D. R. Mayo will vacate his present location, 615 Gay street, to occupy a new two-story building, about January 1, the change being rendered necessary because of increasing demand. The business was founded by the father of the present owner at the old location 43 years ago.

THE Jerome B. Rice Seed Co., Cambridge, N. Y., reports its shipments for the year to March 1 were $75,881 more than on the same date a year ago. Business was very quiet the first half of last month, but since March 15 it has come in with a rush, showing the month ahead of last year on the 22nd.

THE middle west wheat producers are organizing a great grain pool and are pledging five years production of farms. Grain received is to be delivered to elevators and warehouse receipts taken. On these the producer will borrow for his needs and the central organization will release grain as considered advisable.

BOSTON, MASS.—Business in the seed trade district was quite active last week. This was especially noticeable at Breck's and the store of Fottler, Fiske, Rawson Co. At the Thos. J. Grey Co.'s it was stated that business was fully as good as last year's. At Farquhar's, trade was reported better than last year.

NEWS comes to us now of the death last year of Karl Sehrbunt of Quedlinburg, Germany. He had been in the employ of Dippe Brothers for 63 years and was known as one of the best informed men on flower seeds, especially stocks and pansies. He was a most delightful man to meet and always willing to give freely of his valuable information to those interested in his favorites. He will be greatly missed by visitors who have been favored with his guidance and knowledge on inspection tours of his firm's extensive productions.

Holland's Seed Exports.

Present indications are that the seed-growing industry of the Netherlands, which had assumed large proportions before the war, is resuming its extent and vitality, according to a recent report of United States Counsul General George E. Anderson, at Rotterdam. Especially is this true of North Holland and Groningen. The trade of 1920 was good, and while the total exports were considerably less than during the preceding year, the decrease was due almost wholly to the fact that in 1919 there was an abnormal demand in Germany for seed peas, beans and miscellaneous garden seeds to restock the country after war. There were decreased exports of caraway seeds to the United States and Great Britain because of overstocking the year before. The exports of yellow mustard seed to the United States were also much smaller. Most other important items showed increases.

The exports of seeds from the Netherlands in the past two years have been as follows:

	1919	1920
Linseed:
For sowing	$ 821,648	$ 974,233
Other purposes	620	131,730
Rape seed	4,248	218,048
Poppy seed	103,924	243,630
Caraway seed	761,486	470,589
Mustard seed:
Brown	89,876	107,281
Yellow	208,202	168,664
Grass seed	101,172	117,776
Clover seed	64,382	135,158
Seed peas and beans	2,248,803	205,839
Other garden seeds	1,421,780	586,776
Flower seeds	122,337	157,728
Beet seed	271,068	221,823
All other seeds	166,527	191,324
Total	$6,385,073	$3,930,598

About 75 per cent of the linseed went to Ireland in both years. Germany takes about half and Great Britain a sixth of the rape seed, while the United States and Belgium divide the remainder of the exports. The United States imported about 85 per cent of the total exports of poppy seed, while of the exports of caraway seed, Germany took 35 per cent, the United States 20 per cent, Austrla 18 per cent, and Czechoslovakia and Great Britain the remainder. The United States takes a fair amount of the yellow mustard seed, though the trade fell off greatly last year. The brown mustard seed goes almost entirely to Belgium, Denmark, France and the rest of northern Europe.

Great Britain has taken most of the grass seed and northern Europe has imported the remainder of Holland's offerings, although the United States has imported a fair amount of both grass and clover seed. Germany has taken most of the seed peas and beans, and the great falling off in this trade has been due to the stocking of Germany in 1919. The United States has been the best customer in miscellaneous garden seeds, with Germany a fair second, the balance of the exports being scattered over northern Europe. The United States takes about 60 per cent of the flower seeds and Great Britain most of the remainder. We import 75 per cent of Holland's beet seed, the remainder nearly all going to Italy.

American Iris Society.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS MEETING.

A meeting of the board of directors of the American Iris Society was held in New York on March 17. Those presenet included President Wister, Treasurer Presby, Messrs. Farr, Gleason, Hendrickson and Norton. Robert Sturtevant, secretary, was prevented from attending on account of illness. In his absence, Dr. H. A. Gleason acted as secretary pro tem. The report read by the president for the secretary covered in detail the general activities of the Society through 1920 and its plans for the future. The report showed a present membership of 462, including 34 life members, and further indicated that two bulletins had been issued by the society.

It was announced that the annual meeting of the society would be held in connection with the iris exhibition at Columbus, O., about May 27, and that small exhibitions would be held in Richmond, Va., Takoma Park, D. C., Boston, Mass., Belvidere, Ill., Des Moines, Iowa, and probably at Minneapolis, Minn., Louisville, Ky., and Nashville, Tenn. The treasurer reported that Liberty bonds to the value of $600 were in the treasury, and a cash balance of nearly $800. On motion, it was decided that after December 31, 1921, the bulletins of previous years should not be given free to new members, but should be sold to members at 50 cents each. It was decided to establish a collection of lantern slides, an appropriation of not less than $50, or more than $100, being voted for this purpose. These slides are to be loaned to garden clubs and all similar institutions without charge, except for transportation and breakage, and will be rented to professional lecturers, such arrangements being made with the understanding that a slide bearing the legend, "Shown through the courtesy of the American Iris Society," be displayed on the screen. It was also decided to establish a library of books, magazine articles and photographs.

Dr. Gleason reported on the progress of the trial and demonstration garden of iris at the New York Botanical gardens, indicating that the Botanical gardens have expended about $5,500 on its construction, and that over 500 named varieties were now included, most of them secured through the co-operation of the Society. The directors expressed the wish that the annual meeting in 1922 might be held at Bronx park at the time the test garden is in bloom. It was decided to continue the policy of offering stock prizes at iris exhibitions, and it was the consensus of opinion that it might be more desirable to offer such prizes in monetary value, to be selected by the donor or winner, rather than any stated varieties, as was done last year.

Prices of Indoor Fruits and Vegetables.

Chicago, April 12.—Cucumbers, 2-dozen box, $3.25 to $4.00; leaf lettuce, per box, 20 cents.

Florida Celery Land Values.

Sanford, Fla., shipped an average of 275 cars of celery weekly during March. Land tiled for artesian sub-irrigation is valued at $1,000 an acre. New forest covered black hammock land, untiled, south of the city, is held at $300, probably the highest trucking value in the country. Four crops can be raised yearly with two tons of fertilizer per acre.

Fertilizing for Peas.

Peas need plenty of available plant food. If there is not enough naturally present, then top-dress with barnyard manure five to 10 loads to the acre, or add commercial fertilizer 300 to 600 pounds to the acre. Where the soil is moderately fertile and dark colored, a fertilizer carrying 10 to 12 per cent phosphoric acid and three to five per cent potash will give best satisfaction. If the soil is light colored, then choose a fertilizer carrying two to three per cent of ammonia in addition to the phosphoric acid and potash. The addition of lime is profitable if the soil is sour, says R. E. Vaughan, of the Wisconsin experiment station. An abundance of decaying sod or humus is good for peas. Humus holds the spring moisture and lets it out gradually to the young plants as they need it. It also supplies needed plant food, as it rots in the soil.

Milwaukee, Wis.

HEAVY SUPPLY GLUTS MARKET.

The exceptionally warm weather both day and night from April 1 to 8 inclusive certainly proved that in the florists' business, and especially the grower, one is at the mercy of the conditions. A good many of the past Easter crops which were just a little behind time, were forced on the market the past week, causing one of the worst gluts experienced in a long time, and also causing the quality to recede rapidly. Carnations, roses, sweet peas, lilies and bulbous stock were in over-abundance, so that it had to be sacrificed at a low figure. It turned considerably cooler on April 9 and it seems that the worst is over with for some time to come.

FLORISTS' CLUB MEETING.

The Florists' club meeting on April 7 again brought out a good sized attendance; R. C. Schwebke was elected a member. The entertainment committee announced the May ball would take place at the Calumet Club, May 12. The chair appointed C. C. Pollworth, A. Leidiger and Alfred Locker a committee of three to cooperate with the Society of American Florists in their drive for new members. The topic of spring plants was freely discussed and proved that the growers are all preparing for a very busy season in spite of the fact that so many are idle and conditions in other lines of business are not good.

NOTES.

Dealers in shrubs, plants and seeds were rushed during the past warm spell and it will be a steady grind from now on till the planting season is over.

A. Reinhardt, the carnation specialist, is planning a brief visit to his former home in Germany to visit his aged father whom he has not seen for some years past.

Eugene Oestreicher mourns the loss of his father, who died on April 3, age 75 years, after a four months' illness.

Mrs. Seaman, well known among the retail craft, is now with J. M. Fox & Sons, Inc. E. O.

Boston.

A HEAVY OVERSUPPLY ON MARKET.

The market for this week has been quieter than at any time since last fall. Roses are very plentiful, the fancy ones selling at 10 and 12 cents, and the short ones as low as three cents. Carnations have held their own fairly well considering the amount of other stock offered. Good carnations sold for five and six cents. Callas and Easter lilies are also plentiful and move with great urging. Jonquils and other spring bulbs are fast nearing their end, only a limited supply coming in at present. Marguerites, corn flowers, mignonettes and myosotis are of very poor quality with a very light demand. Orchids are still short on supply, good flowers bringing 12 to 15 cents per dozen. New crops of sweet peas are arriving with some very fancy long stem ones offered at $1.50 to $2 per hundred. Business reported by retail stores as very quiet with no indication of any immediate change.

NOTES.

Thos. Welch, for 30 years with Thos. F. Galvin, Inc., died April 6. He had been ailing for two years, but was at work until two months ago. Mr. Welch had a very wide acquaintance both in and out of the flower business, who will hear of his death with great sorrow. He was 57 years old and had been employed in the flower business in this city more than 40 years. Besides his many friends his loss will be felt by a brother and sister.

The Waban Rose conservatories, one of the oldest places in New England, which has been in the hands of a receiver, was ordered sold by the courts to meet its obligations. If not sold privately the concern will be disposed of at public auction the first week in May.

Mrs. Roy P. Sawyer, wife of Roy Sawyer of the F. P. Sawyer Co., Clinton, died very suddenly at her home on April 2. A cerebral hemorrhage was the cause of her death. E. F. S.

Ageratum Fraseri

We feel confident in offering Ageratum "Fraseri" to our customers that we are offering what will be one of the most valuable acquisitions to the bedding plant line in recent years, that it is a blue, a decided blue, that would be continually in bloom. In our trial grounds last summer "Fraseri" attracted more attention than any other bedding plant. It only grew about 8 to 10 inches high and was covered the entire season with what can easily be classed as immense trusses of flowers, as many of them were over 2½ inches across, while the individual flower would be ⅞ of an inch in diameter. The plant spreads about 12 to 15 inches across. It can easily be used with Alternantheras as a border plant.

Being an early bloomer and dwarf, compact grower, it makes an excellent pot plant.

EASTER TRADE SATISFACTORY.

Local florists express themselves as well pleased with the Easter business. Most of them cleaned up well at good prices. Plants were very largely in demand. Hydrangeas were in the lead with a number of the florists, and bulbous stock, genistas, baby rambler roses, followed in popularity. The demand for cut flowers, although good, was not equal to some other years. Prices were somewhat lower than in 1920, but very good, nevertheless. Violets sold for about $4 a hundred in corsages; sweet peas, $6 to $8 a hundred; cattleyas, $2.50 to $3 each; gardenias, $1 and $1.50 each. The foregoing were prices charged in the better class stores, and little fault can be found by the retailers with them. The public, as in other years, were insistent in their demands for plants of moderate size. Most dealers did not have enough of them to fill all orders.

FLORISTS' CLUB MEETING.

Members of the Florists' Club to the number of about 60 were present at the April meeting, which was held at the establishment of the president, Samuel Hanson, 537 Eighth avenue, Troy. The room in which the session was held was decorated with palms and foliage plants. In the rear, on the wall, was a large sign, "Welcome, Albany Florists' Club." The members discussed the subject of having a show in May at which a display of flower boxes would be a feature. On account of the business connected with Memorial day in that month, it was decided to postpone such an exhibition until later. The object of a flower box exhibit is to encourage the use of plants in connection with the decoration of houses and buildings. The evening's programme included refreshments furnished by the host, music by members of the Hanson family, and a social hour.

On April 6, Fred A. Danker carried out a notable decoration in connection with the Kauffman-Hoy wedding. The home of the bride's parents, John S. Hoy and wife, 309 State street, and the Westminster Presbyterian church, where the ceremony was performed, were tastefully decorated. The bridal bouquet was also from the Danker establishment. The groom, Samuel Hay Kauffman, is a son of Victor Kauffman and wife, Washington, D. C., and a grandson of the founder of the Washington "Star." Among the guests at the wedding was Col. George B. Harvey, who was recently appointed ambassador to the Court of St. James by President Harding.

FOND DU LAC, WIS.—R. D. Haentze, of the Haentze Floral Co., was elected Mayor of this city April 5.

BRIDGEPORT, CONN.—The Park Garden's Flower Shop has discontinued business at its old site, 1038 Main street, taking new quarters in a much larger store at 1184 Main street.

Flowers for Mother.

If you have flowers to give mother,
give them when
The rosy dawn awakes the east; and then
She'll make life's journey with a love-lit eye,
Though all the world to you may seem awry.

If you have flowers to give mother,
do not wait
Until the sun sinks golden o'er the gate
To the immortal soul's vistas: that day
May be too late for souls to find the way.

If you have flowers to give mother,
do not keep
All for the coffin lid and the last sleep;
But give them e'er the clay returns to dust
And the soul to the home of all the just.

MOTHERS' DAY.

SUNDAY, MAY 8.

Its Sentiment Will Survive.

The most sentimental of all the floral holidays of the year is fast approaching. Pages might be written extolling the virtues of one's mother and the love and reverence due her at all times, and particularly on the day that has been appointed and named Mothers' Day, first by Miss Jarvis and later by the congress of the United States which has decreed that the second Sunday in May of each year is to be called Mothers' Day. At this time there is to be, as on all other national holidays, a general display of the national colors. Such public and official recognition stamps the day as one of first importance, a tribute to the motherhood of the country.

Miss Jarvis's first thought was a day for the adoration of mothers, with one's own mother the best mother who ever lived, to be presented with flowers if living, or to be placed on her grave or worn in her honor if she had passed away. It is this beautiful custom that makes the occasion of so much value to the florist. While the trade individually and as a whole should strive in every way to do all that they can to encourage this movement, it should be along the lines of the use of all flowers as being your mother's favorite flower. Since the first observance of the day, some years ago, it has gradually gained in importance until in some communities it ranks almost first in volume of trade or at least equal to Easter or Christmas. In such instances the gratifying results have been brought about by the intensive publicity method of the trade, who mapped out and followed a well planned campaign. Wherever such a movement has been intelligently carried out it has been successful beyond expectation. If every large city or community would take up this local publicity work with the right kind of hearty enthusiasm there would be no question as to the surprising results.

It is safe to say that not 10 per cent of the people of this country know of Mothers' Day and its beautiful custom; then again many forget, being busy with their various duties, and the day passes before they know it. With its beautiful sentiment it should not be hard to get columns of appropriate reading matter in the daily press, well in advance of the day. This is educational and calls attention to the beautiful custom and makes an impression and leads to the use of flowers for this purpose. Churches and schools have almost universally observed Mothers' Day with appropriate services, with addresses honoring the occasion, and with songs and flowers.

Mothers' Day will never come to its greatest possibility until it becomes the custom on this occasion to lay flowers on the graves of those who have departed. Then will the facilities of the trade be taxed to the utmost and the event assume its greatest importance. The custom is beautiful and its general observance can be brought about by force of example and by encouraging it in every way. The publicity of such a movement is best handled by a professional promoter, one who knows the ropes, who can get access to the news columns with matter that papers are glad to get, as it is in a sense news, timely and up-to-date. Every paper has on its editorial staff occasional writers who are glad of such assignments and could get a wonderful lot of publicity at a cost of from $50 to $500, depending on the territory to be covered. As the day draws near there must be advertising matter to support this propaganda, an expense that the trade would willingly bear, once they had experienced its benefits.

There are so many in the business who are satisfied to let well enough alone and are loath to go into co-operative advertising to help put any particular project over for fear that it will help others more than it will be of advantage to them. This is a great mistake, as individual efforts in this line would be very small while publicity having the backing of the whole trade would be of compelling importance that would be sure to produce wonderful results. As an example of co-operative effort, Cleveland, O., florists thought they saw in Mothers' Day a great business opportunity and have by intelligent effort and several years of hard work so increased the demand that their sales, which are not confined to any one line of flowers, such as carnations, includes flowering and foliage plants and all kinds of cut flowers and thus make a clean sweep of their entire stock, with the volume of trade equal to that of the Easter period.

Store Preparations.

Those who are in earnest and enthusiastic about securing business for Mothers' Day begin their advertising campaign weeks ahead. This will consist of a liberal display of Mothers' Day cards about the store and window, and leaflets containing historical facts to be handed out to customers and visitors, and mailed to the store's list of patrons and prospects. It is something about which the people should be told and made to feel its great importance well in advance, so that they may talk it over with one another. The featuring of this occasion in the window should start early. Hundreds who go by will stop and take notice, many for the first time, who will ask, "What is this Mothers' Day? I have never heard of it before." A little leaflet entitled, All about Mothers' Day, placed on a tray in the store window will induce many to come in and ask for a copy.

As the event draws nearer, the featuring should be increased with displays of the many things in stock that are suitable as gifts for mother. All should bear an inscription as: For Mother, Mothers' Day, A Gift for Mother, Mothers' Favorite Flower, etc. White carnations, or any mention of them in connection with the day is to be studiously avoided. These flowers are the great bugaboo of many in the trade, who think they are the only flower that can be sold for the occasion, in consequence of which demand, prices rise to such high figures that there is both annoyance felt and expressed by customers. All this dissatisfaction can be avoided by keeping prominent the slogan, "Your Mother's Favorite Flower," which will include each item in the stock, as every flower is bound to be somebody's favorite.

Boston Flower Show.

We present this week some additional pictures of the exhibition held April 6-10, as reported in issue of April 16, where, on page 619, the fine display of climbing roses exhibited by the W. W. Edgar Co. of Waverley, Mass., was by error called Thomas Roland's rose garden. For full account of the show, see last week's issue.

ATLANTA, GA.—Mrs. Anschutz, who for several years conducted the flower store in the McClure building, has opened a shop in the Arcade, supplied by her range at Decatur, this state.

GRAFTON, MASS.—Leonard C. Midgley, Worcester, sold his greenhouse, with two and one-half acres of land, near this city, recently, to Arthur A. Phelps, who will continue operation.

THE RETAIL TRADE

Conducted by Robt. Kift, Phila., Pa.

Next Week in the Flower Shop.

Each flower shop has its peculiarities, its own way of doing things, retaining their stationery, tags and style of boxes that were used years ago, and there is little change in their business methods. After urgent persuasion a persistent salesman at last sells them a plain-bodied delivery car and Old Dobbin and the wagon are reluctantly parted with. This change is considered a wonderful innovation, but as it shows its great efficiency the wisdom of the move is soon acknowledged by all. There are many stores that could, if they went carefully over their shop facilities and methods of doing business, comparing them with what are now considered up-to-date, would make changes that in many ways would soon increase their volume of trade.

Take the matter of funeral flowers, which is the main stay, in fact almost the total volume of many stores. There is nothing like the made up and prepared stock that is kept on hand, and which should be in evidence about the shop. People who come in to look around nearly always have an object in view; they want to leave an order. Generally, if what they want is not in view, they will say they are just looking around and will be in again, and consequently the sale is lost. There should be a full line of magnolia or oak leaf wreaths always on hand, displayed to advantage, some of them decorated with palm leaves and artificial flowers, which can be sold as they are, or to give an idea as to how they will appear with natural flowers. Sprays on palm leaves of prepared lilies, carnations or roses are decorative. All the made up work should carry appropriately inscribed ribbons, either in chiffon or silk, which addition makes a piece much more finished and salable. All the stock of this kind should be on hand in variety, it is purchased at much lower rates in quantity and expensive delays are thus avoided when time is precious, in sending for necessary articles.

Every other branch of the business is open to the same kind of neglect. All goods either in plants or cut flowers that are the common stock of cut flower stores should always be seen in good assortment. One who deals in perishable stock must take a chance. A flower case in which stock is carried only for orders, presents a very sparse appearance and offers very little to encourage buyers. It is a full stock and a variety of goods well presented and displayed that attracts buyers. Flower holders and plant receptacles that are kept to the front and used to show their usefulness with plants and flowers will attract attention and sell, while if left on the shelves they will scarcely be noticed.

Make a good use of dogwood, which is plentiful now; it is very decorative and will last for several days in jars of water, if well soaked, for in this way moisture will get well up into the flowers and branches.

Feature a window of spring flowers, a generous vase or basket of each. Have all correctly labeled, which is an important point in holding the observers. A pale fence in sections as a background, gives a natural looking garden effect.

All short stemmed roses and other short stemmed flowers should be displayed in medium handled vase baskets. When nicely arranged they are pretty little pictures in themselves and look very inviting. These various window attractions should each have their descriptive and price cards. Very few florists realize the value of these, for they are silent salesmen, working all the time and effecting many sales that would otherwise not be made. These signs catch the eye of the passer-by, who then stops to notice. They give the window the punch that is so necessary to attract attention.

PLANT NOTES.

Freesias.

Although the freesias are a cheap bulb they should not be thrown away, for it takes but little attention to ripen them off after they are through blooming and as good bulbs can be procured as those that are purchased. The freesia is a native of southern Africa, so they are blooming at the natural season when flowered in midwinter in the north. But the bulbs must be allowed to mature their growth and then dried off gradually. The pots or boxes in which they are grown can then be placed in full sunlight and allowed to become very dry. A shelf near the glass makes an admirable place on which to place them after the growth has finished, and no more watering is required, but they must not stand where any drip from a roof on a stormy day is liable to keep them moist. They can be shaken out in June and the bulbs started, as it is comparatively easy to select the flowering bulbs and store in a dry place until wanted for planting. For Christmas blooming the bulbs should be started early in July and a succession of plantings until September will give the grower flowers until the following spring.

Bedding Plants.

The general florist will now have his hands full with bedding stock, which should now be spread out and given the necessary room. The geraniums should be spaced, and if any have grown too tall to make shapely plants the tops should be cut back, but at the present day the trade wants a geranium in bloom at bedding time, and very little pinching should be done after the first of April, for it will take from then until the first of June to produce a new branch with a flower. Ageratums, alternantheras, alyssums, heliotropes and like blooming plants should be kept on the move and be given good light positions. Salvia should be kept pinched back until the latter part of the month, which should produce fine, shapely plants. The coleus should be rooted and the top rubbed out as soon as established in the pots. Seedlings should be potted or flatted, the former preferred if a price can be obtained commensurate for the extra labor, but if flatted give them room enough to develop properly. Cannas will now require a warm, light location and plenty of root room. The one great factor in growing good bedding stock is, at this season, to keep the plants moving and never allow them to get a check, for if once severely checked, a good plant is an impossibility.

Hydrangeas.

There are very few plants that are generally grown that show more variance in their culture or in the returns to the grower than the hydrangeas, especially those that are grown for summer blooming. In looking over the stocks in the several markets one will often see the extremes of these plants grown in the same sized pot; one with eight to 10 heads of bloom, short and stocky, with fine foliage, an ornament on any porch in any yard; and the other tall and long jointed, with two or three heads of bloom and five or six branches with no flowers and the foliage thin and small, the former bringing the grower $3.00 to $3.50 and the latter hardly averaging $1.50. Yet these two plants have practically cost the grower the same amount of labor. These plants grow rapidly and must have plenty of room, an abundance of sun and lots of nourishment. It is useless to try to grow a good plant when they are crowded together. Many growers finish these plants by raising the pots over the benches of bedding plants that do not now require the full amount of sun, placing the hydrangeas about four feet apart in the center of the bench and standing the pot on a stand two feet above the other plants. This gives the hydrangeas a fine location. When the plants have set their buds, the pots will probably be full of roots and a watering of liquid manure once or twice a week will greatly assist them in finishing up the flower and keep the foliage in good color. To grow good hydrangeas they must have plenty of food, room enough to grow shapely and for the air to circulate all around the plant and a light well ventilated location. Under these conditions they are easily grown and are remunerative to the grower.

Lilium Lancifolium.

Among the best flowers for greenhouse culture during the summer months is the Lilium lancifolium, of varieties rubrum, roseum album and Melpomene. While these varieties can all be grown outside, yet under those conditions they rarely give perfect flowers and they also tarnish quickly in the direct rays of the sun or under heavy rains, and to have flowers that can be used for decorative work or designs it is far better to grow them under glass. Those that are to bloom in July should have been started in March, but for August blooming they can be planted now. One of the easiest ways to grow these bulbs is to plant them in boxes from four to six inches deep, not too large, but of a size that one man can handle when filled with soil. Do not fill the boxes too full when planting the bulbs, for like all lilies they throw out roots at the surface, so it is well to leave room for top dressing later. Grow them in a cool, shady location and after the spikes begin to grow, give them plenty of water and keep them tied erect to stakes. Constant fumigation will be necessary to keep the green fly in check. This is in no way forcing these bulbs, and if properly dried off after blooming the bulbs may be grown year after year and a good crop of flowers obtained.

Sweet Peas.

A sowing of sweet peas made in pots late in March which can be transplanted outside as soon as all danger from late frosts is passed, will give a crop of these flowers two or three weeks earlier than the seed sown in the ground. There is generally a time in late June and early July that the sweet peas in the greenhouses come very poor, owing to the excessive heat under glass and the infection of red spider, and the early sowings outside are not yet in flower. Five or six seeds shown in a three-inch pot and these placed on the sill or window ledge or on a hanging shelf will make nice stock for planting out after the middle of April and the advantage of those started in the greenhouses over the ones shown in the cold ground will be quickly seen upon trial. They can be grown so that they will take but little valuable room under glass and the extra expense of this and the labor in transplanting them, will be more than recompensed by having fine flowers at a time when most of the stock is in poor condition. The plants that are growing inside will require considerable attention as the sun increases in power; the growth is very rapid and the vines must be kept erect or crooked flower stems will be the result. They should be gone over every day, and where the growing shoots are getting away from the supports they should be fastened to them.

Society of American Florists.

WASHINGTON CONVENTION, AUGUST 16-18.

The mailing of prints of the floor plan of the Convention hall in Washington, D. C., has just been completed. The plan covers the whole of the second floor of the building, which is most admirably adapted for the trade exhibition. As will be seen on reference to the plan, there is not a column, pillar, or other obstruction on the floor to interfere with the arrangement of the exhibits. Applications already received for space would seem to indicate that the trade displays will be even larger than those at the Cleveland, O., convention, at which all records were broken. The space rental remains the same as in previous years —60 cents per square foot. The cost of the official sign, including the rental of an upright, or stand, is $3. Rule No. 25 of the rules relating to the management of the trade exhibition, reading: "The selling of goods by persons or firms not having engaged space will be prohibited unless such persons or firms shall have secured a permit or license from the secretary, the same to cost not less than $35," will be strictly enforced, so that none other than exhibitors will be permitted to transact business on the floor until the license or permit mentioned has been obtained from the secretary.

Orders for signs should be sent to the secretary with the application for reservation of space. The rules require that 25 per cent of the total amount payable for space shall be paid upon the signing of the contract, and the balance before the exhibitor takes possession. Additional copies of the floor plan may be had upon application to the secretary.

Membership cards will shortly be issued to all members in good standing, and such members will be required to present their cards at the entrance to the hall. The work of the secretary's office will be greatly facilitated if members who have not paid their dues will make remittance now. It might be again mentioned that at the annual meeting of the executive board, held in Washington last January, a resolution was passed authorizing the dropping of the name of any member from the membership roll for non-payment of dues after one year.

THE MEMBERSHIP DRIVE.

The drive for increased membership directed and supported by the executive board is about to commence. Complying with the board's resolution, President Thomas Roland, Nahant, Mass., has appointed the following committee to take charge of the drive: Chairman, J. F. Ammann, Edwardsville, Ill.; Joseph H. Hill, Richmond, Ind.; S. S. Pennock, Philadelphia, Pa.; A. L. Miller, Jamaica, N. Y., and Paul R. Klingsporn, Chicago. It will be the purpose and object of this committee to double the membership in the society before the date of the coming convention, and they will commence a vigorous campaign about May 15. Many novel plans and features to bring the desired results have been in process of working out. The different florists' clubs of the country have been called upon to co-operate, and they will appoint local committees to assist in the drive. The drive slogan is "Every member get a member," and if this idea materializes the society's present membership certainly ought to be doubled. The membership roll now contains about 3,500 names, and it is the earnest wish of the officers and directors to see this number increased to 7,000, which is but a nominal number, when it is considered that there are upward of 20,000 florists in the country. Our society bears the brunt of battle against all movements detrimental to the interests it represents, and, accordingly, must have strength of support to back it up.

The following have each guaranteed to secure the number of members stated with their names: Thomas Roland, (10); John Young, (10); J. J. Hess, Omaha, Nebr., (10); Joseph H. Hill, (10); C. C. Pollworth, Milwaukee, Wis., (10); Herman P. Knoble, Cleveland, O., (11); Paul R. Klingsporn, (10); J. F. Ammann, (10); Henry Penn, Boston, Bass., (10); George Asmus, Chicago, (10); A. Rasmussen, New Albany, Ind., (10); W. A. Rowe, Kirkwood, Mo., (10); Robert L. Graham, Jr., Baltimore, Md., (10); I. S. Hendrickson, Flowerfield, N. Y., (10); Wallace R. Pierson, Cromwell, Conn., (10); Frank H. Traendly, New York, (10); Thos. H. Joy, Nashville, Tenn., (10;) Alfred M. Campbell, Philadelphia, Pa., (10); W. H. Engelhart, Memphis, Tenn., (10); W. F. Gude, Washington, D. C., (10); A. Gude, Washington, (10); Joseph Kohout, Libertyville, Ill., (12); Carl Hagenburger, W. Mentor, O., (10), and John Canning, Ardsley, N. Y., (5 life).

NATIONAL PUBLICITY CAMPAIGN.

The secretary has been instructed to send out another appeal to guarantors who are delinquent in the payment of sums pledged to the campaign fund. The publicity committee is anxious to resume the national advertising at the earliest possible date and are greatly handicapped in making their contracts when they have insufficient funds in hand to cover their obligations.

DEPARTMENT OF PLANT REGISTRATION.

Public notice is hereby given that Henry J. Doll, Wankuk Greenhouses, Providence, R. I., submits for registration the new plant here mentioned:

Geranium, Mrs. Hattie A. Doll, seedling, parentage unknown. Plant a strong grower and free and early bloomer. Zone in leaf very distinct. Height, 18 inches. Color, glowing scarlet. Flowers, single, 30 to 35 in a large cluster. Single flowers, two inches in diameter with five large petals. Any person objecting to this registration, or to the use of the proposed name, is requested to communicate with the secretary at once. Failing to receive objection to the registration, the same will be made three weeks from April 20, 1921.

JOHN YOUNG, Sec'y.

Principles of Industrial Relations.

Overwhelming approval of a platform setting up 12 principles of industrial relations has been given by the membership of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States in a referendum vote, the result of which was announced recently. The vote taken was on the report of a special committee of the chamber's board of directors. This report went deeply into the subject of the employment relation, and recommended among other things, recognition of the right of open shop operation, and the right of employers and employes to deal directly with each other, without participation by outside interests.

At the same time, the chamber's membership in another referendum vote has approved a report of its committee on public utilities, recommending that strikes by public utility employes should be explicity prohibited, and that tribunals should be created by law to adjudicate in decisions binding on both parties differences between public utilities corporations and their employes. The vote on the two referenda was the largest ever recorded by the chamber on any subject.

The committee that prepared the industrial relations platform was named by the chamber's board of directors at the close of the president's first industrial conference in October, 1919. It was charged with considering the principles presented by the employers' group in the conference. Its members are: William Butterworth, president Deere & Co., Moline, Ill.; Frederick J. Koster, formerly president of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce; Max W. Babb, vice-president the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Co., Milwaukee, Wis.; W. L. Clause, chairman of the board, Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co., M. J. Saunders, shipping, New Orleans, La.; Henry M. Victor, banker and cotton manufacturer, Charlotte, N. C.

The 12 principles of industrial relations advanced by the committee, and the vote on each, are as follows:

1. Every person possesses the right to engage in any lawful business or occupation, and to enter, individually or collectively, into any lawful contract of employment, either as employer or employe. These rights are subject to limitation only through a valid exercise of public authority. In favor, 1,675; opposed, 2.

2. The right of open-shop operation, that is, the right of employer and employe to enter into and determine the conditions of employment relations with each other, is an essential part of the individual right of contract possessed by each of the parties. In favor, 1,665, opposed, 4.

3. All men possess the equal right to associate voluntarily for the accomplishment of lawful purposes by lawful means. The association of men, whether of employers, employes or others, for collective action or dealing confers no authority over, and must not deny any right of those who do not desire to act or deal with them. In favor, 1,677; opposed, 4.

4. The public welfare, the protection of the individual, and sound employment relations, require that associations or combinations of employers or employes, or both, must equally be subject to the authority of the state, and legally responsible to others for their conduct and that of their agents. In favor, 1,671; opposed, 4.

5. To develop, with due regard for the health, safety and well-being of the individual, the required output of industry, is the common social obligation of all engaged therein. The restriction of productive effort or of output by either employer or employe, for the purpose of creating an artificial scarcity of the product, or of labor, is an injury to society. In favor, 1,675; opposed, 3.

6. The wage of labor must come out of the product of industry, and must be earned and measured by its contribution thereto. In order that the worker, in his own and the general interest, may develop his full productive capacity, and may thereby earn at least a wage sufficient to sustain him upon a proper standard of living, it is the duty of management to cooperate with him to secure continuous employment, suited to his abilities, to furnish incentive and opportunity for improvement, to provide proper safeguards for his health and safety, and to encourage him in all practicable and reasonable ways to increase the value of his productive effort. In favor, 1,679; opposed, 2.

7. The number of hours in the work day or week in which the maximum output, consistent with the health and well-being of the individual, can be maintained in a given industry, should be ascertained by careful study, and never should be exceeded, except in case of emergency, and one day of rest in seven, or its equivalent, should be provided. The reduction in working hours below such economic limit, in order to secure greater leisure for the individual, should be made only with full understanding and acceptance of the fact that it involves a commensurate loss in the earning power of the workers, a limitation and a shortage of the output of the industry, and an increase in the cost of the product, with all the necessary effect of these things upon the interests of the community and the nation. In favor, 1,677; opposed, 3.

8. Adequate means satisfactory, both to the employer and his employes, and voluntarily agreed to by them, should be provided for the discussion and adjustment of employment relations, and the just and prompt settlement of all disputes that arise in the course of industrial operation. In favor, 1,668; opposed, 8.

9. When, in the establishment or adjustment of employment relations, the employer and his employes do not deal individually, but by mutual consent, such dealing is conducted by either party through representatives, it is proper for the other party to ask that these representatives shall not be chosen or controlled by, or in such dealing in any degree represents any outside group or interest in the questions at issue. In favor, 1,568; opposed, 54.

10. The greatest measure of reward and well-being for both employer and employe, and the full social value of their service, must be sought in the successful conduct and full development of the particular industrial establishment in which they are associated. Intelligent and practical cooperation, based upon a mutual recognition of this community of interest, constitutes the true basis of sound industrial relations. In favor, 1,664; opposed 2.

11. The state is sovereign and cannot tolerate a divided allegiance on the part of its servants. While the right of government employes, national, state or municipal, to be heard and to secure consideration and just treatment must be amply safeguarded, the community welfare demands that no combination to prevent or impair the operation of government or of any government function shall be permitted. In favor, 1,663; opposed, 4.

12. In public-service activities, the public interest and well-being must be the paramount and controlling consideration. The power of regulation and protection exercised by the state over the corporation, should properly extend to the employes in so far as may be necessary to assure the adequate, continuous and unimpaired operation of public-utility service. In favor, 1,649; opposed, 18.

The referendum on public utilities employment carried the recommendations of the chamber's committee on public utilities. These were two in number, and are given as follows, with the vote on each:

"The committee recommends that strikes by employes of all public service corporations, performing public service essential to the lives, health, security, comfort and well being of the people, should by law be explicitly prohibited. For, 1,564; against 97.

"The committee recommends that suitable tribunals should be created by law to adjudicate differences between the employes of public service corporations and their employers, and that the decisions of such tribunals should be final and binding upon both parties. For, 1,571; against, 100."

Members of the chamber's committee on public utilities are as follows: Lewis E. Pierson, chairman, Irving National Bank, New York; Henry G. Bradlee, president Stone & Webster, Boston, Mass.; Arthur W. Brady, president Union Traction Co., Anderson, Ind.; F. B. Deberard, director of research, New York Merchants Association; Albert W. Harris, president Harris Trust & Savings Bank, Chicago; Charles L. Harrison, director Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce; John W. Lieb, vice-president New York Edison Co., New York; H. L. McCune, lawyer, Kansas City, Mo.; Paul N. Myers, president St. Paul Association of Public and Business Affairs; John W. Van Allen, lawyer, Buffalo, N. Y.

STOCK IN LIBERAL SUPPLY.

There has been a great increase in the rose supply the past week. From being practically on the short side all season, the supply has increased to such proportions that trade is unable to absorb the daily cut, thereby throwing a large lot of stock to the street merchants, who are offering it at low prices. The increase applies to nearly every variety. Mrs. Chas. Russell of the finest quality is now at lower levels than for a long time. The outdoor supply of Ulrich Brunner is also gradually getting larger. Cecile Brunner is about the only variety at the present time that is not in oversupply. Carnations continue to hold their own as regards price. They are of exceptionally good quality and there is no surplus after the increasing sales. As most of the sweet peas coming in are produced out-of-doors, much stock of fine quality is to be had. Fine long stems and large flowers are the rule and almost any desired color can be had at prices ranging from $1 to $1.50 per dozen small bunches. There is a great oversupply of tulips. Due to the low prices at which they can be purchased on the street, they are not receiving much attention from the stores. Some very good yellow freesias are being received. Snapdragon is showing much improvement and the best stock is bringing $1.50 per dozen. Ranunculus are in moderate supply and are used largely in basket work. Purple lilac still is plentiful and cheap. Easter lilies of fine quality continue to arrive and bring satisfactory prices. Gardenias are not so good as formerly and have declined in price owing to poor size. Cattleyas have increased somewhat in supply. Mossiae is now coming in and is very fine. The blooms retail at from $2 to $3 each. The violet supply is gradually diminishing and will shortly end, in the opinion of most growers. The shipping demand for this flower also shows a great falling off. Iris are quite plentiful and move slowly. There has been no increase in the peony arrivals and good prices are being realized for all offerings. Very little cut heather is to be had. Fruit blossoms continue to occupy attention for decorative work. Cut sprays of Famarix africana are being offered freely and have met with ready sale. Funeral work was reported brisk all week. The spring wedding season is also creating a strong demand for lily of the valley. Hydrangeas in pots are now being shown by all the stores. Rambler roses also continue to arrive. Azaleas and rhododendrons are getting scarce. All other pot stock is plentiful. The wholesalers report an excellent demand for ferns and asparagus. There is a large supply of all seasonable green goods.

RETAIL FLORISTS' ASSOCIATION.

The monthly meeting of the Retail Florists' Association was held on April 6. Owing to the unavoidable absence of B. M. Joseph, chairman of the Easter advertising committee, no report of this committee was presented. Chairman P. V. Matraia of the exhibition committee made a detailed statement of the work accomplished by his committee in reference to the proposed flower show to be held in October. The matter of market conditions was thoroughly gone into by the members. Many of them spoke against the custom of the wholesalers of selling stock at retail. Other important matters engaged the attention of those present. The next regular meeting of the association will be held on the evening of May 4, at Native Son's hall.

NOTES.

The Dahlia Society of California has announced that the annual dahlia show will be held at the Palace hotel September 15-17. A preliminary premium list has been sent to all members. At the directors' meeting held recently the same board of directors was elected for the coming year. Richard Vincent, Jr., White Marsh, Md., was elected honorary vice-president. It was also decided to hold at least four general meetings of the society each year. The meetings of the board of directors will be held the third Thursday of each month. The exhibition committee for the year will be H. T. Hennig, Carl Salbach, J. W. Davies, Jesse Seal, F. C. Burns and Mrs. E. W. Lynberg. One of the features of the coming dahlia show will be an educational exhibit, showing the various types and how they have been developed during the last 135 years. Propagation, such as dividing of tubers, cuttings and seed raising, will also be explained to the visitors. In all probability the trial gardens of this organization will be located at the University of California, Berkeley, this year. Since the inauguration of the yearly trials by this society they have been conducted at San Rafael.

A meeting of growers and members of the Retail Florists' Association was held at the store of Podesta & Baldocchi, on Grant avenue, during the week to discuss the proposed new wholesale flower and plant market for white growers, 60 being in attendance. The growers were of the opinion that the building on Bush street which has been under consideration would not be suitable for their requirements, they desiring one of much larger floor and basement space, and also one where auto trucks could be driven into the building and unloaded, instead of being required to dispose of their stock on the sidewalk. Another meeting is scheduled for the near future and in the meanwhile a search for a suitable location will be continued.

The exhibition committee of the Pacific Coast Horticultural Society met with the flower show committee of the Retail Florists' Association on April 8, at the Art Floral Co.'s offices. Chairman Matraia of the hall committee reported that the Civic auditorium could be had for three days for $1,317, but that the only date available which would include Saturday would be early in October. The members felt that this would be too early to insure a good display, it being the general opinion that the latter part of October would be the best time to hold the show.

The Southern Pacific and the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railways are joint defendants in a complaint filed with the State Railroad Commission, wherein Domoto Bros. charge the collection of excessive rates for transporting fuel oil from Richmond to Oakland. This concern is large consumers of fuel oil for its greenhouses and the case is being watched with much interest by other trans-bay growers who have been compelled to pay excessive rates on oil shipments.

If appearances count for anything the present orchid shortage will be relieved very soon. This is the opinion of all who have visited the orchid range of John Carbone, Berkeley. His houses of Cattleya Mossiae are a perfect mass of buds and his stock never appeared to better advantage than it does at present. New hybrids in brassocattleyas can be seen in bloom there. Superintendent Percy Ellings is to be commended upon the fine appearance of this orchid establishment.

Chrysanthemum growers report planting as progressing rapidly and that this work will be shortly completed. Present prospects indicate about the same acreage being put out as last season. Early and mid-season varieties are being the most largely planted, very few late varieties being grown owing to the danger of frosts.

Angelo J. Rossi, of Pelicano, Rossi & Co., presided last week at a luncheon given to Mary Garden and other operatic stars of the Chicago Grand Opera Co. at St. Francis hotel. The Downtown Association, of which Mr. Rossi is president, was the host.

The monthly meeting of the Pacific Coast Horticultural Society was held on April 2. H. Plath spoke of the progress being made in preparation for the fall show. The next meeting in May will be ladies' night.

John R. Walsh, secretary of the Pacific Coast Horticultural Society, has left for a fishing trip to the northern part of the state.

The Suzanne Floral Co. has discontinued its Geary street store and will devote its energies to the Mason street establishment.

The Alameda County Dahlia Society will hold its annual exhibition September 4-6, at the Hotel Oakland.

B. M. Joseph will have charge of the Mothers' Day advertising for the Retail Florists' Association.

JAMES T. LYNCH.

Boston Notes.

The trade has generally been informed of the retirement of Thomas F. Galvin, Sr., from the firm of Thomas F. Galvin, Inc., and his association with his son, Thomas F. Galvin Jr., in the Devonshire street store. Mr. Galvin has had a long and honorable career as a retailer and has many friends in this city and throughout the country who wish him well.

At the Houghton & Gorney establishment, Park and Tremont streets, we recently noticed an innovation in cormade up with half a dozen cattleyas sage bouqets. Six of these had been in each, the innovation being that the flowers were on a background of ostrich feathers of a color to match.

D. A. Brownstein, of the Flower Shop, 114 Canal street, has an attractive store with fine show windows and two large ice boxes that are always well filled. R. T. Lombard, the former proprietor of this store, is now 82 years old, but active and cheerful.

Harry Quint, who already had a flower shop in the Hotel Victoria, has opened another good store at the corner of Dartmouth and Newberry streets with John T. Coolie, well and favorably known to the trade, in charge.

Maurice M. Saunders, for a number of years head decorator and designer for Wax Bros., opened a store a year ago at 240 Huntington avenue, opposite Horticultural hall, and is building up a good business.

W. T. Walke, Salem, in addition to a good stock of flowers for cutting and bedding plants, has a fine collection of his own seedling amaryllis. At the recent flower show he took first prize for his amaryllis.

Edward Welch, well known in the trade through his former activities in the wholesale line, and who for some time suffered from poor health, has recovered and is now with Harry Kelley, retail florist.

In addition to a great stock of cut flowers, including attractive baskets and small bouquets of Mayflowers, Penn, the Florist, has been featuring a fine stock of hydrangeas.

J. Newman & Sons, formerly at 24 Tremont street, is now located at 225 Tremont street. This firm started in business in 1870.

A large contract for filing the window boxes of the Copley-Plaza Hotel with arbor vitae, was completed last week by S. Hoffman, the Massachusetts avenue retailer.

Phillip Carbone and wife sailed for Europe on April 9 for a two months' visit that will combine business and pleasure.

A shop well stocked with cut flowers and flowering plants is kept by Max Fine, 200 Dartmouth street.

A. F. F.

Providence, R. I.

Trade the past week has been rather quiet. Stock is plentiful and of good quality. Roses have taken several drops and carnations are selling very low at present. Sweet peas are good, and sell well. Floral work has been rather slow.

NOTES.

Salesmen from the out of town houses have been in the city the past week booking orders for Memorial day business. The prospects are good so far with plenty of geraniums and other bedding stock for all. Magnolia wreaths and wax flowers will predominate as usual.

Several of the local florists were visitors at the Boston Flower Show the past week, and report it one of the best ever seen.

A. F. Faulkner, New York, representative of THE AMERICAN FLORIST was a visitor last week, on his way to the Boston show. H. A. T.

GREENVILLE, S. C.—A meeting of the creditors of Harold E. Rogers, bankrupt, was held here April 9.

LARNED, KAN.—Mrs. M. E. Angress, of the Broadway Greenhouse, has opened the Broadway Flower Shop at 418 Broadway.

ADRIAN, MICH.—Elmer D. Smith has recently sent chrysanthemum plants to Japan, New Zealand, Guatemala, France and England.

OBITUARY.

Augustus Hawley Goodwin.

Augustus Hawley Goodwin, vice-president of the W. W. Barnard Co., Chicago, died April 17 at the Drexel Arms hotel, that city, after a brief illness. During a recent trip to the east he contracted bronchitis, which gradually settled upon him after his return and finally caused death, despite the strenuous efforts of his physicians. The president of the company, Mr. Barnard, had preceded him but little more than a month, dying at Los Angeles, Calif., March 10.

Mr. Goodwin was born at Waterville, N. Y., July 15, 1844, and in early life engaged in the hardware business at Norwich, that state, later becoming a cotton factor in New York city. About 1885 he acquired an interest in the firm of Northrup, Braslan & Co., later styled the Northrup, Braslan, Goodwin Co., of Minneapolis, Minn. In 1896, upon reorganization of the company, he located in Chicago, forming the Goodwin, Harries Co., which was consolidated with W. W. Barnard & Co. in 1905, Mr. Goodwin becoming vice-president of the firm under the title of the W. W. Barnard Co. Mr. Goodwin retired from active business some years ago, but when Mr. Barnard became ill soon after, he resumed and continued work until a few days before his death.

While Mr. Goodwin had comparatively few close friends in the trade, yet he had no enemies. Of retiring disposition, he made little effort in recent years to increase his range of acquaintance in the seed trade, but he retained with firm grasp, older ones of the past 30 years. A man of great patience and gentleness, he rarely spoke a harsh or unkind word and his nearest associates found him always considerate and thoughtful of others. In the social affairs of life he was always a fine example of the true and polished gentleman, brilliant in conversation, and a charming host.

About 45 years ago, Mr. Goodwin married Miss Nellie Beebe, of Norwich, N. Y., where her father was a prominent merchant. Mrs. Goodwin survives, also one brother, Samuel W. Goodwin, of New York city.

Funeral services were held at Boydston's chapel, Chicago, April 20, the Rev. Clyde McGee, of Bethany Union church, officiating. Burial will be at Waterville, N. Y., in the family lot.

Ernest Granz.

Ernest Granz, of the firm of Rowehl & Granz, florists and nurserymen of Hicksville, N. Y., died on April 10 of a complication of diseases, age 57. He was born in Germany and came to this country when very young. Mr. Granz had been in business at Hicksville for 31 years. Funeral services were held at the Lutheran church, that city on April 13. Among those who attended the funeral was J. K. Allen, New York, an old friend of the deceased.

Mr. Granz is survived by his wife, two daughters and three sons.

A. F. F.

BAD AXE, MICH.—The Deady Greenhouse, closed for the past three years, has been reopened by Edward A. Houghy of Saginaw.

PEORIA, ILL.—Jacob T. Shoaff, pioneer resident of this city and florist at Glen Oak park conservatory for 25 years, died recently, age 70 years.

LOUISVILLE, KY.—Ground has been broken at the state fair grounds for a horticultural building, 200 by 400 feet, which will provide good facilities for floral exhibits.

SOFT coal prices are reported declining.

EASTERN railroads will cut tourist passenger rates 10 per cent, effective May 15.

THERE were 495,904 idle cars on American railroads March 31, the largest number in their history.

AN advertisement for a gardener in a recent Chicago newspaper brought 440 replies, while a similar advertisement in the same paper two years ago brought none.

FERD. W. PECK, Chicago, former commissioner to the Paris exposition, recently a guest at the Waldorf hotel, New York, distributed each morning a bunch of white carnations to other guests.

PRESS dispatches from Washington state that the United States no longer requires passports or permits for American citizens entering or leaving the United States, so the state department announces.

POPPY DAY will be observed May 30 in honor of the American soldier dead in the late war.

Mothers' Day.

The general newspapers of April 14 gave wide publicity to the following, but the national use of flowers on Mothers' Day (Sunday, May 8, this year) will go on without interruption notwithstanding this local outburst against it:

The Mothers' Day International association in Philadelphia has abandoned the flower as a symbol for this year's Mothers' day on May 8. "These are not times to waste money on flowers," the proclamation reads. It warns against impostors, saying no one is authorized to solicit funds or sell anything for Mothers' Day.

American Rose Society.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE MEETING.

A meeting of the executive committee of the American Rose Society was held in Horticultural hall, Boston, Mass., April 7. After the reports of the secretary and treasurer had been read, J. Horace McFarland, editor of the Rose Annual, stated that the 1921 edition of that publication had been sent to all members. There was a lengthy discussion in regard to increased membership, and several directors pledged themselves to bring in 25 new members before the middle of next summer. Ex-Secretary E. A. White and Thos. N. Cook were guests at this session.

As a part of the programme at the Boston Flower Show, held April 6-10, the American Rose Society presented a series of lectures by its members as follows:

Wednesday—President Robert Pyle gave an illustrated talk on gardens in Europe and America, showing pictures of the American Rose Society test gardens in Hartford, Conn., Minneapolis, Minn., and Portland, Ore., and many beautiful pictures of the Bagatelle gardens in Paris, France, and the Roserie de'l Hay, just outside of that city.

Thursday—J. Horace McFarland spoke on "The Rose in America," with many beautiful lantern slides both of private and public gardens in the United States.

Friday—Chas. H Totty told of his trip to Europe and France last summer and of his visits to the various rose gardens there, comparing conditions with those here and telling particularly of some of the newer roses which he believed to be of value for outdoor planting.

Saturday—Wm. N. Craig gave a most practical talk on the culture of outdoor roses in New England, giving in detail the steps necessary for success with each class of roses in this particular climate, recommending varieties, methods of planting and the combating of insects and diseases.

Sunday—B. S. Letson, Boston, Mass., spoke on flower arrangements in the home, illustrating with cut roses which had been supplied for the occasion by Thomas Roland, and which were afterward distributed among the audience.

Great interest was manifested in all the lectures, the attendance averaging about 200. At the suggestion of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society, the American Rose Society had show cards recommending varieties suitable for planting in New England. These cards were placed in the entrance hall and attracted great attention throughout the week.

JOHN C. WISTER, Sec'y.

Business Continues to Improve.

An indication that business conditions throughout the country are getting better is found in the fact that the volume of distribution by jobbers and retailers showed a distinct gain in March over February, says Archer Wall Douglas, chairman of the committee on statistics and standards of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. Mr. Douglas reports at length on the business situation in the May number of The Nation's Business. The whole tone of Mr. Douglas' report is optimistic. He points out many signs as indicative of an improvement in the situation, and as tending to foreshadow a return to more settled and stable conditions.

Retailers' Keynote.

President Roland, in his optimistic and excellent inaugural message, stated that people love plants and flowers, and only need to learn the many ways in which they may be used and reminded of the joys which come with them, to increase their sale.

Here is a keynote for the retailer. Exploit the stock in every possible way, make the store attractive with the best products of the greenhouse artistically arranged and featured. Every event in life, from the cradle to the grave, presents an opportunity for the use of flowers, which can be greatly increased by constant and timely presentation.

National Flower Growers' Association.

The list of officers of the National Flowers Growers' Association, corrected to date, is as follows: W. J. Keimel, Elmhurst, Ill., president; James W. Heacock, Wyncote, Pa., vice-president; J. F. Ammann, Edwardsville, Ill., secretary; Wallace R. Pierson, Cromwell, Conn., treasurer; E. H. Mann, Richmond, Ind.; Joseph Kohout, Libertyville, Ill.; E. Allan Pierce, Waltham, Mass.; Carl Hagenburger, West Mentor, O.; W. J. Pilcher, Kirkwood, Mo.; James S. Wilson, Des Moines, Ia.; Thos. Roland, Nahant, Mass., directors.

New Hanging Basket.

A new pyramid shaped hanging basket is being introduced by Reed & Keller, New York, made of galvanized iron, corrugated, with iron chains, japanned in colors, with a large drain at the bottom. Inside of the bottom is a trap to prevent the soil from falling through the large drain. The corrugated sides of the basket give it much greater draining surface and permit the air to reach the plant much better than the old-fashioned straight liner. Patent has been applied for.

Everlastings.

The use of everlasting flowers (some of which very improperly and distastefully are called straw flowers) has become very general in the trade during recent years, statice, helichrysum, etc., and there are many occasions on which they can be employed with excellent results. Already one firm, the San Diego Everlasting Flower Co., of La Jolla, Calif., with 35 acres of land, is specializing in the production of these flowers.

Personal.

Andrew Graham, of Cleveland, O., and daughters, returned from Florida last week.

STOCK CLEANS UP NICELY

The market continues to be flooded with stock, generally speaking, but despite this fact, and slightly contrary to it, there is a very limited quantity of high-class material on hand. The trade has stiffened up considerably during the last few days and stock has ceased to sell at a loss. Roses are taking the lead this week with Premier, Mrs. Chas. Russell, Columbia, Butterfly, Ophelia, Sweetheart, Ward and a few Killarneys, the best selling varieties. The quality of the stock is excellent, long-stemmed and wide-awake, and the demand is good. Carnations are more than plentiful and they sell well. There is an over-abundance of the white varieties and a shortage of dark kinds. The demand is rapidly picking up. Calla lilies are plentiful and find a ready use in funeral displays. The finest Lilium Harrisii that has found its way here in years, is now coming in, and they are selling for from six to 12 cents each wholesale. Sweet peas of a medium grade are offered at all establishments, but fancy varieties are scarce and bring a high figure. They find their chief use in corsage bouquets. Calendulas of large size are among this week's offerings, with but little call. Jonquils are indeed scarce and the demand is not brisk. The stock, however, is of exceptional quality. Mignonette is much sought after and hard to obtain. Some very fancy snapdragons are to be had at high prices. The demand is good. Daisies, both the yellow and white varieties, are being brought onto this market. They are very long stemmed, but do not sell well. A very limited quality of fine Spanish iris is to be had at a fancy price. The stock is long stemmed. The supply, though limited, is steady and the demand excellent. Delphiniums, the season's first, are now beginning to come in and they are valuable stock. The demand is far greater than the supply and being the season's first, they sell rapidly. Only light blue spikes are to be had. Gladiolus is arriving and the demand is exceptional. Myrtle, Pink Beauty and a few other kinds are the only ones seen, as yet. The offering is very limited and they wholesale at from $2.50 to $3 per dozen. Cattleyas are plentiful this week and displayed by many stores, constituting the chief feature of several weddings. A few home-grown violets are also seen, and sell slowly. Lily of the valley is very scarce and the demand is the best. There are no hyacinths of any kind, and the number of tulips coming in show a large decrease over last week's figures. Common varieties are plentiful but much of the stock was nipped by the frost. A limited quantity of Darwins are to be found, and they sell well. A few good double tulips are coming in, but move slowly. Some fine amaryllis are offered with only light red varieties being disposed of. Hydrangeas are plentiful and seen in all windows, but there is little call for them. Retailers have cleaned up on begonias this week with the call continuing firm. A few well-grown plants of calceolarias are seen and sell well, commanding good prices. Bougainvilleas are shown in a few establishments and are in great demand as a house plant. Pansies are very plentiful and the stock is of exceptional quality, being very large-flowered and long-stemmed. Geraniums and blue and white ageratums are being shown in large quantities and they always bring a fair price. Pandanus, dracaenas, ferns and other novelties, remain at the same figure. Greens are plentiful. Ferns of first-class quality are bringing $6 per 1,000. Some very fancy boxes of growing plants are offered at reasonable prices and many are making a specialty of $1 boxes, which contain a few roses, carnations and sweet peas.

FLORISTS' CLUB MEETING.

The Florists' Club held its regular meeting April 14. The session was called to order by President Rowe. The publicity committee reported that arrangements had been made with the Missouri theater to put on a special act in which numerous girls will appear upon the stage, each dressed to represent a certain flower. It will be known as the "Say It With Flowers" week at this show house. The main features of the afternoon were lantern slide lectures given by Messrs. G. H. Pring and J. F. Ammann, Edwardsville, Ill. Mr. Pring spoke about the New York spring show, which he had attended, and Mr. Ammann lectured on "Publicity." Dr. R. S. Vitt and Carl Smith, chairman of the local safety council, gave interesting talks on the conservation of human life. The meeting was well attended and a profitable time was had by all.

NOTES.

The decorating for a number of important weddings this week was had by Grimm & Gorly. Messrs. Harvey and Duenberg were the designers in charge of the work. This firm is contemplating a Mothers' Day window for the coming week.

The "Say It With Flowers" Bowling league met April 13, at which time the "Carnations" won three straight games from the leaders. The big race for first place is now on with the "Carnations" lacking but one game from being winners.

The Windler Wholesale Floral Co. is cleaning up on roses and carnations and is probably the only concern that has jonquils in stock.

An attractive window consisting of baskets of plants, with begonias the the feature, is seen at the Fred C. Weber store.

The St. Louis Wholesale Cut Flower Co. reports some large orders for orchids and roses during the past week.

The Mullanphy Floral Co. states that they have had a very large funeral business this week.

Fine bougainvilleas and snapdragons are being handled by the Bourdet Floral Co.

The H. G. Berning Floral Co. has been unusually busy filling orders.

A lively business in delphiniums is reported by C. A. Kuehn.

CARNATIONS

Good Supply of White, Pink and Red

While we will have a good supply of Carnations, there will not be enough flowers to supply the demand, so push roses on that day. You will find that the public in a great many cases prefer them to carnations. so make allowance for the scarcity of carnations and substitute roses. They will move just as quickly. STOCK IS NOT SO PLENTIFUL.

There was a great change in the market conditions following the cold wave of last week and Monday, April 18, found stock well cleaned up in almost all lines at greatly advanced prices. There was a noticeable decrease in the supply as early as the previous Saturday when the department stores were unable to obtain enough stock to advertise special bargain sales of cut flowers. Carnations are in strong demand this week and are none too plentiful at this writing, with fancy stock selling at $4 and $6 per 100 and in some instances more especially on Laddie and Ward. American Beauty roses are holding their own and the demand for roses in general is strong enough to take care of all the stock that is arriving in this line. Mrs. Chas. Russell, Premier and Columbia are having the best call but there is no surplus in any of the other varieties grown for this market. Orchids are plentiful and are offered at prices within the reach of all the stores. Lily of the valley is in good demand and gardenias are cleaning up nicely. Lilies are in fair supply and the same holds true for callas. Sweet peas do not appear to be any too plentiful and violets are on the short side. Some fine snapdragons are included in the offerings together with choice stocks. Lupines, white, blue and yellow daisies, pansies, larkspur, calendulas, candytuft, for-get-me-nots, mignonette, statice, local indoor and southern grown gladioli, jonquils and other miscellaneous seasonable stock is included in the offerings. Greens are in fair supply. Business has shown a wonderful improvement this week but some of the dealers are inclined to believe that with a few warm days the supply will again be greater than the demand.

NOTES.

A prominent retailer mentioned the other day in speaking of the special sale on roses recently by the department stores at low prices, that it would be a good idea to limit the length of stems on stock finding an outlet through these channels and at the same time derive the same benefits. He is not exactly against the department store sales, but believes that it is hardly fair for the wholesaler to expect him to do business when a nearby establishment conducts a special sale on roses just as good, if not better, in some instances, at such ridiculously low prices that he would not even attempt to meet them. This was particularly noticeable about a week ago when several of the prominent retailers advertised prices on one page while in the same issue near to it a large loop

Do not take any fake or imitation thread, claimed to be the Meyer silkaline, or smilax threads. Be sure the name Meyer is on the end of each spool, as we find there are a lot of fake brands being put on the market to imitate our green florists' thread. Weigh up our threads and then weigh up the other parties' that you are buying from and you will notice that our threads run full two ounces of thread to the spool. Be sure and get the Meyer thread.

department store quoted long stemmed fancy roses at less than 40 cents per dozen. The writer does not attempt to criticize nor does the retailer referred to in this item, but his suggestion is a good one and if it will lessen the supposed evil, why not adopt it? What do you think of the idea?

Wietor Bros. are busy replanting and expect to have all the new soil in their benches by May 1. Two houses of carnations have been planted and the benching of the young stock is almost completed. N. J. Wietor says that the new white carnation, Joy, will be given considerable bench space next season.

The Henry Wittbold Co., now located in the Atlas building at 30 East Randolph street, will move to 75 East Adams street early next month. The new store will be equipped by the A. L. Randall Co. in keeping with its surroundings.

Kreitling's store on E. Van Buren street, near Michigan avenue, was right in the path of the violent wind April 16, when a lady was blown through one of the windows and is reported to have died later at St. Luke's hospital of her injuries.

Paul Richmond, who has been at the Rosery, 6972 N. Clark street, since his return from Salt Lake City, Utah, last year, leaves April 23 for Oklahoma City, Okla., where he will have charge of John W. Furrow's new retail store.

C. O. Wilcox, of the W. G. Madson Seed Co., Manitowoc, Wis., visited his many friends in the wholesale cut flower market here this week, after an extended business trip in the south.

Arbor and bird day was generally observed by the school children of the city and state April 15, planting trees and erecting bird houses.

The E. F. Winterson Co. is moving a large quantity of huckleberry, which is making new friends among the green buyers every day.

YOUR 1st PROTECTION

The thing every customer wants to know is the price; price-giving with your cut flowers that makes for quick sales, increased sales, simplified selling, and saves a lot of unnecessary talk and unnecessary questions. As long as the retail dealer fails to display prices, a question of doubt is raised in every transaction.

Our wholesale market letters supply price information to the retail florist that means exactly what they say.

The late Peter Reinberg is not easily forgotten. His portrait appeared in a morning newspaper April 20 along with 12 other prominent democratic leaders who died recently. Harry R. Gibbons, county treasurer and close friend of Peter Reinberg, died suddenly April 19.

John Kruchten, of the John Kruchten Co., has been troubled more or less of late with rheumatism but manages to stay on the job. Henry Kruchten was badly bruised about the face last week when he was thrown while stepping out of an auto.

Henry D. Neve says his new range will be built at Des Plaines instead of Park Ridge, as mentioned in these columns last week. The Des Plaines people are certainly loyal and do not like to have anyone put them into Park Ridge.

John Weiland of Evanston has the sympathy of the trade in the loss of his daughter, Doris, whose death occurred April 19. She was killed instantly when struck by an auto while crossing the street in front of her home.

Zech & Mann are handling a fine supply of roses in addition to a large quantity of choice sweet peas. The shipping trade is more active at this establishment and the stage is now being set for Mothers' Day.

William Wolf, one of the East Monroe street florists, walked away with practically all the prizes in one of the bowling tournaments on the south side last week, including a neat sum of cash.

On the petition of L. Koropp, a receiver was appointed for the Bergman-Koropp Co., manufacturers of prepared flowers and foliage, by Judge Sullivan, April 19.

Kennicott Bros. Co. is booking orders for Mothers' Day and from present indications the demand will be as strong if not greater than in former years.

Bassett & Washburn are cutting a good supply of roses which are cleaning up nicely owing to the great improvement in the shipping demand.

The J. A. Budlong Co. is fortunate in having a large supply of cut ferns this season, which are exceedingly scarce and in strong demand.

Walter Walters, of the Central Floral Co., is back on the job after a pleasant visit with his folks at Milwaukee, Wis.

Vaughan's Seed Store reports the heavy demand for gladiolus bulbs continues and that other spring bulbs are going freely.

The directors of the Chicago Flower Growers' Association held their regular quarterly meeting at the store April 19.

The E. C. Amling Co. is supplying its trade with statice in addition to its unsual complete line of cut flowers.

The Joseph Foerster Co. is pleasing its trade with choice sweet peas, which it is handling in quantity.

Irvin Stein, of Seligman & Stein, New York, called on the trade here this week.

Erne & Co.'s shipments of cut flowers include a nice supply of choice stocks.

MARKET GRADUALLY IMPROVING.

Stock this week cleaned up fairly well. The market opened quite weak but gained strength later on. Roses and carnations were most in demand with no increase in prices until the last of the week. The retail stores have mostly funeral work with no cut flower trade to speak of. There has been a considerable demand for wedding flowers. Lily of the valley, white sweet peas and white roses are bringing a premium over other stock. No very fancy roses are coming in except a few special American Beauties. Bulb stock is about finished, only a very few jonquils left and no great call for them. There are no novelties noted on the market this season. Snapdragon is arriving in large quantities with only a small amount of good quality stock. Iris is very scarce and inferior flowers are selling at $3 to $4 per dozen. Gladioli are quite late this year; several calls for it have been received by the wholesalers and none to be had. Delphinium has arrived, the quality being excellent. The prices range from $2.50 to $4 per dozen.

FLORISTS' ASSOCIATION MEETING.

There was a rather small attendance at the Florists' Association meeting, April 12. The speaker of the evening was F. E. Newcomb, traffic manager of the Boston & Maine Railroad. He gave a very interesting talk on the effect of present railroad rates on the florist business. There was a letter read from The Boston Herald urging the association to place an order for regular advertisements in that paper. It was filed for the attention of individual members. Jas. B. Macklin sent in his application for membership. The dinner committee reported very favorably on the banquet tendered to the three local national society presidents.

The greenhouses of A. Rolfs, Randolph, Mass., were wrecked by the explosion of The American Fireworks Co. April 15. E. F. S.

Evansville, Ind.

Business during the month of April has continued very satisfactory. There is brisk demand for bedding plants of all kinds. Many weddings are scheduled for May and June. General trade conditions are improving and collections are fairly good. Stocks in all florists' lines are plentiful.

The case to break the will of the late Julius Niednagel will be retried April 20. The jury failed to reach an agreement at the previous trial. The estate is valued at more than $100,000.

E. Niednagel and wife were in Chicago last week. W. B. C.

TRADE FAIRLY ACTIVE.

Despite rather unfavorable weather which prevailed last week, trade was fairly active. One of the features was the large amount of funeral work, which had the effect of increasing the gross business at most of the establishments. Social work was not active as the season is now about over and the usual spring weddings do not occur until May or June. The supply of flowers is quite good and the quality is excellent. This applies to roses, carnations, snapdragons, sweet peas, jonquils and the usual seasonable stock. Easter lilies are still being sold to a large extent and the supply will last for some time. Roses and carnations with sweet peas are the staple lines and prices are unchanged from the previous week. Pot plants are still in good demand as the supply is rather limited. Lilies and primroses are the plants which are in the best demand. Corsages have been selling fairly well but the largest call is for loose flowers. Orders are about as numerous as usual but with the total volume of sales showing a decrease.

NOTES.

The organization of the Flower Growers' and Dealers' Association in this city has been completed at a meeting held at the Munk Floral Co. last week. This was the fourth session of this organization and good fellowship has been brought about. Permanent officers were elected as follows: Walter Stephens, of L. Stephens & Son, president; I. D. Siebert, of the Fifth Avenue Floral Co., vice-president; E. D. Ludwig, of T. J. Ludwig & Son, secretary, and Herman Kropp, of the Cottage Rose Gardens, treasurer. T. S. Ludwig made a talk in which he urged florists to ascertain the cost of doing business, which was necessary if they desired to prosper.

The regular quarterly meeting of the Columbus Horticultural Society was held April 16 in the Horticultural building on the university campus. Prof. L. M. Montgomery spoke on "The Vegetable Garden," and Prof. A. C. Hottes gave a talk on "Flowers." A general discussion followed, the public being invited, and a large number attended.

Active preparations are being made for Mothers' Day and all of the downtown florists anticipate a strong demand for the usual run such as roses, carnations and lilies. The importance of this event is increasing as the years go by and the trade is anticipating a good business.

Herman Kropp, proprietor of the Cottage Rose Gardens, and with an interest in the Neil House Flower Shop, is having a good trade.

This city, one of the most important in the state, has fine parks, public buildings and business enterprises. From a day's visit among its florists we formed the conclusion that their business is prosperous. All spoke highly of the Easter trade and no fault was found with existing conditions at the time of our visit.

Randall's Flower Shop is one of the show places here, and there is every evidence of a well managed retail store and the prosperity that naturally accompanies good management. Easter trade at this establishment was considerably better than a year ago and business is keeping up well. In addition to many other good features, no store or show that we have recently visited could boast of a finer lot of hydrangea plants, the pink being particularly noteworthy.

Henry F. Littlefield has an excellent shop and a prosperous retail trade. In another section of the city he has a range of considerable area where there is a fine stock of carnations. We were particularly interested in a seedling rose, a cross of Hadley and Ophelia, which Oscar Sodeholm, the foreman, is bringing forward. It favors Ophelia, but is of a much brighter color and has the perfume of Hadley.

A. W. Hixon has a good stock of bedding plants and is growing the petunias originated by the Richard Diener Co., Inc., Kentfield, Calif. He speaks highly of this strain. Mr. Hixon is deeply interested in the work of the Worcester County Horticultural Society.

The range of the Quarry Floral Co. is centrally located, and we found a great stock of bedding plants coming forward. This concern has a branch store at 150 Franklin street.

Estabrook & Luby, who had the misfortune to be burned out of their Main street store last January, are now established at 43 Pleasant street.

Petunias, originated by the Richard Diener Co., are being grown by L. J. Primeau, who also has a retail store at 46 Richards street.

A good Easter business was reported by the H. F. A. Lange establishment. Trade is very good here at the present time.

F. B. Madaus has a good store at 370 Main street. He is said to be the oldest commercial florist in this city.

Out near Hope cemetery, Herman J. Snyder has a considerable glass area and a good cemetery business.

Fierer's Flower Shop on Pleasant street makes a good appearance and is well stocked. A. F. F.

KALAMAZOO, MICH.—The department stores here are offering nursery stock at very low prices.

A BETTER DEMAND FOR STOCK.

The past week has been more encouraging to everyone; there has not been so much stock, and a rather firm demand, which balanced things, gave a better tone to the market and will make returns that much greater for the trade. Growers did their best for the Easter holidays and the weddings following, but with the favorable weather, overstepped the mark with the result the market has seldom, if ever, had such an overstock following the holiday. Now that this great oversupply is past and a seasonal demand has set in, the trade will put forward its best efforts to get all it can out of the spring season. The stock was never in better condition, particularly the roses, which in the increased size of the newer varieties has raised the standard of all other flowers. Carnations have been overabundant and of very good quality. They were in great demand on the night of the reception and parade in honor of Cardinal Dougherty. The street men, who took quantities, sold out at a handsome profit. Snapdragon is now at its best and is largely used for spray and decorative work of all kinds. The late Easter lilies are about over and prices are well maintained. Quantities of callas are on hand and prices are down. Sweet peas have dropped off considerably, one large dealer stating that the supply had fallen to 20 per cent of what it was the week before. He thought the growers would get as much, however, as all were cleaned up at good prices. Cattleyas are not any too plentiful, being completely disposed of each day. White and yellow daisies are now at their best and are largely used in boxes of spring flowers. Choice gardenias bring top prices, but the short stemmed stock is principally seen on the streets.

NOTES.

During his recent visit to Japan, Henry C. Geiger, while at a dinner of a number of persons of different nationalities told of sending a box of cut flowers of the Queen of Edgely rose in 1900, to Queen Victoria. It was then a great novelty, being a pink sport of American Beauty. They were very carefully packed and arrived as planned on Christmas eve. The buds in fine condition, were presented to the Queen by her equerry. Her majesty was much delighted with them and dictated a letter of thanks on her own personal stationery, and directed that it be sent through official channels and presented personally to the owners of the beautiful rose. To the surprise of Mr. Geiger the interesting story was then added to by one of the guests who arose and said: "I recall this circumstance very distinctly as my father was then equerry to the Queen and carried the roses to her and I have often heard of the pleasure they gave her, and that some of them lasted until New Year's eve. Mr. Geiger was delighted to be thus supported and considers it quite a co-incidence.

One of the large dealers stated that in spite of seasons of oversupply, the carnation men were well satisfied with their returns and many of them are planning to plant their houses earlier this year, so as to avoid the stem rot that was so prevalent last summer. He thought that the tendency of carnation growers to go into roses, which was so prevalent last year, had been checked and there would be a good demand for all the best varieties of carnations for planting out. For all that Ophelia has been such a wonderful rose in many ways it is being discarded very generally by the growers for this market, who are replacing it with Mme. Butterfly, which has proved a winner with the few who grow it. What is wanted is a good easy doing red, which if it is anything near as good as its parent it may be found in Jos. H. Hill's red sport of Columbia.

The seed stores have so far had a wonderful demand. The buying opened up very early, both mail and counter trade started in away ahead of the season and sales have been phenomenally large. The sale of vegetable plants has also exceeded the normal.

Since the New York spring show there is considerable quiet talk as to why the trade should not provide such an exhibition for the flower lovers here, who, it has been shown, would support such an elaborate exhibition to the fullest extent. Now that normal times are returning there is nothing necessary but the building. We understand a site has been set aside on the Parkway and $1,500,000 appropriated for the erection of Convention hall. It would seem as if this was enough to start the project and that it is up to enterprizing citizens of such bodies as the Florists' Club to get active and begin something. This matter has been slumbering for several years, and now might be the best time for development.

E. G. Hill spent several days in this city on his way home from the Boston, Mass., Flower Show. Several automobile trips among the rose growers were taken, Edward J. Fancourt and James W. Heacock going with him to the large houses at Roelfs. Mr. Hill also visited a number of other ranges. There is great curiosity as to his next introduction about which little is said at this time. It is likely being reserved as a sensation for the Cleveland O., show. Mr. Hill looks well and takes as much interest in the achievements of the rose men as ever.

Leo Niessen believes the season will bring good returns to all who have applied themselves to their work. Conditions have varied, with too much stock at one time and not enough at another, but he is quite certain that the general average in returns for those who have good stock to sell, will prove satisfactory. Choice roses, snapdragons, and carnations are quantity items here.

There will be a great deal of activity in a trade way in baseball the coming summer, as soon as the vacation season commences. The sport is to be under the auspicies of the Florists' Club. President Campbell has appointed devotees in several branches, to work up enthusiasm in the clubs of the league, and has promised a trophy for the successful club.

Edward Reid, after his trip with the rosarians among the rose growers of this district, is well satisfied with the stock that comes to him. Choice roses, snapdragons and carnations are specials at this time.

Joseph Cousins, of the Jos. Heacock Co., was presented with a nine carat diamond on April 9. Mrs. Cousins will strive to have him rival in brilliancy his hustling father.

Darwin tulips, roses and sweet peas are quantity items with Berger Bros. Business is reported much better than last week. K.

STOCK IN MODERATE SUPPLY.

While there was some complaint of dullness during the past week, business seems to have been as good as could have been expected at this season. There was, toward the last of the week, a stiffening of prices on some stocks, notably American Beauty roses, which again reached the dollar mark for the best specials. With mild weather, there is usually a surplus of certain stocks, but all that is coming in, in moderate supply seems to clean up fairly well. There has been considerable dark, cloudy weather of late which tends to keep down the offerings. The absence of lilac is helping the sales of carnations, sweet peas and minor stocks. It is certain that the cold snap that swept the South and East a few weeks ago, finished the lilac, as a commercial crop for the season. Tulips and narcissi are yet on the market, but cannot last much longer. A few violets are arriving but their season has ended. One sure sign of Spring is the reappearance of the Ulrich Brunner roses on the market, a considerable stock of them having come last week. Orchids are moving fairly well at $50 to $100 per 100. Many of the gardenias are poor and the bottom seems to be pretty well out of their market. The movement in Easter lilies is moderate, but callas are slow, which need not cause worry as their season also is about finished. It is impossible at this writing to forecast Mothers' Day business. If the customers of the retail stores will vary their orders instead of all asking for white carnations, there is likely to be some business. And, it is to be hoped that the speculators in this flower, who have for several years been trying to turn the Mothers' Day trade into a gamble, will get effectually beaten if they try it this year.

April 18—There has been much dark weather and rain and it is quite cool this morning. There are no unusual features in the market, simply the usual Monday morning trade, with plenty of stock to supply all demands.

NOTES.

Many attractive features in novelties are noted at the Seligman & Stein establishment, 116 W. 28th street, who are manufacturers as well as dealers in same. They have several clever decorators on their staff and we have noticed a number of hand painted vases that show good work.

There is considerable talk in the wholesale district concerning the failure and disappearance of a Newark, N. J., retailer whose liabilities, all told, are estimated to be nearly $35,000. Part of this is said to be due wholesale florists and plant growers.

At Malandre Bros., Broadway at 72nd street, an attractive show window is seen, consisting of peach and cherry blossoms and baskets handsomely made up of roses and other flowers.

Harry Charles, 104 West 28th street, is now receiving a good stock of the Ulrich Brunner roses from the range of Victor Zuber & Sons, Whitestone, L. I.

Peter F. McKenney, Fifth avenue and 42nd street, recently arranged a fine decoration in Keith's new Fordham theatre.

Samuel Gilbert, the traveling wholesale florist, is receiving a fine stock of larkspurs.

Excellent stock of yellow daisies is being handled by Edward Brenner.

The first peonies noticed are at the store of the S. S. Pennock Co.

A. F. F.

LORAIN, O.—L. Hody, florist, is reported in financial difficulty, with assets of about $12,000, and liabilities of about $20,000.

BUSINESS REVIVES AFTER BLIZZARD.

Conditions were more near normal the past week, due to the fact that not so much cut stock found its way to the counters. The weather being cloudy and cool the greater part of the week, retarded growth, after the premature heat the week previous. If there had been any trade on April 16, the report would be quite favorable all around. The absolute standstill of all kinds of business, including car and telephone service, was the result of the great record-breaking blizzard which commenced on Friday at six p. m. and lasted until the following midnight. Snowdrifts from four to six feet deep were numerous enough to demoralize all kinds of traffic and consequently put a damper on buying or delivering for that period. On April 17 and 18 it was warm and a good deal of the snow vanished as quickly as it came.

NOTES.

Thomas Griebler & Son, at 39th street and Keefe avenue, have the bars up on an addition of 90 feet on both of their old houses; a new chimney, boiler room and a 75 horsepower steam boiler will change this place to a modern plant. Besides growing pot plants and cut flowers they raise large quantities of young vegetable plants for spring sales.

So far we have heard that the florists in this vicinity suffered no loss from the storm with the exception of Thos. Plociennecazak, on the southern end of the city, although bracing was resorted to, to guard against the possible loss.

The A. F. Kellner Co. was very busy at the week end getting the decorations for the big charity bazaar in the Auditorium, which began April 16, and continues until the 23rd.

Fred W. Bliese, of the Waukesha Floral Co., who was a visitor last week, says that financially his Easter business was ahead of that of a year ago.

After holding off during the period of high prices, Nengo Locker, Wauwatosa, has the concrete foundation for a new dwelling completed.

The majority of the voters on April 5 were in favor of daylight saving, the same to go into effect April 24.

SOUTH HOLLAND agents are insuring onion sets.

ADDITIONAL reports come to hand of unpaid spring bills past due in the seed trade.

VISITED CHICAGO: N. J. Groot, representing Sluis & Groot, Enkhuizen, Holland.

TWO new supplements to the present seed law are now before the Illinois legislature.

SEED CORN growers are reported carrying pretty heavy stocks at date; peak of sales perhaps not yet reached.

IT is said to take a poker-faced man this year to relate with success stories of record breaking seed business.

THE American Fruit Growers' Corporation is dealing in seeds and advising its members where to purchase.

FOR the first time since 1916, wheat sold recently below $1 per bushel in Kansas City, when July delivery broke to 98 cents.

NEW YORK.—John Bodger, of John Bodger & Sons Co., Los Angeles, Calif., and wife sailed for Europe on the S. S. Aquitania, April 12.

J. C. VAUGHAN, Chicago, will celebrate another birthday anniversary April 24, age problematical. One of his friends says he works like 35 but looks older.

THE meeting of the Western Canners' Association held at the Hotel Sherman, Chicago, April 18-20, brought out many representatives of the seed trade in that line.

PRICE of bags at Chicago, April 20: American, 16-oz., $30.00 per bale, in bale lots or over; Railroads, 16-oz., $30.00; Crown, 12-oz., $23.00. Present indications point to lower figures.

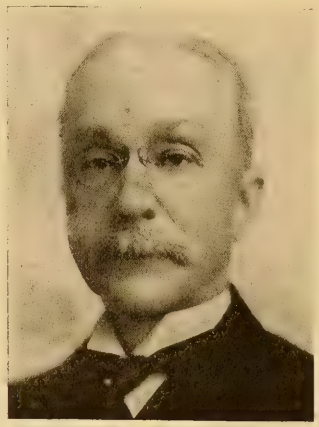
BOARD OF TRADE.—Prices for grass seed on the Chicago Board of Trade, April 20, were as follows: Timothy, $4.25 to $6.00 per 100 pounds; Red Clover, $10.00 to $16.00, down $2.00 since last week.

THE need of a record attendance at the seedsmen's convention in St. Louis, Mo., next June was never more apparent. Consideration of new laws, tariff, prices, growing contracts (now at low ebb) etc., make a long and difficult list.

GILROY, CALIF.—The Pieters-Wheeler Seed Co., on April 12, awarded the contract for a four-story seed cleaning plant on property recently purchased. This contract, with others already placed, will aggregate an expenditure of upwards of $150,000.

THE funeral of the late A. H. Goodwin, held at Chicago, April 20, was well attended by the trade, those from a distance including C. C. Massie of Northrup, King & Co., Minneapolis, Minn., and Thos. W. Chisholm of the Braslan Seed Growers Co., San Jose, Calif.

ON July 1 the Department of Agriculture will combine the two bureau of markets and crop estimates into one organization, to be known as the Bureau of Markets and Crop Estimates. It aims to develop the new bureau along constructive lines to assist farmers and agencies in marketing agricultural products.



The Late A. H. Goodwin.
Vice-President of the W. W. Barnard Co., Chicago. The Last of a Remarkable Trio, Northrup, Braslan, Goodwin.
See Obituary Page 667.

W. B. HAYT, whose birthday anniversary we lately chronicled in these columns, complains that we added an extra year to his expired time, and although we located him in the right Park, the wrong city was given for that date. Making all cities in the south he will soon come to the one in which we placed him. Selah!

Bean Emergency Duty.

The emergency tariff, paragraph five, provides a duty of two cents per pound on beans and lentils, an increase from 25 cents per bushel of 60 pounds, tariff act of 1913. The report accompanying the bill claims high duty necessary to protect American bean growers against Oriental labor. It is said growers of seed beans favor the new duty.

Pea Seed Risks.

Farmers buying seed peas for this year's planting, and more especially canning factories and large growers contracting for their next year's seed, are advised by the United States Department of Agriculture to go directly to seed growers wherever possible or to buy their seed of dealers of known responsibility. The rag-doll germinator test, which promises to become universal in the testing of seed corn for diseases and reproductive ability, can also be used to test the germinating qualities of peas and beans, but beyond that the purity of the variety is of first importance.

Canners in Maryland and Delaware learned this to their cost last year, as about 1,700 acres, 30 per cent of the total crop for canneries, was planted with seed that proved to be spurious. The department has recently conducted an investigation of the substitution. The Alaska variety is generally used for canneries in these states. The Alaska grows a vine about 30 inches high, with pods beginning to form at the sixth or eighth joint, giving early development and a uniform time for maturity. The latter qualification is important, as farmers nowadays mow the peas instead of picking them, and all that are not in a stage for use at the time of mowing are a total loss. These pea vines are then run through a machine called a viner, which delivers the peas ready for factory processes.

The Alaska also is a white-flowered pea, and any except white-flowered peas darken when processed for canning, thereby deteriorating the packed product. The spurious variety sold as Alaska grew to a length of five or six feet, and did not begin to bloom until it had made considerable growth. It then set pods through a long period, finally having the whole range from blossoms to dry pods, but at no time having a satisfactory yield of peas at the right stage for canning. In addition, manay of the pea vines bore colored flowers, and when processed the peas from these turned dark and stained the liquor to almost an inky hue, giving the buyer or consumer the impression that the product was unclean or spoiled.

The department found that the objectionable peas came from certain growers in Idaho and Washington, some of whom were honest, but some of the dealers appear to have taken advantage of a threatened shortage in seed peas to perpetrate substitution. There is another variety which is locally known there as Alaska but which does not have the qualifications desired by the eastern canners. A number of lawsuits have grown out of the situation, but there seems little likelihood of injured parties recovering more than the price paid for the seed, although the damage they sustained was far greater. The dealers' integrity seems to be the only practical protection against repetitions of the same situation.

Free Seeds.

When spring came smiling through the land
And set the little brooks to singing,
When every breeze was soft and bland
And homeward all the birds were winging,
When blossoms burgeoned on the mead
And green the buds were, on the lattice,
I used to watch to see the seed
My Congressman despatched me—gratis.

And ah! I used to plant them, too,
I set them out on every May-day;
For I was young—the skies were blue,
And spring and hope were in their hey-day.
I watered them with tender care;
The richest, blackest loam I brought 'em,
And all the time that I could spare,
I gave to them from May till autumn.

But though the rains wept o'er their beds,
And sunbeams warmed their resting places,
No sproutlets ever raised their heads,
No plantlets showed their tiny faces,
But after years I came to know
That neither rain nor sun nor diet
Nor care nor toil could make them grow,
In fact, they wouldn't even try it.

And yet, in springtime, when they came,
Aside I reverently laid them,
And always thrilled to see my name
Upon the packet that conveyed them.
But when they came the neighbors knew
That wasn't in the least essential;
It mattered little if they grew,

The Nursery Trade

American Association of Nurserymen.

Lloyd C. Stark, Louisiana, Mo., President; M. R. Cashman, Owatonna, Minn., Vice-President, John Watson, 400 Nassau Street, Princeton, N. J., Secretary; J. W. Hill, Des Moines, Iowa, Treasurer.

Forty-sixth annual convention will be held at Chicago, June, 1921.

VISITED CHICAGO: C. F. Gaetjer, superintendent of parks, Rock Island, Ill.

FRUIT crop damage, already serious, was greatly increased by the wide-spread storm last week.

OREGON in a referendum vote has just declined to preserve the famous Malheur Lake bird reservation, and has turned it over for land drainage and speculation.

ROSES suitable for St. Louis, Mo., and vicinity are listed in the Missouri Botanical Garden Bulletin for March. The bulletin is published in that city by the garden.

INDEPENDENCE O.—The Independence Nurseries Co. has been chartered with a capital of $55,000, to operate a nursery. The incorporators are A. S. Buskirk, R. F. Gaab, A. C. Wunderink, L. W. Gaab and W. A. Daley.

C. R. BURR & CO., Manchester, Conn., say their business this season is far ahead of any previous record. There is strong demand for all kinds of stock and many items are out of the market. The shortage of ornamentals looks serious.

SALEM, ORE.—A prune shipment, believed to be the biggest fruit shipment ever sent from the northwest, will leave Portland this month for Germany. It comprises 1,450,000 pounds of Italian prunes grown in Oregon and Washington.

BRIDGEPORT, IND.—C. M. Hobbs & Sons, nurserymen, have been called on by Governor Warren T. McCray of Indiana to provide a native Hoosier sugar maple tree to be planted in the forest of states, at Exposition park, Los Angeles, Calif., where native trees from each of the 48 states are to be grown. The request for the Indiana tree came several days ago from the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce. Governor McCray stated in his letter granting the request that while sugar maple, oak, beech and elm are the most common of native Indiana trees, the sugar maple has been select d because of its adaptability to soil conditions in Los Angeles.

W. & T. SMITH CO., Geneva, N. Y., report they are rushed with business. Just how long it will last it is impossible to say. Of course, the supply of all kinds of nursery stock is very much below the average of pre-war years. Although sales may probably equal or surpass those years, the quantity of stock handled is considerably less. Fruit tree stocks are being well taken up and a great many ornamentals are decidedly scarce. This is particularly true of al kinds of ornamental trees. Now that there is an abundance of labor they expect to see public and private plantings, which were held up on account of the war, immediately take a move.

Cities in Nursery Business.

The city of Columbus, O., recently offered nursery and other stock for sale through its recreation department, the prices being f. o. b. that city. Director Raymond said all stocks offered were first class, clean, healthy and true to name. The kinds offered and the prices were as follows: Fruits—peach, two to three feet, 25 cents; varieties, Crawford, Champion, Elberta and Smock; dwarf pears, three to four feet; 60 cents; cherry, three to four feet, 45 cents; grapes, one year old, 20 cents; currants, red varieties, 15 cents; apples, three to four feet, 30 cents; Cumberland raspberries, 12 for 25 cents. In bulbs, gladioli, dahlias and Maderia vines are included for three, four and one cent, respectively; two-year ivy, 30 cents, and honeysuckle vines, 15 cents, are offered. Shrubs include forsythia, spirea and red snowberry. Shade trees to be sold are soft maple, eight to 10 feet, 75 cents; elm, six to eight feet, 75 cents, and Norway maple, eight feet, $1.50.

The Rotary Club of Crawfordsville, Ind., has ordered one thousand apple trees, which will be sold to the people of the city at cost.

Forsythias in the Arnold Arboretum.

In spite of the loss of a few of their expanding flower buds the Asiatic forsythias have not often been in better bloom in the arboretum, for the cold of severe winters like those of 1915 and 1916 too often kills the flower buds. None of the newly discovered Asiatic species are as handsome garden plants as some of the hybrids between the Chines F. suspensa, Fortunei and F. viridissima, to which the general name of Forsythia intermedia has been given. The best of these, the var. spectabilis, is the handsomest forsythia which has yet been seen in the arboretum. The flowers are larger and more abundant than those of either of its parents, and of a deeper color. Other distinct and handsome forms are var. primulina and var. pallida. The former, which appeared as a seedling in the arboretum a few years ago, has primrose colored flowers; the flowers of the latter are pale straw color and paler than those of other forsythias. Forsythias are often badly planted; they require space in which to spread their long gracefully arching branches and are not suitable for small gardens. To be most effective they should be planted as in the arboretum, in a great mass on a bank or hillside. A forsythia should never be planted nearer than 10 or 12 feet to a road or path, for if there is not enough room between path and plant for its natural growth the side branches must be cut away, and an ugly, awkward, bare-stemmed specimen will be left. In suburban gardens in which the care of plants is usually left to the mercy of the jobbing gardener, the branches of forsythias and of many other shrubs are often cut back in winter or early spring. This destroys the beauty of the plants, and as forsythias produce their flowers on the branches of the previous year most of the flowers are sacrificed. If a forsythia must be pruned it should be done just after the plant has flowered, and the oldest stems and branches should be entirely removed that younger ones may grow naturally.—Arnold Arboretum Bulletin.

TRUCK crops in many sections suffered greatly increased damage in last week's storm.

FARGO, N. D.—Farm labor for spring and summer work will be plentiful at $30 to $35 a month, against $50 to $70 paid last year.

Prices of Indoor Fruits and Vegetables.

Chicago, April 19.—Cucumbers, 2-dozen box, $2.75 to $3.75; leaf lettuce, per box, 20 to 22½ cents.

New York, April 16—Cauliflower per dozen, $2.50 to 5.00; cucumbers, 50 cents to $1.25 per dozen; mushrooms, per basket, 50 cents to $1.75; radishes, 100 bunches, $2.00 to $4.00; rhubarb, 50 to 75 cents per dozen bunches.

Texas Cabbage.

C. J. Foster, of Paducah, Ky., writes in the Chicago Tribune of April 17 as follows: "Advices from Texas say that for the first time in history men who ship cabbage, potatoes, and other vegetables must make certified bond to the railways, guaranteeing the freight in case the vegetables do not pay the freight when they reach market. Ten thousand cars of cabbage are now rotting in the south on this account."

Greenhouse Notes.

A visit to our local growers discloses the fact that practically all of them persist in growing a late crop of lettuce among their tomatoes. They claim they cannot afford to miss this last cut of lettuce; that although neither crop can be suited exactly at this time of year by growing them together, yet the total returns are larger than when either one is grown alone. They try to carry a minimum temperature of 55 degrees with some ventilations, which is the low limit for tomatoes. The lettuce grows tall and thin under such conditions, but as a rule, there is a good demand for it in May, often long after the outdoor lettuce is on the market. The public prefers the pretty bleached, tender greenhouse product, hence the effort of the growers to furnish this lettuce.

One of our large producers who has a reputation for poor lettuce for years, has this season produced top-notch stock clear through. The simple reason for his success is that he has for the first time balanced his heavily manure laden soil with acid phosphate, and has used large quantities of this fertilizer, producing some wonderful crops of lettuce; and we believe his tomatoes will also come out ahead. This shows what one missing element will do. Another party has discovered that sulphate ammonia was their key to success. Of course these results are not permanent, for as soon as they persist in over-applications of any element, new conditions are created. Thus we are compelled to experiment continually and use our brains as well as our hands.

Market conditions have been fairly good recently, probably due to enormous damage to crops out-doors, the hard freezes having destroyed most vegetation, even rhubarb. With the loss of the fruit crops in this section, the vegetable men should gain a distinct advantage. We have always held that cheap and good fruit worked a disadvantage to market gardeners.

MARKETMAN.

Pittsburgh.

MARKET MUCH IMPROVED.

The past week found a much improved market. The cooler weather at the beginning of the week kept production down so that the receipts were much smaller, and while no fancy prices were realized, still the same were more steady and all good stock cleaned up and did not have to be sold for a song. At the present writing there is another cold spell with us, with a freezing temperature, and it looks as if the fruit that escaped the last cold weather will get caught this time. American Beauty roses are scarce, but the demand is light and it is only when a special order comes in that they sell at all. The quality of the rose receipts is of the best and the varieties include Premier, Columbia, Pilgrim, Butterfly, Ophelia, Sunburst, Richmond, Pink and White Killarney, Hilda, Maryland and Ward. Carnation offerings are smaller and quality better, with the result that the growers' returns will be double what they were the previous week. The supply of Easter lilies has been small with the result that callas are meeting with better demand than they have for some time. Snapdragons are in heavy supply and the quality is excellent. They are found in pink, yellow, bronze and white.

NOTES.

The McCallum Co. have redecorated their artificial flower display room and will soon be ready with their fall samples. Mr. Phillips, manager of the department, promises some new and original conceptions in artificial flower decorating.

The seed stores all report one of the largest seasons in their history. The war gardens taught the public what it meant to have fresh vegetables from their own garden, and now that that war is over they intend to keep it up.

Jacob Gerwig, head salesman for the Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co. for a number of years, has resigned his position and will go in business for himself. The trade all wish him success in his new venture.

Ross Adgate, Niles, O., pioneer salesman for The McCallum Co., who has been confined at home for the past six weeks with a serious illness, reports that he is again ready to take to the road.

The Shady Avenue Florists of the East end, were forced to close their doors on account of financial difficulties, recently.

Ageratum Fraseri

We feel confident in offering Ageratum "Fraseri" to our customers that we are offering what will be one of the most valuable acquisitions to the bedding plant line in recent years, that it is a blue, a decided blue, that would be continually in bloom. In our trial grounds last summer "Fraseri" attracted more attention than any other bedding plant. It only grew about 8 to 10 inches high and was covered the entire season with what can easily be classed as immense trusses of flowers, as many of them were over 2½ inches across, while the individual flower would be ⅞ of an inch in diameter. The plant spreads about 12 to 15 inches across. It can easily be used with Alternantheras as a border plant.

Being an early bloomer and dwarf, compact grower, it makes an excellent pot plant.

THE PULVERIZED MANURE CO., 32 Union Stock Yards, Chicago

Springfield, Mass.

This city, another of the many thriving and populous centers of the state, has been on the map for many years. Without injecting politics into a trade letter, it may be stated that any man or woman who does not know something of the Springfield Republican, a newspaper, cannot be much of a reader. We were unfortunate in arriving here, April 15, during a pouring rain.

All well informed florists, when they hear the name of this city mentioned, naturally think of Mark Aitken, who, with no reflection on others, is the leading grower and retailer. His store at 372 Main street employes over 12 persons and radiates prosperity. When visiting Mr. Aitken's range, which is a 10-minute ride from the store, we found the genial foreman, Samuel Redstone, who is not unknown among the florists of the eastern states. Here let it be remarked that nowadays there is so much specializing that but few ranges can be found where a great variety of stock is well grown. The Aitken range is a notable exception. In addition to good roses and carnations, snapdragons, candytuft, marigolds, foxglove, lilies, large plants of hydrangeas, marguerites and various other stock are all noteworthy. The range comprises 75,000 square feet of glass and there are 20 acres of good land, on a part of which great stocks of asters, gladioli and other flowers are produced in season.

Wm. Schlatter & Son have greenhouses on Bay street and a store at 422 Main street.

Percy Steele has a fine store at 418 Main street.

Chas. S. Bean, formerly well known in the trade of Boston, Mass., conducts the florist department in the public market. A. F. F.

Buffalo.

Business with the exception of funeral work has been brisk. Stock, with sweet peas and roses the leaders is very plentiful, lilies alone being short. Saturday and Sunday were about as unpleasant as could be, early stock being damaged.

NOTES.

John Priesach, Corfu, N. Y., has purchased the Newman greenhouses and property at Akron, N. Y., and will run them in addition to his Corfu range. They were operated by Wm. F. Kasting Co. for some time and are in good condition.

The Western New York Florists' Association held an important meeting at the Iroquois hotel on April 22, and was well attended. J. F. Ammann, Edwardsville, Ill., and Herman Noble were the principal speakers.

Increasing duties in business has compelled Chas. Felton to engage a chauffeur for his private car.

Jerome Deutcher of the W. F. Kasting Co., says the voteress is getting on fine.

Callahan Cut-to-Fit Greenhouse

Type B.

This type is exceedingly popular with florists. It is standard in four widths—13 ft. 10 in.; 15 ft. 6 in.; 17 ft. 2 in.; and 20 ft. 6 in.

Note the exceptional strength. The center posts are 1¼-inch, spaced 7 feet, with 1-inch Y-bracing. Callahan greenhouses are not only low in first cost—they are also low in cost of maintenance and operation.

This is only one of several standard types we can furnish quickly, all cut to fit, so that erection is a very simple matter.

Let us estimate on your requirements. We can save you money.

MOTHERS' DAY.

SUNDAY, MAY 8.

Advertising Necessary.

Mothers' Day is an opportunity for the florist who believes in it, who is enthusiastic, who puts his whole soul into the work and by force of his example creates enthusiasm in all he comes in contact with. If one is rightly approached they will at once become interested and enter into the observance with spirit, and by their gifts help to spread its propaganda. It is a matter of education that finally brings about a custom that will in time become universal. If the trade all over the country would organize to support a well planned campaign such as has proved so successful in Cleveland, O., and other cities, the establishment of Mothers' Day would be very materially advanced. Each individual can, by going over his stock and selecting articles that may be featured in one way or another, make his entire store take on a Mothers' Day appearance that will help along the movement very materially.

Another way to spread the propaganda is through organizations or employed persons in business houses or factories. The circularization of good literature and the offering of flowers at reduced prices in large quantities so that each may have a flower to wear, will in some instances fall on fertile ground and bring business. Other good fields are churches and Sunday schools, who use flowers quite extensively. In all these offerings, the white carnation is to be rigidly cut out. Keep the slogan "Your Mother's Favorite Flower" always to the front, so that every flower is some mother's favorite. In this way the demand will be general and the great bugaboo of the high priced white carnation will soon become a thing of the past. Also make it clear that colors are appropriate, the reds, the pinks, the whites, the blues and yellows, each a mother's favorite. The narrow cry of many in the trade is "Why should I try to boost Mothers' Day just to make a demand for white carnations and force the price up to such figures as to ruin my trade, and out of which I am unable to realize any returns?"

Mothers' Day should be made to interest everyone, whether large or small buyers. It will bring many into the shop who feel they must have at least one flower and who having broken the ice will feel at liberty to come in soon again. Every plant, box of flowers or other article, should have its distinguishing Mothers' Day mark with ribbon inscription, card or stamp to show its appropriateness for such a gift. An interesting window will contain vases of all the popular flowers with a placard inscribed: "Mothers' Day, May 8; Select your Mother's Favorite Flower." Another effective plan is a window of foliage and flowering plants with a similar window card using plants instead of flowers. All the literature and featuring should be completed well in advance of the event so that by constant repetition it will have the cumulative value that comes from repeated advertising and displays.

When the custom of sending plants and cutflowers on Mothers' Day becomes established everything sells; this is seen in all accounts where through hard work of the local craft, the day is now a fixture, and the sending of flowers has come to be a part of the celebration. No further notice should be taken of the vaporings of Miss Jarvis who has all the honors as founder of the day, but in no place has it been successfully celebrated, save where the trade has put its shoulders to the wheel and made of it a success.

Telegraph Delivery.

This telegraph service is especially appropriate for Mothers' Day and should be featured as the best possible way in which to honor one's mother or her memory with flowers in distant homes on the second Sunday in May.

An especial plea should be made for orders placed well in advance in order that a personal letter may accompany the flowers, avoiding in this way expensive telegrams when too late to post. Ordering flowers by telegraph is now so extensive and in such good working order all over the country that every city or large community is certain of good delivery of all orders entrusted to its care. As a means of boosting the service and showing its great emciency, members of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association should plan out unique decorations exploiting Mothers' Day, and their perfected and instantaneous methods of reaching all distant points.

Here are a few lines for leaflets or circulars suitable for the occasion:

Mothers' Day, May 8, the second Sunday in May.

Wear your mother's favorite flower in her honor on Mothers' Day.

Present the best mother who ever lived, your mother, with her favorite flower.

No matter how distant, remember her on Mothers' Day with a letter enclosed in a box of her favorite flowers.

Honor the mother who has passed away by placing or having flowers placed on her grave. Nothing could be more personal than such a remembrance.

Plants are just as suitable as cut flowers for Mothers' Day either sent to the home or to be planted at the cemetery.

Such reminders and publicity are sure to call attention and an observance of the event along these lines.

Next Week in the Flower Shop.

The coming week ushers in the Queen of May and her attendants, whose dances around the May pole always call for flowers in abundance. School commencements will now soon be due and as before stated in these columns are worth looking after by the trade. It is well to plan ahead for these events and make a run on the flowers easiest to obtain and which artistically arranged may be made the vogue. Calceolaria Stewartii, and well flowered gloxinias are about due, these with their luxurious blossoms and when well decorated make the handsomest of pot plants.

Some florists make a specialty of fancy gold fish which, when intelligently handled, can be sold to good advantage. A good sized stock tank sunk under a rather high bench in the greenhouse so the fish occasionally get the sunshine, and which has a constant flow of water, will keep them in good condition. A number of small receptacles of terra cotta and other materials with gravel in the bottom and a "castle" in the center will hold from two to three fish and show them off very nicely. There should also be a bunch of fish grass which keeps the water sweet and clean. Fish globes in several sizes which hold from one to three smaller fishes, will also be found quite salable.

Keep up the line of window boxes and hanging baskets; now is the time when everyone is fixing up the front and there is nothing more appropriate than plants for this purpose. Certain little novelties in baskets, cut flowers vases, etc., that for some reason have not sold, can be featured. It is not desirable to carry these over and while the season lasts they should be displayed with flowers of various kinds and kept well to the front with their sale pushed whenever possible.

This is a good time to run a fern sale; most everybody wants something green on their porch. A good quantity displayed in front of the shop with a price card will move a lot off quickly and at a good profit.

KEEP THINGS MOVING.

Business must never come to a standstill. The moment there appears to be a stagnation everyone must get busy immediately to put the store in its most attractive garb. A look at the window, shows that it has no punch to it; people give it just a glance and pass on. There must be something put there that will so interest them that they will stop and take a long look and comment on its beauty. A window does not need to be loaded down with flowers to be attractive; just a few items of something choice, artistically placed, will cause comment because of its art.

A number of the stores could handle bedding plants now to advantage. A small neat circular explaining how the narrow city yard borders could be brightened with summer flowering plants and adding a list of the popular and easily procured varieties with prices, would undoubtedly secure increased business.

The telephone service must be kept at its highest efficiency with somebody competent to answer every call. When the proprietor is wanted and is out on business it would be explained that if their number is left, his office will endeavor to have him call them as soon as possible. The telephone should always be answered promptly and all hurry-up orders gotten out as soon as possible.

Do not forget that Mothers' Day is coming and all that you individually and with other members of the trade can do collectively should be well under way at this time. This day is what you make it, you want the co-operation of the public and to get it you must show in your decorations and in your literature all about the event, and do so well in advance that they will talk about it among themselves. The store floor and woodwork should be given a thorough cleaning at least once a week. All the goods on open shelving, tops of cases, etc., should be dusted every morning. This is one of the first jobs in the department stores where all counter surfaces and goods must at all times be entirely free of dust. The customer's writing desk should be spotlessly clean and decorated with its welcoming vase of flowers. The ink stands and pens should be in good condition with a few fresh small blotters.

The Store Window.

A florist of experience who has studied store management in a number of the most successful flower shops of the country, is of the opinion that the volume of business might be doubled if the great majority of the retail trade could be induced to use more energetic measures in pushing the sale of plants and flowers. The trouble appears to be that so many are satisfied with just a living or a little more. Business is all right with them, they are quite sure they are doing the best they can.

What in his opinion is required to wake up the sleepy ones is an educational campaign to show them the possibilities of the business. A few sample window decorations with stock on which a drive can be made, preceded by inspiring circulars to their store's list and prospects would be most effective. Hundreds of manufacturers of fancy articles have decorators, who with the necessary window trims, are constantly going from city to city, making special decorations in windows of stores who handle their goods. This advertises their specialties and creates a demand for them. Some such plan could be tried out in every community whenever a surplus season sets in.

GYPSOPHILA PANICULATA.

See Issue of April 16.

PLANT NOTES.

Gypsophila Paniculata.

There are few summer flowers that are of more use to the florist having a local trade than the gyposophila, for it lightens up work beautifully and greatly aids in softening the appearance of the summer flowers, many of which have a course look in floral work, and in bouquets, sprays and basket work the sprays are particularly useful. The grower not possessing a good bed of this should procure stock at once and plant them in a good, sunny position, and after once becoming established they require no further attention than to keep the bed free from weeds and occasionally cultivated. Seed can be now sown and as soon as large enough transplanted in rows outside, where they can remain until another spring, when they can be again transplanted to permanent quarters, but to have plants that will bloom this year it will be necessary to procure older stock. The double form of this plant is even more beautiful than the single for some purposes, and its lasting qualities to make it more valuable for a cut flower than the older variety.

Celosia Plumosa.

The plants of Celosia plumosa or the ostrich plume celosia are of very easy culture and make very showy plants for either the garden or the greenhouse. They form pyramidal bushes and the yellow and red plumes which resemble ostrich feathers stand gracefully above the foliage. While they make showy plants for the garden, finer specimens are grown under glass, and they make very showy plants in the late summer and fall. Seed sown in April will make fine plants for culture during the summer, but like all the celosias the young seedlings damp off easily. As soon as large enough, they should be potted in good light soil in 2½-inch pots and later shifted to four-inch to grow large plants to six-inch pots. They should be grown in a good, strong light, for if shaded the plants will become drawn and the dwarf, compact plants are more desirable. C. plumosa aurea, the orange ostrich plume, and C. plumosa coccinea, the crimson ostrich plume, are the two best of the older varieties, and Pride of Catsle Gould, a new introduction of the last few years, is the best of all the ostrich plume varieties and can be obtained in many colors.

Peonies.

As soon as the frost is out of the ground the poeny beds should be forked over and the manure mulch that was placed on them last fall should be forked or spaded in, but let this be done by a careful man, or at least not by help that knows nothing about this work. The young growths start very early and are very tender, so it is best not to fork too close to the crowns, but loosen up all the soil around the plants. It is also well to leave the stems covered as deep as they have been all winter, for a sharp frost may injure a stem that has been protected through the severe winter and then subjected to sharp cold. But the loosening of the soil to good depth will conserve the moisture and allow the air to get into the soil. If the plants were not mulched with manure in the fall, it is well to spread some old manure, not fresh, on the beds before spading and fork it in. Although the fall is the best time to transplant peonies, yet if not done and it is desired or necessary to move them, they can be transplanted early in the spring, but this must be done before the growths are above the surface of the ground and as much soil left about the roots as possible. These plants make their young roots in the fall, and if any attempt is made to shake the soil off, the roots will be broken doing this. Divisions must therefore be carefully made so as to disturb the roots as little as possible. The dry roots that are purchased at this time are much better planted in pots or boxes until the roots are formed in the soil and later transplanted to the ground. It cannot be expected that plants of this kind will produce any flowers this year, for it will only be possible to get them established in their new location the first season.

Camellias.

While it is a question if the camellia will ever become as popular as it was years ago, yet there seems to be a growing demand for the blooms of the "Japonica" as it was so familiarly known to the grandparents of the present generation, and the flowers are well adapted to certain classes of work or occasions. A few dwarf plants are now also seen in flower in some of the stores. They are easily grown, the prime requisite being a cool house, one with a night temperature of 45 to 50 degrees, and the constant care throughout the year that all hard-wooded plants require. The large specimens which are grown for cutblooms may be planted in the ground of the house, first spading in a quantity of leaf-mold and rotted cow manure. The small plants are generally grown in pots, firmly planted in the same kind of soil, with plenty of drainage. They do not require repotting often, and when done, the shift should be only to one size larger, and this should be made just after the plant is through flowering, for it then starts to make its growth for another season. When the growth starts, the plants should be given plenty of water and frequently syringed; in fact, careful watering is the one thing necessary in their culture. They should never become dry, and during the hot days of summer, frequent syringings are required, which also greatly assists in keeping down mealy bug and scale, the only two insects to which the plant is subject. The cause of the buds dropping, which will sometimes occur, can invariably be traced to the plant becoming dry sometime during its growth. During the summer, heavy shade over the plants will be required, and an abundance of air should be provided at this time.

Potting Young Stock.

At this season of the year the plant grower will have thousands of young seedlings to pot or place in flats and as many more to shift from a small pot to a larger size, and it does not seem that any instruction in potting should be necessary, but we chanced not long ago to see a boy potting and wondered if the plants would live and we then saw in the houses many of the plants which had been potted struggling for existence. It seems to be the general idea with the young gardener that the one that can pot the most plants in a given time is the smartest, regardless of how well it is done and how the plants afterward grow. The young man whom we saw would fill the pot full and then make a hole in the soil with his finger, place the seedling in the hole and then press the top soil around the stem. The chances were that the roots of many of these plants were still hanging in an enclosed hole in the center of the pot, for the soil should have been firmed around the roots. That he could handle a large number of plants in a given time was no question, but a much better plant can be grown if the soil is made firm around the roots first and then the top firmed down. The same thing happens in transplanting where the loose soil is thrown around between the plant and the pot and the top then firmed down. A little soil should be first thrown in the bottom of the pot, and the plant placed in this, then a little soil around the plant, which should be firmed down, then a little more soil, which can be pressed down from the top. This will take longer, but the plant will live and grow enough better to pay for the extra pains.

MONTREAL, QUE.—Ley & McAllan, Ltd., has been incorporated with a capital of $10,000, to purchase the business of Ley Florist, Registered, to deal in flowers, plants, shrubs, supplies, etc., and to establish greenhouses. G. H. McAllan, Chas Ley, Chas. Wilson and others are the incorporators.

Vegetable Forcing Status.

Address of Prof. L. C. Corbett, Bureau of Plant Industry, Washington, D. C., Before the Vegetable Grower' Association of America.

According to available statistics, there are, at the present time, about 6,000 greenhouse establishments in the United States producing vegetables in all or part of their space, the product having an aggregate value of about $10,000,000 per year. Lettuce, cucumbers and tomatoes are the three crops most largely grown, they representing at least 90 per cent of the total value of the vegetables produced. From these figures, it is apparent that the vegetable forcing business is an important one, as it has, within a comparatively few years, grown from a very small beginning to its present proportions. Originally developed to supply out of season luxuries for consumption by the wealthy classes, it has, at the present time, come to be looked upon as an essential enterprise from the point of view of the man in everyday walks of life. A very large proportion of the winter lettuce produced in the vegetable ranges of the northern United States, is consumed by people of moderate means. Within the past few years, the rapid development of such regions as southern Florida, southern Texas and southern California, for the growing of tomatoes, cucumbers and lettuce in late fall, winter and early spring, has brought the greenhouse men into contact with conditions against which they did not have to contend a few years ago. The aggregate value of the outdoor grown crop, which is sold on the same markets, and in competition with the greenhouse crop, is very large; the exact figures are lacking, but it is known that the state of Florida, in an average season, produces over three and one-half million crates of tomatoes, having a value to the grower of over $4,000,000; about 330,000 crates of cucumbers, having a value of $433,000; and about 927,000 crates of lettuce, with a value of over $800,000. It is also known that southern Texas produces about 18,000 tons of tomatoes annually; these for shipping purposes, while California produces about the same amount. During the past season, in the Imperial valley in California, between 25,000 and 30,000 acres were devoted to winter lettuce. While not all of the product grown in these various localities ordinarily comes in competition with greenhouse grown crops marketed in the larger cities of the north, yet the fact remains, that in certain seasons of the year, this outdoor grown material does, to a very large extent, determine the market prices.

DAHLIA COPPERSMITH.

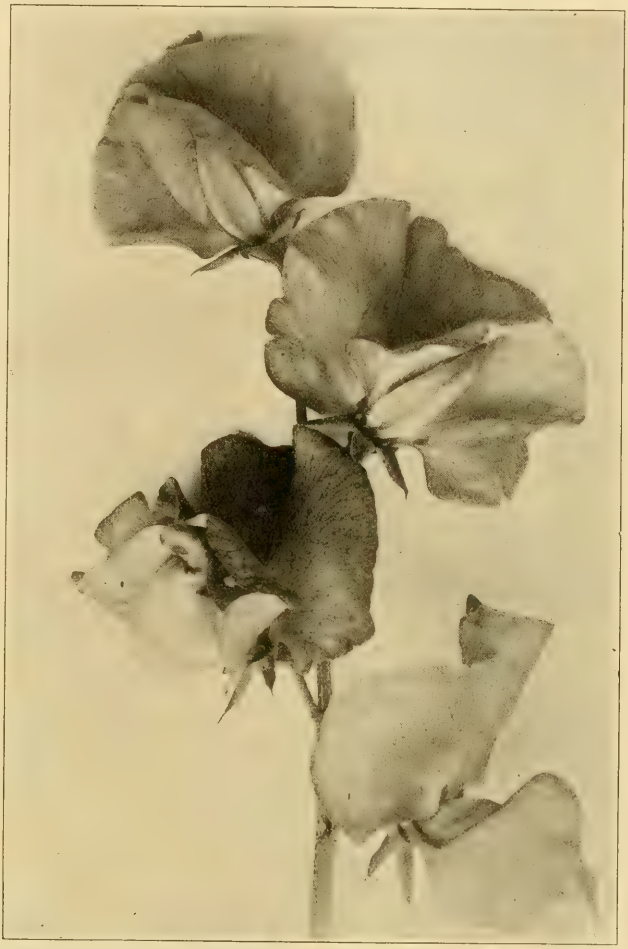
OVERCOMING COMPETITION.

It is our feeling that there is a logical place for both the indoor and outdoor grown material, and that by properly timing the maturity of his crops, the greenhouse man can, without difficulty, successfully maintain himself in this competitive position. He has one marked advantage over the man producing outdoor grown crops, in that it is possible in the greenhouse to produce tomatoes, melons, cucumbers, etc., that are far superior to anything that can be grown out of doors. It is a well-known fact that greenhouse tomatoes are markedly superior in quality to the average outdoor grown material, and far superior to tomatoes that are packed partly green and shipped several hundred miles to market. The same is true of cucumbers and melons. It is not always necessary for the greenhouse vegetable man to meet outdoor competition in price, as, in many cases, his product is so far superior, that it will readily command prices twice as high as asked for vegetables of poorer quality grown outdoors. Even though the competition becomes so severe that the greenhouse man cannot afford to grow ordinary grades of lettuce and other kindred crops, he can still, by growing and packing high grade vegetables, more than hold his own. We are all familiar with the attractiveness of the Pacific Coast apples, and this is very largely due to the methods used in packing the fruit. It is perfectly possible for the vegetable greenhouse man to cater to just such a trade, and thereby secure a more liberal reward for his painstaking efforts.

It has been felt that the members of the Vegetable Growers' Association of America would be interested in a brief study of some of the factors bearing on the relationship of the outdoor vegetable industry, as carried on in Florida, southern Texas and southern California, and in other sections where winter vegetables can be produced, versus the crops produced in forcing structures.

REDUCING THE HIGH COST.

The office of horticultural and pomological investigations has, for years past, been keenly interested in the vegetable forcing industry, and while we are, of course, equally interested in the outdoor industry, we wish, for the present, to study some of the problems of the greenhouse man, and some of the ways whereby he can overcome the handicap of high cost fuel, labor and supplies. It is an undeniable fact that the cost of producing greenhouse vegetables is now two or three times what it was 10 years ago. Coal, labor and greenhouse materials have certainly doubled, and in some cases, more than doubled in cost. At the present time, greenhouse glass of good grade, costs about as much per foot as did the completed house several years ago. But the greenhouse man should remember that equally difficult, if not more difficult conditions, face the grower located several hundred miles from his markets, and who must depend upon the uncertainty of transportation today. While it is true that the greenhouse man is dependent upon railroads for his fuel supply, and for carrying his product to market, yet he can, in an emergency, store his fuel during the summer months, and market his product by truck. This is especially true of the small concern, whose product is absorbed in nearby cities.



NEW SWEET PEA ROSALIND.

From a general survey of the vegetable industry, one cannot but be convinced that the problems confronting the greenhouse men today are no greater, if as great, as those the Florida, Texas or southern California grower must face. These growers are under the necessity of producing their crops several hundred miles away from their markets, and they must bear the expenses of growing the crop, harvesting and picking it, and guarantee transportation charges to its destination. It is true that the greenhouse man must bear most of this expense also, but he is, as a rule, much nearer his markets, and there is less liability of loss due to shipping. The greenhouse man located in the continental portion of the United States, can put his tomatoes, lettuce and cucumbers on the markets in much better condition than is possible for the grower who must pick his tomatoes while green, and who must count on having his product in transit about a week before it reaches the consumer. Attempts made during the past season to put Imperial Valley cucumbers on eastern markets did not meet with uniform success.

TIMING CROPS FOR BETTER PRICES.

What then can the greenhouse man do to improve his chances of conducting a profitable business in the face of present day competition? First of all, by planning his cropping system so that his tomatoes, his lettuce, and his cucumbers can be put on the market when there is a scarcity, or absolute lack of outdoor grown material. It is thought, however, that too much emphasis should not be placed on this, as for instance, in the case of tomatoes, it is often possible to produce a greenhouse crop and sell it in competition with outdoor grown tomatoes, and realize greater profits than would be the case were the crop grown and sold when no outdoor stuff was available, as tomatoes produced in midwinter do not as a rule yield satisfactorily, and require much more fuel to mature them than is the case when they are grown in the spring.

In the second place, the greenhouse man can improve his chances of success by practicing careful cultural methods that will insure maximum yields of the crops he is growing. From a survey of the vegetable growing regions of the country, it is felt that greenhouse men, as a rule, follow excellent cultural practices, and secure very satisfactory yields, and for this reason it is felt that, while this factor is important, yet it is by no manner of means the most important one.

Another very important factor that has a great deal to do with the success of the greenhouse vegetable man is the methods he follows in marketing his crop. This is the day of cooperative marketing, and the growers who are today making a marked success of the vegetable growing industry, are the ones who are paying close attention to the sale of the crops after they have been carefully grown and carefully packed. In many cases, it is possible for the sale of the crops to be conducted on a cooperative plan, and in many cases, individual selling produces good results. An excellent example of what can be effected through cooperative marketing is furnished by the Ashtabula Lettuce Growers' Association, this organization being familiar to all of you. These things are all important factors in the success of the greenhouse vegetable grower, but do not, in our estimation, bear as important a relation to the success of the vegetable growing business as does the matter of, choice of and maintenance of the greenhouse equipment.

THE FUEL PROBLEM.

The largest single item of cost in the production of greenhouse vegetable crops is, as a rule, fuel, and the matter of fuel economy is of especial importance at the present time owing to the tremendous increases in its cost. With economical equipment, it requires from about 300 to 500 tons of coal, depending upon the crops grown, to heat an acre under glass for the growing season. At present prices, this means that it requires a very large outlay of money to maintain several acres of glass at temperatures suitable for the crops being grown, and savings of even small percentages of the fuel will, in the aggregate, amount to large sums. There never was a time when larger returns could be secured from the expenditure of time and money in remodelling poorly designed heating systems, and in thoroughly cleaning even the best designed systems. The efforts should not stop at a general cleaning and remodelling of the heating system, but should include attention to the houses themselves. No matter how carefully the greenhouse is constructed, leaks are sure to develop, and these are prolific causes of fuel wastage. The very nature of the structure makes it difficult to keep them tight, and unless repairs are promptly made, the average greenhouse soon becomes so loose that it is almost impossible to maintain a suitable temperature without the use of an excessive amount of fuel. Anyone who has had occasion to climb on the roof of a greenhouse in midwinter, will realize how much heat is lost owing to small leaks.

Sufficient time remains this autumn to go over the houses and tighten them up in every way possible. Greenhouses are very liable to settle, due to improper foundations, the result being poorly fitted ventilators and doors. Time spent in refitting doors and adjusting ventilators so they will close properly, will be time and money well invested.

Contrary to the general belief, the geographical location of the greenhouse does not make as much difference as might be suspected in the amount of fuel consumed. Investigations conducted by the office of horticultural and pomological investigations show that there is comparatively little difference in the fuel consumed in the same length of growing season in northern Ohio, Chicago and Boston areas and those further south. It has been our feeling for many years that greenhouse men generally do not appreciate the wasteful methods commonly followed in heating their ranges. Many of the vegetable ranges, particularly the older plants, have antiquated heating systems, which never were particularly efficient, but which are now in especially bad condition, and we have records showing that in many cases as much as 30 to 40 per cent of the fuel used can be saved by remodelling or replacing these plants with up-to-date equipment. It would seem, therefore, that the most important message I can bring to the greenhouse men today, is that each and every one pay particular attention to the saving of fuel through some of the methods suggested above.

In conclusion, it would seem that there is no cause for pessimism among greenhouse men. Conditions are unusual, and will perhaps remain so for some time, but greenhouse men are not alone in facing this. It is felt that those growers who plan their cropping systems judiciously, who use their labor intelligently, who pay due attention to the marketing of the product, and who pay particular attention to the economical operation of their plants, and especially their heating plants, will, in the long run, receive satisfactory returns from the production of greenhouse forcing crops.

Lasting Qualities of Flowers.

From the commercial standpoint, the lasting quality of a flower is almost as important as its beauty. A proof of this is seen in the way a host of plants, which used to be grown under glass and outside, but which are too fragile to use in a cut state, have almost entirely disappeared from cultivation. Even in the same family there are wide differences, as for instance, in roses, where we might mention Ophelia as near the top in this respect, while Betty often flops hopelessly within an hour or two after being cut. In the asters, which made such a fine show the past season, we have noted a very marked gradation. Some begin to curl up their florets in a day or two, while others look fresh for a week or more. Among the most remarkable in this respect is the fine new white, "Sam Banham," sent us for trial. We have this in water in fine condition, though it is now getting on in its third week since it was cut, and this enduring quality (in addition to its fine appearance) should recommended it to everyone in the cut-flower trade.

However, our idea in starting these notes was not to sing the praises of any particular plant, but to call attention to the subject generally, and suggest that our friends should always note the point when listing new plants, especially for the trade. The fact that a plant is what the Americans call a "good shipper," may increase its sale immensely, if stress is laid upon the point. We may add that we shall always be pleased to receive brief notes on this subject, if from actual experience, from any of our readers.—Horticultural Advertiser.

HEAVY DEMAND FOR STOCK.

The past week has been one of decided activity. The opening of the opera season coming at a time when there is a heavy rose supply has been of immense benefit to business and has helped clean up large stocks which under normal conditions it would be somewhat difficult to move. The heavy yearly spring cut of roses is now at its height and all varieties are to be had in abundance. Roses of the finest quality can be noted at all the street merchants' stands. Out-door roses are also being offered freely. Carnations are in ample supply at much lower prices than for some time. Despite the lateness of the season there seems to be enough violets for all requirements. Some splendid iris are arriving and have a good call. Much of the stock has stems three feet long. High grade tulips are much in evidence in the stores and bring very good prices. In peonies nearly all colors are represented, but much of the stock is not so good as that offered a few weeks ago. Sweet peas are rapidly coming to the front as the most popular spring flower. All stock now on the market is outdoor grown and of the best quality. Satisfactory figures are being realized for all this stock. Gardenias are not as plentiful as buyers would wish. Much of the stock is small but finds a ready market. The increase in the cattleya supply has been most acceptable, and more stock could be used if obtainable. The opera season has created an unprecedented demand for this class of flowers. Lily of the valley is in strong demand, with not enough to go around. Cecile Brunner roses are in strong favor for corsage work. We have rarely seen better lilacs than the stock offered by some of the stores. A fine supply of Giganteum lilies is still arriving with prices firm. A few late daffodils continue to arrive and clean up readily. Freesias are represented by the yellow variety only. Larkspur is coming in and has a good call for basket work. Tamarisk is seen everywhere and is in much demand owing to its novel color stocks; mignonette, pansies and marigolds are leaders in the out-of-door stock. Several fine varieties of flowering eucalyptus are very acceptable for decorative work. Funeral work has been much in evidence all week and helped to clean up stock to a great extent. Social functions are also creating a good call for all seasonable offerings. There is a large supply of ferns, asparagus and green goods of every description. There is not much to be had in the way of flowering plants. Foliage plants and Boston ferns seem to receive the most attention at this time.

NOTES.

The exhibition committees of the Pacific Coast Horticultural Society and the Retail Florists' Association, met April 12 at the offices of the Art Floral Company. It was decided to hold the exhibition in the Civic auditorium, October 26-28. Victor Ferrari and B. M. Joseph were appointed to arrange for the guaranty fund. According to the present plans of both committees this exhibition should be a successful event. Prominent plant and flower growers have promised their active cooperation. P. Vincent Matraia, of the Art Floral Company, has already ordered a carload of palms to be used in his firm's exhibit. The prize committee, of which H. Plath is chairman, met April 19 to draft a preliminary schedule.

A bronze statue of John McLaren, superintendent of Golden Gate park, whose ability as designer and developer of the grounds during 30 years' service, has given this city one of the finest parks in the country, will be erected shortly in this park. The statue is a gift of A. B. Spreckles, park commissioner. The sculptor, Earl Cummings, is also a park commissioner.

Kenneth S. Murray, Redwood City, is sending a fine cut of Ophelia and Columbia roses to this market. He is more pleased than ever with his new sport of Columbia and predicts a great future for it as a commercial variety. This stock shows no variation in color, and the greater part of it will be used for propagating.

Eric James, Elmhurst and H. Platt, of this city, are listed among those who have subscribed to the guarantee fund of the national flower show to be held in Cleveland O., in 1922. Both are among the leading plant growers of the coast and are on the exhibition committee for the show to be held here next October.

A grower of carnations, whose stock always commands fancy prices in this market, is T. Hoshi, Berkeley. His greenhouses are located at Stege, a suburb of Berkeley. Mr. Hoshi is also president of the California Flower Market of this city.

Ferrari Bros. are supplying the trade here with a very fine grade of lily of the valley. Victor Ferrari, manager, states that the demand for this flower is normal again. The orchid houses at this place are giving a nice cut of Mossaie.

B. M. Joseph, in charge of publicity for the Retail Florists' Association, is going ahead with his advertising plans for Mothers' Day. The same newspaper space as was devoted to the Easter campaign will be used.

Walter L. Bates, Fruitvale, is producing a fine lot of the newer chrysanthemums this season. Mr. Bates is a noted grower of this flower and we may expect great things from him at the October show.

Mrs. E. Lymbery, proprietor of the Bessie Boston Dahlia Farms, San Mateo, has purchased several acres adjoining her property. She reports the demand for dahlias to be much heavier than last year.

The opening of the opera season has made a continuous demand upon Pelicano, Rossi & Co. for floral work of high order. After a protracted illness Frank Pelicano is again able to attend to business.

The spring bulletin of the Dahlia Society of California has been issued, copies of which can be secured from F. C. Burns, secretary, San Rafael, Calif.

The seventh annual wild flower exhibition was held at the St. Frances hotel, April 28-30. Luther Burbank was one of the prominent exhibitors.

The recent rains have been of great benefit to the chrysanthemum growers of Menlo Park and Redwood City.

The Chinese growers, who grow the late varieties largely, have also planted their usual acreage along the peninsula.

Ulrich Brunner roses at the Conci Nursery, Colma, never looked better than they do this spring.

Richard McWhirter, on 19th avenue, has made large plantings of the newer gladioli.

Chas C. Navlet, San Jose, was a visitor to his store in this city last week.

CANTON, ILL.—Mrs. Anna M. Jacobs, mother of Geo. W. Jacobs, is in a critical condition following a fractured hip sustained some three weeks ago. Mrs. Jacobs is the widow of Balthazer Jacobs who established in 1878 the greenhouse business which is now being conducted by the son.

STOCK SELLING WELL.

The past week has showed an improved demand at all of the retail establishments. This is somewhat different from conditions which prevailed during the previous three weeks when trade was rather slow. Corsages have been selling exceptionally well and more were sold during the past week than during the entire period since Easter. Receptions and parties have been more numerous and this has reflected on the trade to a marked extent. Weddings are also coming to the front. With industrial conditions slowly returning to normal, sales are increasing on every hand and the improvement is expected to continue. Funerals have also been rather numerous during the week. There has been a good demand for Darwin tulips, prices ranging from $2 to $3 per dozen. Roses, carnations, sweet peas, snapdragons and other seasonable blooms have a good call. Some bad growing weather has cut down production but with a quiet demand this was a good feature. Pot plants have had a fair call, with small offerings. Greenhouses are doing a good business supplying householders with greens and vines for hanging baskets and outside decorations. Active preparations are being made for Mothers' Day.

NOTES.

Horticulturists at the Ohio State university are urging fruit growers in central Ohio to spray their fruit trees, despite the widespread injury done to the fruit by the recent frosts. They urge that trees be examined carefully to see if enough live fruit remains to warrant spraying. It is claimed that experience has taught that oftimes when an orchard is neglected to be sprayed after a killing frost, a fair crop of fruit, which is very wormy is harvested. This fruit would have been of excellent quality if the trees had been sprayed.

Another meeting of the Flower Growers' and Dealers' Association was held April 20, with a large attendance. The principal topic under discussion was advertising for Mothers' Day. It was decided to take the advertising as a whole and all of the local florists will participate. The Sunday previous to Mothers' Day will be used for this publicity.

The Gay Street Floral Co. has been having some unusual window decorations. One of the features during the past week was a large bowl in the form of an aquarium filled with flowers. Water is kept running continuously.

STOCK CLEANS UP NICELY.

Business has been unusually good, with decorating work, social events and funerals taking the bulk of the offerings. Stock is plentiful for ordinary trade, but at times it runs short of the demand. Some fine roses in Premier, Ophelia, Butterfly, Columbia, Pink and White Killarney are arriving. Carnations are extra good and plentiful. Sweet peas are excellent. Calendulas, larkspur, callas, stocks, lupines, snapdragons and some late bulbons stock make up material that works in nicely for the numerous social events. The varieties of pot plants are limited but what are on the market sell well. Out-door spring plants are looking fine, and when the season opens up there will be a big call for them. Stock for Mothers' Day so far appears to be in heavy supply, and this will be one year that the buying scope of the customer will not be limited to a few flowers.

NOTES.

Henry Kusik & Co. are receiving some very fine roses and carnations from Greenwood which cleans up nicely. Various offerings for the Mothers' Day trade will be carried at this establishment.

The Pinehurst Floral Co. is receiving large shipments daily from its houses at Pleasant Hill. Wm. Wade, of this firm reports they will be well stocked both for Mothers' Day and the spring trade.

A good cemetery business is being had by A. F. F. Barbee. He reports a good outlook for bedding plants and Mothers' Day trade.

Mothers' Day will find the Alpha Floral Co. well supplied with an excellent stock. This firm has had a run of funeral orders.

W. J. Barnes has a complete line of bedding stock. Funeral, hospital and palm work has been very heavy with him.

James Payne has his bedding material in good condition, and has a fine lot of Frances Perkins geraniums.

A good supply of both cut flowers and pot plants is expected at the E. A. Humfeld store for Mothers' Day.

J. E. Murray & Co. reports store trade very good, in fact better than usual for this time of the year.

Chas. Thomas, of the Rosery says that corsage, hospital and funeral work has been very good with them.

T. J. Noll & Co. report business heavy, with numerous orders for the Mothers' Day trade.

The Kansas City Wholesale Cut Flower Co. is well stocked with flowers for Mothers' Day.

Adolph D. Mohr has a number of orders for bedding plants. His stock is in good shape.

Some fine carnations, sweet peas and snapdragons are being cut by Wm. Rinehardt.

A fine supply of pot plants is seen at the W. L. Rock Flower Co., establishment.

A fine May business is expected by M. Neph of the Muehleback Floral Shop.

Arthur Newell is looking forward to a fine Mothers' Day business.

Hydrangeas are a feature with Samuel Murray.

STOCK IN GOOD SUPPLY.

The supply of stock is sufficient for all purposes. Roses are at their best and clean up well, with the exception of the white varieties. Carnations are in liberal supply and sold well the latter part of the week. Sweet peas of good quality are arriving. Pansies have become a favorite flower for corsage work. Some good plants are still to be had, including baby rambler roses of the Orleanais type. Hydrangeas and calceolarias move well. Good greens can be purchased at pre-war prices. Southern ferns, the first of the season, made their appearance during the week.

NOTES.

Julius Baer reports business at his store as only fair, but we must differ with him judging from his ability to purchase a new car of the Marmon type.

C. E. Critchell reports a good week in ribbon and basket sales, and is receiving some excellent snapdragons and calendulas from Wm. Shaefer, Price Hill.

H. W. Sheppard has been busy with table decorations and has a beautiful window display at his establishment.

C. J. Jones, of the Walnut Hills Floral Bazaar, is confined to his home with a bad case of rheumatism.

Business is good at the establishment of Fred Gear, although not equal in volume to a year ago.

A record week in the sale of plants is reported by A. E. Becker of the Avondale Floral Co.

P. J. Olinger & Co. are receiving choice roses from their greenhouse at New Castle, Ind.

Choice Darwin tulips and southern ferns are features with the Wm. Murphy Co.

Lawrence Lawman is recovering after undergoing an operation April 22.

The Tromey Flower Shop has been busy with funeral work.

Visitors: Jos. H. Hill, Richmond, Ind.; Geo. S. Taffel, of Schloss Bros., Ribbons, Inc., New York, and Mrs. Fannie White, Lexington, Ky.

Trade has had a more encouraging look the past week. Stock has been plentiful and of excellent quality. Roses, sweet peas, carnations and jonquils have been in good supply. Funeral work has been active.

WESTERN NEW YORK FLORISTS' ASS'N

The Western New York Florists' Association held a meeting at the Hotel Iroquois, April 22, Wallace Eiss presiding. There were 209 members and guests present. Growers from Erie, Pa., and as far east as Rochester, N. Y., were in attendance. Toronto, Ont., was also represented. The address of Herman P. Knoble, Cleveland, O., on "Merchandising," was very interesting. J. F. Ammann, Edwardsville, Ill., who presented a talk on "Co-operative Advertising," advised the grower to do his part in aiding the wholesaler and retailer to dispose of his stock and educate the people to "Say it With Flowers." The work of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association, the individual advertising of many firms, and the co-operative advertising among the trade was certain to advance the business. Slides were used to illustrate his address. The table decorations were very beautiful, including roses from J. H. Dunlop's, Ltd., Toronto, Ont. The flowers were left at the hotel to be used by the American Legion for the benefit of the disabled soldiers. Dancing was indulged in until late in the evening. The out-of-town visitors included: John H. Dunlop, Geo. M. Geraghty and J. J. Higgins, of Toronto, Ont.; M. Hellas, Erie, Pa., and C. F. Treichler, president of the Western New York Florists' Association, Sanborn, N. Y. The meeting of the association was such a success that it is hoped to hold another session in the near future.

BISON.

Hartford, Conn.

At the John Coombs range we found Foreman N. C. Osborn, who is also vice-president of the American Carnation Society. He is taking a cheerful outlook for the future and at present is busy with spring work. The houses show good stocks of roses and carnations; of the latter Laddie is noteworthy. Mr. Osborn has just planted a bed of white(?) Ophelia roses, but says he is in some doubt as to the color. This is one of the new productions that has yet to be tried out.

The best time to visit this city is about the middle of June when the rose garden of Elizabeth park will appear in all its glory. But it is probable that in January, 1922, quite a number of rose and carnation growers will wend their way here to attend the conventions and exhibitions of their respective societies, which it may be stated in passing, will be held in the Armory.

Easter trade was excellent with Welch, the Florist. This store is always well stocked and attractive.

OBITUARY.

Samuel S. Butterfield.

Samuel S. Butterfield, formerly a member of our staff, died at his home in Oklahoma City, Okla., April 12, age 61 years. Death followed an operation and an illness of about four weeks.

Mr. Butterfield was born in Yorkshire, Eng., and came to the United States in 1885. He was with the Florists' Exchange, New York, for a number of years and later represented THE AMERICAN FLORIST in that city. Ill health compelled him to seek a change of climate and he located in Oklahoma City in 1909. At an age when most lawyers have established their practice he studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1915, when 55 years old. He was twice elected representative from his district and during the two terms instituted many measures and championed many causes which he believed were for civic betterment. He was elected county commissioner last November by a majority of more than 5,000, proportionately the largest of any candidate, and was to take office July 1, succeeding the present chairman of the county board.

Funeral services were held at St. Paul's Episcopal Cathedral, February 14. All offices in the court house were closed during the services, also business houses in the vicinity of the capitol. Mr. Butterfield is survived by his widow, a daughter, Mrs. Otto Rose, and a son, Ed. S., all of Oklahoma City, also a brother, Rothwell, of Jamestown, N. Y.

Mr. Butterfield always maintained his keen interest in trade affairs and attended the convention of the Society of American Florists at Cleveland, O., last year.

Mrs. F. L. Olmsted.

Mrs. Mary Cleveland Olmsted, widow of Frederick Law Olmsted, the landscape architect, died April 23 at her home, 99 Warren street, Brookline, Mass. Mrs. Olmsted was in her ninety-second year and was born in New York, the daughter of Dr. Henry Perkins and Sarah (Jones) Perkins. She was educated in that city. Her first husband was Dr. John Hull Olmsted, whose health was such that he and his wife spent much of their time abroad. Dr. Olmsted died while in Europe. In June, 1859, Mrs. Olmsted married, for her second husband, Dr. Olmsted's brother, Frederick Law Olmsted. He died in 1904. Mrs. Olmsted is survived by two children, Miss Marion Olmsted and Frederick Law Olmsted, named for his father.

SYRACUSE, N. Y.—Gustav Hackbarth, owner of a greenhouse in this city for many years, died April 6, age 83.

HARRODSBURG, KY. — The Standard Floral Co. has been incorporated with capital stock increased from $10,000 to $30,000.

BALTIMORE, MD —Wm. Patterson, Sr., of Ready avenue, who has been ill at his home for some time, is reported improving daily.

SUPERIOR, NEB.—Victor Rhyd, proprietor of the Superior Floral Co., is completing his third house to be used exclusively for roses.

NEW YORK.—Henry S. de Forest, who for several years was connected with Hitchings & Co., and the Pierson U-Bar Co., is now with the Wm. H. Lutton Co., 512 Fifth avenue.

THE S. A. F.

National Publicity Campaign.

The publicity committee is at the present time concentrating its attention upon plans to continue the national advertising as soon as possible. The slogan "Say It With Flowers," as all know, became well established through the first three years of the campaign, becoming an asset to the trade of very considerable worth. This asset should not be jeopardized, hence the committee's desire to resume magazine advertising at the earliest possible date. The committee believes it due to the subscribers that the sums paid into the campaign fund be publicly recorded, therefore hereafter it will furnish the trade papers regularly with lists of subscribers, with the amounts actually paid into the fund, instead of the amounts of subscriptions guaranteed. Such a list is now sent to the trade press, showing total receipts since January 1, last, amounting to $21,525. Bills are going out to subscribers who are delinquent in respect to their guarantees, and the committee urges that remittances be made to the secretary without delay. Nothing but the need of funds is holding the campaign back, and it is not believed that those who are in arrears want to hamper the work.

It might be pointed out that although the sum mentioned as received since January 1, is rather large, it should be remembered that it had to be drawn upon to meet obligations incurred by the committee in connection with the last advertising, and also to clean up the contract made for billboards. The latter expense, however, forms an asset which will be realized upon to the full, as billboard sales work off the stock on hand. When all are disposed of these will be live advertising in force, of inestimable value, and which has cost the campaign little or nothing.

Incidentally, it may be said that another effort is to be made soon to get personally in touch with prospective subscribers. J. Fred Ammann, Edwardsville, Ill., will start about May 8 on a trip to cover 15 of the largest cities in the west, with the idea of forming in each, allied florists' associations to cover district territory, which will engage in publicity work and turn in to the national campaign fund a liberal portion of the subscription collected, for national publicity, by using the remainder for local publicity. This plan has already been tried, and with success. Associations already formed in Chicago, St. Louis, Mo.; Buffalo, N. Y.; New York, and Portland, Ore., are contributing a percentage of their funds to the national movement.

National Flower Show.

The guarantee fund covering the fifth national flower show, Cleveland, O., 1922, is nearly complete, only about $1,000 more being required. The following are additional subscribers to the fund, which now amounts to $18,962:

The secretary has prepared a floor plan covering the area set apart for the trade exhibits, and copies of it will be distributed very shortly. It must be borne in mind that the space rental, $1.75 per square foot, will include railing, background, and the official sign. It is the idea of the committee to have the exhibits at this show uniform in appearance, to enhance the decorative effect of the show. At other exhibitions the irregular appearance of the trade exhibits has greatly marred the beauty created by the competitive exhibits, resulting in criticism, which should not be forthcoming at any show inaugurated by florists.

Considerable interest is already shown in the competition for the grand capital prize, several entries already being promised. At the next meeting of the committee, regulations as to dimensions of exhibits will be decided upon, and opening and closing dates for entries fixed. It is expected that a meeting of the local executive committee will be held in Cleveland within the next two or three weeks, at which the chairman and secretary of the national flower show committee will be present. Much important business will be transacted at this session.

The Washington Convention.

Although copies of the floor plan of the trade exhibition at the convention were only recently distributed, enough reservations of space have already been made to take up almost half of the space area available. The list to date of those making reservations is as follows:

THE amaryllis is being exploited by the Department of Agriculture.

FRENCH growers of immortelles write that the severe weather in southern France, December 17-20, reduced the probable crop 60 to 70 per cent.

MORE wealth has come out of the two top feet of the earth than out of all the mines of the world—protect that two top feet of earth.—Martin H. Glynn, Former Governor of New York.

The Drummer Boys.

Invitations are out for the wedding of Miss Jeanne Wertheimer, New York, and Julius Dilldoff, well known representative of Wertheimer Bros.

J. P. McCarthy, the hustling Rice man of Philadelphia, Pa., is making a western trip.

Peonies at Evansville.

It is expected that the peony crop in the Evansville, Ind. district will be one-third less than a year ago due to three severe freezes during April. This fact was brought out at a well attended meeting of growers held at that city April 16. Previous to the first frost, peonies had grown six to eight inches high, and the mild weather during this period gave promise of an excellent crop. After this freeze the plants turned black and drooped. The sun coming out soon afterward caused increased injury to the peonies, which would not have been the case if the weather had remained cloudy and cool. A second frost coming two weeks later, damaged the plants that escaped the previous one. Since then, freezing weather has registered another blight on the crop.

The bulk of the peony acreage in this district is in Vanderburg county, with two growers in Spencer county, making a total of about 100 acres. In 1920 over 800,000 peonies were produced here, which was considered the best year ever experienced here. One-third or less of that amount will be sent to Chicago this year, which is the principal market for this section, and prices will be considerably higher.

A crop of peonies consisting of 10 acres near Grayville, Ill., a few miles west of this city was severely damaged by frost and hail, and 20 acres at Vincennes, Ind., were reported as being practically ruined by the freezing weather.

The cutting of the crop in this section will begin about May 3 and will be completed two or three weeks after that date.

Tulips at New York Botanic Garden.

Vegetation this year, owing to the unusually early warm weather, is far in advance of normal. This has affected not only shrubs and trees, but tulips also. The Darwin and Cottage tulips form the greater part of this tulip display, and usually are at their best here from the middle of May to the first of June. This year, however, the earlier varieties are now (April 21) in bloom, so that the next two or three weeks will see the flowering of the entire collection, so that the display will probably be finished at about the beginning of the flowering period of these tulips in normal years.

There are two displays of tulips; one located in the beds in the court of conservatory range No. 1, but a short distance from the terminus of the Third avenue elevated, the other in the horticultural gardens on the Southern boulevard almost opposite Fordham hospital.

Apple Blossom Time.

Fruit blossom season lasts about three weeks along the Ohio valley in each locality, or six weeks along the entire course, owing to different latitudes, from the mouth to the source of the great "Stream of Empire." The peach blossoms come first, with cherry trees following. They make gorgeous displays of beauty, but the culmination of vernal glory is the week when the apple trees are in full bloom. Nothing in nature is more beautiful than the apple blossom, and when a vigorous tree is decorated with thousands of the fragrant pink and white growths, with a touch of green where each bud leaves the stem, and the fragrant breeze carries their delicate fragrance, spring takes full possession of one's soul.—Clipping.

Asparagus Plumosus Nanus.

FALSE AND TRUE.

There are said to be two strains of Asparagus plumosus nanus growing in California. One of these in its early stages of growth, and perhaps during all of its growth, produces sprays which feather out in many directions, while the true strain, preferred and required by commercial florists, throws out its feathery branches in a horizontal direction, producing what can be termed flat sprays. The difference in this growth can be distinguished after the seedlings are five or six weeks old.

Cape Jessamine Buds for Memorial Day

The Queen of Flowers
600,000 This Season
The Largest Jessamine Farm in the U.S.

To Our Customers and the Trade:—The Cape Jessamine Bud Crop will be ten days earlier this season than it has for the past several years, starting about May 8. This will enable us to fill your Decoration Day order complete and have it in your store several days in advance, so there will be no need for you to worry. We will also be able to take care of any rush order after May 10. An early order or two will no doubt stimulate your Decoration Day trade.

Our buds are fine; we believe in cultivation and fertilization, which costs money, but the extra quality more than repays it. "Squirrel ear" leaves and nobby buds do not go with us. If you have never bought off us, all we ask is a trial shipment.

We will ship anywhere in the U.S; time arrivals and guarantee A1 stock. No order too large for us. Place your order where the supply is large, but to avoid the rush, order early. We are booking orders daily. Special attention given regular orders. Jessamines travel at second-class express rate.

Class X, 12 to 18 inch stems.....$3.00 per 100; $25.00 per 1000
Class A, 8 to 12 inch stems..... 2.00 per 100; 18.00 per 1000

EXCELLENT SUPPLY OF STOCK.

The cold snap of the past week accompanied by sleet and snow, caused considerable damage to outdoor stock, such as daffodils, tulips, etc. Fruit trees were injured somewhat but the damage will not be as much as originally estimated. Bulbous stock is fast disappearing. There is an abundance of yellow marguerites in the market just now. Calla and Harrissii lilies are plentiful. Sweet peas have come down in price and the quality is excellent. Roses of all kinds are abundant. Snapdragons, gladioli, zinnias, calendulas and freesias are all fine in quality. Hydrangeas, marguerites and primroses are excellent for blooming plants.

NOTES.

John Dunbar, assistant superintendent of parks, published a valuable article in the Times-Union of April 15 on the importance of planting and cultivating trees and shrubs in the city. Public school teachers were urged to impress upon the minds of the young the great economic value of planting trees and shrubs.

Two automobile loads of florists attended the banquet of the Western New York Florists' Association in Buffalo, April 22. State-wide publicity for the trade was discussed.

Thos. Sullivan, formerly of Geo. B. Hart's, is sending some excellent cibotiums to this market from his greenhouses in Lindenville, N. Y.

J. B. Keller & Sons had the decorations for a wedding of some size in New York, April 26. John Veemer had charge of the work.

A fine display of azaleas, hydrangeas and daffodils is seen at the office of the city park board, on Fitzhugh street.

Jos. Werdin has severed his connection with the H. E. Wilson Co.

Wm. H. Dildine is again back at work after a long illness.

Visitors: James Karins, Philadelphia, Pa.; Milton Selinka and Morris Cohen, New York; E. Y. Kachline, Scranton, Pa. CHESTER.

PEONIES ARE ARRIVING.

Peonies made their appearance in the market last week in good sized quantities and were prominently featured in the widow displays of several of the leading stores. Most of the stock received so far is from Tennessee and from present indications will be in good supply for Mothers' Day. The Indiana fields were hit quite heavily by frost according to some of the growers and it is reported that stock at Carbondale was also affected. Peonies will come in handy for Mothers' Day if the demand is anywhere near what it was in previous years, for some of the local growers are inclined to believe that the supply of stock in general will be none too plentiful while others remark that they will be satisfied if their wholesalers dispose of all the stock they cut. Many of the growers have already planted a large portion of their young roses which makes the rose supply rather uncertain. Carnations will be in fairly good supply with prices quoted all the way from $10 per 100 and up. Many orders have already been booked for this occasion and there is no reason why everything should not clean up at an early hour. Everyone will do well to place all orders for Mothers' Day as early as possible if they have not already done so to protect their supply. The demand for stock was good the past week, especially from out-of-town points and the city demand has been fair but nothing to brag about. Roses especially have had a good call and so have carnations. Some fine lilies and callas are included in the offerings. Snapdragons are quite a factor in the market and having a good call. Sweet peas are in good supply and the same holds true for orchids and gardenias. Calendulas, daisies, lupines, stocks, larkspurs, forget-me-nots, trailing arbutus, statice, calendulas, pansies, jonquils, gladioli, narcissi, mignonette and other miscellaneous seasonable stock is included in the shipments which gives the retailers a large variety to select from and a chance to make a wonderful showing. Greens are in fair supply and it is expected that there will be an advance in cut ferns in the near future. One of the retail stores is using cinerarias as cut flowers on a large scale to good advantage. Everyone is busy with preparations for Mothers' Day which falls on May 8 this year and is rapidly approaching.

Do not take any fake or imitation thread, claimed to be the Meyer silkaline, or similax threads. Be sure the name Meyer is on the end of each spool, as we find there are a lot of fake brands being put on the market to imitate our green florists' thread. Weigh up our threads and then weigh up the other parties' that you are buying from and you will notice that our threads run full two ounces of thread to the spool. Be sure and get the Meyer thread.

after him and a bronze tablet bearing his name erected therein, according to an announcement, April 25, by forest preserve commissioners. The Deer Grove park is near Palatine, about twenty-five miles from the loop.

NOTES.

Hans Jepsen marketed 35,100 high class sweet peas with 20-inch stems April 25 and has many thousands coming on. The varieties included Zvolanek's Rose and Blue, Orange Beauty, Blue Bird, Cherry Ripe, Snowflake and Hercules. Mr. Jepsen reports big demand in pompon chrysanthemum plants.

E. J. Delaney, of E. J. Delaney & Co., Hollywood, Calif., brought a car of statice here this week and is distributing it through the Chicago Flower Growers' Association. Mr. Delaney was formerly employed here and for a time was with the Fleischman Floral Co.

The annual convention of the Ancient Order of Garden Rakes will be held May 5, this year. The membership is closed for the present.

The A. L. Randall Co. is receiving a good supply of peonies from Tennessee and will have an exceptionally large quantity for Mothers' Day in addition to all other seasonable stock.

Mayor Thompson announces that this city has the greatest cut flower market in the world in all of his "Pageant of Progress" talks.

S. E. Edwards, with Howard and Smith, Los Angeles, Calif., passed through the city this week enroute to England.

George W. Foulk, formerly with the Bohannon Floral Co., is now in the employ of the Mazey Floral Co., Minneapolis, Minn.

Vaughan's Seed Store reports continued good demand for gladiolus and other spring bulbs.

YOUR 1st PROTECTION

The thing every customer wants to know is the price; price-giving with your cut flowers that makes for quick sales, increased sales, simplified selling, and saves a lot of unnecessary talk and unnecessary questions. As long as the retail dealer fails to display prices, a question of doubt is raised in every transaction.

Our wholesale market letters supply price information to the retail florist that means exactly what they say.

Henry Wittbold Co. will occupy its new store at 75 East Adams street for Mothers' Day. Mr. Wittbold, who conducted the old Clark street store of the George Wittbold Co., will be ably assisted by his son, George, who is active in the management and is confident that the new location and increased quarters will result in more business.

Max Dagobert, of Dagobert & Streiff, has the sympathy of the trade in the loss of his wife whose death occurred last week. The funeral, which was held April 25, at 2 p. m., from chapel at 2116 West Division street, was well attended, and there were many beautiful floral tributes from the trade.

Zech & Mann have received many inquiries regarding stock for Mothers' Day and have already booked a large number of orders. Fancy snapdragons in quantity are attracting the attention of the buyers at this establishment.

Any loop florist desirous of selling out will have no trouble disposing of his establishment, for a certain party is anxious to purchase an established business owing to the absence of a suitable location for a new store.

A. L. Vaughan & Co. has booked a large number of orders for Mothers' Day and more are arriving as the big event approaches. This house reports business as good with a heavy call for stock from out-of-town points.

Mangel, the Palmer House Florist, had a very pretty window display April 26, in which all the choicest offerings in cut flowers were used in artistic basket arrangements.

Poehlmann Bros. Co. will be in heavy crop with roses for Mothers' Day, as well as orchids and other miscellaneous stock, including large cuts of peonies from Tennessee.

George Wienhoeber had several showings of snapdragons in his window this week. This store has been using cut cinerarias in very striking combinations of late.

The regular meeting of the Florists' Club will be held May 5 when the floriculture students at the state university will present their play "The Flower Shop," which will be followed by dancing. Tickets $1.00 each.

Wietor Bros. are cutting a good supply of roses, especially Columbia of fine quality. Carnations are in good crop with them and are in good demand.

Frank Einweck is on the job at the John Kruchter Co.'s store. He is a brother of Joe Einweck, employed by the E. C. Amling Co.

The American Bulb Co. has just received an importation of artificial flowers and Chinese baskets worthy of inspection.

A Henderson & Co. are having good retail demand for hardy perennials and nursery stock.

The Bohannon Floral Co. reports business as good with a heavy call for wedding work.

Mrs. George Gobel was called to Omaha, Nebr., last week by the death of a relative.

George Reinberg is cutting from a good crop of roses, especially Sunburst.

Large Cuts of ROSES

Exceptionally fine White Killarney, Killarney, Ophelia, Mrs. Chas. Russell, Sunburst, Premier and Columbia.

CARNATIONS

Good Supply of White, Pink and Red.

While we will have a good supply of Carnations, there will not be enough flowers to supply the demand, so push roses on that day. You will find that the public in a great many cases prefer them to carnations, so make allowance for the scarcity of carnations and substitute roses. They will move just as quickly. Make up your order for us today.

When ordering remember White Flowers stand for Mothers' Memory and Colored Flowers for Mothers Living.

Mention the American Florist when writing

Miss Louise Tonner and J. L. Beattie were married April 21 and the happy young couple have the best wishes of their many friends for a happy and successful future. The Tonner family had a grand reunion at the wedding at which seven children and twenty-one relatives were present. It is needless to add that the occasion was a grand success for the members of the family certainly appreciated a visit to the old homestead.

The Commercial Flower Growers' Association met at the Hotel Randolph, Thursday, April 21, when important trade matters were discussed, principally publicity. The Wholesale Cut Flower Association met the following evening and discussed the same subject.

The Chicago Flower Growers' Association is prepared for a brisk Mothers' Day demand. Manager Klingsporn expects an early cleanup in stock of all kinds and is advising early ordering.

The Central Floral Co. is featuring the carnation Laddie extensively in its window displays. This firm always makes such a magnificent showing that it is bound to compel attention.

Kennicott Bros. Co. are talking peonies and expects to have its usual large supply to offer for Memorial Day. Orders for Mothers' Day are numerous at this establishment.

The E. C. Amling Co. is supplying its trade with choice snapdragons, statice and other miscellaneous spring stock in addition to its usual large and complete line.

Bassett & Washburn are cutting a good supply of roses which are in brisk demand. Advanced orders are now being booked for Mothers' Day.

The Alpha Floral Co. had a long distance telephone call from New York, April 24, to deliver an order in this city on that date.

Irvin Stein, of Seligman & Stein, New York, joined the local order of Elks last week. The number of Elks in the trade is rapidly increasing.

The Joseph Foerster Co. is handling a fine line of all seasonable stock, especially fancy sweet peas in quantity.

Erne & Co. are having a good call for snapdragons and stocks of which they have a splendid supply.

STOCK SELLING WELL.

The market stiffened up considerably and practically all stock has been selling at a profit. The cloudy weather was quite a factor in trade conditions. Spring flowers are in great demand and the supply is very limited, but the stock coming in is of excellent quality and keeps well. Roses are moderately plentiful and the call is more than brisk. Premier, Ophelia, Mrs. Chas. Russell, Ward, Butterfly, Killarney and a very few American Beauties are the best selling varieties. The stems are of very good length and the blooms are wide awake. The prices are very good. Carnations have raised a bit and the demand for all varieties is excellent; darker colored ones get the preference. The supply on hand is comparatively limited and is on the decline. Many have been used for funeral work and weddings during the past week. Calendulas are coming in large numbers and are hard to dispose of. The quality of the stock is very fine. Though tulips are just becoming a thing of the past, jonquils are on the short side. Gladiolus, the season's first is coming in, and form the principal feature of many window displays, with Loveliness and Pendleton the chief offerings. The price is almost prohibitive, but despite this fact, the demand is very good. An increase in quality and size of bloom is anticipated a little later in the season. Sweet peas are plentiful with the short stemmed flowers predominating. Varieties with long stems bring a fancy price. Daisies of good quality are still increasing in supply. Both yellow and white varieties bring a fair price and sell moderately well. There is little Spanish iris to be had. Delphiniums of the light blue variety are very scarce and in good demand. The spikes are very long and large flowered and bring a fancy price. Snapdragons of good quality are found in limited quantities. Orchids are more than plentiful and sell very well. a large extent as a corsage flower. Lily of the valley is coming in limited quantities and has a fair call. The stock may be improved upon. There is an ample supply of calla lilies on the market and they find ready sale for funeral purposes. Some very fine pot plants of yellow and white callas have been offered during the past week. Lilium Harrisii of exceptional size and quality is a common stock item and they clean up fairly well. Pot plants are in greatest demand at present. A few spikes of mignonette is seen. Pansies are good property this week and handled by all florists. The flowers are of large size but the stock is imferior to last week's offerings in that the stems are short. They sell well. Genistas and hydrangeas are among the offerings, and though of excellent quality, move slowly. Calceolarias are becoming more plentiful, with prices increasing. Baby rambler roses in six to 12-inch pots are commonly displayed and sell well. Some unusual southern grown bougainvilleas are coming and sell quickly. Many begonias and Martha Washington geraniums were sold during the past few days. Blue and white ageratums and candy tuft in attractive boxes and baskets form the main feature of several window displays. A few specimen plants of spiraeas are offered.

NOTES.

The "Say It With Flowers" bowling league ended its season's competition with the following lineup: Carnations, 1st.; Roses 2nd.; Sweet Peas 3rd., and Gladioli 4th. Oscar Ruff scored 168 points, the highest of the season.

Fred H. Weber has a very attractive window display, with baby rambler, roses and calceolarias the main features.

Windler Wholesale Floral Co., is doing an unusually heavy business in carnations and sweet peas.

The Bourdet Floral Co., is displaying some very fine gladioli and Martha Washington geraniums.

Orchids and sweet peas are quantity items with the St. Louis Wholesale Cut Flower Co.

Grimm & Gorly reported large funeral orders and several wedding decorations.

C. A. Kuehn is the only firm to offer mignonette and is pressed to fill the orders.

An increase in trade in his section of the city is noted by H. G. Berning.

Some fine gladioli and begonias are seen at the F. C. Weber store.

R. D. M.

Providence, R. I.

The market showed a decided change in the past week. The cold, cloudy weather helped to shorten the supply of stock and the change was very welcome as it stopped the street vender from selling his wares. Calla and Giganteum lilies are very plentiful. Snapdragons are now arriving steadily and command a fair price. Carnations are small and move well, as do sweet peas and other seasonable stock.

Scott, the Florist, has a very attractive store and has added an electric display sign on his roof that is drawing considerable attention.

Thos. Curley will auction off his greenhouses the coming week.

Flowers are plentiful and trade, though active for a few weeks after Easter, is somewhat on the quiet now. Roses are very fine and blooming profusely. Sweet peas are abundant and quite a favorite. Carnations of excellent quality will be an abundant crop for Mothers' day, May 8. The plant trade is good, with Easter lilies sufficient for all occasions. The weather is so variable that it is not safe to plant in beds as yet, but this fact does not discourage many buyers from going ahead with this work. M. C. D.

STOCK IN GOOD DEMAND.

The past week has been quite satisfactory for the trade, with plenty of flowers of all kinds and grades, with a very good demand for the choice varieties. There are plenty of American Beauty roses of high quality, and one grower said the only reason some people run them down is because they cannot grow them. The big three, Premier, Columbia and Mrs. Chas. Russell, are still very fine, in fact, the market never offered a better selection at this time. Carnations are still in good shape and the growers are maneuvering to have a full crop Mothers' Day. Sweet peas are falling off in supply. A hot spell would finish them until the out-door stock appears. Lily of the valley, grown out of doors, is now pushing the greenhouse stock for first place. Cattleyas are plentiful and sell at good prices. Easter lilies are now in the hands of men who make a specialty of cold storage stock, and are about equal to the demand. Callas are in good supply. Snapdragons are very plentiful in all grades, and some very good larkspur is seen.

NOTES.

A well posted man in the business says conditions favor the erection of new houses. Iron has fallen as has other building material, notably greenhouse glass, of which Belgian has just landed the largest consignment ever received here, causing a drop of 25 per cent. He believes that a number of growers will want to enlarge their plants when they realize that prices for this period have about reached bottom.

Natives of this city appear to like the Pacific coast. Saml. Dunlap with a partner has opened a shop in Portland, Ore. Raymond Kester leaves The Gasser Co., Cleveland, O., for the Hollywood Gardens, Seattle, Wash., while Wm. Gibson, lately with Mrs. E. A. Williams, Pittsburgh, Pa., has accepted an important position in Berkeley, Calif.

J. J. Habermehl's Sons had the decorations for the reception of Cardinal Dougherty, which included every function beginning with the decoration of his private car in New York, until time for retirement at his home in this city and in the cathedral adjoining.

The Robert Craig Co. has worked a fine stock of bedding plants since Easter and their comeback in other lines shows in a number of other features. A handsome and commodious White truck has been added to the store's delivery department.

The European travelers, including S. S. Pennock, Henry Bayersdorfer and wife, have cabled of their safe arrival in Bristol, Eng.

STOCK MOVING SLOWLY.

The condition of the market shows little change over the previous week. There was no great demand and April 19, being a legal holiday in this state, business was retarded. The wholesalers took what good stock there was offered, which points to a fair trade by out of town retailers. Prices were low and steady until past midweek when they became quite active, especially in carnations. The demand for this flower has been exceptionally good this spring probably owing to the limited quantity coming in. The growers report a very heavy crop of buds on the plants, and a few days of fair weather will bring in plenty of flowers. Weather, conditions for two weeks have been bad for stock and only the light demand has kept prices from advancing. Some exceptionally fine stalks of snapdragons, are coming in at present at $1.50 to $2.00 per dozen. There has been no noticeable change of prices on spring stocks such as sweet peas, pansies, myosotis, etc. The call for wedding flowers is about normal for this season. Lily of the valley, white sweet peas,

TRADE AGAIN NORMAL.

Business conditions have been about normal the past week. We had another killing frost on April 18, making the fourth in the last month. From all reports the most of the early fruit has been greatly damaged. The outlook for Mothers' Day is good, and with the advertising the local association is doing, the demand should be the best that this district has ever experienced. The cut flower offerings at present include American Beauty roses, carnations, Easter, and calla lilies, snapdragons, orchids, lily of the valley, sweet peas, calendulas, jonquils, Darwin tulips and daisies, both the white and yellow kinds. All stock has been of good quality with the exception of sweet peas, which from all appearances are about done for this season. Plumosa from the south has been arriving in poor condition, while the supply of ferns has been short.

NOTES.

Wm. Usinger has left the employ of Randolph & McClements and will look after the local territory for the McCallum Co.

Daylight saving is now in effect in this section, the clocks being turned ahead one hour on Sunday, April 24.

The McCallum Co. employes have again taken up base ball and will play twilight games.

MARKET CONTINUES FIRM.

There has been little change in the condition of the cut flower market since last week. In supply, demand and prices, conditions were normal during the week. The offerings not being heavy were about equal to the demand and wholesale prices were reasonable. Mossiaes are now the chief offerings of the cattleya group but do not seem to more very fast. American Beauty roses are much less a factor than formerly, but there has been a fair supply considering the light call. Columbia, Ophelia and Premier are now the leading offerings in pink that are found in this market. Butterfly, Pilgrim, Dunlop and other varieties are fairly well appreciated, but there are not enough of any one variety to put them to the front and the retail trade as a whole has yet to see more of them before any definite statement can be made as to their enduring popularity. A good quality of carnations has been arriving and $6 to $8 per 100 is being asked for the best. Quite a heavy stock of sweet peas is coming in, many of them short stemmed, but there is some finer stock that brings $3 per 100. A good quality of out-door lily of the valley is on the market and it looks and sells better than some of the greenhouse grown, the best bringing $6 to $8 per 100. Other popular offerings are the double stocks, both white and colored, that range from $1 to $1.25 per bunch. Several wholesalers are receiving southern iris that goes at $1.50 to $2 per dozen.

April 25—The market is rather quiet with only a moderate supply of stock. The weather is clear and warmer, and there is likely to be a heavier supply by the middle of the week. Local lilac is arriving, but generaly of poor quality, the buds having been frost-nipped.

NOTES.

When last heard from, Charles A. Dards was traveling in Spain, and is expected home some time in May. His partner, H. G. Perry, will sail on June 4 on the S. S. Olympic for the purpose of visiting and picking up novelties in Paris. Their store has recently been busy with wedding decorations and landscape work. Mr. Perry expects to attend the convention of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association in Toronto as he is pleased with the firm's increasing business in telegraph orders. He has had a strenuous season, getting to the store at 7:30 each morning and being the last to leave at night, as he gives personal attention to each order.

A notice, printed in both English and Greek, has been posted in most of the wholesale stores which reads as follows: "All statements to retailers sent out on May 1 and thereafter will have added one-half of one per cent of the total amount, this fund to be devoted to the local advertising campaign of the Allied Florists' Trade Association of this city. Customers paying cash are requested to hand in same percentage at time of purchase on and after May 1, 1921. Advertising pays. It will increase your business.—Allied Florists' Association of New York."

On the evening of April 22 the young lady employees of Roman J. Irwin, with some friends, making a party of fifteen, attended the production of the drama "Sally" at the New Amsterdam theatre. After the play they proceeded to the Hotel St. Regis where a supper was served, being the treat of their employer, Mr. Irwin. Corsage bouquets for the entire party were furnished by Manager Fright. Mrs. Belle Lawrence acted as chaperone.

Pansies? Millions of them! Seed stores, flower shops, grocery stores and people that have no establishments at all, are disposing of pansies. Considerably over 30 years ago when the writer was toddling about the home grounds in skirts, the first flowers he can remember of seeing were pansies. There can be no doubt that this flower has come to stay.

A visitor to Fort Leavenworth, Kans., writes us that there are fine greenhouses at the United States disciplinary barracks, Lord & Burnham's latest in greenhouses being used, and they grow splendid calendulas, sweet peas, stocks, jonquils, bedding plants, spinach, lettuce and other vegetables.

Albert Peterkin, age 70 years, died of pneumonia at his home in Glen Ridge, N. J., on April 19. He was an employee of our contemporary, the Florists' Exchange, and was a native of England, and came to this country in 1904. Mr. Peterkin's wife passed away on April 11.

The Wholesale Florists, Inc., formally opened their market at Sixth avenue and 18th street on April 25, 1920. On this first anniversary President Froment and other members of the corporation express themselves as well pleased with the year's business.

The office force of Hitchings & Co. has removed from the Johnson building, Broadway and W. 28th street, to the factory at Elizabeth, N. J. A sales office is continued in this city at 101 Park avenue.

The Olympic Florist, 3799 Broadway at 158th street, is keeping up a fine window display of baskets of roses, carnations and other fine flowers with which his shop is always well stocked.

An exceptionally fine stock of Easter lilies is reaching Phil. Kessler from the range of Chas. Smith's Sons Woodside, L. I.

Leo Lowenthal, of the Gramercy Floral Co., 3830 Broadway, states that their spring business has been encouraging.

S. H. Calamaras, the Park florist, who recently opened a fine retail store at 115 E. 34th street, reports good business.

In addition to other good stock, J. J. Levy, 56 W. 26th street, is receiving an exceptionally fine line of sweet peas.

Edward Brenner, in the 18th street market, is receiving fine stock of the Ulrich Brunner roses.

G. E. M. Stumpp is dividing his time between his New York and Southampton, L. I., stores.

In addition to fine roses, Traendly & Schenck are handling a large stock of sweet peas. A. F. F.

Lancaster County Florists' Association.

The regular meeting of the Lancaster County Florists' Association was held April 21, at Lancaster, Pa. For the drive for membership in the Society of American Florists, Messrs. Elmer Weaver, B. F. Barr and Albert M. Herr were appointed a committee. The list of flowers for birthdays by months furnished by Grimm & Gorly, St. Louis, Mo. was approved by the members. B. F. Barr was appointed chairman of the flower show committee with power to pick his associates.

The programme committee gave five prizes to the following ladies: Mesdames J. Ralph Hess, Rudolph Nagle, J. Wade Galey, J. Rutter Hess and Miss May Brenneman. Mrs. Albert M. Herr invited the club to visit the amateur flower show which will be held at the Iris Club, May 25, under the auspices of the horticultural department of which she is chairman. The meeting adjourned about 10::0 p. m. to meet at the Burnswick hotel, May 19.

ARTHUR NIESSEN'S ADDRESS.

Arthur Niessen, of the Leo Niessen Co., Philadelphia, Pa., introduced as the principal speaker of the evening, opened his remarks with "What's the Matter with the Florists' Business?" One should be more than satisfied with this trade, he stated, when we stop to compare it with other enterprises, using as illustrations the large lines of leather which had a surplus of $32,000,000 all of which had disappeared in 18 months. Copper with an income tax of between 200 and 300 million dollars now paid no revenue. The price of farm products had been cut in two. No such conditions exist in the florists' trade, as fortunately for us our stock is perishable and has to be disposed of as produced, leaving no surplus of high priced merchandise on the shelves to be sold at a loss. Prices today are in a healthier condition than previous to the war and are high enough to legitimately take care of the increased costs of production. In nearly all lines of business today, Mr. Niessen continued, there are men being laid off, shops working part time while we are adding to our working forces and increasing rather than decreasing production, and not decreasing the pay of our employees, a fact that will go a long way to take us out of the "non essential class" where we were relegated to during the war.

The increase in glass area for the past year has been low, only about 5 per cent, but idle greenhouses were again put into use and production increased, but in spite of this, every month of the past year, excepting February, showed an increase in business over the year preceding it with the Leo Niessen Co. Without an increase in the glass area which is not needed, increased production should be followed up by every grower and the waste places which are found in almost any establishment be made to produce good stock. Good stock always sells; it is the poorer grades that keep the market price down in a wholesale way.

Bulbs the past Easter were badly overdone, continued Mr. Niessen, owing to the fact that the bulb men loaded up every one to full capacity. Many growers who never grew them before going in heavily, and others with a market for 500 planted 50,000 bulbs, the result naturally being a loss; where if the grower had consulted with his commission man this could have been averted. Side lines for the specialist are not usually a good thing as they are often neglected and the result is a lot of poor stock that helps break the market. After producing stock, the next thing is to sell it through publicity. Advertising without unity is of little value, the grower who is at present supplying about 80 per cent of the money used for this purpose should have more of a voice in the spending of the money. When flowers are plentiful the public should be made aware of this fact, so that the customer who got a very small lot of stock at Easter for $10 would know that they could now get just as much or more for half to one-third of that amount. When flowers are scarce and higher priced, use facts in your advertising, telling the public the amount of coal, labor and care it takes to produce them and they will respond with their trade. Co-operating in selling is not possible as supply and demand will govern the market every day of the year. The store man and street fakir are going to buy as cheaply as possibly and the grower who is wise will help with his money and his counsel in creating a market for his products, the same as the California orange producers have done with their Sunkist oranges.

Some years back gardenias were coming into Philadelphia in quantity and the stores did not push their sales so that in self defense the commission men had to dispose of them to the street merchants, with the result that Market and Chestnut streets were lined with this flower. In a few days the store men were clamoring for them to supply the call from their better class of customers. The conclusion of Mr. Niessen's talk was a plea for one to do his duty to his plants, his greenhouse, his family, his business and his fellow man and affiliate with the Society of American Florists.

NEW YORK—Mrs. H. H. Berger is on the sick list.

RALEIGH, N. C.—W. B. Hayt was a recent visitor.

CANNERS are reported planting a large acreage of peas.

SEEDS of hardy perennials are in unusual demand this season.

TRAVELING seed contract growers are rather pessimistic on the future prospects.

DR. W. W. TRACY of the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., retired April 23.

LONG hauls across the country have been necessary to even up the short supply of blue grass seed.

DETROIT, MICH.—Kirby B. White, of D. M. Ferry & Co., returned last week from a visit to New York city.

HOWARD M. EARL, of the Jerome B. Rice Seed Co., Cambridge, N. Y., is reported as now in improved health.

BOSTON, MASS.—Harry Spearo opened a store recently at 29 Dock square, with seeds and bulbs as his specialties.

MRS. CHAS. P. BRASLAN, of San Jose, Calif., who has been in the east several months, is returning home this week.

WILHELM PFITZER, the well known seed grower of Stuttgart, Germany, died April 4, after a serious operation, age 67 years.

LIBERAL stocks of high priced timothy seed and onion sets are reported to have caused some worries in the Twin City district.

IMPORTERS of grass seed report a good season at this time about over. Prices have been high, but the demand exceeded the available supply.

WRITING of A. H. Goodwin's passing last week J. C. Bodger, Los Angeles, Calif., says: "We have spared all the leaders in the seed trade this season that we possibly can."

GRASS LAKE, MICH.—Albert Kenerson, who has been assistant to George Starr at the Jerome B. Rice Co.'s seed farms here, is now with the W. Atlee Burpee Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

PRESIDENT FRED MANGELSDORF has called the regular spring meeting of the Western Seedsmen's Association, to meet at Omaha, Neb., April 30, Fontanelle hotel. The business of this session will be entirely confined to the garden seed interests. Field seeds will occupy the largest share of the time at the fall meeting.

EARLY indications promise a good attendance at the St. Louis, Mo., convention of seedsmen in June.

SCHELL'S SEED HOUSE, Harrisburg, Pa., recently ran a double-page advertisement in the Telegraph of that city, attractively setting forth the numerous departments of its up-to-date store.

SANTA CRUZ, CALIF.—Bulbs in transit damaged to the extent of $3,018.91 by freezing, are the basis of a suit filed recently against the Southern Pacific R. R. Co., by R. R. Brown of the Brown Bulb Co., Capitola, Calif.

Northrup, Braslan and Goodwin.
From An Old Print.

WATERVILLE, N. Y.—Many friends of the old days attended the last services for A. H. Goodwin in the cemetery chapel here April 22. Many beautiful floral tributes were sent from out of town and boyhood friends were pallbearers.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—The seed stores have so far had a wonderful demand. The buying opened up very early, both mail and counter trade started in away ahead of the season and sales have been phenomenally large. The sale of vegetable plants has also exceeded the normal. Robert D. Edwards has resigned his position with the W. Atlee Burpee Co.

PITTSBURGH, PA.—The seed stores all report one of the largest seasons in their history. The war gardens taught the public what it meant to have fresh vegetables from their own garden, and now that the war is over they intend to keep it up.

LOS ANGELES, CALIF.—O. H. Drew, formerly in the mail order seed business at Hibernia, N. Y., is now located at Baldwin Lake, Calif. Just now he is making a 250 mile trip into the central part of California, using mule power transportation.

MARINETTE, WIS.—The Marinette Seed Co., 2313-19 Hall avenue, held its formal opening April 9. In its wholesale department, machinery for preparing field and garden seeds for distribution has been installed, and in the retail section the usual accessories, including poultry supplies, will be carried.

J. C. VAUGHAN, Chicago, celebrated another birthday anniversary at his home farm, Homewood, Ill., April 24. Many friends called to congratulate him and nature joined the rejoicing with a full day's bright sunshine and daffodils, tulips and apple trees abloom. Letters and telegrams were received from distant friends.

To market cowpea seed at a premium, according to the United States Department of Agriculture, plant straight or unmixed varieties, harvest them in time, thrash or hull without breaking or splitting the seed, clean thoroughly, and pack in new even-weight bags, well sewed, of 120 to 150 pounds each.

VISITED CHICAGO: Lester L. Morse and Frank G. Cuthbertson, of C. C. Morse & Co., San Francisco, Calif., returning from the east; Thos. W. Chisholm, of the Braslan Seed Growers' Co., San Jose, Calif., left for the coast, April 25; Chas. P. Guelf, of the Jerome B. Rice Seed Co., Cambridge, N. Y., going north this week; Harry McCullough and wife, Cincinnati, O., returning from California, where they spent the winter; C. B. Coe, with D. M. Ferry & Co., Detroit, Mich.; Wm. A. Davis, of the Wm. A. Davis Seed Co., Bozeman, Mont.; W. C. Pressing, of the W. C. Pressing Seed Co., Norwalk, O.; W. B. Lucas, of the John H. Allan Seed Co., Sheboygan, Wis.; Alling Woodruff, of the Woodruff-Boyce Seed Co., Seattle, Wash.

MR. FLORIST! Plant BODGER'S Seeds and They Will "Say It With Flowers"

We have been working for several years perfecting stocks and are now able to assist you in giving the flower buying public what they are calling for; the beautiful pastel shades of delicate pinks, tyrian rose, fiery cerise and an endless list of pleasing shades in a New Type of immense size and unusual petalage the DAHLIA FLOWERED ZINNIA. This type is popularizing the Zinnia.

We have also introduced the Picotee, the Victory Quilled and a rich Golden Yellow called "Buttercup." These are distinctive and attractive as cut flowers.

We have also on the market the long stemmed Beauty Type of Aster and next year will have an Early Flowering Aster in this type for you.

We also recommend our Selected Strains of Cregos and American Branching, our Fancy Strains of Half Dwarf Cineraria, Calendula, Candytuft, the New Double Cosmos, White, Pink and Crimson; Giant Zinnia in fifteen distinct shades and many other reselected strains for florists.

We are growers and sell only in bulk but all reliable seedsmen carry—

American Seed & Seedtape Co.

The American Seed & Seedtape Co. located at Newark, N. J., for a number of years will take possession of its new home at Madison, N. J., May 1. The office, seedtaping, mail order and retail departments will be housed in a modern three story brick building at 91-93 Main street, and the wholesale and warehousing departments at 170 Main street.

A modern equiped store has been provided for the company's new retail department, also additional space for its rapidly growing mail order business. In addition to garden seedtape and seeds in packets the company will handle various kinds of garden supplies, as well as a full line if plants grown by the Charles H. Totty Co., also of Madison, N. J. Douglas Garl, formerly with Henry A. Dreer, and W. Atlee Burpee & Co., Philadelphia, Pa., is now manager of the American Seed & Seedtape Co's. seed department.

Pea Seed Risks.

ED. AMERICAN FLORIST:

We are much interested in an article we have just finished reading in your issue of April 23, (page 680) entitled "Pea Seed Risks," in which the United States Department of Agriculture advises buyers of seed peas to go directly to the seed growers whenever possible and purchase their seed of dealers of known responsibility.

We heartily endorse this advice as will every honest seed grower in the business. However, we think the government should have gone one step further in justice to the seed grower of the states of Idaho and Washington who is conducting his business on legitimate lines, and make public the names of the concerns they refer to as having been guilty of dishonorable practices. The more reason for this because of the fact that practically all the large pea seed growers produce a considerable portion of their acreage in the above mentioned states.

We welcome anything and everything that will help the seed trade to realize the importance to them of improving the growth of strictly first-class seed.

The Nursery Trade

American Association of Nurserymen.

Lloyd C. Stark, Louisiana, Mo., President; M. R. Cashman, Owatonna, Minn., Vice-President; John Watson, 400 Nassau Street, Princeton, N. J., Secretary; J. W. Hill, Des Moines, Iowa, Treasurer.

Forty-sixth annual convention will be held at Chicago, June 22-24, 1921.

FOREST fires caused damage amounting to $85,715,747 in the last five years.

EVANSVILLE, IND.—The nursery trade in southern Indiana has shown marked improvement this spring.-W.B.C.

SAN DIEGO, CALIF.—Superintendent of Parks, John G. Morley and wife are planning an eastern trip this summer.

THE annual convention of theAmerican Association of Nurserymen will be held at the Congress hotel, Chicago, June 22-24.

BRIDGEPORT, IND.—C. M. Hobbs & Son say that shrubs, except the most common varieties, are sold out. Light grade cherry and peach have been slow. The business will run more than that of last spring.

THE I. E. Ilgenfritz & Sons Co., Monroe, Mich., report trade good with many inquires for catalogues. Grapes have been in strong demand. The business shows a considerable increase over that of last year.

COLUMBUS, O.—Horticulturists at the state university here are urging fruit growers of central Ohio to spray trees injured by the recent frosts. This will prevent the fruit which is alive from becoming wormy at harvesting.

WE are in receipt of the April issue of Parks and Recreation, the quarterly journal of the American Association of Park Superintendents, with the usual array of excellent illustrated articles for park men. Emmett P. Griffin, East St. Louis, Ill., is secretary of the association.

THE Chicago Tribune is making a vigorous campaign in favor of planting world's war soldier and sailor memorial trees along the national highways, at the suggestion of James Keeley, former editor of that paper. The trade should co-operate in such movements where possible.

PORTLAND, ORE.—Plans for developing the national rose test gardens in Washington Park to rival if not eclipse the famous Bagatelle gardens in Paris, France, have been outlined by C. P. Keyser, superintendent of city parks, and J. A. Currey, a rose enthusiast here. It is expected that a large amphitheater will be included in the arrangements, to be used in connection with the various functions held in honor of roses in this city.

THE Elm City Nursery Co., New Haven, Conn., is well pleased with the volume of trade and expects to double last year's business before the season closes. The general public in its territory is buying more freely than ever. Civic improvements and the use of gardens in the production of fruit, flowers, etc., seem to have become a uniform point of view in this section and the company thinks the market development committee of the American Association of Nurserymen is doing good work along this line.

Nurserymen's Examination.

The United States civil service commission, Washington, D. C., announces an open competitive examination for both men and women, for the position of nurseryman, in the bureau of plant industry, to fill a vacancy at Chilocco Indian School, Oklahoma, at a salary of $1,000 a year. Appointees whose services are satisfactory may be allowed the increase granted by congress of $20 per month. The duties of the position consist of propagation and care of a nursery, landscape gardening, and instructing Indian boys in nursery work. Competitors must have reached their twentieth but not their fiftieth birthday. This does not apply to persons entitled to preference because of military or naval service. The applicant must have had at least two years' experience in the propagation and care of fruit trees. Additional credit will be given for experience in the propagation of forest trees and in landscape gardening. Competitors will not be required to report for examination at any place but will be rated on the following subjects on the basis of the weights indicated: Physical ability, 40; training and experience, 60. Applicants should apply before May 31 to the civil service commission at Washington or to the secretary of local civil service boards for Form 1800, stating the title of the examination.

Cornelian Cherry.

The cornelian cherry (Cornus mas) is a native of southern Europe, and western Asia and Siberia, and is a large, shapely shrub 10 or 12 feet high and broad, or if pruned when young to a single stem a tree with a short trunk and wide spreading branches. The flowers are pale yellow, and are borne in compact clusters in the axils of the unfolding leaves, and although individually small are produced in such profusion that they cover the branches. The leaves, which are large and dark green, are handsome but fall in the autumn, like those of many other European trees and shrubs, without change of color. The fruit is of the shape and size of a small olive, and is bright scarlet and lustrous. Plants said to be of a yellow-fruited form have been planted several times in the arboretum, but the fruit has always been scarlet. The flesh of the fruit is sweet, of a rather agreeable flavor, and in Europe is sometimes made into a preserve. For regions too cold for the successful cultivation of the forsythias the cornelian cherry is the handsomest of early flowering shrubs with yellow flowers. In its native countries it often grows in calcareous soil and should, therefore, prove valuable in the middle western states. A hundred years ago, when the number of handsome plants available for American gardens was not as large as it is today, the cornelian cherry was more often planted here than it is now, and it is doubtful if it can now be found in many American nurseries. Few exotic shrubs, nevertheless, are better worth the attention of northern nurserymen.—Arnold Arboretum Bulletin.

POTATOES at Howard, Mich., were offered at 18 cents per bushel, week of April 23.

Prices of Indoor Fruits and Vegetables.

Chicago, April 26.—Cucumbers, 2-dozen box, $2.50 to $3.25; leaf lettuce, per box, 27 to 30 cents.

New York, April 23.—Cauliflower per dozen, $7.50; cucumbers, 50 cents to $1.25 per dozen; mushrooms, per basket, 50 cents to $1.65; radishes, 100 bunches, $3.00 to $6.00; rhubarb, 50 to 75 cents per dozen bunches, tomatoes per pound 15 to 35 cents.

Produce Movement.

An irregularity of price movement featured the week ending April 25. Markets for cucumbers, lettuce, new potatoes, spinach and strawberries were generally weak, while apple, celery and tomato price showed an upward trend. Total shipments of about 15 lines are approximately sixty thousand cars in excess of the corresponding date last season, 381,454 cars having been rolled to April 23, compared with 321,743 during the 1919-1920 season.

Mexican Bean Beetle.

It has been determined by the Secretary of Agriculture that an injurious insect, the Mexican bean beetle (Epilachna corrupta Mulsant), new to and not heretofore distributed throughout the United States, exists in portions of the state of Alabama, and it is necessary, therefore, to prohibit shipments of certain plants and plant products from that state, under the provisions of Quarantine No. 50, effective May 1. Fresh or green cultivated beans, California black-eyed peas, soy beans, cowpeas, greens, or edible plant leaves, green corn, matured corn in the shuck, hay and such forage crops, when included with shipments of livestock, come under the ban. This quarantine does not apply to velvet beans, English peas or thoroughly dried and cleaned shelled peas or beans.

Marketing Assistant Examination.

The United States civil service commission, Washington, D. C., announces an open competitive examination for both men and women, for the position of scientific assistant in marketing, in the bureau of markets, Department of Agriculture at Washington and in the field at salaries from $1,320 to $2,100 per year. Appointees whose services are satisfactory may be allowed the increase granted by congress of $20 a month. The duties of the position consist in the collection and compilation of information concerning shipments, receipts and prices in producing sections and in the larger markets, in the preparation and distribution of market reports, and in investigations in the methods and costs of marketing. The applicant must have reached his twentieth but not his seventieth birthday, and have graduated from a college, agricultural college, engineering school, or university of recognized standing, or be a senior student in such an institution and furnish proof of actual graduation within six months from the date of this examination. Competitors will be rated on the following subjects, which will have the relative weights indicated: Education, 30; thesis, 15; practical questions on each optional (marketing) subject chosen, 30; geography, 15; arithmetic, 10. Applicants should apply before June 8, 1921, to the civil service commission at Washington or to the secretary of local civil service boards for Form 1312, stating the title of the examination.

Corncobs.

Corncobs have always been our greatest waste product, but now the chemists have proved that the entire corncob can be made into some valuable substance. A large manufacturer in the middle west has converted his plant on a large scale for the process of procuring an adhesive from the corncob. This adhesive is a brown, gummy substance which will be valuable wherever a colorless adhesive is needed. Its most advantageous use will be for making paper boxes, for bill posting and labeling. It is also said to be useful as a substitute for starch, dextrine and flour paste, in which event it would mean a great saving of these foodstuffs. As the process is simple and the yield enormous, enough could be manufactured from three percent of the corncobs produced in the United States to meet the full demand for an adhesive. —Wall Street Journal Straws.

CLEVELAND, O.—C. G. Stehn has opened an attractive flower shop in the new market at 65th street and Detroit avenue.

MONTREAL, QUEBEC.—Herman Chonting, well-known florist at 6500 Western avenue, was found dead in his barn, March 3.

BOONVILLE, MO.—Ed. Stammerjohn, recently with the Pierce Oil Co., will be the gardener and florist for the Missouri reformatory.

AUBURN, IND.—Ten Eyck & Son will add 3,000 square feet of space to their plant in the near future. They recently purchased a greenhouse at Garrett.

Ageratum Fraseri

We feel confident in offering Ageratum "Fraseri" to our customers that we are offering what will be one of the most valuable acquisitions to the bedding plant line in recent years, that it is a blue, a decided blue, that would be continually in bloom. In our trial grounds last summer "Fraseri" attracted more attention than any other bedding plant. It only grew about 8 to 10 inches high and was covered the entire season with what can easily be classed as immense trusses of flowers, as many of them were over 2½ inches across, while the individual flower would be ⅞ of an inch in diameter. The plant spreads about 12 to 15 inches across. It can easily be used with Alternantheras as a border plant.

Being an early bloomer and dwarf, compact grower, it makes an excellent pot plant.

2-inch, $1.00 per doz.; $ 6.00 per 100.
